It's definite — Newton's 1975 tax rate will be at least $151.20, up $16.60 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

It could be even higher, depending on the decision of the Board of Aldermen as to how much money to release from the city's surplus account.

If they accede to the request of the chairman of the Board of Assessors that $900,000 be used to adjust the tax rate, the $151.20 would stand. If less is released from the city's total surplus of $1.3 million, the tax rate would be have to be revised upward.

The tax rate cannot be definitely set until the Board has decided how much surplus can safely be used. The process or arriving at the proper figure is likely to stir up long partisan debate in Finance Committee and on the floor.

In determining the amount of surplus to apply to the tax rate, the aldermen in the past have relied heavily on the advice of the comptroller of accounts, and this year will also have the counsel of the new budget officer, Michael Lebner.

Comptroller Lawrence Marino said Tuesday that he would prefer to take only $800,000 from surplus, but would "go along" with the larger amount.

If $800,000 is agreed on, the tax rate would be at least $151.40.

Mayor Theodore Mann has asked the Board to appropriate $500,000 into budget reserve for costs of solid waste disposal for the rest of fiscal 1975, and has asked for a similar appropriation of $1.2 million for salary increases resulting from collective bargaining.

These two items, added to the $61.3 million budget passed earlier this year, bring the cost of running the city to $63 million.

Mayor Mann said this week that 80 per cent of the budget is for labor, and that the principal element in the increased cost of running the city is due to the increase in the cost of living.

The mayor warned that taxes will rise again next year.

"We have all been taken by surprise by the economy," Mann said. "The real control of the economy has to come from Washington."

Board of Aldermen President Eliot Cohen, asked for a comment on the tax rate, said, "I think it's exorbitant. I'm not reflecting on the administration, but we've got to start pulling in our belts."

Cohen, who has been frequently mentioned as a potential candidate for mayor, criticized the traditional manner of giving wage increases on an across-the-board percentage basis. He has been considering an approach that would increase the lower-level salaries and wages at a faster rate than high-level salaries.

Cohen also believes that "much money could be saved by the School Committee, and it just isn't being done." He termed some of the School Department's building projects "absurd".

The Board President does not agree with some mayoral critics who have called last year's $5 tax reduction a purely political move aimed at winning reelection.

"There was justification to reduce the tax rate last year on the basis of information given us by the assessors about the tax base. In restrospect, however, it appears that the information was not well-founded," Cohen said.

Compared to the city of Lynn, which has a tax rate of $283 this year, Newton can feel fortunate. But there may be a twinge when a Newton resident reads that Weston's tax rate increased by 70 cents and Boston's stayed the same.

A true comparison of tax rates, however, is nearly impossible because not all cities and towns (Newton included) are valued at full market value. Other factors to be considered are funds received from the federal and state governments, which may vary greatly from one year to the next.

16,000 students go back to school

By TOM GRAVES
Of The Graphic Staff

Approximately 16,110 students began a new school year this week at Newton's 30 public schools.

1974-75 marks the sixth consecutive school year that public school enrollment has dropped. Enrollment peaked at 18,424 in 1967-68, and last year it was 16,546.

Newton's students will be serviced by a professional staff of approximately 1160 this year. This does not include teacher aides. The Newton School Committee voted a staff reduction of 31 positons during budget hearings early this fall.

The school budget for the fiscal year 1974-75 is $29,131,917. Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink explained last winter that a budget increase was neccessitated by salary increases, the implementation of Chapter 766, the increased cost of heat and utilities, increased transportation expenses, and a need for more equipment at Newton North High School.

Chapter 766 is a state law which requires that cities and towns provide education for all children between the ages of three and 21 who have special needs. The School Committee budgeted $332,066 for additional personnel and transportation to meet this mandate.

The School Committee approved a school year of 40 weeks or 185 days last March. Holidays include the Jewish New Year (Sept. 17), Yom Kippur (Sept. 26), Columbus Day (Oct. 14), Veterans' Day (Oct. 28), Good Friday (March 28), and Memorial Day (May 26).

Thanksgiving recess will begin at noon on Nov. 27, and schools will reopen on Dec. 2. December vacation will run from Dec. 20 to Jan. 2.

The winter vacation will be from Feb. 17-21, and spring vacation runs from April 21-25.

There are three new principals in the school system this year. Helen M. Thomas, acting principal at Cabot last year, has been appointed principal. Ms. Thomas was previously a teacher at Cabot for nine years.

Phyllis A. Cotti has been appointed principal of the Horace Mann School. She replaces Ruth Chadwick. Ms. Cotti was a supervisor for student teachers at Horace Mann from 1972-74.

W. Bruce McDonald has been appointed principao of the Carr School. McDonald was director of the Resource Center at the Children's Museum in Boston from 1971-74. He replaces John W. McLeod, who has moved to the principalship of the Bowen School.

Newton's transportation policy for this school year is that transportation be made available to all secondary students, public and private, who board buses one-and-one-half miles and beyond from the school they are entitled to attend. Also, that transportation be made available for all elementary students, public and private, to the school they are entitled to attend on the basis of safety only.

The Newton Schools have announced a "free milk and free meal and reduced price meal policy for school children unable to pay the full price of milk and meals served in schools under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Program." School principals will review all applications and determine eligibility. Parents may appeal decisions to Director of Support Services John Gilleland.

Thibault reelected

Patrolman Raymond Thibault has been reelected to the three-man Retirement Board, defeating Louis Rufo, president of Local 800, by a vote of 478 to 292.

The total vote of 770 showed unusual interest in the election, which was held at City Hall last Friday. Thibault commented that previously a turnout of 500 voters was considered large.

The Retirement Board sits once a month to act on all retirements and also approves investments of retirement funds. All matters of retirement are governed by state law.

The other membersof the Retirement Board are Ernest Angevine and Comptroller Lawrence Marino.

Aldermen get another look at modified Life Care plan

The proposal for a "life care" facility, denied by the Board of Aldermen last April, is back, this time as a "charitable nonprofit" organization with a board of directors made up of prominent Newton citizens.

Proponents Dr. Edwin Guiney and Arthur Ullian will present the new plan at next Monday's meeting of the Land Use Committee.

Since the submission of the proposal, which would require a change of zone for the Stanton Avenue property on which the building would be located, a change in the city's zoning ordinances, and the granting of permissive use, the size of the building and the number of occupants were gradually whittled down.

The number of apartments in the project ended up at 179, to be occupied by no more than 235 residents. The payment for a one-room unit would be $10,000, plus a monthly maintenance charge of $175 per month. Costs for meals would be additional.

The opinion of some members of the Board of Aldermen that the Life Care proposal was merely a moneymaking plan that ignored social needs and idi not adequately guarantee the financial investment of its residents-to-be is what ultimately led to the denial by the Board.

The denial was "without prejudice," however, which meant that the proposal could be resubmitted at any time.

Now the Board is more likely to accept the proposal, because of its support from members of the clergy and others interested in the social welfare of the elderly.

The new board of directors is comprised of Rabbi Murray Rothman of Temple Shalom; Mrs. Florence Turner, Frank Ollivierr, a member of Newton's Community Relation Commission and employed by the federal Administration on Aging; Martin Berezin, a psychiatrist; Champe Fisher, a lawyer; Robert Danziger, a businessman; Sr. Margaret Gorman, a member of the Community Relations Commission and a faculty member of the Community Relations Commission and a faculty member of Newton College; Msgr. William Granville of Sacred Heart Church; Rev. David Kreider of the Auburndale Congregational Church; Edward Kovar of the United Community Planning Corp.; and Robert Snider, a businessman.

Rabbi Rothman said this week that he regards the Life Care Center as a community service "that will be a great asset to Newton."

Details of the financial management of the project will be presented at the Sept. 9 Land Use Committee meeting.

Ms. Pepper appointed

A second woman has been appointed to the Recreation Commission by Mayor Theodore Mann.

Mrs. Josephine Pepper of 859 Beacon St., Newton Centre, will fill the vacancy on the commission created by the resignation early this summer of Mrs. Jeannette West.

Mrs. Pepper has been a lifelong resident of Newton and attended Sacred Heart elementary and high schools. She is also a graduate of the Carney Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Pepper teaches girls' physical education at Newton Catholic School and coaches a sponsored junior high school girls' basketball team.

She holds a national referee rating for girls' basketball.

Besides being proficient in basketball, Mrs. Pepper conducts tennis clinics, is a member of the Lakewood Tennis Club team, and recently placed second in the Recreation Department women's singles tennis tournament.

She is the mother of four children ranging in age from 11 to 16 years.

Voters face decision in two local races Tuesday

By CYNTHIA BLACK
of the Graphic Staff

Newton voters head to the polls next Tuesday to decide two local primaries.

Both the campaign for state senator in the Democratic primary and the three party race for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the 16th Middlesex district have been largely unpublicized, person-to-person campaigns.

An estimated 20,000 of Newton's 53,000 registered voters are expected to go vote in the Sept. 10 primary. Election Commission Executive Secretary Alan Licarie predicted this week that about 8,000 votes will be cast in the Republican primary here and estimated 12,000 Democratic ballots would be recorded.

The two key local races are both on the Democratic side. Incumbents Irving Fishman of Newton and Jack Backman of Brookline have their showdown for the newly created senate district that combined the two communities into one district.

Until redistricted, Fishman's territory included Newton and Watertown.

Both men, predictably, are confident that they are going to win.

"I hope that I can walk into the State Senate Jan. 3 and pick up right where I left off," Sen. Backman said in an interview Wednesday.

He described the campaign against Fishman as "a great challenge."

"It has given me an opportunity to reevaulate my goals and has put into focus the needs of the Commonwealth," he said. "I have learned a great deal about the needs of all the communities in Massachusetts."

Sen. Fishman predicted Thursday that at least 16,000 Democrats will vote in Newton next Tuesday. He added an estimated 9 or 10,000 Democratic votes from Brookline and said that while he thinks it will be a close race, he feels he will prevail.

Fishman described the reaction he's been receiving from the electorate as "favorable" and said "there have been remarkably few defections."

Predictably too, Fishman pointed out that he appears to have kept his strength intact in Newton while at the same time eroded Backman support in Brookline. Backman's version is just the opposite.

Both men are consistently described as highly respected liberals. When their senate districts were combined, the initial reaction was that because of their similarities, it would be difficult to choose between them.

Fishman, it has also been said, has the edge just because there are more Newton voters.

In the fight in the 16th Middlesex district, Ald. Richard J. McGrath, Joseph DeNucci and Helen Donna seek the Democratic nomination.

The seat the three candidates are running for is the one vacated by State Rep. Paul Guzzi who is running against John F. X. Davoren for secretary of state.

This campaign has stayed very quiet and well within the confins of the district.

McGrath, considered to be the front runner in the race, predicted Thursday that he will carry every precinct in the district.

McGrath, ward alderman from Auburndale, describing his house-to-house campaign, said he was pleasantly surprised at the reception he's gotten from all parts of the district.

When he began, he said, he was not sure how strenuously he would have to work in the areas outside of Auburndale itself. "I was surprised at the amount of support I had."

McGrath said that most of the people he has spoken to have been more concerned with local issues than with quizzing him on his positions in statewide matters.

The tax rate in Newton he said, is the subject most frequently discussed and he admitted that voters seemed to have changed their opinions on his stand on the tax rate.

Last year, when the aldermen voted to apply a big chunk of the city's surplus to reducing the tax rate, McGrath voted against the move.

People have told him that had he been running last year, they would not have supported him, he said, because of this stand. Now, with the tax rate rising $16 per thousand, they've changed their minds about his stand, he said.

Discussing his opponent DeNucci, McGrath said he felt the entire campaign had been a good one and a fair one and gave DeNucci credit for helping to keep it that way.

AN EFFECTIVE AND REASONABLE LEGISLATOR

Newton is in danger of losing its representation in the State Senate. We must re-elect Senator Irving Fishman, a Newton legislator who has worked effectively to represent our interests in the Senate. He is leading the fight for consumer protection, property tax relief, campaign reform, equal rights for women, elderly benefits and quality education for all.

N.H. acts on shell fish use

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The near fatal poisoning of a Canadian woman is spurring new efforts by New Hampshire officials to prevent residents from eating shell fish contaiminated by the red tide, state Health Director Maynard Mires said Wednesday.

A Canadian woman, Cesaria Farelli of St. Leonard, Quebec, ate mussels contaminated by the red tide, a seaweed, during the weekend and nearly died. Three other persons in her party suffered lesser symptoms of the illness.

Mrs. Farelli was reported in good condition Wednesday in a Lowell, Mass., hospital where she was put in an artificial breathing machine when the poison affected her respiratory system.

Dr. Maynard Mires said a committee from his Division of Public Health and from the Fish and Game Department is working on bi-lingual signs which he wants posted along New Hampshire's 18-mile coastline and at border points.

They will warn of the danger and cite statutes under which taking of clams and mussels can be banned.

Fish and game laws only let that department ban taking of clams because the laws were drawn when mussells were not considered locally edible, Mires said.

As public health director, Mires has power to ban the taking of any form of shellfish he has reason to believe is tainted.

"We are seeing more and more French Canadians coming down here for their holidays. Old Orchard Beach, Maine, was where they traditionally went but now they are coming on to New Hampshire beaches," Mires said.

Because some of these visitors speak no English, warnings must be warnings must be posted in French, too, he said.

Bernard Corson, Fish and Game director, said there would be problems obtaining enough money from the state's tight budgets to post the signs.

"How frequently would you have to post them along our 18 miles of coastline and tributaries to be sure people got the word?" he asked. "Many of these signs are torn down practically as soo as they're put up. There are a group of people who would tear down any sign indicating any kind of authority."

"We have posted the area," said Mason Butterfield, chief law enforcement officer for Fish and Game. "Every time we post it people do rip the signs down."

Mires said he has no money now for consultant and laboratory services to check shellfish samples for the presence of red tide. He said he would ask governor and council again to provide about $7,000, which was turned down in July with the hope voiced that the University of New Hampshire could do the work for free.

"We are now sending samples to the Maine State Fisheries lab at Boothbay Harbor, with resultant delays because of having to mail things," Mires said.

"It's very nice of Maine to do the work, but I hate to think that we have to go and beg for free service because we're a sovereign state ourselves," Mires said.

Ford eyes Nixon holdovers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford meets today with his talent scout, former Pennsylvania Gov. Wiilliam W. Scranton, to look over a long list of candidates to replace Nixon administration holdovers.

White House officials said Ford also has asked other members of his administration to be on the lookout for new faces to fill some of the expected vacancies in the cabinet and the White House hierarchy.

Ford in a suprise appointment Wednesday named George Bush, Republican national chairman, as U.S. envoy to China and recommended Mary Louise Smith to take his pkace.

Mrs. Smith, who will be 60 Friday, was appointed cochairman last February after an active poiitical career in her native Iowa. She would be the first woman to serve in the GOP post.

Ford also recommended that Richard B. Obenshain, chairman of the Virginia Republican Party, succeed Mrs. Smith in the No. 2 spot of the party leadership.

The GOP National Committee has been summoned to a meeting Sept. 16 to endorse Ford's rcommendations.

Ford also announced he was nominating economic counselor Kenneth Rsh to be ambassador to France, succeeding John N. Irwin II.

He selected former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to be the nation's first ambassador to East Germany.

There was continued speculation that Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, would be named to succeed Walter Annenberg as ambassador to Great Britain.

Fulbright, currently on a trip to China, was defeated in a primary bid for re-election earlier this year.

White House Press Secretary J. F. terHorst also signaled the imminent return of Gen. Alexander M. Haig, White House chief of staff, to the military services.

Haig's name has been submitted to members of NATO for approval for the position of supreme allied commander, but the selection was reported to have run into opposition from the Dutch Foreign Ministry, which feels Haig is too closely tied to former President Richard Nixon.

According to terHorst, Haig "has always felt the Army was his home and the Army is the place where he would like to return to."

Scranton has made it clear he does not want any position in the Ford administration and simply has been enlisted to recruit the big names for Ford for future Cabinet and other high-level government posts.

Ford was expected to be preoccupied most of today with a preliiminary White House conference to plan for the Sept. 27-28 economic summit.

The President also plans to meet before the end of the week with Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Attorney General William B. Saxbe to further explore a plan for offering conditional amnesty to war resisters.

He expects to announce a decision early next week.

Transition

New England Telephone repairmen Paul Nap (standing) and George Downing (seated) check new equipment at the master control test board of NET's new $13.5 million local call switching center on Walnut St. in Watertown. The new system means that the equipment which formerly served both Newton and Watertown customers is now available for exclusive use by Newton customers.

Nixon's expense account raises eyebrows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A request for $850,000 for former President Richard Nixon's pension, office costs and other expenses is running into trouble in Congress.

Sen. Joseph Montoya, DN.M., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which must approve President Ford's request, said Wednesday it was "too much by many miles."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the request should be "looked at most carefully.

"Where the law is concerned I would say we have no choice but to provide the funds," Mansfield said. "Where add-ons are concerned, they will be looked at most carefully and the law will be looked at most carefully."

Nixon is entitled under the law to a $60,000 annual pension and up to $96,000 for staff salaries each year.

The penfion and staffing requests, plus a one-time bill for transition costs, came to $601,000. There appears to be little debate over this request.

There may be some opposition to the remaining $249,000, a special allowance for Nixon to set up an office near his home in San Clemente, Calif.

Nixon is seeking $40,000 for travel, $21,000 for communications, $65,000 for furnishings, $10,000 for printing, $5,000 for office supplies, $8,000 for health insurance and fringe benefits, and $100,000 for miscellaneous expenses.

"It appears to me the $850,000 is too much by many miles," Montoya said. "We intend to compare the transition expenses with those of past presidents."

It was understood that the total figure sought for Nixon was comparable to the amount sought and obtained for the late President Johnson when he left office.

Montoya called the request "enormous" and he said his committee would hold hearings later this month. Hearings are also planned by the House appropriations subcommittee.

McMullin permissive use order rescinded

Given what Board of Aldermen President Eliot Cohen called "an intentional slap in the face," the Board voted this week to rescind the permissive use order granting a Newton Highlands service station operator the right to continue a truck and trailer rental business.

Joseph McMullin, whose station is on Route 9, was ordered in June, after many months' argument in the Land Use Committee, to produce a plan showing the parking plan for 20 vehicles or trailers on his lot. McMullin has refused to submit the plan.

Other conditions of the permissive use that were imposed at the time have not been met, according to Ald. Mark White.

McMullin had been operating the rental business for many years without permission.

A cease and desist order issued against McMullin last September can be enforced only if the Board denies McMullin's petition. Technically, the recission of the Board order merely returned the petition to the Land Use Committee, Building Commissioner Gene Larson said this week.

Larson said he could not enforce the cease and desist order while the petition is pending.

In other actions on land use matters, the full Board passed without debate a petition for permissive use to allow parking on land adjoining Volvo Village, Inc., in Newton Centre, and a petition to allow Lasell Junior College to build a student center annex to one of its buildings.

Both of these items had been heavily debated in committee meetings.

Boston College's request for permission to operate a day-care center in a large house near the college campus in Chestnut Hill was granted, but not for the 86 children proposed in the original petition.

In committee deliberations and meetings between the college and representatives of the neighborhood, the total number of children was reduced to 40, and on the floor of the Board an amendment offered by Ald. Matthew Jefferson added the condition that four of the 40 be from low-income families not connected to B.C. and be allowed to attend the center without charge. The other 36 children will be children of B.C. staff or students.

Ald. David Jackson opposed the limitation of children directly connected to B.C., calling it "outrageous" and "directly opposite to the relationship we are trying to build with the colleges."

Ald. Michael Lipof wanted to hold the request until Boston College shows the Board of Aldermen a plan for B.C.'s future development in Newton Centre and Chestnut Hill. "This involves the character and integrity of many single-family homes," he said.

The Newton Community Development Foundation request for permissive use to build 50 units of low and moderate-income housing according to a slightly revised site plan was granted by a 19-2 vote.

One of the two who voted in opposition, Ald. Michael Antonellis, said that although he had voted for the Hamlet Street location, he would vote against the petition because he does not have "sufficient confidence in the group."

"I am afraid, "he said, "they will either seek eminent domain or will ask the Board to do it."

Former Board President Wendell Bauckman also voted against the NCDF petition.

No money yet for asbestos

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of The Graphic Staff

The money to complete the boxing in of asbestos-covered beams at Newton North High School was not voted by the Finance Committee at a special recess meeting during a meeting of the Board of Aldermen Tuesday night.

The request for a $78,000 appropriation was returned to the Public Building Committee.

In other action, the Board finally passed the public drinking ordinance and did not act on a number of items because of the hour. Several items before the Land Use Committee were disposed of (see separate story).

Buildings Commissioner Gene Larson appeared before the Finance Committee to request another $78,000 (for a total fo $242,000) to cover exposed asbestos-treated beams that have been the subject of considerable controversy because of their potential health hazard to users of the new high school.

Larson siad that if he had to box in all the asbestos at the school, including that above the suspended ceilings and in inaccessible places, "everything would cost $2 million."

State tests of the air at Newton North, Larson said, on more than one occasion showed no safety hazard, but the State Division of Occupational Hygiene nevertheless recommended boxing in all exposed beams.

Medical opinion is not divided on the fact that the breathing of asbestos fibers can be harmful; the problem is that the present standard will be replaced in the next year or two by a lower standard and may be eventually reduced to zero.

Ald. Sidney Small asked, "Who's going to tell all these pressure groups that this is all we're going to do?" Small was referring to concerned citizens who have asked that the "asbestos problem" be taken care of immediately.

But Ald. Ernest Dietz argued that the city has made a commitment to at least box in the exposed beams.

The final result in the Finance Committee was a vote of 7 to 1 to hold the request, Ald. Thomas Concannon being the lone vote in favor of the appropriation. The Public Buildings Committee, meeting at the same time, voted 4-0 in favor of the appropriation.

On the floor of the Board, Dietz suddenly reversed his position and moved to hold in Public Buildings Committee. After some debate, the item was unanimously sent back to Public Buildings Committee for further discussion.

The ordinanace to give the police the comprehensive power to control drinking in public places at last was passed by the Board, after having been worked on several times in the Legislation & Rules Committee.

Despite an argument by Ald. Mark White that the law would be discriminatory against young people, and another by Ald. David Cohen that the law "probably will not help anybody because the problem is enforcement," the measure was passed by a 15 to 7 vote.

Cohen felt that there are enough laws now to control the results of public drinking, such as littering and idsorderly behavior, and said that the ordinance would result in selective enforcement of the law.

Joint disposal contract urged

The Newton-Waltham Regional Refuse Disposal District committee Wednesday night voted to recommend to the mayors and legislative bodies of the two cities that they sign a contract for joint refuse disposal.

On the basis of nearly two years' wor, the committee has found that there are "demonstrable savings" in the joint contract, savings that should be shared by Newton and Waltham.

The committee also notes in its recommendation that unless the joint contract is entered into, the district will be in jeopardy through lack of commitment, and in its letter will say that it "believes strongly that only through cooperation at this time can regionalization be successful in the future."

The district began under a federal grant to see whether a disposal district would be feasible. Its scope has changed someqhat since its beginning, since it is now working toward establishing a regional resource recovery program some time in the next 10 years.

The low bid obtained by the two cities for the transfer-haul method of disposal would save Newton $90,000 a year over the cost of Newton's entering a contract alone, but would cost Waltham $13,000 more than a bid from a different firm for Waltham alone.

The problem now will be to arrive at an equitable method of "subsidizing" Waltham to the amount of $13,000, so that Newton can save $90,000. Even a direct grant of $13,000 to Waltham would result in a $77,000 "plus" for Newton.

The two cities will have to have all decisions completed before Oct. 21, when bid extensions, if granted, will have expired.

Article discusses learning disabilities

Learning disabilities and the problems they posed for young Bobby, Mark and Sarah, three representations of real situations, is a featured article in the upcoming September issue of the Newton-Wellesley "Quarterly," a health care magazine published by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Defined as a gap between achievement and potential which is not explained by mental retardation, emotional disturbance or inadequate instruction, a learning disability can impede a child's progress in school and limit his self-confidence.

The "Quarterly's" learning disabilities article traces the development of the three children from the first day of kindergarten through the second grade, from the recognition of the problem through the help given by the learning disabilities program in the Newton schools.

Newton's school system has more than 50 specially trained learning disabilities teachers working with more than 600 children. The emphasis is on linguistic and reading skills.

Children in the program are members of regular classes and meet with the L.D. teacher 45 minutes a day, either alone or with one or two other children.

Why as many as 10 per cent of all children have learning disabilities, how the disability may exhibit itself, and how the problem can be helped and perhaps overcome are all treated in the article.

Police report

Stolen jewelry recovered

Newton police charged two men early Wednesday morning with receiving stolen property in connection with a June 30 theft of jewelry from Fandango Jewelers, 97 Union St., Newton Centre.

Edward Boland, 65, 15 Francis St., Brookline, and Stephen J. Bernat, 23, 200 Gaston St., Medford, were arrested by Lt. Richard Duffy, Sgt. James Cox, Sgt. Gerald Marchand, and Officers Francis DeVito, William Fitzsimmons, and Leonard Farrell.

According to Duffy, it was originally estimated that $40,000 worth of jewelry was taken from Fandango. He said that a substantial portion of the missing jewelry was recovered from the Jewelry Center Wholesale Co., 1316 Beacon St., Brookline Wednesday morning. Boland is reportedly the owner of the store while Bernat is the manager.

Boland and Bernat were arraigned in Newton District Court Wednesday morning and their cases were continued to Sept. 26. Police had obtained a search warrant from the court on Tuesday.

Duffy said that the June theft nearly put Fandango owner Christopher Leonard out of business. Police reportedly spent hours early Wednesday morning sorting through the jewelry found at Boland's Brookline store. Duffy said that mush of it was either on display or in drawers or cases in the store.

Police have also recovered silverware taken form Newton homes in recent months. Duffy said that the recovery was made form a Boston pawnshop.

Duffy reported that Newton homeowners are being contacted to come and look at the silverware. He said that some of it has been identified.

The silverware investigation has been handled by Marchand and Detectives John Cappadona and Richard Halloran. Duffy said that as a result of the investigation, police have "cleared more than a dozen house breaks."

The Auburndale Cafe, 277 Auburn St., was "completely gutted" by fire Wednesday morning, according to police.

The fire reportedly started in a rear dining area and hallway. Nearby shops suffered from smoke damage.

A breaking and entering at 78 Neshobe Rd., Waban was reported to police at 12:55 a.m. on Wednesday. According to police, entrance was gained in an unknown manner. Reported missing were silverware, a television, a tape deck, and jewelry.

Police arrested two men Sunday in connection with the theft of art works from the home of George S. Abrams, 22 Bernard Lane, Waban last week.

Stanley E. Schwartz, 22, of 176 East Side Parkway, Newton, and Marshall J. Leydon, 24, of 44 Grove Hill Park, Newtonville, were charged with breaking and entering in the night time with intention to commit a felony, and with receiving stolen property.

The arrests and recovery of the art works were reportedly made in Provincetown.

Open house

An informal open house for new and prospective new members will be held at Temple Shalom of Newton, 175 Temple Street in West Newton, on Sunday, Sept. 8 from 10 a.m. until noon.

The rabbis, officers and representatives of the Temple Auxiliaries and Membership Committee will be present to welcome guests and acquaint them with Temple Shalom's facilities and programs.

For further information people may call the Temple office at 332-9550 or 969-3518.

McDonald's hearing now September 19

A petition from McDonald's Restaurants for reissuance of its revoked building permit will be ehard at 9:30 a.m., Sept. 19, not Sept. 9 as previously announced by the Building Department.

The delay is necessary, according to Victor Taglienti, assistant building commissioner, so that the Law Department may check that the present membership of the Building Laws Board of Appeals meet the requirements of state law.

McDonals's building permit was revoked in July, when an incorrect signature on the application was noted.

The restaurant chain, which plans to remodel the building at 330 Walnut St., Newtonville, to accommodate a 148-seat restaurant, has indicated its intention to take the matter to court if the permit is not restored.

Many residents of the area oppose the establishment of a large restaurant in the proposed location, but the restaurant has received the support of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

A proposed change in the city's zoning ordinances will be heard Sept. 9 before the Land Use Committee that would give to the Board of Aldermen the right to control fast-order food establishments by special permit.

The Election

The voters of Newton and Brookline share a common fate in the primary election Tuesday. They must choose between two state senators whose records serve them well.

Both state senators, Irving Fishman of Newton and Jack Backman of Brookline, have tried to reflect the spirit of their communities and are responsible for legislation that has furthered the cause of social justice and human rights.

But 1974 is a special year for "politicians." It is a post-Watergate election. This national disaster may be over, but it has left its indelible imprint on politics and will have, at the very least, a subconscious effect on every voter who goes to the polls Tuesday and in the November election.

The caliber of a representative of the people in this election is based on personal ethics and the ability to reflect the feelings of the electorate.

In Irving Fishman, we have a man who transmits the feeling that his concerns are based on serious, conscientious thought; are based on a solid understanding of the realities of Newton; and, above all, are founded on unshakeable integrity.

We hope State Senator Irving Fishman will be reelected.

He is a quiet man; but he is getting things done, and the things he has accomplished do benefit this community.

Sen. Fishman has addressed himself to the banking industry and to the rights and concerns of consumers. He has shepherded into law legislation that gives consumers access to information in their credit files, extends unit-pricing enforcement authority to local officials, extends tax exemptions from real estate taxes for the elderly, extends the rent control law, and helps control condominium conversion.

Throughout this campaign, it has been said that to make Jack Backman and Irving Fishman face each other in an election is a losing proposition. By endorsing Sen. Fishman, we do not mean to imply that Sen. Backman is any less capable a legislator. However, we do feel his concerns have begun to make him a less effective local legislator than Fishman and that perhaps he should consider running for a higher office.

Newton is a community that looks beyond its own periphery with ease, an ethical plus for the city. Irving Fishman has demonstrated he too is capable of looking beyond the borders of Newton. His asset is that, while doing this, he does not lose sight of the concerns of the people he directly represents.

In this primary, we choose also to endorse Ald. Richard J. McGrath in the Democratic primary in the 16th Middlesex District for state representative.

Ald. McGrath, serving his second term on the Board of Aldermen, faces Joseph DeNucci and Helen Doona in this race.

McGrath is the man with the experience. His work on the Board of Aldermen reflects his concern for the city; and, of the three candidates, he is the only candidate with legislative experience.

Finally, we hope you will go out and vote. Too many times, a primary election seems to be insignificant to the electorate. We hope all voters, Democrats, Republicans and Independents, have learned at least one lesson from Watergate.

The control of our government starts at the polls. We all have an opinion; we all have the constitutional right to express it. What value are we to our country when we do not exercise our right?

AT LONG LAST!

Political Highlights

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Bellotti favorite in Dem. Atty. Gen. race

Former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti is rated the favorite in the six-candidate fight for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General although some political observers believe Bellotti would not be as strong a contender in the final election as either former State Representative George L. Sacco or former federal organized crime prosecutor Edward F. Harrington of Needham.

Bellotti, who was elected Lieutenant Governor in 1962, was defeated for Governor in 1964 and 1970 and for Attorney General in 1966, has had more public exposure across Massachusetts than his five opponents combined, none of whom has made a previous state-wide campaign.

Extremely strong in a six-candidate contest, Bellotti also has a bigger unfavorability rating than his five primary adversaries combined, and this will hurt him in the final election.

In addition to Bellotti, Sacco and Harrington, the candidates in the free-for-all struggle for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General are Norfolk County Register of Deeds Barry T. Hannon, Governor's Councillor Edward M. O'Brien of Easthampton and Somerville Mayor S. Lester Ralph.

Sacco was a member of the leadership of the House of Representatives and was vice chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee but resigned from those offices in order to avoid any conflicts of interest in his campaign for Attorney General. His big problem is that he is not as well known as Bellotti. He is a law and order candidate.

Harrington served for a period as chief prosecutor of organized crime in Massachusetts. He favors legalizing all forms of gambling in Massachusetts in order to cut off the chief source of revenue for the crime syndicate.

Iannella, O'Neill top Dem. Lt. Gov. battle

State Representative Thomas P. O'Neill, 3rd, of Cambridge and Boston City Councillor Christopher A. Iannella of Jamaica Plain appear to be the two top contestants in a five-candidatebattle for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

O'Neill, a freshman member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, is the son of Congressional Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., and is benefiting enormously from the popularity of his famous father, whose friends have rallied behind young O'Neill in all sections of the state

Ianella is a former State Representative, a present City Councillor and a sound student of both state and municipal government. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Mayor of Boston in 1967.

Other candidates in that fight are Mrs. Eva B. Hester of Clinton, Hampden County Register of Deeds, John Pierce Lynch of Springfield and Selectman Thomas M. Sullivan of Randolph.

Mrs. Hester, qn aide to the House Ways and Means Committee at the State House, is counting on good support from the women voters. Lynch should do fairly well in Western Massachusetts.

But the contest appears to have narrowed down to a two-man fight between O'neill and Iannella, with O'Neill the favorite because of his balanced support.

Pick Crane, Davoren to win renomination

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane should beat back the challenge of Charles Mark Furcolo, son of former Governor Foster Furcolo, by a big margin.

Crane is one of the most solidly entrenched public officials on Beacon Hill. His margin over young Furcolo should be somewhere between 3-2 and 2-1.

Furcolo has made an energetic, hard-hitting campaign. But he has encountered difficulty in his attempts to attract public attention. The interest of the voters is centered principally on the top fights for the Democratic and Republican nominations for Governor and Attorney General.

Ex-Governor Furcolo has tried to help his son with a soft sell and without appearing to inject himself into the contest. He has not been an effective force in the fight.

Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren, former Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives and a veteran Democratic figure on Beacon Hill, is heavily favored to win Democratic renomination over young Representative Paul H. Guzzi of Newton.

Davoren sets policy in the Secretary of State Department and pretty much leaves the day-to-day operations of the department to the career employees. It has been a smoothly run agency under both him and Boston Mayor Kevin H. White who preceded him.

Persons who have visited the various offices of the Secretary of State's Department praise the competent and courteous manner in which they have been treated and their business transacted. That should help Davoren next Tuesday.

Spaulding leads in polite GOP contest

Former Republican State Committee Chairman Josiah A. Spaulding of Manchester appears to be leading in a close race for the Republican nomination for Attorney General, with William I. Cowin of Newton second and Charles C. Cabot, Jr., of Dover third.

This has been a politely dull contest between three candidates, none of whom has spoken a cross word about either of his opponents. All three are liberal Republicans and agree on such rather controversial matters as prison furloughs and legalizing homosexual relations between conseting adults.

Cowin, woo served as Deputy Governor under Mr. Sargent, flatly endorses Sarge. Spaulding and Cabot, both liberal Republicans, declare that Governor Sargent "probably deserves" renomination.

Spaulding is the best known of the three candidates because of his run for the U.S. Senate against Senator Ted Kennedy in 1970. Spaulding went over the state twice in '70, first in winning the GOP nomination in a primary fight with conservative John McCarthy, second in losing the election fight with Ted Kennedy.

However, a very substantial number of Republicans are still undecided as to how they will cast their votes. This might bring Cowin from behind and send him in a winner.

Cowin is being helped by members of the Sargent organization who are moving out the political troops to back the boss and are giving Cowin a lift in the process.

Cowin served as both Secretary of Administration and Finance (deputy Governor) and Chairman of the State Public Utilities under Governor Sargent. He also served on the staffs of Boston Mayor Kevin H. White and Senator Edward W. Brooke.

An issue on which Cowin and Spaulding differ "in gentlemanly fashion" is the death penalty. Cowin voices outright opposition to capital punishment. Spaulding favors discretional execution for slayers of law-enforcement officers.

All three candidates agree the race is close. Each believes he is making a strong finish. Each obviously considers himself the best lawyer of the three. Cowin stresses his experience in state government.

All three say they expect to contest with Francis X. Bellotti in the final election. All three voice confidence they can beat Bellotti. Cabot says he and Bellotti are at complete ends of the political spectrum, that Bellotti is the complete politician and he is a non-politician.

Although Governor Sargent and Cabot are fellow townsmen in Dover and Cabot is a member of the State Outdoor Advertising Board, Sarge's sympathies obviously are with Cowin, not Cabot.

Political analysts have been speculating as to which of the three Republican liberals will get the support of the conservative Republicans who will go to the polls to vote for conservative Carroll Sheehan. The guessing is that the conservative vote will be divided among all three, with Cabot and Spaulding probably getting more than Cowin who is closely identified with Governor Sargent, hardly a favorite of the conservatives.

Eva Hester qualified

Dear Editor:

Eva Hester, candidate for Lt. Governor, is the most qualified of all the candidates to assume the second highest office in the Commonwealth.

As the most experienced candidate for Lt. Governor, Eva Hester for the past 13 years worked as assistant to chairman, House Committee on Ways and Means in the State Legislature. Also, she is vice-chairwoman, Democratic State Committee, and a member of the Democratic National Committee.

Eva Hester perceives and we concur that inflation is this state's major problem. Eva believes the first step we must take to curb inflation is to cut the high cost of running state government. Since the Sargent administration took office in 1971, the cost of running state government was $1.9 billion dollars for fiscal year 1971. The cost of state government has increased nearly 100 per cent. How much can you and I stand?

Unemployment in the state of Massachusetts has gone above the national average. Fuel costs for New England and especially Massachusetts, has gone way beyond proportion. The elderly have been deprived of adequate housing. Eva Hester wants more, not less, housing for the elderly.

Isn't it about time we restored government to the people. Vote for the people's candidate for Lt. Governor. Vote for Eva Hester in the Democratic primary on Sept. 10.

More poll data wanted

DEAR Editor:

A documented poll published in the Sunday Globe, Aug. 25, showed Mike Dukakis leading Bob Quinn in the Democratic primary for governor.

I find it distressing that James G. Colbert cites a poll in which Mike Dukakis trails Robert Quinn because he neglected to document the statistics with information concerning who took the poll, when the data was gathered, and where the poll fluctuated.

Polls can be used insidiously, and to protect the reader, as well as the honesty of your editorial page, the source of the poll, when it was taken, and a breakdown of the information should be given.

Institute on race held at Day Junior High

Fifty NEWTON TEACHERS, ADMINISTRATORS, COUNSELLORS AND OTHER STAFF RECENTLY COMPLETED AN INSTITUTE ON RACE.

Funded by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), the Institute was conducted between Aug. 19 and Aug. 22, and between Aug. 26 and Aug. 29 at the new F. A. Day Junior High School in Newton.

The institute's director, Donald Polk, a human relations consultant at Wellesley College, has conducted two prior institute on race in the Newton Public Schools. He planned and coordinated his efforts in conjunction with Katherine Jones, Newton's Metco coordinator, and Sylvia Rosario, Newton's Metco community liaison, among others.

During their two weeks, teachers explored a variety of approaches to the area of race, culture and human relations, including: books, films, discussion, curriculum development, and an opportunity to learn from each other and from a small group of Newton students.

In order to enhance the purpose of the institute, and to give the participants background for a number of future situations with their pupils and colleagues, the teachers were exposed to a number of methods and procedures, including: group conversation, spectrum policy, open consultation, workshops, presentations, school units and school clusters, lectures and discussions, readings, and audio-visual presentations.

Workshops topics included: "Rce and the Black Experience in the Classroom;" "Staff Diversity as a Positive Experience;" and "Racially Positive School Environment."

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — Humpback whales "sing" in different accents, says an authority on marine mammals.

"You can tell where they come from by listening to them. There is a southern accent and a northern and middle accent," said Dr Howard E. Winn, a University of Rhode Island oceanographer.

He said whales near the Bahamas sing in a dialect which differs from whales in the Puerto Rico or Virgin Islands areas.

When a whale sings, he can be heard by another whale at least 20 miles away and "perhaps even hundreds of miles," Winn said.

"It is possible that the singing serves as a birth control device," he said. "When the banks become crowded with whales the water may be literally saturated with the sound and the whale reproductive system may be upset."

Winn said the singing humpback whale was harpooned early to extinction but now is making a comeback.

"At one time we thought very few humpback whales remained in the northwest Atlantic," Winn said.

"We have discovered a major mating and nursery ground in the West Indies and there now appear to be twice as many humpbacks as we originally thought, perhaps as many as 1,000, including calves."

Winn, just back from a cruise during which he and seven other URI scientists tried to count the humpback population, said that the mammal's northwest Atlantic population is about one-third to one-half the size it was in the pre-whaling days.

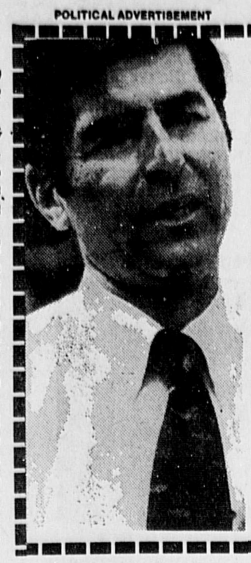

The cruise took Winn and his associates to the Bahamas. During the winter, the whales migrate to the Caribbean where they give birth and mate.

Winn also had some good news concerning the population of the largest mammal on earth —the blue whale. Once their population was down below 500. Now it may even be as high as 8,000.

He said gray whales are also increasing.

"There is some hope for all these species but they must be protected. Always lurking in the background is the possibility of pollution of the ocean that would cause whales difficulties, or the taking of food that whales need to survive," he said.

Newton Savings Bank is now MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS

The name "Newton Savings Bank" has served us well for more than 100 years. But "Newton Savings Bank" no longer adequately describes us. We started in Newton in 1829, but because you've liked our way of doing business, we've grown. We now have offices in Needham, Waltham and Wellesley in addition to the Newtons. But more important, we're a Mutual Savings Bank. And proud of it. It just makes good sense to tell people about it. So we're changing our name. Newton Savings Bank is now MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS.

The word mutual has a very special meaning. Mutual means that our only purpose is to serve our customers and our community. Not our stockholders, because we don't have any stockholders.

We've kept everything that you liked about Newton Savings Bank. The same friendly tellers, the same eight neighborly offices, and we're still dedicated to saving, lending, insuring and helping your town and money grow. Because our customers make up our strength, we're now bigger and stronger than ever.

Our new name MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS describes not only what we are, but the way we serve you.

What's in a name? Now you know.

MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS

You can still call us Newton Savings Bank till you get used to our new name.

Rotary Club hosts district governor

Newton Rotary Club members were hosts to the new governor of Rotary District 791, Col. Edwin McMeen, and his staff at the club meeting held Monday, Aug. 26, at Valle's in Chestnut Hill.

A member of the Southboro Rotary Club, Col. McMeen is the new district governor. He is a retired Army Colonel and has been on the governing boards of a number of health organizations.

Speaking on the pertinancy of the Rotary International theme for the year, "Renew the Spirit of Rotary," McMeen sketched the ways for the 65 members of the Newton Club to join their efforts with other Rotarians around the world.

McMeen met with officers and committee chairmen of the Newton Club before the noon luncheon at which their plans were outlined.

Presiding at the two meetings was John Fox, president of the Newton Club. Accompanying the speaker were members of his district staff, Norman Tucker, club advisor, James Sullivan of Westwood, governor's aid and Joe Mason of Natick, public relations chairman for the district.

Announcement was made at the meeting of the appointment of Dr. Minoru Horiuchi, past president of the Newton Club, as district trustee.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

DEMOCRAT

A NEW KIND OF CANDIDATE

"I will be a full-time State Representative." "I would make it my only job... Because in terms of both the amount of work which the Legislature is now handling, and in terms of the complexity of those issues, the demands are full-time demands, and they don't end when the session ends."

"I think you should seriously question every candidate for this office about their plans. MY OPPONENTS HAVE NOT PLEDGED TO BE FULL-TIME AND HOLD NO OTHER JOB OR OFFICE... that's a statement in support of Joe DeNucci."

Years of service recognized

Two Newton and one Newton Highlands residents were honored for long terms of service recently at the Recognition Day ceremonies at University Hospital, a member of Boston University Medical Center.

Receiving awards for 10 years of service to the Hospital were Herbert Abramson of Newton and Gertrude Gowen of Newton Highlands. Also recognized was Warren Prescott for five years of service.

Ms. Mitchell named to Commission on Women

Ms. Doris Mitchell, 460 Commonwealth Ave., Newton, was sworn in as a member of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women on Thursday, Aug. 1, 1974, at the State House. Ms. Mitchell is the chairwoman of the Affirmative Action Committee of the Board of Higher Education.

Gov. Francis Sargent officiated at the ceremony, where 40 commissioners were appointed to one-year terms on the commission.

The Governor's Commission on the Status of Women was created by Gov. Sargent in 1971. It is committed to the idea that "the full realization of women's basic rights should be respected and fostered as a part of our commitment to human dignity, freedom and democracy."

Commissioners evaluate governmental programs and practices relating to women's employment, health, education and welfare, examine the adequacy of these programs and make recommendations for changes to the governor.

They also investigate the need for new and expanded services and legislation to help the women in the Commonwealth.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital to be sire for Sept. 9 hearing

Newton-Wellesley Hospital has been chosen as the Sept. 9 site for the second of six regional hearings to provide information requested by Senator Frank E. Moss (D-Utah) on long-term health care problems, innovative programs and the national outlook for long-term health care.

This hearing will be co-sponsored by the American Nurses' Association's Committee on Skilled Nursing Care and the Massachusetts Nurses Association.

Other sites for hearings are East Lansing, Michigan; Orlando, Florida; Denver, Colorado; Helena, Montana; and San Francisco, California.

Senator Moss, chairman of the subcommittee on long-term care of the U.S. Special Committee on Aging, has asked the American Nurses' Association to gather data on issues including the definition of skilled nursing care, how and where such care could be provided, and alternatives to institutional care; kinds of personnel needed to provide adequate care in various settings; methods of reimbursement for care that will promote best use of funds for quality service, and training programs needs to assure a supply of up-to-date nursing personnel.

The public hearings will include testimony from nurses, consumes, and groups concerned with the aging or with any aspect of long-term care as it relates to patients who would be receiving such care. Under discussion will be care of geriatric patients as well as psychiatric patients and mentally retarded or developmentally disabled.

In addition to witnesses who will present written reports as well as deliver a summary of the report the day of the hearing, statements may be submitted by persons unable to attend a hearing.

These statements and reports will contribute to a document to be submitted later this fall to Senator Moss' subcommittee on long-term care and will be used in planning changes in health-care legislation.

Persons interested in testifying or contributing information may contact the Massachusetts Nurses Association, 20 Ashburton Place, Boston 02108.

Unit pricing effective Sept. 16

State Rep. Lois G. Pines reported this week that the new unit pricing regulations will go into effect on Sept. 16.

The Newton legislator, a staunch supporter of unit pricing, appeared in support of the new regulations at all three public hearings last year.

"The new regulations require that the labels on the shelves of stores must be bright orange and the figures must be printed clearly, boldly and conspicuously," she said.

"Current use of dotted lines and asterisks will be prohibited," Mrs. Pines said. "In addition, frozen foods, dairy products, seasonings and spices will also be covered by unit pricing."

Rep. Pines urged shoppers to contact the sealer of weights and measures at Newton City Hall if they have any complaints.

Under the new law, local officials have the power to enforce all unit pricing regulations issued by the Consumers Council.

"I believe the new regulations will make it easier for the shopper to use unit pricing," she commented. "With the cost of food prohibitive, no family can afford to ignore it."

HERE'S WHAT DICK McGRATH HAS DONE AS A NEWTON ALDERMAN, AND WHY HE'LL BE AN EFFECTIVE STATE REPRESENTATIVE:

Dick successfully forced the city to operate the Rumford Ave. dump as a sanitary land fill — ridding the area of "rats and roaches." He urged the city to develop sensible programs of composting and recycling, and a long range plan to better handle our solid waste.

When Dick saw the safety of city employees become endangered, he cited the need for fast and meaningful improvement at the Newton incinerator and city garages.

Dick constantly and effectively fought for improvement of the city's antiquated snow plowing policies which resulted in better plowing at a reduced cost to the taxpayer.

He supported the 10% allocation on new low income and elderly housing, and also supported the life care center which will provide substantial services for the elderly of all income levels.

When Dick became aware of the State's intention to develop the Woodland Golf Course, he united our local officials and organized the area residents into an effective opposition.

This is what Dick McGrath has done for you—

This is what he's been fighting for—

This is why he will be an effective Representative.

Scholarship contest program announced

College scholarships from $500 to $5,000 are available to all high school seniors through the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, formerly the Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow.

An invitation to enroll in the program will soon be mailed to all high schools across the nation. Schools new to the event are invited to write the Betty Crocker Search, P.O. Box 1113, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440, for information.

Enrollment deadline is Oct. 31.

On Tuesday, Dec. 3, each participating school will administer a 50-minute written examination. Prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, this general knowledge and attitude examination is the first important step of the scholarship program.

From the examination results, a Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow will be chosen for each participating school. School winners are acknowledged with special awards and their examinations are entered in state competition.

Each State Family Leader of Tomorrow receives a $1,500 college scholarship while every state second-place winner receives a $500 grant. The state winner also earns for his or her school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation.

State winners accompanied by a faculty advisor will be the guests of General Mills next spring on an expense-paid educational tour, which will include Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va. A special event of the tour is announcement of the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Second-, third-, and fourth-place winners in the nation will receive scholarship increases to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively.

The Betty Crocker Search is on the advisory list of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening, a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparalleled sound sensation . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation.

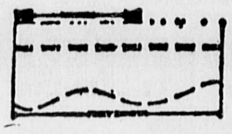

1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

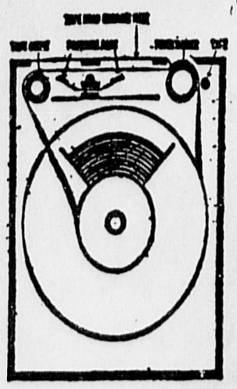

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited.

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes

How does a tape cartridge work? Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

Longer is livelier this fall

Will she, or won't she?

American as well as European designers are watching the women in this country as they do their fall clothes shopping. Ever mindful of the midi disaster, they are hoping that soft, light-as-air fabrics that swirl below the knee and sometimes mid-calf, will be welcomed as a new look that is unmistakably feminine.

The longer length is only a trend and does not represent the entire fall market - rather, the covered knee indicates a feeling, a gradual change in silhouette to be seen in the next few years - a switch to easier, roomier, more comfortable clothes. As one designer put it, "If you showed the average woman just one hour's runway fashion show time of model after model wearing the longer length, I guarantee you she'll leave applauding the look and she'll scorn the first mini she sees as being vulgar and old fashioned."

The longer skirt is only part of the new look. We'll also be seeing looser shapes, dropped and extended shoulders, softly bloused tops, fuller skirts and nipped in short jackets.

John Anthony describes fall fashions: "For the first time, I have given my clothes a sportive, casual feeling. The luxury of the fabrics, however, specifies that they are city clothes, not sports clothes.

"Costumes make an interplay of very loose full coats and capes over a very slim body line. Practically all the coats and capes are cut on the bias. There are lots of yoke treatments and lots of blousing in thin fabrics.

"I also see the suit shape as soft in effect, with a bias skirt and jackets which are primarily long. Some flare and cinch like a tunic (this is definitely for the slim figure and is not flattering for the full, short figure). The main theme of the collection is the one color toned costumes in various textures ranging from wool to chiffon silk jersey.

"Color coordination is important - especially the coordination of hats, shoes, hosiery and make-up. Sienna and mulberry, both tawny rose browns are beautiful new colors, with slate gray as a new and luscious graduation between a color and a neutral. Beige and black are as always shown throughout the collection and this year the all-beige and all-black costume will have great impact.

Designer Ilie Wacs maintains we are going through a period of transition - from a pants-oriented period to the present skirt-oriented fashion era. Not that pants are out of favor, oh no, but that both pants and skirts belong in and add great versatility to today's wardrobe.

With this in mind, he designed a walking pant suit with its long flaring skirt and fur collar. At a recent fashion show, Ilie's winter violet melton half belted back coat lined in wool jersey and underneath a lovely matching dress was greeted with enthusiastic applause. Also well received, his gray alpaca big wrap-coat with oversize patch pockets, accessorized with burgundy hat, scarf, bag and shoes.

It's not surprise that some designers, like Jim Baldwin, recognize a good thing and hang on for dear life. "With PANTS, PANTS, PANTS just as important as ever," says Jim, "I think pants and especially separates were never bigger." And his manner of putting together gentle colors and soft fabrics show the master's hand.

Blonde tones and grey flannel are favorites worn over lovely wool viole, paisley and geometric print shirts ranging from brick reds to soft beiges.

Baldwin's concession to the big push for a "new look" has been the addition of a few skirts to match the pantsuits with the length just below the knee. "I don't think American women are eager for that droopy look," says Jim.

A definite part of the new look in his separates is the combination of worsted and heavy cable look knits as in his cable knit sweater coat edged in diagonal worsted. For extra warmth, he has added the short pant-coat in fake leather and in heavy nub-look fabrics to be worn over everything.

Capes are prominent in his fall collection... what could be more flattering than his blonde fleece cap, or, if you prefer, his black and white glen plaid reversed to fake leather over glen plaid pants.

What is fall's new shape? Skirts that are full and mid-knee in length, shirts with easy deep sleeves and cinched waists, pants that are both wide or straight-line and figure skimming dresses prettier than they've been in years.

OOPS! The topping for the Orange Picnic Cake published in the Across the Kitchen Counter, August 14th, was accidentally omitted. We are sorry for any inconvenience it may have caused. Here is the topping:

ORANGE COCONUT TOPPING

½ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 tablespoon orange juice
1 cup flaked coconut
½ cup chopped walnuts

Combine brown sugar, butter (or margarine) orange rind and juice in small saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add coconut and walnuts. Spread over cooled cake and place under broiler for 1 minute or until topping is golden brown and bubbly.

Question: My family loves the New York type cheese cake that is sold in restaurants and I was wondering whether any local store carried the cake with or without topping. Thank you. — Mrs. N.M., Newton

Answer: You're in luck! The Manhattan Cheesecake Company, which caters to restaurants on a wholesale basis, is now open to the retail trade on Saturday only from 8 a.m. till 1 p.m. The 9 or 12-inch cheesecake has a refrigerator shelf life of two weeks and toppings are available. The address: 29 Central Avenue, Chelsea.

Question: I would like a recipe for Blueberry Pancakes, please. Thanks! — Mrs. S.K., Dedham

Answer: The following Blueberry Pancake recipe calls for buttermilk; if you don't have buttermilk on hand, add 2 tablespoons vinegar to the milk and allow the mixture to stand for 15 minutes before using.

BLUEBERRY PANCAKES

1 egg, well beaten
1½ cups buttermilk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1¼ cups all purpose flour
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon allspice
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 cup blueberries (if berries are frozen, thaw and drain before adding to mixture)

Combine beaten egg, buttermilk and vanilla; beat until well blended. Sift together flour, sugar, soda, baking powder, salt and allspice. Add to egg mixture along with melted shortening and beat until smooth. Stir in blueberries. Pour batter onto heated griddle. Cook until full of bubbles and brown. Turn and brown other side. Makes 10-12 pancakes.

Our thanks to Mrs. T. C., Roslindale who has sent in a recipe she and her family have been enjoying for some time. At a recent family gathering it was suggested that she send the unusual recipe in to this column. We thank her for:

BISCUIT PIZZA SNACKS

½ to ¾ pound ground pork sausage
1 tablespoon crushed oregano
1 clove garlic, minced
1 pkg. (8 oz.) refrigerated biscuits
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
⅛ teaspoon salt
Sliced stuffed olives

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Brown sausage in skillet and drain. Add oregano and garlic. On a greased baking sheet flatten biscuits to 4-inch circles with the bottom of a floured custard cup, leaving a rim around edges. Fill with sausage and some of the tomato paste. Sprinkle with grated cheeses and salt. Bake 10-12 minutes. Top with a slice of stuffed olive. Yield: 10 pizza snacks.

Question: I am looking for a delicious creamy-type French Dressing that is available in some restaurants at the salad bar. I would appreciate your assistance very much. — Mrs. T.M., Walpole

Answer: This is a salad dressing I think you'll really enjoy:

CREAMY FRENCH DRESSING

¼ cup corn oil
1 cup mayonnaise
¼ cup red wine vinegar
4½ teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
1 clove crushed garlic

Gradually stir corn oil into mayonnaise; beat until smooth. Combine all remaining ingredients, add to mayonnaise. Chill at least one hour before serving. Yields: 1 cup.

Question: I would love to have an easy recipe for Scalloped Oysters. I'm really not a very good cook and so if your recipe calls for a fancy crust or anything, I won't be able to make it and it's my husband's favorite dish. Thanks! — S.K., Dedham

Answer: Easy does it!

SCALLOPED OYSTERS

1 pint oysters
3 tablespoons cream
3 tablespoons milk
1 cup cracker crumbs
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup melted margarine
Salt and pepper
Paprika
2 tablespoons sherry wine (optional)

Toss cracker and bread crumbs in melted butter. Butter casserole; cover bottom with a layer of the crumb mixture. Cover with oysters; sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour on ½ of milk and cream. Repeat for a second layer, using the oyster liquor and wine as well as the oysters. Cover with crumbs; dust lightly with paprika. Bake 25-30 minutes at 450 degrees. Yield: 4 servings.

Food and Fashions

by Ruth Lenson

Across the kitchen counter

The letter read: "This year I have planted my first tomato garden and it is so successful I have more tomatoes than I can handle; therefore, I thought I would put them up and preserve them. I would appreciate any recipes, especially one for tomato sauce, stewed tomatoes, or piccalilli. Thank you." Signed, Mrs. S.E.B., West Roxbury.

Tomatoes, summer's favorite food, are being harvested in abundance and it's the thrifty cook who will take advantage of the harvest. Unfortunately, sometimes the tomato vines bear all at once and unless attended to the tomatoes spoil.

Keep ripe tomatoes in the refrigerator where the cold stops the ripening process. Peel and cut tomatoes just before serving. If they must be prepared in advance, keep them covered in the refrigerator until serving time.

To peel tomatoes, rub the skin with the dull edge of a knife blade until the skin is tight and shiny and easy to remove. If the tomatoes aren't quite ripe enough, let them ripen indoors at cool (60-70 degrees) temperature. Avoid ripening tomatoes on a sunny window sill. Too much sunlight prevents development of normal or even color. Since immature green tomatoes won't respond to ripening indoors, use them for pie, frying or green tomato pickles or relish.

Would you like the treat of fresh tomato juice during the winter months? Here's the method: Wash, trim stem ends and cut tomatoes into quarters or eighths; then simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Press cooked tomatoes through a sieve or food mill. Season by adding 1 teaspoon salt for each quart of juice. Pour into freezer containers, leaving 1 to 1½ inches of head room. Seal and freeze. Note: A bushel of tomatoes will make about 20 quarts of juice.

Following are recipes for all you lucky tomato gardeners!

VEGETABLE TOMATO PUREE

4 quarts tomatoes (about 2 doz. lg.)
6 onions
3 carrots
3 sweet peppers
2 cups chopped celery
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash, chop and measure firm ripe tomatoes. Simmer until soft. Press through a fine sieve. Cook until thick. Chop other vegetables. Cover with boiling water and cook until soft, press through sieve and add to tomato pulp. Reheat and pour into hot jars. Wipe top and screw threads of jar with clean, damp cloth. Put lid on jar, sealing ring next to glass; screw band on tight but do not use force. Process half-pints 45 min. in a boiling water bath, at a gentle steady boil. Remove jars from canner and let cool. Yield: 9 half pints.

TOMATO PRESERVES

2 pounds ripe tomatoes, peeled, with stem ends and cores removed
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
¼ cup lemon juice
6½ cups sugar
1 bottle (6 oz.) liquid fruit pectin

Cut the peeled tomatoes in eighths or crush. In 8 to 10 quart kettle or Dutch oven measure 3 cups tomatoes. Simmer for 10 minutes. Add peel and juice; stir in sugar. Bring mixture to full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil hard, uncovered, for 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Pour at once into hot sterilized jars; seal. Makes 7 half-pints.

TOMATO SAUCE

8 pounds tomatoes
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon cayenne
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Wash, remove stem ends and cores, and quarter tomatoes. Let tomatoes stand in colander to drain off excess liquid. In 8 to 10 quart kettle or Dutch oven combine tomatoes, green pepper, chopped onion, celery seed, and cayenne. Bring to boil; cook for 40 to 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Put tomato pulp through food mill or a coarse sieve. Add white vinegar, sugar, and salt to the tomato puree. Return the puree to the kettle. Bring to a boil; simmer till of desired consistency, for 30 minutes. Stir sauce often. Pour hot tomato sauce into hot jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath (in pint jars) for 10 minutes. Makes 2 pints.

FRESH TOMATO BARBECUE SAUCE

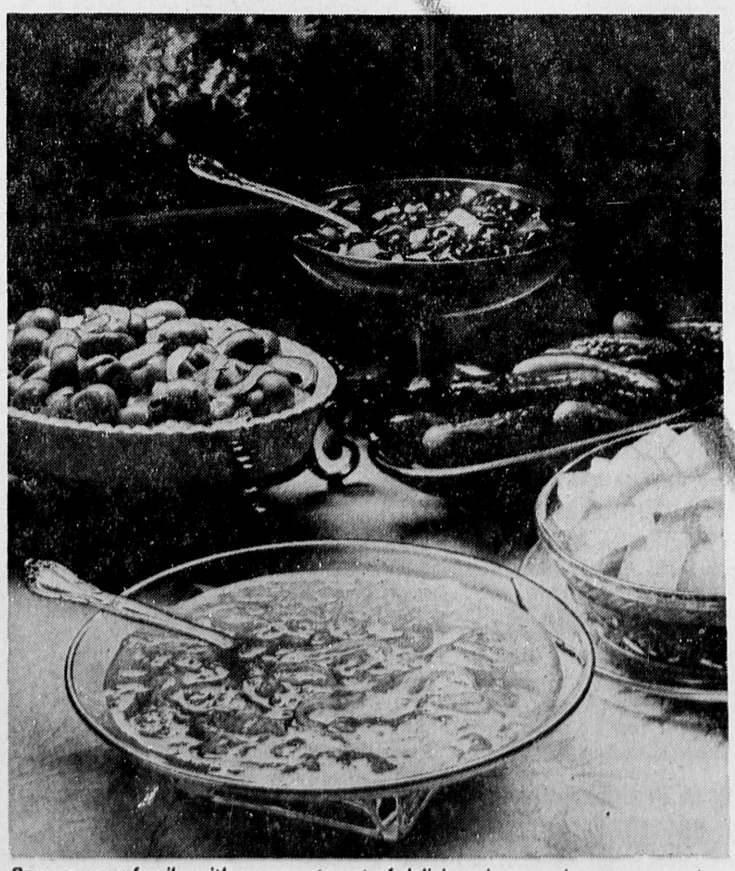

4 pounds fresh tomatoes, peeled and chopped
1 cup fresh chopped onions
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup margarine
1 cup chili sauce
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine all ingredients in large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, one hour and a half or until thickened. Use with meats and poultry. Makes about one quart.

STEWED TOMATOES

4 medium tomatoes, peeled, cored and quartered
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon margarine
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf

Mix together all ingredients in a saucepan. Simmer, stirring occasionally, for about 20 minutes, or until tomatoes are tender. Remove bay leaf. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Pamper your family with an assortment of delicious jams and preserves such as Tomato Preserves.

Weddings

Grand Hotel at Point Clear, Ala. scene of Ewing-Kagno nuptial

A reception at the Sky Lounge of the Grand Hotel, Point Clear, Ala., followed the Aug. 25 wedding of Janet Ashby Ewing, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Sharp Ewing Jr., Montrose, Ala., and Bruce Milton Kagno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kagno, Newtonville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father at the ceremony which was performed by Rabbi William Schwartz at the Grand Hotel in Point Clear. She was attired in a white ribbed organza gown over bridal taffeta. Her full length two tiered veil of illusion was attached to a lace Camelot cap and she carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and pale blue gypsophelia.

Mrs. Bruce M. Kagno

Mrs. Morris A. Kagno, Natick, was the honor attendant. Other attendants were Miss Julia A. Filippini, Montrose, Ala. and Mrs. Garay S. Blalock, Mobile, Ala. The maid of honor was the groom's sister, Cynthia Ann Kagno, Newtonville. The bride's attendants wore navy blue dotted swiss gowns and white ribbed picture hats banded with navy dotted swiss, and carried arrangements of field flowers. Tracy Ann Kagno, Natick, was the flower girl. She wore a long dress of white batiste and carried a small basket of field flowers.

The best man was Morris A. Kagno, Natick, the groom's brother. Other groom's attendants were James L. Meyers, Mobile, Ala.; Walter D. Yokel, Fairhope, Ala.; and Joseph P. Carter, Crestview, Fla. The ring bearer was Todd Alan Kagno, Natick.

After returning from their wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Kagno will reside in Randolph.

Newton Centre garden reception for Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Wessler

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman officiated at the 1 p.m. ceremony at Temple Shalom of Newton on Aug. 18, when Ellen Lisa Freed, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Murray M. Freed, Newton Centre, and Stephen Lawrence Wessler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Stanford Wessler, Rye, N.Y., were united in Marriage.

Under a ceremonial canopy which was hand woven by the bride, Dr. Freed gave his daughter in marriage. The reception was held in the garden at the home of the bride's parents. The beautiful tent was decorated with centerpieces and flowers of oragne, red, yellow and white.

Mrs. Stephen L. Wessler

The bride carried white roses and stephanotis covering a bible which was also carried by her mother, grandmother and aunt. She chose her sister, Leah, Andrea and Janet to be her attendants. Their bouquets were of the same multi-colors as the reception site.

The groom, a resident of Brookline, had his brothers, John and James, as his best men.

The new Mrs. Wessler is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College and is presently studying at Boston University School of Fine and Applied Arts. Her husband graduated from Harvard College and is now attending Boston University of Law.

Following their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wessler will be at home in Brookline.

Nova Scotia honeymoon trip for Mr. and Mrs. David M. Press

The wedding of Janice Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Newman, Cambridge, and David M. Press, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Press, West Newton, was solemnized on Aug. 18, at Temple Beth El, Belmont.

Rabbi Ephriam Greenberg performed the service where the bride was given in marriage by her father. The reception which followed was held in the Temple.

The matron of honor was Ronnie Newman and the bridesmaids were Susan Shedroff, Linda Thomas, Dina Weber and Pearl Wiadro.

Benjamin Press was the groom's best man and sharing ushering duties were John Weber, Ronald Merritt, Barry Newman and Arnold Schertzer.

The bride graduated from Cambridge High and Latin School and Northeastern University. Mr. Press is a graduate of Newton High School and Lehigh University. He is presently studying for his master's degree at Northeastern University.

Upon returning from their wedding trip to Nova Scotia, the couple will reside in Cambridge.

Mrs. David M. Press

Amy Beth Levenson becomes bride of Louis J. Della Valle

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS J. DELLA VALLE

Pier Four, S. S. Peter Stuyvesant was the scene of the noon wedding on Aug. 4, when Amy Beth Levenson, daughter of Shirley and Melvin Levenson, Newton Highlands, became the bride of Louis J. Della Valle, son of Louis and Mary Della Valle, Hamden, Conn.

Mr. Emil Winkler performed the double ring ceremony. Mr. Levenson escorted his daughter, and the reception was held on the Stuyvesant.

The bride's gown was complimented by a white lace mantilla. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Nancy-Jo Caplan, Worcester, was her sister's matron of honor and William Sorrentino of Connecticut was the best man.

The new Mrs. Della Valle is presently employed as a nurse's aide and her husband is associated with the Penn Central Railroad.

Nassau was their honeymoon destination and the young couple are now at home in Brighton.

TRUTH MADE HER FREE.

An understanding of God, Truth, freed an Indiana woman from an infected lung, arthritis, and confinement to a wheelchair. It changed her whole life.

But this is not why she came to Christian Science in the first place. It was her hunger for an understanding of God.

If you are searching for the joyous freedom that comes from knowing God's presence in your life, come to our service this Wednesday evening. You will hear people like yourself testify to the power of God, Truth, in their own experience.

New England Horizons

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) -- Coach Bob McKee is getting in shape for the football season. He teaches it to housewives.

And he says they love it. "They're so sincerely interested, and they ask really good questions. Several said they became better fans and mothers," McKee said.

It all began when Monday night football surfaced on television a couple of years ago. Many were pitying the poor housewife, saying she had more football to contend with, he recalls.

"I suggested to John Ray, of our Recreation Department, the old saying, 'If you can't beat 'em, join 'em,' and proposed ..b z lsoa course for the housewife, because the more informed they are, perhaps, the more they would enjoy it," says McKee, head coach at Concord High School.

That was in 1972 and 60 women paid $3 each to attend the course which involves a minimum of four weekly 90 minute sessions. They've been attending the September courses ever since.

Some men even asked, "How come you don't have us included?" He replied, "When I get a roomful of women, you don't think I'm going to invite guys, do you?" Seriously, he felt the men would dominate the sessions. "I kept it for the housewives," he said.

McKee attributes some of the enrollment to West Hartford's being "a big football town." There are two public high schools, a Catholic high, a prep school, with peewee, midget and Pony League games as well as traditional Connecticut college football.

His wife, Virginia, and their two daughters, Debbie and Cindy, college girls, said they were going to show up at the sessions "and give me a bad time. I told them they heard all my jokes and if they don't know enough about football, it's too late now."

One woman told McKee, "My son's a catcher," he he suggested she had the wrong sport. "No, he's the guy that runs out and catches passes," she said at the course outset.

The coach said he was "really quite apprehensive" about facing so many women but found them eager to learn the sport's terms so they could be conversant with their husbands and children.

One woman said she had been going to football games for 12 years, and took the course to "find out what's going on." Thus, McKee says, now they know what is meant when the sportscaster uses terms like "man in motion,""blitz", "trap" together with a good working knowledge of the game, achieved with the help of McKee's sense of humor.

A native of Boston, he's been pushing pigskin for the past 27 years, ever since he got his master's degree at Boston University. And he's got a collection of anecdotes. Like this one, he told the women:

As a high school coach he tells his players to be polite at dances and "to thank the girl by saying something nice when you escort her back to her chair," as one boy did only to have his partner dash from the room, crying.

McKee asked the boy what he said, and he replied: "Coach, you told me to say something nice and I told her, 'For a fat girl, you don't sweat so bad.'"

Swan recipient of therapy award

Donald Swan, a staff member of the rehabilitation medicine service at the West Roxbury Veterans Administration Hospital, has been selected by the American Corrective Therapy Association to receive the annual corrective therapy award.

This award honors the individual for outstanding achievement and contributions demonstrating foresight and leadership ability in corrective therapy and adapted physical education.

The presentation, made during the American Corrective Therapy Association's annual conference in Albuquerque, N.M., is the highest professional recognition the organization can grant to a corrective therapist.

Swan received his undergraduate and graduate education at Springfield College and has been supervisor of student training in corrective therapy at the Veterans Administration Hospital for 15 years. He has done considerable research in the rehabilitation of cardiac conditions, spinal cord injury and amputations, and has published several papers on these subjects. Active in several professional organizations, he has spoken at a number of regional and national conferences on rehabilitation. He has served two terms as president of the New England chapter of the American Corrective Therapy Association.

Swan and his family live at 27 Stearns street, Newton.

Soccer season opens on Tuesday

By TOM GRAVES

Newton North's soccer team will be in pursuit of its sixth consecutive Suburban League championship when it opens its regular season on Tuesday against Rindge Tech.

Newton had a league record of 12-2-4 last year. The Tigers advanced to the quarter-final round of the EMass Soccer Tournament before losing to Masconomet Regional High, 2-1.

Mike Buzzi is starting his fifth year as varsity soccer coach in Newton. He was met by nearly 100 candidates when he began practice last week.

Buzzi said that this year's squad is "smaller in size than we've ever been, but faster." He reported that there are three returning starters and six lettermen back from last year's team.

The three returning starters, seniors Matt Berry, Joe Moussalli, and Barry Silverstein, are the team's tri-captains. Berry is a fullback, Moussalli plays halfback, and Silverstein is a forward-striker.

Other lettermen back include wings Sami Fan and Alan Friedman, and goalie Rick Olin.

Newton's junior varsity was 19-0 last year. Graduates from the team are expected to make major contributions to this year's varsity.

Buzzi said that early season senior standouts have included halfback Greg Buck, wing Ken Halloran, fullbacks Peter Hite and Ned Pendergast, and insides Jeff Silton and Franco Tramontozzi. Senior Glenn Asch is a goalie candidate.

Junior standouts, according to Buzzi, have included win Joe DiLorenzo, halfback Doug Jessup, inside Dinato Mazzola, wings Jorge Santi and Mike Tocci, fullback Mark Vassalotti, and halfback John Williaams.

Jessup is a son of Newton North coach, trainer and physical education teacher George Jessup. Mazzola is a brother of former Newton High soccer standout Emilio Mazzola, now a player at Providence College.

Buzzi said that Newton North basically uses a 4-3-3 alignment.

"We feel we're very strong in our forward positions," Buzzi commented. "We have excellent skills and ball control from Mousalli, Mazzola and Tramontozzi."

"We think we're a little weak on defense," Buzzi added, "but this will improve in game experience." Buzzi noted that there is only one returnee at both the halfback and fullback positions, and little experience in the goal. An encouraging factor, though, is that there is speed at all positions.

Buzzi said that "double sessions have gone really well. Attendance has been perfect, and there have been a minimal number of injuries."

Bernie Flanagan is entering his fifth year as assistant soccer coach. A native of England, Flanagan played one year with the Boston Beacons.

Buzzi said that Flanagan "knows a lot of little intricacies. I've learned an awful from him."

When asked about the response to soccer at Newton North, Buzzi replied that "soccer is given every opportunity that other sports are." He said that it is not slighted in terms of finances and equipment. "I have been very pleased with the support of the Athletic department the last four years," Buzzi remarked.

He added that "soccer is starting to really catch on now." In BMUZZI'S FIRST YEAR, THERE WERE FEW SPECTATORS AT HOME GAMES, WHILE LAST YEAR, THERE WERE ⅛?? PEOPLE AT EVERY HOME GAME. Home games will be played at Alison Field this year.

"In terms of support from students, faculty, and the administration, it's growing," Buzzi said.

The growth of soccer generally has been experienced by Buzzi through his membership in the Eastern Mass. Soccer Coaches Association. Buzzi, who is president for the coming year, has seen the association grow from representation of 43 teams in 1970 to a present membership of 140.

South soccer coach seeking consistency

By MARK SHUSTER

Following last year's disappointing 3-8-2 season, which saw the Lions lose seven games by one goal, the Newton South varsity soccer team is determined to make this year a successful one.

There are only six lettermen back from last year's team, with the maturity of several players from last year's junior varsity, there is hope for a good season.

Coach Alan Einhorn is back for his second year of coaching. He is aided by Ophair Caras.

Caras feels that if the team can stay away from the erratic play it demonstrated last year, it should have a good season. "Consistency has to be the key for us this year," Caras said.

On Aug. 26, about 40 prospective players were present for the first day of double sessions. The sessions consit of two two-hour practices. Running, drills, and scrimmaging take up most of the practice time. The sessions are held primarily for conditioning purposes.

The fron line looks extremely strong with Lennis Kraicer and Bruce Jennings on the wings. Both players have good feet and excellent crosses. Jennings played right wing on last year's team.

Carson Milgroom and Mike Stoller, a fine-looking sophomore, are expected to see much action as inners. Milgroom has a hard shot and lots of determination. Stoller has been impressive during scrimmages.

Other forwards expected to see action include Dan Braverman and Mark Seeto.

There is a lot of depth at the halfback position. Mike lafferty, a standout on last year's team will be in the middle. Mike Kan, a skillful player who was used at inner last year, has been moved back to halfback.

Howie Appelstein, a rugged, gutsy player, and Brian Levey, a fine junior varsity player last year, should also see action.

Ron Litwin and Jay Labourene are two other halfbacks who will be vying for starting berths.

The fullback line also has a lot of depth. Ray McKinney, who had a fine season last year, returns as a definite starter. Jim Young, a halfback a year ago, is another probably starter.

The remaining fullback position will be filled by either Peter Castelanos, Jay Reubens, Mark Shuster, or Corey Rosenfeld. All of these players should see a lot of action.

Returning in the goal this year is John Bamel, who had a fine season a year ago. Last year was Bamel's first playing soccer, and he showed much improvement during the season. Bamel will be backed up by Lennie Kraicer.

The junior varisty is out to repeat last year's fine season. The team is led by Coach Mark Beaton, a soccer standout from Lincoln-Sudbury.

On Friday, Aug. 30, the Lions defeated Boston College High School, 1-0, in its first scrimmage. Kraicer scored the lone goal on a shot which went into the top right hand corner of the net. Appelstein, Rosenfield, Kraicer, and Levey looked impressive in the scrimmage.

The team had three more scrimmages scheduled for this week.

N.A.A. Lions lose to Norwood

The Norwood Blue Devils and halfback John Chislom soundly beat the N.A.A. Lions 26-6 in a non-league encounter Saturday at Newton Highlands Playground.

Chislom scored on runs of three, five and 45 yards. Quarterback Steve Salvatore scored the final T.D. on a one-yard bootleg in the last minute of play.

The Lions scored on the first series of downs following the opening kick-off.

On a third down four from the 45, fullback Paul Butters went off left guard behind Bill McGary and Tony Amicangioli for a short lived 6-0 lead.

Norwood came back in its first series. Chislom capped a 65-yard drive with a three-yard burst and also scored the conversion for an 8-6 lead.

Norwood scored in the second period when Chislom turned right end for a five-yard score and a 14-6 lead.

Newton was assessed 15 yards on the following kickoff putting the ball back to the 25. On second down five, halfback Rich Filler came over right guard for a 75-yard score, but it was nullified by a motion penalty.

The game was iced in the third period when Chislom scampered 45 yards for a 20-6 Norwood lead.

The Leions will prepare to host the big and burly Framingham Tigers who are the pre-season south shore pick. The Lions will go all out to beat the Tigers in preparation for their season opener against Brookline the following week.

The Framingham game will start at 1 p.m. this Sunday at Newton Highlands Playground.

WARRIORS BUY BRACEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors made their second transaction in as many days Wednesday when they announced the purchase of guard Steve Bracey from the Atlanta Hawks.

Bracey, 6-1, a two-year veteran from Tulsa, averaged 7.3 points per game with the Hawks last season.

On Tuesday, the Warriors sent veteran center Nate Thurmond to the Chicago Bulls in exchange for Clifford Ray, a first round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Former Patriots surface in World Football League

By HOWIE APPELSTEIN

The last time the New England Patriots had a winning record was in 1966 when they were the Boston Patriots in the American Football League.

That year, the Pats posted an 8-4-2 mark, and finished a game behind the Buffalo Bills in the Eastern Division. Who can forget the ferocious front four of Houston Antwine, Jim Hunt, Bob Dee, and Larry Eisenhauer?

Offensively, the Pats had Jim "Big Bo" Nance to run the ball and Gino Cappeletti to catch Babe Parilli's passes. Cappeletti was also one of the best field goal kickers in the league.

And one more thing. Didn't a guy by the name of Buonticonti play middle linebacker?

Since then, it has been down hill for the Patriots. In eight years, the Pats have had five coaches, not one of them ever enjoying a .500 season. The closest the Pats came was in 1971 when rookies Jim Plunkett and Randy Vataha led New England to a 6-8 record.

So you have to figure that any player who gets cut from the Patriots does not have much chance of playing anywhere else. At least that was the case until the World Football League came along this year. There are now 25 former Patrio castoffs playing in the World Football League.

The Houston Texans have the most ex-Pats on their roster, seven. The Texans' defensive backfield includes two ex-Patriots in Darryl Johnson and Art McMahon. Johnson was released by the Patriots just prior to the 1973 campaign while McMahon was given his unconditional release this past winter.

Both of the Texans' quarterbacks are former Patriots. Don Trull, a former Houston Oiler as well, was cut in 1968. Mike Taliaferro, the Texans' number one quarterback, spent a difficult season with the Pats in 1971. Taliaferro was on the bench all year and did not get into a single play during the season.

Taliaferro is well-travelled, having also been cut by the Cincinnati Bengals, Buffalo Bills, and Washington Redskins in recent years.

The Texans' starting fullback is Jim Nance. Nance led the American Football League in rushing in 1967 and 1968, but was not too effective after that. Nance was put on waivers during the 1972 exhibition season.

A starting halfback at Houston is ex-Patrio Paul Gibson. Gibson played briefly in 1973 before Boach Chuck Fairbanks placed him on waivers midway through the season.

The other ex-Patrio on the team is halfback Blanks. He was given his unconditional release after the 1970 season, and is now the Texans' second string halfback.

One of the most popular players to play for the Patriots in recent years is now a member of the WFl's New York Stars. Bob "Harpo" Gladieux was a reserve halfback for three years until being cut after the 1972 season.

Gladieux never scored a touchdown in the National Football League, but has already scored 11 times for the Stars this season.

The Stars have two other ex-Pats in quarterback Tom Sherman and defensive lineman Lloyd Voss. Sherman played in Boston in 1968, but was cut the vollowing year. Voss was cut last year after a brief tryout during the exhibition season.

The Jacksonville Sharks have two ex-Patriots in defensive lineman Isaac Lassiter and Arthur May. Both Lassiter and May played several years before being released early in the 1974 exhibition season. May was reportedly let go because he failed to pass the Patriots' physical, Lassiter, who is 35 years old, apparently did not figure in Fairbank's rebuilding program.

Philadelphia Bell quarterback Jim Corcoran was a Patriot for one game in 1967. The "King," as he is called, was given a chance at quarterback by Coach Mike Holovak in the last game of the season. The "King" did not last oo long as he was taken out after reportedly failing to follow the plays that Holovak sent in.

The Birmingham Americans have ex-Pat wide receiver Hubie Bryant. He started out the season with the Detroit Wheels, but was traded to Brimingham for a draft choice. Bryant was placed on waivers by Fairbanks last year after two years with the Patriots.

The Portland Storm has two obscure former Patriots. Linebacker Marty Shottenheimer was a Pat for two years before being axes in 1972, and tight end Clark Hoss was a 1971 draft choice and a member of the Patriots' taxi squad that year.

The Storm could have the services of a very fmous Patriot, Jim Plimkett, in 1976. Plunkett reportedly negotiated very seriously with the Storm management this past summer.

The Southern California Sun has linebackers Ed Philpott and Ken Lee. Philpott was a starter for the Patriots for five years until he was let go in 1972. Lee played in a few exhibition games last year before being cut.

The Memphis Southmen have two players who have not played in the Patriots' organization since 1966. John Huarte has played for about eight teams since then, while Justin Canale has reportedly not played since 1966. Canale is now starting in the offensive line for the Southmen.

The Florida Blazers have two ex-Patriots in defensive back Ricky Harris and linebacker Billy Hobbs. Harris was a three-year starter until being cut out by Fairbanks last year. Hobbs played in 1971.

Two other ex-Patriots in the World Football League are wide receiver Charlie McKee, who was cut in 1973, and linebacker Greg Slough, who was cut in 1972. McKee plays for the Detroit Wheels while Slough is employed by the Hawaiians.

By the way, what happened to Kim Hammond?

MATUSZAK VS. OILERS

HOUSTON (UPI) — John Matuszak faces the entire National Football League'sdHouston Oiler team and coaching staff today trying to prove his right to defect to the World Football League's Houston Texans.

It's really up to the Oilers to show cause before state District Court Judge Arthur C. Lesher why the 6-foot-8, 285-pound defensive tackle should be held to his four-year Oiler contract.

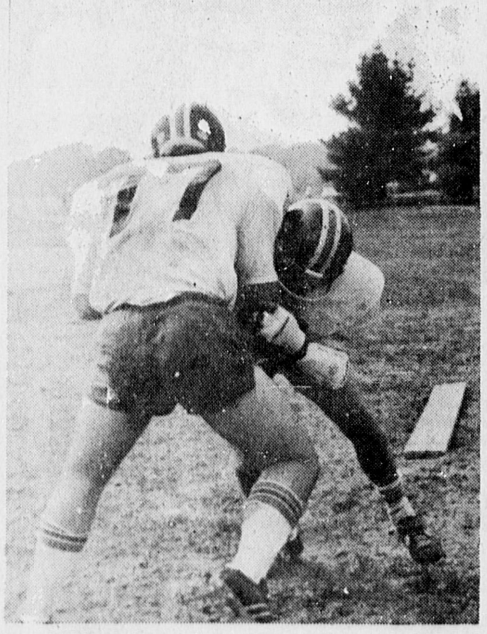

Matuszak was served with a temporary restraining order last week in the middle of the Texans-New York Stars game. Lesher must decide whether to continue that order as a temporary injunction, thus preventing Matuszak from playing for the Texans until the Oiler contract can be tried later on its merits.

The Texans have subpoenaed the entire Oiler team, management and coaching ngaff to give testimony regarding their contracts.

Five lettermen return to North cross-country

By TOM HIGHTOWER

Newton North cross-country Coach Joseph Connolly is optimistic about the upcoming season.

Last year, Newton's varsity has a 4-4 record while the junior varisty was 5-3. This year, there is a strong nucleus of five returning lettermen and two outstanding sophomores, Duncan Scott and Howard Pearce. Barring a plague of injuries, Newton should be one of the better teams in the Suburban League.

Connolly has had his team working hard since the first practice on Aug. 27 to prepare for a tough Waltham team, Newton's first regular season opponent. Workouts have consisted of time-trials, distance work (10 miles or more), and speed work (quarter-miles or half-miles).

Connolly hopes to arrange some practice meets with Framingham, Needham and Natick.

Returning lettermen include Jon Black, Owen Kupferschmid, Tom Hightower, John Carleo, and Mike White.

Other members of the squad include Andy Klubock, Paul Syphers, Mark Laredo, Richard Schilder, Allen Yun, John Demeo, Pearce, and Scott.

Breton plays in all-star game

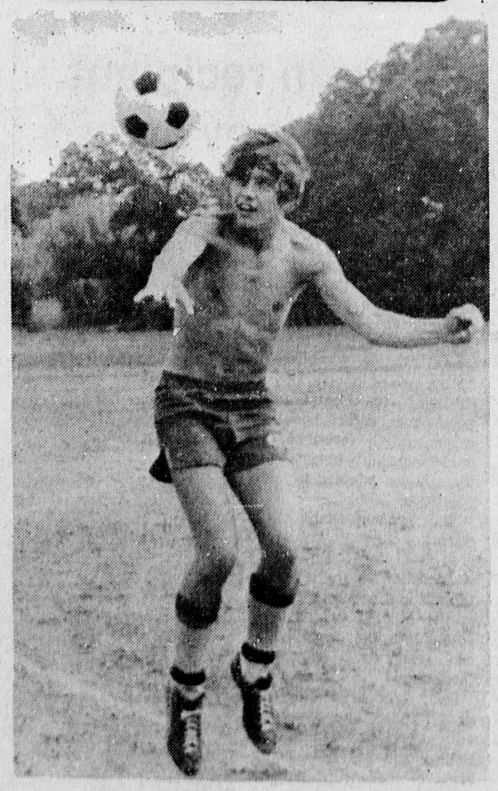

Gary Breton, 18 Falmouth Rd., West Newton, was a member of the victorious South team in the 13th annual Harry Agganis All Star Football Classic which was played at Bertram Field, Salem on Aug. 16.

The South team won the game 19-0, the first time the North team had been shut out.

Breton played at the left linebacker spot, where he played for Norm Walker's Newton North team this past year, and was a member of the Suburban League All Star team.

Breton was also a member of a 25-player Massachusetts football team under the direction of the American Sports Ambassador Program which toured Ireland and England this past spring.

He will attend Northeastern University this fall.

WHAT'S IN A NAME???

Why All The Exitement About The New Names For Meat Cuts?

It will reduce the number of names used from 3,000 to approximately 300. This will help simplify meat shopping. In an effort to minimize confusion during the "change-over", we will also use the old name for advertised items. If you have any questions, don't hesitate to ask any of our meat personnel. But please be patient if we cannot answer right away — the names are just as new to us as they are to you.

Richard qualifies for council

Howard J. Richard of 71 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill, has qualified as a member of the President's Council of New York Life Insurance Company.

The President's Council is composed of the top 500 agents in the company's field force of 9,300 throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. Membership is based on 1973-74 sales records, according to William F. Leisman Jr., general manager of the Boston office.

Richard is also a qualifying member of Million Dollar Round Table.

Home gardeners often make the error of planting vegetables too thick. When this occurs the plants should be properly thinned for maximum production.

ACTIVITY AT THE CENTER

Newton Children's Center moves into Temple Reyim

The Newton Children's Center, formerly the Grace Church Nursery School, is moving to Temple Reyim, 1860 Washington St., Auburndale.

The school will be using two classrooms and an adjacent hall in the modern educational wing of the temple. The outdoor play area is next to woods and a golf course.

The school is also extendng its hours of operation to 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Children may also be enrolled for the shorter morning block of 9 to 11:30 a.m. and for three to five days per week. Other time arrangements may be made depending upon enrollment. The school year runs from mid Sept. to mid June. Children from 2½ to 6 may attend. Maximum enrollment will be 20.

The school has been a pioneer in the development of a program for integrating children with special needs. With funding provided by the Dept. of Mental Health and the Office for Children, it has hired trained staff for the past three years.

An open and flexible classroom which allows each individual to develop his or her own creativity and style of learning within the limits of respecting the rights of others is mainted. Activities include: role playing through puppets, dolls, dress-up and other dramatic play; opportunities to experiement with many types of art media, including clay, paint, and carpentry; music and dance, including singing, playing musical instruments, creative movement, and listening to records; many kinds of sensory experiences such as water, sand, and corn meal play; climbing, jumping, and tumbling; cooking; and occasional field trips. A mid-morning snack and a light lunch (for those staying over the noon hour) is provided.

Joanne Williams has directed the school for the past seven years. She received her masters in education from Andover Newton Theological School and has taken a number of other graduate courses and workshops. She is serving in leadership roles in both professional and community organizations.

Rosemary Kamal, the head teacher-therapist, has a masters in education from B.U. Her experience includes being a therapeutic teacher for the B.U. division of Psychiatry, a counselor at the Children's Unit of Met. State Hospital, and teaching in other pre-school environments.

Other qualified staff will be added as needed.

Consultation services are provided by the Newton Guidance Clinic, the Dept. of Mental Health and B.U. School of Education.

The school year beins with home visits by a staff member. Regular individual parent conferences are scheduled for twice a year and held more frequently as the need or desire arises. Work parties, educational programs, and social ocasions are planned with and for the parents. Family-program interaction is valued and encouraged.

Interested parents are invited to call the director at 244-6996 for more information. They are also welcome to visit the school after it opens in mid-September.

Art work by Renee Collins to be on exhibit in Marblehead

Woodcuts, paintings, collages — travel scenes, nature studies, abstractions — all will be represented in an exhibition by Renee Collins of Newtonville and Beej Dolnick of Marblehead at Gallery 2, 2 Market Square, Marblehead for two weeks starting Tuesday, Sept. 3. The hours are 1-5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday.

Ms. Collins' works deal abstractly with different aspects of nature, including an "Inner Bark" series, and her media of woodcut, paint, pen and ink, and collage allow for different approaches to her subject matter, while maintaining a balance of movement, color and composition.

Beej Dolnick is showing paintings, collages and sketches of European and local scenes. Much of her work, too, is rooted in nature, as whown by a series of bright, bold images of rock formations. Her travel sketches are more realistic, rendered with emphasis on color and geometric shapes.

The public is invited to a reception at Gallery 2 on Sunday, September 8, 2-5 p.m.

Registration for YMCA classes to begin Sept. 9

The Newton YMCA has announced that Sept. 9 is the date registration will begin for all youth educational classes.

Everything from the children's music theatre to sewing will be offered to children of all ages.

Beginning its 14th season, the children's music theatre teaches children of varying abilities the fundamentals of music, dance and acting so that they may be part of a complete production at the end of the 12-week class.

Mrs. Hilda Moses will head the program, which consists of a primary company — for children 5½ to 8 years old — and an intermediate company for those 9 to 13 years old.

Children 13 to 17 interested in the more serious aspects of the theatre may be part of the junior dramatic workshop, taught by former Warner Bros. Studio dancer John Duane. Theatrical instruction, from diction to stage presence, will be included in the program, which also concludes with a production after 112 weeks. A sellout performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" ended last spring's class.

The crafts program will once again feature four different classes, each tuaght by long-time "Y" instructor Tobey Hirsch, a graduate of Carnegie Mellon University.

For boys and girls 8 years old and up, there is a painting class which teaches students about color theory as they work in oil, tempera, and water colors.

For further information about youth classes, most of which are open to members and non-members alike, people may call the Newton "Y" at 244-6050.

Jack Mikels talk show to be on Sunday nights

Newton's Jack Mikels is moving his weekend talk show, DIALogue, from Saturday to Sunday nights from 8-10 p.m. The move will give WBOS (FM-93) a full Sunday night of talk, including Sportscope and the Ken Mayer Show.

Mikels, a 1970 graduate of Newton South High School, originated and has hosted DIALogue since May, 1973. A political talk show, Dialogue takes listeners' phone calls and occasionally features in depth interviews with news personalities. Recent guests have included House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, Congressman Robert Drinan and columnist Jack Anderson.

Among the show's credits are an exclusive interview with Bernard Fensterwald, Watergate attorney for James McCord, and a broadcast interview with Air Force Major Hal Knight, who revealed the secret Cambodian bombing.

Mikels has worked in the Boston media for four years. In 1971 he served as producer to WMES's Steve Fredericks Show. The following year he moved to WEEI, where he produced some of that station's talk programs. Currently, he works as a sports reporter for CBS Radio and a news writer for WEEI, and as producer of the Soxline program at WBZ-TV.

Nature's Ways

By WAYNE HANLEY
Mass. Audubon Society

The sudden wave of death that wiped out almost all young birds in a Cape Cod common tern colony this summer indicates that there still is a lot to learn about these sea swallows or mackerel gulls.

The debacle struck the tern breeding colony on Jeremy's Point in Wellfleet. Dr. I.C.T. Nisbet, who heads field research into tern problems for the Massachusetts Audubon Society, witnessed the unexpected die off.

"There were 1500 young terns in the colony," Dr. Nisbet said. "About 100 of them progressed to the point where they could fly. At about the same time, all other young in the colony just sat there on the beach and died.

"Death among young terns is not uncommon. But this is the first time we have witnessed such a die off without any clue as to why it happened. In years when fishing is poor, many young terns die because their parents cannot find enough food for them. But these young birds were fat.

"We have had pathological examinations made and no disease was found. The pattern of death did not indicate chemical or pesticide poisoning. The whole thing still is a complete mystery."

Several of the tern bodies were collected and the search for clues continues.

There are four species of terns along the New England coast and three species are doing very badly while one has begun a slow comeback. The least terns, the small terns with yellow bills and white foreheads, hit a low ebb about five years ago but now are recovering. The Massachusetts population of least terns is estimated at about 1200 pairs.

Common terns which were estimated at 9000 pairs in Massachusetts five years ago had declined to 6000 pairs this summer. Roseate terns, which have black bills in the breeding season and commonly fly farther out to sea than other terns when fishing, have dropped about 50 percent in five years and now are down to 2000 pairs. Part of their decline locally was caused by a major defection of Massachusetts birds to Long Island, N.Y., colonies.

Arctic terns, which use Massachusetts as the southern rim of their breeding range, seem to be in the worst condition of all terns here. Their population of 300 to 400 pairs five years ago now has dropped to 50 pairs.

"Most Arctic terns along the Massachusetts coast now are old birds," Dr. Nisbet said. "Some are over 20 years old, according to their bands. They seem to lack the deep urge necessary to keep them feeding their young. Perhaps it is something akin to senility."

Part of the four species' difficulty comes from a lack of options. Given a choice, terns prefer to breed on offshore islands where ground predators are few. The recent population explosion among herring gulls and great black-backed gulls has forced terns from most of the desirable islands.

Choral Society rehearsals on Sept. 9

The Wellesley Choral Society, sponsored by the Wellesley Recreation Commission, will begin rehearsals for its 1974-1975 season on Monday, Sept. 9. The group rehearses every Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the choral room of the Wellesley Junior High School on Donazette Street. New members are welcome to join at this time.

Singers are welcome in all sections, but especially the men's sections. Members must be at least of high school age. Although sight reading is not required it is helpful when learning music.

Keith L. Phinney will be returning for his eighth year as director of the group. He has announced that the chorus will perform "Judas Macabaeus" by Handel at its major concert in March.

Mrs. Annette Der Sarkisian will return as accompanist for the chorus.

President of the Wellesley Choral Society is Mrs. C. William Allen.

Those wishing more information may contact Membership Chairman, Mrs. Clayton Paltrineri, at 235-0736 or Mrs. Allen at 237-2673.

A&P announces this new state-wide program to help consumers better identify the retail cuts of meat. Our new label identifies the KIND OF MEAT, THE PRIMAL CUT, THE RETAIL CUT. While some of the names have been changed to conform to the uniform standards, the meat cuts at A&P remain identical...the trim is the same...the quality is the same...our high standards are the same. This uniform identity program will aid you in being a better informed shopper.

In addition to helping you identify cuts, the plan also aids in selecting proper cooking methods. If, for example, the label shows a cut to be a steak or roast from Beef Loin or Beef Rib, dry heat cooking methods such as roasting, broiling, and frying are recommended. For most other beef, moist cooking methods such as braising or cooking in liquid are recommended. Of course, the label also includes the net weight of the meat, price per pound and total price to complete our full disclosure meat program.

How to understand our new meat labels...

1. The kind of meat (BEEF, PORK, LAMB or VEAL) is the listed first on the label.

2. The primal cut (CHUCK, RIB, LOIN or ROUND) is listed second. The primal cut tells where the meat comes from on the animal.

3. The retail cut (POT ROAST, SHORT RIBS, PORTERHOUSE STEAK, etc.) tells you the name of the retail cut.

4. The net weight of the meat (which does NOT include the package) is expressed in hundreths of a pound. For example, 3.50 is 3 pounds and 8 ounces. 2.75 pounds is 2 pounds and 12 ounces.

Hanscom to play in New England Open

Dick Hanscom of Charles River Country Club Newton Centre will be among the field of top New England talent competing for the title and prize money in the New England Open to be held September 8-11.

Literally a "Who's Who" of New England golf is expected to compete in the four-day event, comprised of a Sunday Pro-Am with 32 pros captaining teams, and then the 54-hole main event, Monday through Wednesday, with the strongest field of the season in the six-state region this side of the Hartford Open or Pleasant Valley Classic. The tournament will be co-sponsored by the NEPGA and Mount Snow.

The tournament may determine the winner of the NEPGA's annual Skp Wogan Award, given to the section's player of the year.

Charles Volpone of Nashawtuc CC in Concord, Mass., leads the Wogan competition heading into the New England Open. He is seeking his fifth straight Wogan Award, perhaps the most coveted individual recognition an NEPGA pro can gain. Volpone this year has won the New England PGA Championship and the Vermont Open.

Right on his heels in the Wogan competition is three-time NEPGA titlist Ross Coon of Indian Ridge in Andover, Mass.

And they are closely followed by Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., Maine Open champ Paul Barkhouse of Stoneham, Mass., and New Hampshire kingpin Joe Carr of Holden, Mass.

"Winning is what we play in tournaments for," said Coon, already established as one of the sections finest players in its history. "And now we have two things to shoot for at Mount Snow: winning the championship and the $3000 that goes with it, and winning the Wogan Award. To most of us, I think they are of equal importance."

Demonstration held at Gath Pool

On Friday, Aug. 23, the Gath Pool held an aquatic demonstration. Students in the Red Cross swimming program demonstrated some of the skills they learned this summer and also participated in an end-of-the-year race.

The instructional staff worked with over 300 children and adults this summer, giving them beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, adult life saving, and diving lessons. The staff consisted of Bill Walsh, head instructor, a junior at Suffolk University; Lenny Bacevicius, a freshman at Suffolk University; Donna King, a junior at the University of Massachusetts; Sue Gordon, a freshman at Westfield State; and Marge Bornstein, a first-year law student at U.S.C.

Jose Pepe, a diving instructor, and Roger Johanieiman began the diving exhibition with many difficult dives including a three-and-one-half front somersault and an inward one-and-one-half somersault with a full twist. The diving demonstration concluded with a wide variety of dives by members of the diving class.

The race results were as follows: beginner I candy toss: tie; beginner II 20-yard crawl: first heat - 1. Cheryl Luce 2. Bill Luce; second heat - 1. Ann Louchetti, 2. Ricky Rooney, 3. Dominic Vitone.

Advanced beginner 50-yard medley (25 yards crawl, 25-yards, back stroke): 1. Ray Hodgodon 2. Marie Wentzello, 3. Laura Baeringer; Intermediate 50-yard medley: 1. Elizabeth Serooc 2. Lisa Waldvosel, 3. Greg Wing; adult inner tube race: 1. Joyce Beatty.

Among the group watching the day's events were Russell Halloran, recreation commissionera; Frank Shea, maintenance supervisor; Frank Towle, recreation supervisor; Roger Lehrberg, pool manager; and John F. Walsh Sr., night and weekend manager. The program would not have been possible without the assistance of the pool's maintenance men, Dan O'Brien and Bernie Mathaisel.

Fort Adams, a historic bastion overlooking Newport, R.I., harbor, has been rededicated as a state park and public historic site. It was built in 1824 to protect the inland areas against invasion, but a shot was never fired in anger.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency took 74 enforcement actions against violators of air, water and pesticide laws in the six state New England region during fiscal 1974, EPA said.

Evel Knievel's purpose behind canyon jump . . . "to prove I'm for real."

It took Evel Knievel 25 years to work his way up from jumping two burning garage doors on a bicycle to attempting to hurtle the Snake River Gorge on a rocket-powered "sky cycle" next month.

To hear Knievel tell it, the gleam of the ultimate stunt was in his eye when he was 9 years old and still called Robert.

A stunt driver named Joey Chitwood came to Knievel's hometown of Butte, Mont., and jumped over a car at a local track. So the youthful Knievel decided to try it himself.

"I went home and I tore off one of the garage doors and made a takeoff ramp out of it and rode my bicycle off the edge. I called my younger brother and we talked it over and decided that I was pretty good and we were going to put on a show for the neighborhood kids, so we ripped the other garage door off and made a landing area.

"But even that wasn't good enough so my brother got some weeds, got some matches and announced that I will leap through fire. That's when we wound up burning up both my granddad's garage doors."

Now at 34, more than 300 jumps, 11 crashes and 50 broken bones later, Knievel is ready to end his daredevil career with one last, seemingly impossible, jump expected to attract 50,000 people to a lonely stretch of the Snake River northwest of Twin Falls, Idaho. Hundreds of thousands more are expected to watch the jump on closed circuit television.

On Sept. 8 Knievel will strap himself into the 13 foot long "Sky Cycle X-2," build up steam pressure in the rockets and blast off frorn a 108-footlong ramp on the south side of the river gorge. If everything goes as planned, he will parachute to earth nearly a mile away on the other side of the quarter mile wide, 600 foot deep canyon.

Knievel, who makes $100,000 a year jumping over cars, trucks, water fountains and other things on his motorcycle, is fatalistic about what many people consider to be an impossible jump.

"If I splat against the canyon wall, or am killed in a car wreck, or if I just lay down and die an old man, it makes no difference because I'll be getting somewhere quicker where you're going and I'll sit there and have a beer and wait for you," the six-foot-tall stunt driver said.

"If the heater works and doesn't blow up and scald me to death; if the countdown goes right; if the 'Sky Cycle' goes straight off the ramp; if it reaches the proper altitude; if the drag chute system opens; if the 'Sky Cycle' doesn't hit the canyon wall head-on at 300 m.p.h.,; if I can overcome the five-G force and if I get out of the thing—I'll be alive and prove I'm for real."

A promotional firm, Top Rank, says it guaranteed Evel $6 million if the net receipts from the stunt were less than $10 million, and if the take were more than $10 million, Evel would get 60 per cent.

Knievel says that after the Snake River jump he's through with a career that has spanned a quarter century.

Raised by his grandparents in Butte, Knievel dropped out of high school two months before graduation. He also had more than his share of trouble with the police, and invented the name Evel in jail.

"I remember the time I was in the county jail for some capital crime like stealing hubcaps and my cellmate was a guy named Awful Knaufel. I decided I liked a rhyming name, picked Evil and took it up," he said.

He said he changed the I to E "to clean it up a little."

Knievel said he stole his first motorcycle when he was 14 years old.

"We have this blacksmith back home named Wesley Snider and Wesley had this little 125 Harley for sale so I asked him could I test run it and I just took off.

"I kept going until the thing ran out of gas and Wesley never forgave me. I been riding and jumping bikes ever since," he said.

Knievel is a family man, preferring to keep his wife, Linda, his sons Kelly, 13, and Robbie, 11, and his daughter Tracy, 9, out of the limelight.

He also loves the flash and flair of the hustler. On a typical day he will wear his white jumpsuit and $20,000 in jewelry, including a $7,500 gold watch. He limps as a result of his many injuries and uses an ebony colored, silver tipped cane containing vials of vodka, scotch and bourbon. His favorite bar in Los Angeles is Filthy McNasty's. In Montana he likes to hang out at Moose's Tavern in Kalispell.

It was at Moose's in 1966 that he concocted the idea of jumping a canyon. He was drinking "Montana Bloody Marys"—beer and tomato juice —when he spotted a picture of the Grand Canyon on the wall. The more he looked and the more Montana Marys people kept shoving at him, the smaller the gap across the canyon began to look.

He wrote to the Secretary of Interior who, after finally realizing Knievel was serious, vetoed such use of national parks.

In the end, Knievel came up with the plan for the Snake River Canyon jump, leasing the land on the take-off side and getting permits from the Bureau of Land Management, which controls the landing side, and the State of Idaho.

Knievel, who set a record in 1967 by jumping 16 cars parked side by side, also had to find a way to get over the canyon.

It was Robert C. Truax of Saratoga, Calif., who provided the means. Truax designed and engineered a steam-powered, two-wheeled missile with a cockpit. Water is fed into it at a temperature of 720 degrees and then cooled to 700. The steam, when it is released, is supposed to power Knievel at a speed of 300 m.p.h. across the canyon.

To bring the craft, and Knievel, back to earth safely, Truax has designed an elaborate system involving a drag parachute in the rear. A shock absorber has been placed in the nose cone to absorb the impact of the 450-pound rocket.

Besides the technical problems, Truax says the acceleration will cause Knievel to black out for about 13 seconds during flight. This could be dangerous because there are manual controls to be operated.

But Knievel isn't worried, even though a test firing of the first sky cycle ended up with the craft crashing into the Snake River.

"I have five backup systems," he said. "The fifth one is called The Lord's Prayer."

"I believe that 50 per cent of the people don't want Evel Knievel to tame the canyon," he said. "I believe that 45 per cent don't want to see me die either, but they want to be there in case I do.

"And for the other five per cent, well, if I come up against that canyon wall, I can tell you I'll spit right in its face."

Dianna Rigg star of spectacular play

LONDON (UPI) — When Diana Rigg walks regally off stage to end Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," not one member of the audience is in any doubt that we're a long way here from "My Fair Lady."

The spectacular Lerner and Lowe musical put a glossy sentimental overlay upon Shaw's famous story of the common Cockney flower girl transformed into a highborn lady by a professor who teaches her how to speak.

But now there's a new London production of Shaw's play, the first in 21 years. And Miss Rigg, co-star Alec McCowen and Director John Dexter are stripping off the gloss.

Their "Pygmalion" is an entire delight —richly comic, sumptuous to see, impeccably acted. But it is a "Pygmalion" strictly for today.

Even in the first London performance in 1914, which he directed himself, Shaw allowed an ending altered toward "My Fair Lady" sentiment. He left more than a hint that sooner or later, Eliza Doolittle would wind up as Mrs. Henry Higgins.

No more.

"No intelligent woman today would accept that ending," Miss Rigg told an interviewer recently. "Not Eliza going back to being a doormat and being insulted. Eliza is equipped for a life by herself."

When this Eliza and Prof. Higgins return from their ultimate triumph at Buckingham Palace, this Eliza doesn't float about in raptures over how she could have danced all night. She throws his slippers in his face, they have a flaming row and she walks out.

An act later, as this version ends, Higgins rattles off an absurd shopping list and imperiously orders Eliza to buy it for him.

"Buy it yourself," she says quietly. The door slams behind her, and left along on stage, his back to the audience, is a small, thwarted, defeated and almost pathetic Prof. Henry Higgins.

"I rather agree with the critic who said Eliza would go out and do something for women's suffrage," Dexter said.

The odd thing is, this women's lib-era "Pygmalion" is the original original. Dexter went back to Shaw's first script for it. And its ending colors everything that goes before, particularly as McCowen and Miss Rigg play it.

This superb pairing shows signs of becoming the Lunt and Fontanne of the 1970s. They have been together before, at Stratford-upon-Avon and in the National Theater's "The Misanthrope," which Dexter will direct again in New York next year.

Diana Rigg cannot quite disguise her cool beauty under a scruffy flower girl's rags. But she grows so impressively into a still, self-possessed lady that London critics are hailing her as "The Eliza of our time."

McCowen is her perfect foil. His Higgins is a pint-sized Sigmund Freud —bearded hectoring, voluble where she is silent, excitable where she is still. In an utterly complete performance he makes Higgins a kind of repressed adolescent, yet a likeable man worthy of respect.

But the core of Dexter's nearperfect production is Diana Rigg's Eliza — unbending, accepting any humiliation necessary to make her a lady, but pliant only so far. Its heart is its uncompromising ending — Eliza refusing to be overwhelmed, growing into an immovable object capable of meeting McCowen's irresistible force.

"Pygmalion" always had style, and wit, and a lot of home truths. Now it also has power.

ROCK MUSIC

All sorts of rock folks are involved in movie projects lately, but, as might be anticipated, the most thoroughgoing effort was left to the world's premier rock 'n' roll band, The Rolling Stones.

Their "Ladies and Gentlemen, The Rolling Stones" is in many respects a work of stunning technical virtuosity.

The film is a straight record of the Stones in concert, making no attempt to record the "scene" Woodstock-documentary style. It does try to reproduce the "feel" of a major concert, primarily through innovative use of a massive, $50,000 quadrophonic sound system that travels with the film.

Opening with a long sound-only sequence suggesting many thousands of people filing into a huge hall, the movie audience is rapidly infected with the fidgety anticipation common to real concertgoers. A clearly audible "Damn, what're they doing back there?" on the sound track reflects the film audience's vague irritation at being treated like a surrogate concert crowd.

The sound track is virtually perfect, capturing the "live" sound throughout without any of the sacrifice of quality inescapable in the immensity of a real concert hall. And for the first time in memory, here is a film sound system capable of reproducing the raw power of rock.

The songs themselves — mostly of the "greatest hits" variety —were culled from several different Stones concerts. The performances are good without exception and in some cases downright brilliant: "Midnight Rambler," perhaps the Stones' most theatrical tune, comes particularly to mind.

Camera work is generally admirable, occasionally genuinely artistic, as in a lingering shot of Jagger's velvet-clad forearm and bejeweled hand resting decadently on a microphone as he turns to speak with someone behind.

Biggest problem with the film is direction —the manner in which the cameras were placed and used —and this is compounded by the editing. The pictures on the screen all too often blow the illusion of a real concert through extravagant use of close-ups.

Not that close-ups go unappreciated, particularly by those who ordinarily end up in the back of a giant stadium, peering through the haze at brightly clad, antlike figures issuing forth with electric thunder.

But at a real concert, even in the best, front-row seats, one does not stare intently, exclusively at the faces of the musicians, or the fingers of the guitarists or even—believe it or not—at the gyrations of Mick Jagger. More often than not, the eye prefers to take in the whole scene, flicking only occasionally to the arresting detail.

Yet in this film there are not more than four or five shots taken from the point of view of a the "real" audience instead of a zoom lens.

Frank Keaney not wasting valuable time

CHESTNUT HILL — Frank Keaney of 35 Edison Ave., Dedham, is not wasting his time as an undergraduate at Boston College's School of Management.

Frank became involved in a marketing class which last semester decided to do a study on consumer attitudes toward automobile warranty protection. The study is beginning to make national headlines.

According to the 1974 survey of new car buyers, consumers who are economy minded are no longer merely shopping for a car price they can afford; they are increasingly looking at warranty protection as well as gas mileage.

The survey of 651 new car owners in the Boston metropolitan area who bought 1973 Fords, Chevys, Plymouths, AMCs and VWs was conducted by Boston College students under the direction of John Hasenjaeger, associate professor of marketing in the School of Management.

The 1974 study is a sequel to the much publicized 1973 survey on warranties which found that AMC rated higher than other car manufacturers in providing consumer satisfaction both with warranty protection and service.

In both studies, students took a random sample from the Registry of Motor Vehicles computer print-out of new car owners and conducted the interviews by telephone.

According to the 1974 study, AMC continues to show a superior rating with 89 percent of the new AMC owners reporting "definite satisfaction with their warranteis. VW owners ran second with 77 percent reporting satisfaction. Plymouth came in third with 63 percent, then Ford with 58 percent and Chevrolet, last, with 52 percent.

The Boston College study indicates a definite correlation between consumer satisfaction and consumer attention to warranty protection in selecting a car. According to the survey, 68 percent of AMC buyers reported that warranty protection was very or extremely important in their purchase decision. VW was second with 42 percent emphasizing the warranty. Of the others, only 37 percent of Ford, 31 percent of Plymouth and 25 percent of Chevrolet buyers claimed the warranty to be significant in their considerations.

The 1974 study found that buyers who emphasized warranty protection scored higher when tested about what the warranty covered, with an average of 76 percent of AMC owners knowing what their warranty entailed while, in contrast, an average of only 46 percent of the owners of other brands knew what their warranty included.

Males scored higher than females as did owners who had previously owned the same brand. Owners who had used their warranties knew more than those who had not.

The Boston College study indicates that buyers over 55 tend to purchase AMC cars. Buyers under 34 tend to prefer VWs with AMC running a close second. Both the younger and older groups emphasized that importance of economic price, good ras mileage and warranty coverage.

On the question of gas mileage, 92 percent of the new VW owners indicated that this factor was very important in their purchase decision. The more middle-aged, mid-family-life-cycle buyers of Chevrolet, Plymouth and Ford tend to emphasize dealer reliability and car quality.

According to the study, this group ended up being less satisfied with both dealer and warranty performance than the younger and older more economy-minded buyers.

The survey indicated that there are still many car buyers who are brand loyal, who keep buying the same make of car time and again. Ford ranks the highest here, with 65 percent of the owners showing brand loyalty, and AMC ranks the lowest with 28 percent.

According to market analyst Hasenjaeger, "It's too bad the brand loyal people aren't doing the comparison shopping the economy-minded people are. There is no reason why they shouldn't be getting as good warranty protection and gas mileage as the more economy-minded owners."

In Hasenjaeger's opinion, the brand loyal group has to become more consumer conscious.

Despite the number of brand loyal consumers, car manufacturesrs are becoming increasingly conscious of warranty protection, mostly as a result of the publicity over AMC's Buyer Protection Plan.

Within four months of the publication of Boston College's 1973 study on warranties, Ford unveiled its No Unhappy Owners Program. Soon to follow was Chevrolet's Service Supremacy Plan and others including VW's Owners' Security Blanket and Chrysler's Man In Detroit.

The majority of these plans were tied to the 1974 model year and therefore their effectiveness will be more appropriately measured in Boston College's 1975 study.

It is possible, however, that the advertising of these plans during the 1974 study influenced certain buyer expectations and disappointments with their 1973 warranty coverage.

Celts release Artie Williams

BOSTON (UPI) — Veteran guard Artie Williams, 35, was placed on waivers Wednesday by the Boston Celtics.

"We're going with the younger players," General Manager Red Auerbach said in announcing the decision to release Williams, who has been in the NBA seven years. He was with San Diego prior to joining the Celtics in 1970.

The Celts have five backcourt candidates, JoJo White, Don Chaney, Paul Westphal and rookies Glen McDonald and Kevin Stacom. Boston's preseason training camp opens Sept. 19 at the Massachusetts Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay.

Community Theater tryouts

NEEDHAM — Tryouts for Needham Community Theater fall production of "Applause" will be held Sept. 11 and 12, at Newman Junior High auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

In addition to the singing and dancing roles, persons with a talent for acrobatics, baton twirling, juggling,umagic tricks and tumbling are also sought for this show.

An open invitation is extended to all area residents to participate.

Details of audition procedures and aprecis of the lead roles are available by contacting Karen Murray, Tel. 444-2770, 76 Sutton Road.

Boston teachers urged to be cool, calm

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston School Superintendent William J. Leary has asked the city's teachers to exercise "cool, calm leadership" when the city school sstem begins implementing an historic federal desegration order a week from today.

Addressing about 600 teachers Wednesday at East Boston High School, Leary said Boston parents "believe education is the way to a better life and by God we have to keep that faith."

Leary said he expects "some confusion" in implementing the desegregation, under which 20,000 pupils will be bused to schools outside their neighborhoods. There are 97,000 students in the school system.

"The parents and kids will look to you for your reaction," he added. "I look to you for the cool, calm leadership that is so badly needed in a city that is so frightened.

"If you are calm, the kids will be calm and the parents will be calm."

Leary srid the School Department has arranged open houses for parents at schools across the city from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

He said the School Department also has asked teachers and principals to open schools on a voluntary basis Sunday for parents who cannot get to school for a weekday meeting.

"We want a peaceful and safe opening here in Boston and with your help and the help of God we will have it," Leary said.

The meeting at East Boston High is the first in a series the superintendent is scheduled to give before next Thursday in each of the city's six school districts.

Earlier in the day, Boston's 5,000 teachers, having accepted a tentative new contract, reported to work and began preparations to implement the integration order.

At the same time about 250 "transitional aides" attended a 3½ hour meeting at Boston Latin School where they heard speakers from the National Center for Dispute and the Prince George County, Md. school system, which was recently integrated.

The session for the aides, men and women who will monitor schools in their neighborhoods and assist in the integration, was conducted by the school department's Crisis Prevention and Intervention Division.

Training for monitors, who have been hired to ride the school buses and keep order, was scheduled to start today at Boston Latin. There are expected to be a large number of vacant seats at today's session because the school department has had difficulty in finding persons to serve.

LEARY SAID Wednesday that in an effort to fill the vital monitor positions, he has received authorization to increase the pay level.

A member of Mayor Kevin H. White's staff, who has been working full time on the integration program said, "We are having a serious problem with the monitors," but added, "we do not think it's a crisis."

The desegregation order, issued June 21 by U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity ended a 10-year dispute in Boston over forced busing.

Garrity ordered the city to implement a school integration plan drafted by the state Board of Education under a j1965 Massachusetts Racial Imbalance Law. The law had since been modified to prohibit forced busing, but Garrity's order takes precedent over the state law.

Since June Garrity has held a number of meetings with school department officials concerning their progress in complying with the order, which also dealt with the hiring of minority teachers.

On Wednesday, school officials reported to Garrity that they have hired 221 new black teachers, 30 less than the one black-one white hiring formula set in the order.

The officials said they hired too many black elementary teachers, but too few black secondary school teachers. They asked Garrity to allow them to assign the excess black elementary teachers to white schools and to fill the secondary vacancies designated as black with white teachers. The request was taken under advisement.

Quinn-Dukakis truce has ended

BOSTON (UPI) — The "I'm okay, you're okay" truce between Michael S. Dukakis and Attorney General Robert H. Quinn, who heading for a confrontation in the Sept. 10 Democratic gubernatorial primary, has ended in a spate of charges and countercharges.

Neither side wi l admit that the truce —which has given the Democratic campaign a touch of blandness in contrast to the vociferous dueling between the GOP challengers — has ended.

But Quinn Wednesday began distributing leaflets pointing to his differences with Dukakis, according to Quinn aide Lee Nelson. Advertisements stressing the same theme were scheduled to appear today in the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and the Lowell Sun, as well as in 14 weekly newspapers.

One of the pamphlets was labeled, "Bob Quinn was always opposed to forced busing," and explained that Quinn had opposed as a legislator and attorney general. It noted that Dukakis favored the concept as a legislator, but changed his position as a gubernatorial candidate.

"This is precisely the kind of hack politics that we've seen so much of in this state over the last 40 years," Dukakis snapped. "It's going to stop next January."

A Dukakis campaign aide said the leaflets and advertisements were a reflection of "the fact that Quinn has discovered that he can't put forward any positive reasons why the people should vote for him."

The aide the Dukakis camp was "terribly surprised" at the Quinn attack but adde, "We're not going to change our tactics."

The tactics of both campaign organizations to date have reflected an unwillingness to engage in the type of internicine bloodbaths which have left the Democrats unable to offer total supporz to their candidate in a statewide election.

Quinn said as much last week in West Springfield, explaining why he wouldn't debate Dukakis before the Sept. 10 primary.

Nelson emphasized that Quinn's ads were intended to "summarize the differences between the two candidates," and not as an attack on Dukakis. Has the truce ended? "By no means," Nelson said.

Meanwhile, Gov. Francis W. Sargent, on the eve of his televised debate against Republican challenger Carroll Sheehan, announced a $500-million redevelopment project for the Southwest Corridor in Boston — land cleared for construction of I-95, a road Sargent said he would not build.

Sheehan, who favors building the road, said, "the governor is again promising more bread and circus."

Nadeau succeeds Sherer as Marriott Hotel manager

Colin Nadeau

Colin G. Nadeau has been appointed general manager of the Marriott Motor Hotel in Newton, succeeding Lewis M. Sherer Jr., Robert Barrie, executive vice president of the Marriott Hotel Division, announced this week.

Nadeau has been associated with Marriott hotels for the past 13 years and for the past 8 years has been with the Marriott Hotel in Saddlebrook, NJ. He has served as food and beverage director, resident and more recently as general manager of that hotel.

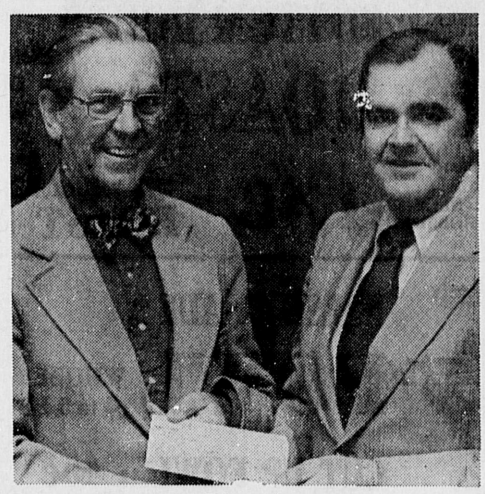

Sherer, who was general manager of the Newton Marriott for the past three years, has been assigned to the New Orleans Marriott as general manager.

A graduate of Michigan State Hotel School, Nadeau began with the Marriott hotels at Twin Bridge and Key Bridge in Washington. He also was associated with the Manger chain as food and beverage manager and served at the Vanderbilt in New York, DeWitt Clinton in Albany, New York and the Manger in Seneca and Rochester, N.Y.

Captain of the wrestling team in school, he was presented the Norton Award as the outstanding wrestler of the year. He is a sports car enthusiast and now has an E-type Jaguar and a 2600 Spider Alpha Romeo.

Nadeau is married and the father of five children: Katherine, 17; Daniel, 15; Mary, 13; Carolyn, 11 and Colleen, 8. He and his family will soon be moving to Dover.

Maine is the most densely forested state in the Union, according to the state Department of Economic Development.

Oceanographer throws bottles professionally

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — The sea lures men and sparks their dreams. Allen Hartwell knows because he answered the call.

Although perhaps his way of going about it isn't everybody's dream.

The lanky professional oceanographer, 29, has turned a barefoot fascination into a healthy respect. And despite the piles of charts, graphs and maps stacked around his carpeted office, the fire for the sea still burns in him.

"The important thing you get is a great respect for the sea. It is a frightening, treacherous place. The more you learn about it the more you come to respect it," he said.

"Maybe it's not as romantic as when you first get into this line of work, but then I still get that thrill pacing the deck as we head out."

Hartwell's work has put him on the receiving end of a lot of other people's dreams about the sea.

During the past two years, he has dumped about 4,000 bottles into the massive Gulf of Maine between New Hampshire and Nova Scotia to study the drift of wind, tides and water. He's been hearing from people ever since.

"Please if you can send me a little information on what you are doing, as I am very interested in my ocean," wrote Tim Clark, a Rye Beach, N.H., beachcomber who found one of the bottles with an enclosed postcard asking that it be returned.

Normandeau Associates, a local consulting firm conducting the offshore experiments, offers a $1 reward for the return of information about where the bottles were found. About 20 per cent of the bottles and seabed drifters used to chart undersea currents are recovered.

"I'm sure in 10 or 15 years we'll get one back from England," Hartwell said.

Many finders reject the reward in exchange for a little information. "Please keep the reward as a small contribution to your work," wrote Donald Ayers of Nashua, N.H. He found a bottle on the beach at Plum Island along Massachusetts' North Shore.

Hartwell has concentrated his drift studies on the waters near the seashore. His company's clients include oil companies and New Hampshire's largest power company, which plans a $1.2 billion marsh-front power plant on the coast at Seabrook.

"The classical oceanographer considers the continental shelf a nuisance," Hartwell said. "It's kind of a twilight zone between the estuaries and the ocean."

Hartwell calls his drift experiments pioneering efforts to trace the flow of ocean currents near the shore. The studies show a "net southerly drift" by the Gulf of Maine, but Hartwell says his experiments also document how vulnerable the near-coastal waters are to wind and storms.

The experiments show an oil spill off the Maine-New Hampshire coast would generally move southward toward Boston Harbor and the Atlantic side of Cape Cod, where Hartwell first became intrigued by the sea while still a boy.

"I always loved the ocean. I think my summers on Cape Cod were a guiding influence for me," he said.

HOOP HIGHLIGHTS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Harvard University will open its 25-game basketball schedule Dec. 2 against Springfield College in one of 10 home games. The Crimson will also appear in three major tournaments: the Volunteer Classic at Knoxville, Tenn., on December 13-14; The Oral Roberts Tournament at Tulsa, Okla.; and the fifth annual Beanpot Tournament in Boston in January.

DeNucci too has been conducting a door-to-door stump of the district and running a generally low profile campaign.

Mrs. Doona, a former Newton assistant city solicitor, never really seemed to get into the race at all.

The other three Newton state representatives, David Mofenson, Peter F. Harrington and Lois Pines, are unchallenged in the primary. Mofenson and Harrington will also be unopposed in the general election while Lois Pines faces token opposition from Independent Letitia Angelone.

Two other local candidates, Guzzi and William Cowin will also have their races decided in the primary.

Guzzi has the support of the ADA and is generally considered to be a political fair-haired boy. Predictions are that he will not unseat Davoren.

Cowin is in the GOP primary race for the attorney general with Charles Cabot and Josiah Spaulding. On the Democratic side, voters have six choices for attorney general.

Locally, Edward F. Harrington and George Sacco appear to be the favorites. Harrington has gotten general Democratic support here, particularly from State Rep. Peter Harrington and Sacco is the favorite in Nonantum.

Observers here also predict Gov. Francis Sargent and Democratic candidate Michael Dukakis will be the winners of the gubernatorial primary and that Thomas O'Neill III will prevail for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Flatley Co. completes sale of 96 unit Braintree condominium

The Flatley Company recently completed its sales program of the luxury condominiums at Royal Lake Village in Braintree.

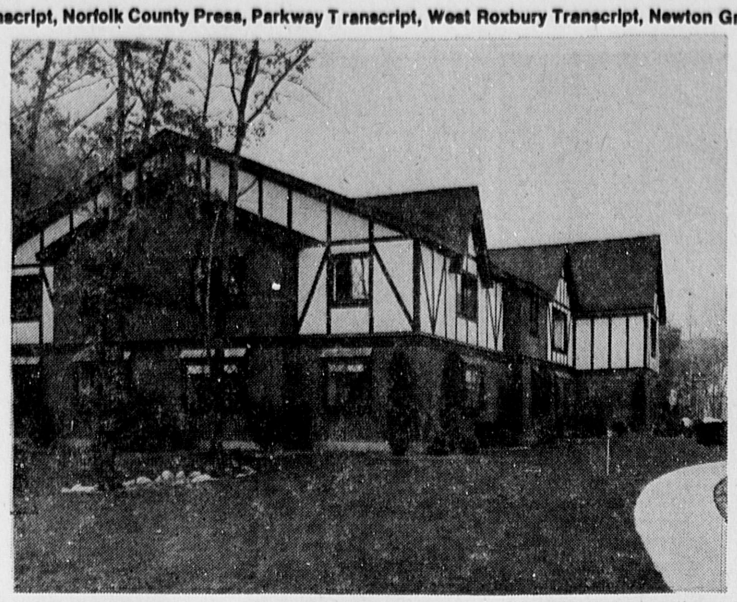

The 96 unit community completed its sales program in record time with little public advertising necessary. In fact, the Flatley Company established a record volume totaling $1 million in sales during the week preceding its opening. The entire condominium community was sold out in less than one year.

Lawrence J. Salters, Jr., executive vice president of the company, said, "Public acceptance in purchasing these units was very high prior to opening the model units and continued through the final sale." Citing the basic design and spaciousness of each unit as well as the location, Salters said, "Due to the rapid pace of sales, unit deliveries by the Construction Division continued unabated from ground breaking to final landscaping."

The 12.5 acre community consists of 12 buildings, a tennis court, swimming pool, and clubhouse facility. Prices ranged from $41,500 to $51,000. Styled after a typical luxurious English country estate, each building contained eight twbedroom units with approximately 1,500 sq. ft. of floor space in each unit. The buildings themselves gave the appearance of being a private home. Special attention was given to preserving the natural beauty of the wooded site. Extensive landscaping contributed to enhancing the beauty of Royal Lake Village.

Built specifically as a condominium, Salters said, "We intend to use the basic design with some further improvement in our new condominium community in Walpole, Massachusetts." We anticipate we will experience even greater success in Walpole than we did in Braintree.

The Flatley Company has purchased the former nine-hole golf course of the Walpole Country Club, and is presently under construction on Phase I of the new condominium community. These units are expected to be introduced to the public the latter part of September, 1974. The firm is presently formulating the decorator package, literature, prices, etc.

Completes sale

The Braintree condominium, part of which is shown above, containing 96 unites, was sold in less than a year by the Flatley Company.

Marshall's opens Leominster store

WOBURN, MASS.—Marshall's, one of the nation's fastest growing retail organizations, has opened a store in Leominster, located on Route 12 at the junction of Route 2 (former Giant Store).

The new Leominster store, which replaces Marshall's store in Park Hill Plaza, Fitchburg, offers the customer a bigger and better location in which to buy brand name manufacturers' overstocks, samples, selected irregulars and retail store stocks . . . quality merchandise that Marshall's offers at savings on an everyday basis, 52 weeks a year.

Marshall's unique concept of savings on brand name merchandise, offers the same brand name clothing and home fashions carried by leading department and speciality stores, at prices up to 60 per cent less.

From a one-store beginning in Beverly, Massachuuetts in 1956, Marshalls has grown to a 26 store chain with stores in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Maine.

In addition to the new Leominster store, Marshalls other locations are: in Massachusetts . . . Bedford, Beverly, Canton, Chelmsford, Franklin, Hingham, Marlboro, Marshfield, Natick, Peabody, Reading, Rockland, Springfield, Tewksbury, and West Roxbury; in Connecticut: Avon, Bloomfield, Cheshire, Danbury, Hamden, Manchester and Newington; in New Hampshire: Salem and Nashua; and in Portland, Maine.

Three-day conference by Christ Church Unity

Dr. Sue Sikking, author, lecturer and teacher, will be the guest speaker at the sixth annual Harvest Retreat sponsored by Christ Church Unity of Greater Boston, at Craigville Beach Conference Center on Cape Cod, September 6, 7, and 8.

Rev. Thomas D. Newman and Rev. Louise J. Newman, ministers of Christ Church Unity, wll direct and participate in the three-day event. Subject of the retreat is "The New World."

Dr. Sikking is founder-minister of Unity-By-The Sea at Santa Monica, California, and has served in the Unity ministry for 30 years. She has had a profound effect on the Unity movement as well as upon metaphysical movements throughout the world. She publishes a monthly magazine, countless booklets, and contributes special articles to magazines, and has authored four best-seller books —"A Letter to Adam," "God Always Says Yes," "Seed of the New Age" and "Beyond a Mircale." She is presently engaged in writing another for fall publication.

Dr. Sikking is an honorary member of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, an honor given her in recognition of her outstanding service to humanity.

Come let us reason together

DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX
"My feeling and yours"

Real feelings are usually concealed. Mine were . . . still are. I ignored them . . . or buried them . . . or skillfully hid them. I've felt lonely . . . very often. I've felt the need to be loved and didn't get it. I've felt a great inner drive to succeed and never felt I had. I've lived in fear of failure . . . in school . . . in profession . . . but didn't dare to admit it. I've felt jealousy and pretended I didn't. I've felt inadequate when my preparation was equal to and often superior to colleages . . . but tonwhom could I say this? I often put myself down . . . compared myself unfavorably with others.

These have been real feelings . . . all carefully hidden . . . repressed. To whom could I possibly reveal such feelings?

As a result . . . I was a real phony . . . but I pretended to be real . . . and good. I said all the "right" things about love . . . family life . . . religion . . . race realtions . . . war and peace . . . importance of education . . . honesty . . . work . . . money . . . marriage. I even worked out what I thought was good practice regarding what to do in time of death . . . my own, when it might come . . . and others. But often these "proper pronouncements" ignored my real feelings. I never reveal it . . . but doubting remarks about me hurt . . . the ones about me personally . . . and professionally. I see how very difficult it is to really be true to one's feelings.

In our sophisticated lives we've skillfully learned to coverup what we really are . . . what we really feel. Others expect us to do it. We're personally afraid not to.

I suspect what I've felt, you feel also.

Why are we so often untrue to ourselves? To our feelings? There are probably many reasons. One is that often we do NOT UNDERSTAND OUR FEELINGS. Some are even frightened of feelings . . . and the expression of feelings . . . of tears . . . laughter . . . fear. Many people have grown up in homes where feelings were not allowed to surface. There is a dull sameness about such persons. You can see how difficult it is for a husband or wife who is sensitive . . . aware . . . knows his-her feelings to live with one who doesn't admit to feelings.

A sedond reason why people are untrue to their real feeling is that we desperately WANT THE APPROVAL OF OTHER PEOPLE. We criticize politicians for talking out of both sides of their mouths . . . most of us do it too in the area of feelings. I know a woman who pushes her husband away if in a restaurant he leans over to touch her . . . and kiss her cheek. "Stop that . . . behave yourself" . . . she'll say . . . "don't you know you're in public." She's uncomfortable with the expression of feelings. Many women . . . on the other hand, would welcome such affection from her husband gr male companion. What's the difference? The focus upon "what other people will think." Of course . . . this falsely assumes that others will disapprove . . . which is not necessarily true.

How do we overcome this slavery to phoniness? This falsity to our true feelings? For one thing . . . "Know thyself . . . and to thine own self be true." We cannot be true to anyone else unless we are true to ourselves.

Secondly . . . look to the joy and experience the thrill of being free to feel and to express your feelings.vOnly when you do can you really be happy. A race horse must run to be happy. An artist must paint to be happy. A musician must compose or make music to be happy. Whoever we are . . . a person must express his true feelings to be happy.

I guess we sum it all up by saying, if I really love myself . . . respect myself then I express my feeling without fear or guilt . . . I am being my true self.

Backyard Frontier

By POLLY BRADLEY
Mass. Audubon Society

I think they call her Mother Earth because they take her for granted.

The family always thinks that Mother is doing the unimportant work. Cooking the food, cleaning the house, washing the clothes, changing the diapers, doing all the little dull essentials that need to be done day by day. She kisses our hurts and makes them well. And she does it free.

It's the same with Mother Earth. She does the unimportant things. She provides food and clean water and clean air. She gives us land to be our home. She washes our dirty mess with her ancient recycling, and gives us beauty and joy free for our enjoyment.

Now what is really important? Easy! Economics! Daddy does the glamorous things. . . like working in a factory or driving a big machine or going to an office every day or flying to Washington on business. And he brings home money, real money! None of this free stuff!

It's the same with big business and big government. They do what's important. . . making cars, building buildings, feeding data to computers, raising interest rates, manipulating wages and prices. Economics! Now that's really important!

Then one day, poor overworked Mother gets sick. Things disintegrate. The kitchen floor sticks to your shoes when you try to walk. The baby gets a diaper rash because no one changed it in time. The family lives on cold cereal and milk. They discover they have to go to the grocery store, or there isn't even cold cereal and milk.

But when Mother Earth gets sick, it takes a lot of medicine to make her well. And if she's overowrked to the point of total exhaustion, there's no one else to take over her work. She's the only Mother Earth we have. No substitute housekeepers are available.

We'd better not let Mother Earth get any sicker than she is right now. As King Midas learned, all the gold in the world is not as valuable as life.

Which is more important, ecology or the economy?

In a family, someone needs to bring home the money and someone has to take care of children and home. Maybe Mother and Father both contribute to both jobs. . . maybe they divide the chores traditionally. But both money and homemaking are necessary.

When only money is considered important, homemaking suffers.

When only the economy is considered important, ecology suffers.

All of us are worried about inflation, about money, about economics. But we mustn't consider economics all-important to the point where we weaken our anti-pollution laws, let the air and water continue to deteriorate, pave over our rich agricultural fields and pastures, strip mine our mountains and plains, refuse to pass land-use measures, and stop taking care of Mother Earth.

Only about 50 independent colleges have closed down

Far more of the nation's independent colleges and universities have withstood the excruciating financial squeeze of recent years than heretofore believed, a state by state study shows.

While estimates of college closings have run as high as 200 per cent, it now has been determined that just 50 institutions out of a total of approximately 1,500 in the United States have actually shut down since January 1, 1970.

Another 15 merged with other institutions since then and it has become necessary to convert six more from independent to state institutions.

The figures and a listing of the institutions were released here today by the National Council of Independent Colleges and Universities, which is allied with the Washington-based Association of American Colleges.

Dr. Elden T. Smith, executive secretary of the NCICU, said that during this same period 26 new independent colleges were begun. Thus the count has only changed by 24 since what has been termed a "depression" befell the campuses.

It was feared that many of these institutions would be forced to price themselves out of the market as soaring costs widened the tuition gap between independent and state-subsidized colleges and universities.

Along with rampant inflation came new costs brought by academic and administrative adjustments to changing demands and conditions. At the same time, growth of the nation's college student pool began to slaken.

"While the cumulative effects could have been overwhelming," said Dr. Smith, "as a whole we've fared better amid the country's economic tumult than some sectors of business."

He termed the surprising resilience of the nation's independent colleges and universities "a testimony to the quality of education they afford and also to the management and adaptability of these institutions." He added that sacrifice and commitment by administrators and faculty alike have furnished a core strength.

"While it still isn't widely realized," Dr. Smith continued, "the evidence shows that today many of these schools are run as efficiently as any good corporation."

He went on to say that while the small percentage of independent college closings brought no rejoicing, there is a mounting tempo of hope fed by record-level financial support by private industry, increased state and federal student aid and the spread of coordination and cooperative planning among independent and state institutions.

To secure the information, the NCICU went to its members in 50 states and the District of Columbia. Individual reports were checked against the Education Directory, published annually by the National Center for Education Statistics of the U.S. Office of Education. To validate the data further, telephone calls were made to individual institutions to determine their status.

However, Dr. Smith pointed out that, despite these efforts, absolute accuracy can't be guaranteed. One of the major problems, he stated, was to identify so-called independent institutions. Also, a number of institutions listed are graduate or professional schools such as religious seminaries, art schools and business schools.

Evel Knievel's daring jump on closed circuit television

When Evel Knievel, the daredevil cyclist, defies death in a rocket-powered "Sky Cycle" on his Snake River Canyon jump, Sunday, Sept. 8, 50,000 persons expect to see it in person near Twin Falls, Idaho, while millions will gather close to their homes to view the vent via closed-circuit television.

Locally at the Boston Garden, doors will open at 3 p.m. The exciting two-hour telecast in color will begin at 4 p.m. and will include additional entertainment by the world's leading daredevil acts.

All seats will be reserved at Boston Garden and are available at the box office.

According to Knievel, he is ready to end his daredevil career with this one last, seemingly impossible jump. At 34, he has participated in more than 300 jumps, 11 crashes resulting in 50 broken bones.

On Sunday, Sept. 8, Knievel will strap himself into the 13-foot long "Sky-Cycle 711-X2," build up steam pressure in the rockets and blast off from a 108-foot-long ramp on the south side of the river gorge. If everything goes as planned, he will parachute to earth nearly a mile away on the other side of the one-third mile wide, 600 foot deep canyon.

Pet Care Corner

WHEN YOUR PET HAS FLEAS
By RICHARD W. BRYANT,
Director of Education
Animal Rescue League of Boston

Once they've found a home, fleas breed quickly, spread through homes and yards and attack pets, livestock and even people.

Prevention is undoubtedly the surest cure for this itchy assault. Daily grooming and inspection, plus limiting your pet's sphere of activity and contacts, is the first step in fighting fleas.

There is still a great deal of disagreement on the merit of flea collars for cats and dogs. Many veterinarians report neck irritations, hair loss and skin infections resulting from the wearing of flea collars—symptoms more discomforting to the pet than the fleas themselves. These problems usually can be avoided though if the flea collar is loose enough to slip a finger inside the collar when worn it is probably the right size.

Once you detect the presence of fleas on your pet, insecticides will be needed to control the infestation, both on the animal and in your home. The kind of flea spray or powder used depends on the kind of pet. Insecticides that contain DDT should never be used on cats or young puppies, so read the label of any product very carefully to determine whether it's safe for use on your pet.

To deal with a serious flea infestation, a bath with luke-warm water and mild spap should be the first step in treating dogs and cats. After thorough rinsing and drying, dust your pet with powder carefully following directions. Cats may object loudly and strenously to this indignity. If you meet with resistance, try placing your cat in a snug cloth bag or pillow case containing flea powder with his head uncovered so he can breathe.

After about fifteen minutes, unwrap and stand the cat on paper. Brush or comb out the dead fleas and powder onto the paper and discard it. It's important not to leave any appreciable amount of flea powder in a cat's fur because it could cause an upset stomach when he grooms himself.

An inexpensive spray or aerosol bomb will get rid of fleas that breed in the home. Carpets and upholstery should be vacuumed before the area is sprayed. Again, always read the label carefully and follow directions particularly in using an insecticide in areas accessible to children and animals.

Volunteers are ending summer duty at the Museum of Science

At Boston's Museum of Science, the term junior volunteer means different things to different people.

To the museum's staff, it means a corps of young people willing and eager to help in a variety of capacities. To visitors, it means friendly, polite teenagers ready to offer directions or assist with a selection in the Museum Shop.

To hundreds of inner city children, it means an exciting time and a friend at the Science Museum. An to the volunteers themselves, it means the opportunity to develop poise while working with the public, take a look at the inner workings of the museum, and gain experience valuable to them in future endeavors.

More than a hundred 14-18-year-olds are now winding up a summer spent guiding small groups of inner city children through the Science Museum exhibit halls, assisting members of various departments in individual assignments, helping with the office work load, and working in the Museum Shop.

Local volunteers included: Holli Scott, Dedham; Alyson Waldman, Needham; Eric Alch, David Bronstein, Dan Bruno, Ted Holl, Steve Karlin and Bruce Miller, all from Newton; and Michael Coffey, West Roxbury.

The Eye Opener program a highly successful endeavor that provides introductory visits to the museum for disadvantaged children who might not otherwise have the opportunity to go to a museum, is the manin concern of the junior volunteers.

Twice a week, as many as 80 carefully trained teenagers take the children through the exhibits, introduce them to a variety of the museum's live animals, and treat them to juice and cookies. The that a museum doesn't have to be a musty, dreary place, and the junior volunteers go home assured that they have broadened their own experience as well as that of their young charges.

Another area in which the junior volunteers are especially valuable is in the Museum Shop. Here, they become acquainted with selling and stock control procedures as they learn to deal with customers.

Chosen on the basis of their enthusiasm and commitment, junior volunteers may show particular abilities that lend themselves to specific responsibilities in other areas of museum work. A number of junior volunteers, for example, are trained to give presentations of the museum's Transparent Woman.

During the school year, junior volunteers restrict their activities to after school and weekend hours. Young people who are interested in joining this program should contact the volunteer office at the museum, 723-2500, ext. 259.

It's car inspection time once more

Registrar David J. Lucey reminds drivers that the Fall Inspection period began Sept. 1 and ends Oct. 15. "Now id the time to have repairs made so that when you present your motor vehicle for inspection it will pass the first time."

4400 official inspection stations located throughout the state are ready to inspect motor vehicles and trailers under the supervision of the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

Before you take your car in, check the registration number with your registration plates to see if they match. If they do not match, go to a Registry office to have a correction made. Also, check the vehicle identification number on your registration certificate with the vehicle identification number which is on the vehicle to see if they match. If they do not match, go to your insurance company or agent for corrections.

The registration certificate must be presented before an inspection will be made and all information must be correct.

The fee for a motor vehicle inspection is still $1.00. (A $2.00 fee for inspection of motor vehicles will become effective January 1, 1975.) The fee for inspection of a trailer alone is still 50 cents.

Items to be checked include: brakes, stop lights, lights, horn, exhaust system, steering gear, windshield, windshield cleaners, number plates, rear windows, tires, fenders, bumpers, external sheet metal, reflectors, splash guards and chock blocks and pollution control systems or devices.

Vehicles passing inspection will have an official red sticker printed in black placed on the windshield by an adjuster after it passes inspection. Motor vehicles failing to pass inspection will be marked with a round rejection sticker.

Country Day School opening September 12

Sept. 12 will mark the 95th opening of Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart.

In preparation for the opening, a workshop was held Wednesday for the entire faculty.

Newton Country Day School is an independent school operated by the Religious of the Sacred Heart who direct schools and colleges throughout this country and abroad. The school in Newton is a day and boarding school (grades 7-12) and serves students across Massachusetts, from other states and from foreign countries.

The faculty workshop was the first official function at which Sister Ann Morgan, recently appointed principal of the school, will preside.

New England Horizons

FARNKLIN, N.H. (UPI) — A killer drought scorched some New Hampshire gardens, but the Turner family plot is still a money maker. It grows bottles.

"With six children, we bought a place with enough land to plant a garden to keep down food costs," says Mrs. Robert Turner. When the family went out back to turn part of their three acre field into a garden, they discovered before it was a field it was a dump.

Turner had just taken a new job as a maintenance man after the family moved here from North Berwick, Maine. Instead of bemoaning their discovery, the Turners turned their "garden" into an asset.

The family was the first owner of the land to try to till the field.

"If they (previous owners) had done any digging, they would have found an old community dump under most of the land," said dark haired Mrs. Turner.

After checking with a neighbor in his 80s and others, the Turners discovered their vegetable garden site was reclaimed from a pond in the 1800s with the community chipping in junk.

The family's weekend gardening project has since turned into a small business digging through the debris looking for artifacts of early America. The vegetable garden has been moved elsewhere.

"I sold a doll head for $25 which I dug up," said Mrs. Turner. "I'm sure no one knew about this old dump or someone would have dug here long ago."

"I work hard cleaning and taking care of the things I find and I hope to make enough selling them to help with the mortgage," she said.

Benefit dance September 27

A benefit dance will be held at the Central Congregational Church Friday, Sept. 27, from 8:15 p.m. to 12:15 a.m.

All proceeds from the dance will be given to My Friends' House Inc. (MFH).

MFH supports and directs a nutrition center for critically ill and malnourished children in Saigon, SouthdVietnam. Its home office is in Newton.

Music at the ance will be provided by the Paul Bacon Four. Refreshments will be served.

The church is at 218 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Bible Society plans luncheon

Lewis M. Foster of Newton Highlands, president of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will preside at the 165th annual luncheon program of the society Monday, Sept. 16 at the Bible House on Bromfield Street in Boston.

The luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Catholic schools to be part of reading project

The Newton Catholic Schools has been chosen as a "Right to Read" site for the school year 1974-1975.

The "Right to Read" effort is an attempt on the part of the private and public sectors to eradicate illiteracy in this country by 1980. One aspect of "Rgith to Read" is to help school sysems upgrade their reading programs in order to insure that the national goal of literacy will be reached by 1980.

Sister Paul Marie Doherty, C.S.J. has been designated as "Right to Read" director for Newton (Catholic) and participated ina 10-day trainng program at the University of Rhode Island in August.

According to Dr. Joseph J. Tremont, state "Right to Read" director, "The purpose of this project differs from the purpose of most in that it seeks to eliminate the possibility of failure rather than to deal with failure after it occurs."

Newton Catholic was one of the twenty-four school systems in the Commonwealth chosen to participate in "Right to Read" this school year.

Freshmen arrive at Boston College

On Wednesday, Sept. 4, 2100 freshmen began arriving at Boston College.

Accompanied by family and friends, they spent the better part of the day locating their dorms, meeting roommates, unloading bicycles, skis, stereos, getting their ID pictures taken, and taking tours of the capus. Orientation activities will continue through Sept. 8. Classes start Sept. 9.

The Class of 1978 is almost evenly divided between men and women (1070 men and 1030 women), although 54 per cent of the 8270 applicants for freshman places were men.

Of the 2100 incoming freshmen, 870 will commute to the University this year and 1230 will reside in University housing with 312 freshman women residing at Newton College under the consolidation agreement (140 of these women will be taking most of their classes at Newton College as well).

Pending the issue of a lodging house permit and the settlement of litigation involving the use of dormitories at former Cardinal Cushing College, 100 freshmen will be housed at the Chestnut Hill Hotel on Route 9 (1.6 miles from campus).

A breakdown of enrollment in the varios undergraduate schools shows that 19 per cent of the freshmen enrolled in the School of Mangement are women this year (up from eight per cent two years ago). In the School of Education, only 16 per cent of the freshmen enrolled are men (down from 20 per cent two years ago). This is the first year that Boston College has witnessed more women going into the School of Management than men going into the School of Education.

Ztracting an increasingly large number of applicants of different religious denominations each year, Boston College's breakdown of freshmen entering this fall shows 55 per cent coming from public schools and 45 percent from parochial schools.

The question of rail versus highway transit

By AUTOMOTIVE INFORMATION COUNCIL

Is rail transit a more efficient form of commuter transportation than buses and cars? The answer is as complex as the country's transportation problem. Many factors such as system capacity, pracicality, cost, and energy requirements have to be taken into consideration.

Each form of transportation has distinct advantages.

Considering just practicality and capacity, rail transit systems have the highest passenger carrying potential of any mode of transportation—between 40 to 70 thousand riders per hour. One rail line can move three times as many people as a three-lane expressway when the system is operating at maximum capacity. However, rail transit is sort of like a rifle shot, of necessity confined to moving large number of people along relatively restricted corridors. Highway and street transportation on the other hand, provide more of a shotgun approach, and are more flexible in meeting the transportation needs.

The problem in most towns and cities is that people and businesses have been fanning out in all possible directions from the central business district, rendering the rifle shot rail system impractical. As a matter of fact, only two of the nine rail transit systems currently operating—New York and Chicago—Carry peak loads that even approach their capacity.

The general concept of rail mass transit is that most people live in the suburbs and commute to the central city to work. The fact is that in our 125 largest metropolitan areas, 36 per cent of the population already live and work in the central city, 34 per cent live and work in the suburbs, 5 per cent work outside the metropolitan area. Only 18 per cent live in the suburbs and work in the central city and 7 per cent live in the city and work in the suburbs, so just 25 per cent of the people could use direct line rail transit service. And the trend, according to experts, will continue to be away from the central business district.

One expert predicts that three-fourths of the urban areas with 100,000 or more population will decrease in density in the next 20 years, and that 23 of the 28 urban areas with more than one million population also will decrease in density.

Future columns will consider costs and other factors relating to the rail versus highway transportation question.

Today in Education

By DR. WILLIAM H. HEBERT
Executive Secretary,
Mass. Teachers Association
"The other silent majority"

Discrimination against women has been widespread since ancient man taught his son to hunt and be aggressive and ancient woman taught her daughter to cook and be passive.

The time for change is now upon us and action is being taken to abolish discrimination against our female population. In Massachusetts, for example, Chapter 622 of the Acts of 1971 prohibits discrimination on the basis of "race, color, sex, religion, and national origin regarding admissions to public schools, benefits, privileges and course of study." This act makes discrimination on the basis of sex illegal, but gives very little guidance as to how the law can be enforced.

On June 5, 1974, the Ad Hoc Committee for Chapter 622 issued a set of Recommendations stating specific discriminatory practices and ways in which they can be remedied. In March 1975, the Board of Education will review the status of Chapter 622's implementation and consider substituting Regulations for Recommendations. The Recommendations are in themselves a step toward equality in education, but their impact would have been stronger had they been issued as Regulations initially.

It is up to everyone involved in education to see that these Recommendations are put into practice. The directives contained in them have been issued to school committees, superintendents, principals, department heads, coaches—and teachers. It is with this last group of individuals that the final responsibility for change rests. Anti-discrimination policies may be established by superintendents and school committees, but it is the grassroots efforts of teachers that will count, for it is teachers, and only teachers, who shoulder the major responsibility for direct implementation of these policies.

Many Massachusetts communities have developed programs to combat sex discrimination in schools. Lexington, Brookline, Malden, Newton, Reading, and Framingham for example, have all tsken steps. A committee has been formed in Malden to understand and implement Chapter 622. As a city-wide effort, the committee will examine the problem through workshops and community feedback. Without 100 per cent support of Malden teachers this promising endeavor cannot succeed.

Let me suggest several ways in which I believe teachers can work towards the objectives implicit in Chapter 622. First, understand that "enforcement activity in individual cases shall be the responsibility of the aggrieved individuals." This policy is more workable on the high school level, but is not always on the elementary. Therefore, teachers must be alert to discriminatory practices, report them and follow through to see that they are changed.

Secondly, teachers must evaluate and re-evaluate their own sexist feelings, because their attitudes influence chiodren's beliefs about themselves and their self-images. Workshops in this area can help teachers assess their feelings as well as teach themhnew ways to eliminate role stereotyping with their students.

Teachers should try to encourage open class discussions to find out how children view their sex roles. Children should learn how to evaluate sex-stereotyped materials and attitudes in order that they can achieve their fullest potential. It is the teacher's job to see that the classroom is not the place that pigeonholes children and defines their roles for them. It is the teacher's job to create an atmosphere where change can occur so that the Department of Education's Recommendations will be implemented before they need become Regulations.

Standardised meat labeling to make shopping easier

The state of Massachusetts and the meat industry have joined forces to make meat shopping easier for consumers. Details of the state's new standardized meat labeling program were announced at a news conference in Boston today. The Uniform Retail Meat Industry Standards regulations go into effect September 3.

The program was developed by the meat industry with the National Live Stock and Meat Board spearheading its coordination.

The Massachusetts Grocers' Assn. is joining with the state Food and Drug Administration in implementing the program. August has been designated "education month" to inform consumers about the new standards before they become effective in September. Retailers will display charts and posters giving a basic explanation of the program in the meat sections of their stores. More detailed information with cooking and serving suggestions, will be available in several consumer publications which will be distributed by the stores.

Dr. George A. Michael, director of the state Food and Drug Administration; Paul D'Amour, president of the Massachusetts Grocers Assn.; David Stroud, Meat Board president and Kenneth Johnson, Meat Board Food Science Division executive director, explained that the program useds a three part label to identify some 315 beef, pork and lamb cuts.

The first part of the label gives the type of meat, the second part gives the primal or wholesale cut name and the third part is the approved retail name.

The program eliminates more than 700 "fanciful" names which had been used in the past to describe meat cuts. These non-anatomical names often caused confusion since one meat cut could have several names and one name could apply to more than one cut, depending on regional variations.

Where a piece of meat had once been called "Delmonico Steak" or "Fillet Steak" or "Beauty Steak" it will now have only one name, Beef Rib Eye Steak.

Stroud said the new program has been called the most dramatic change in the meat industry since the introduction of self-service merchandising.

Although Massachusetts is the first New England state to adopt the program by legislation, retail stores in many other parts of the country have been using the system on a voluntary basis since it was announced last September. Like Massachusetts, several states have adopted the program as their official labeling code. Other New England states are expected to follow Massachusetts' lead in establishing the uniform standards system as official policy.

Security Important

Q. I would like to know more about myself. I was born on May 19, 1946 at 6:30 p.m. on a Sunday in Boston, Mass.

E.S.

A. Your horoscope indicates you can give others an impression of being a sweet, kind, courteous and considerate young lady but you are not likely to neglect or sacrifice your security nor do anything that will cast reflections against your reputation.

While you try to be fair in dealing with others you are apt to react strongly to any attempt on the part of others to put something over on you. Since you have a keen sense of perception and can spot a phony a mile away, you are not easily fooled. Instinctively you sense what others are thinking and this gives you an ability to influence and even control them.

You have an inner drive for power and to dominate but will not tolerate anyone who tries to control or dominate you. Your mind is capable of making quick decisions but there are times when you jump to conclusions without taking enough time to study all the details and facts beforehand.

When you are irritated or your pride offended you are likely to make sharp and cutting remarks. At such times sarcasm may shock those who thought you to be tactful and gracious.

You have magnetism and sex appeal that makes you attractive but not easy to understand where love is concerned. You can be romantic but have peraonal theories about love and sex that can be romantic but have peraonal theories about love and sex that can puzzle others.

Your nerves can influence or affect your emotions and while you need security in such matters, complications and an independent attitude can be disruptive.

CARE opens emergency fund drive to aid African victims

CARE this week launched a nationwide appeal for funds to support its massive emergency aid programs in drought-stricken Africa, and CARE's New England Director, Leon M. Blum, appealed to all New Englanders for support.

"Six years of severe drought have brought about enormous human tragedy in Africa," Blum stated, "and emaciated families in ever increasing numbers roam vast areas in a search for food and water.

CARE is currently on the scene in Niger, Chad and northern Nigeria, and in recent months has provided tons of emergency relief supplies valued at more than five million dollars.

Blum noted that CARE is distributing ready-to-eat survival biscuits, baby food, carbohydrate supplements, food and seed grains, salt, sugar, tea, blankets, cooking utensils, water drums and medical and sanitary kits.

CARE work crews are also digging new wells and deepening old ones by the hundreds to provide adequate supplies of water for drinking and irrigation.

"This CARE aid is part of a worldwide effort by many international agencies and world governments," Blum said. "We ask New Englanders to be generous in their response and send their donations to CARE—African Drought Fund, 120 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02116.

Bluehill Trailside Museum courses

Two natural history courses will highlight the fall program at the Blue Hills Trailside Museum.

"Stalking Unusual and Rare Plants in their Native Habitats" will be a field botany course to different natural areas in Eastern Massachusetts. It will be taught by David W. Eisenberg on wight Saturday mornings beginning September 7. There is a fee; to register call Trailside.

Curry College's fall semester will again offer "Natural History of Indigenous Animals." This course will be taught by Bob Stanhope, Director at Trailside, on Tuesday evenings. This course may or may not be taken for cridit; registration is through Curry College, Milton.

Guided walks with the naturalist staff will continue every Saturday and Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

An added end-of-summer attraction is a nest of bald faced hornets who chose to build their home on a kitchen window. The window and nest were moved fromhWeymouth and can be viewed attached to Trailside's picture window. If you have seen a large, gray papery structure in your yard — come meet the insects that live inside!

The Blue Hills Trailside Museum is located one mile north of Rt. 128 (Exit 64N) on Rt. 138 (Canton Avenue). Public transportation also serves the Museum.

The Blue HillsiTrailside Museum is operated by the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Information from VA

Q—Are Vietnam-era veterans using the current GI Bill for college to the same degree that World War II and Korean Conflict veterans did?

A—College participation rate for the "now" veteran is nearly double the 14.4 per cent rate under the WW II GI Bill, and substantially above the 21.6 per cent rate recorded under the Korean Conflict Bill. The overall rate for college and non-college is higher for Vietnam veterans also.

Q—How can I get this Veterans Group Life Insurance which became available August 1? I understand that I am eligible because I was discharged less than four years ago.

A—Apply within one year to the office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102. Be prepared to provide evidence of good health, except for VA-rated service-connected disabilities.

Q—About six million veterans were released from military service between 1955 and 1966. Is it true that all these veterans now have two additional years to use GI education benefits under recent law?

A—Yes. Those who have not already used their full eligibility have until May 31, 1976. Veterans who pursue farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on-the-job-training ave until Aug. 30, 1977, to complete training. Naturally an other than dishonorable discharge is required.

Back to school means extra care driving

Children throughout the state will soon be returning to classrooms after their summer vacation, some walking—some busing. "No matter what mode of travel they use, it is imperative that drivers be prepared to stop whereever and whenever these children are crossing the roads," Registrar David J. Lucey said today.

It is important that drivers observe the school bus law which requires drivers to stop when approaching a vehicle which displays the sign, SCHOOL BUS and has front and rear alternating flashing signal lamps which are flashing and which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight or board unless the bus is on the opposite side of a divided highway. SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE REQUIRED TO CROSS THE STREET IN FRONT OF THE SCHOOL BUS. Drivers must not proceed until the school bus resumes motion or until signalled by the driver of the school bus to proceed or until the signal lamps are no longer flashing.

Parents and guardians of children going to school for the first time should not allow them to travel alone untul they are positive the children can be relied on to walk safely.

Bicyclists are reminded that they are required to observe the same traffic regulations as motor vehicle operators.

Last year, despite our pleas, 820 children were injured in motor vehicle accidents during the month of September.

Menswear

NEW YORK (UPI) — Back in 1964 British designer Hardy Amies penned these immortal lines as the definition of a well-dressed man: "A man should look as if he had bought his clothes with intelligence, put them on with care and then forgotten all about them."

The statement was in his book "Hardy Amies' ABC of Men's Fashion," written then at behest of a large British manufacturing firm as a guide for young men who wanted to be well dressed when they entered the world of business. Fashion has changed —but the basic principles remain.

We went over the book with Amies at lunch the other day and he roared with laughter at some of the 10-year-old dictates which came out just before the so-called "Peacock Revolution" swept the world from London's Carnaby Street and changed the outlook. Of others he clucked his approval.

"When you read a book written in 1963 (and published in 1964) it's discouraging to see how wrong one could be," he said." But it is encouraging to know how much fashion has moved on in the last 10 years.

"I'm frightfully good on accessories," he said as he leafed through the book. "Very good on shirts. Very good on ties. Very good on socks. And I see I prognosticated the use of jersey (knits) in men's wear. Amazing."

"In principle, your accessories, such as ties and shoes, should be more expensive than your basic suit which, in this way, can achieve some reflected glory from them," he had written.

Of shirts, he said, "This is the most important garment in a man's complete costume after the suit. The rough surface of the wool of the suit relies on the smooth cool fabric of the shirt to provide a contrast, which is also given by the white or pale colors against the darkness of the suiting. Such contrasts of color play an imporant part in the achievement of a pleasing appearance...."

Of ties he had said, "This small article of clothing is of an importance out of proportion to its size...A tie is more than the finishing touch to the costume: it is an integral part of it. You should never choose the cloth for a suit without considering what tie you are going to wear with it."

And on socks: "Nothing can mar the costume more easily...-.It is impossible to be elegant in thick socks....The matching of the socks to the tie I find affected."

He paused then as he came to a reference to bowler hats, or derbies as they are often called in the United States and said, "I was very bad on bowlers when I said they were the smartest thing." He had written:

"The only truly smart headgear for a man, but it can only be worn in London or at a race-meeting. It should be worn either square on top of the head or tilted forward onto the nose. It should never be worn abroad, never by foreigners, and Americans who attempt to do so should be fined."

"There have been great changes since 1964," he said, "and I think that the principal change is what has become a generally accepted costume — jeans and a T-shirt. I'm very good in the book on jeans, incidentally, and on how they will influence clothing in general."

The article on ties is rather archeological, he admitted, since it mentions ties as narrow as one inch. And in reading it, he said, "I find that the principles are unbelievably stuffy in these days, especially the part on wedding attire, and I believe it is time I wrote another one."

Amies, one of the first women's wear designers to become a success in designing men's wear, was in New York to display his 1975 Spring line. Notable was a lack of vents in the jackets. "They went from three inches to 12 and now they will have to go away," he said.

The basic jacket was somewhat shorter than previous models (30 and one half inches instead of the more recent 31 inches long), and the classic suit for 1975 was shown with two patch pockets. There was stitching down the back where the vent used to be. Trousers were 23 inches at the bottom, flared from a knee of 20 inches.

Colors in the spring line ran to pastels —"Not flat pastels, mind you, but with surface interest, twills or a nubby surface. And always in very soothing colors."

Newton Country Players to hold "Pal Joey" auditions Sept. 10, 11

The Newton Country Players will open the curtain on their 19th year of community theatre activity next week with twin-featured festivities including a gala cocktail and hors d'oeuvres soiree and tryouts for their initial stage production of the season, Robergs and Hart's classic Broadway musical, "Pal Joey."

The Players' ninth annual "Theatre Buff Bash" will be held on Sunday, Sept. 8, at 7:30 p.m., at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bertram Krassin, 4 Brandeis Circle, Newton Centre. Chairing the house arrangements committee is Marcia Massimo, assisted by Linda Lourie and Jane Yoffe.

Members, new and old, will be given a detailed progress repot on "Pal Joey" by show director Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill. They will renew acquaintanceship with choral director Ruth Boynick of Newton Centre, and will be introduced to the musical's choreographer and musical director, both new to the Players' staff. A complete agenda of the forthcoming year's activities will also be announced.

Open auditions for 'Pal Joey" will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 10 and 11, at 8 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy Playhouse, 84 Eldredge St., Neton. There are 28 speaking parts including four major female and two major male singing roles, as well as two other large male speaking parts. The Broadway show also features a sizeable cast of singlers, dancers and actors. Auditionees are requested to bring sheet music and complete resumes.

All local residents interested in participating in any phase of the production and in any capacity -- assistant stage manager, house manager, props crew, set designers, set construction, lighting and sound crew, make-up, wardrobe, technical staff, cast or stage crew -- are invited to attend tryout sessions.

Co-presidents of the Playes, Alyn and Lee Pinkofsky, stressed that an earnest effort will be made to place as many as pssible of those attending auditions in some area of the production, which they described as "delightfully racy and romantic."

Performances are slated for Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 15-16, 22-23 and 29-30. The show will be available for programming at reduced rates to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising for Sunday through Thursday bookings, Nov. 14 to Nov. 30.

It will be staged at the Pomroy Playhouse, with its seating capacity of approximately 200. Producers of the play are Margaret Annis of Newtonville and Marilyn Krassin of Newton Centre.

With book by John O'Hara, music by Richard Rogers and vyrics by Lorenz Hart, the show's clever and spicy score features some of the most beautiful, and brassiest, music ever written for a musical comedy, including such popular standards as "I Could Writer a Book," "Zip," "Betwitched" and "You Mustn't Kick It Around."

Marcia Massimo

The plot evolves around Joey Evans, a cheap opportunist, a non-hero and a most unconventional musical comedy character. Glib-talking his way into a spot as MC of a night club on Chicago's south side, he awaits the opportunity to further his own ambitions and interests.

His opening is a chance visit to the club by Vera Simpson, a wealthy fun-loving society matron. Joey overwhelms her and, in the process, stifles a budding romance with a sweet young girl, curtailing what might have proven Joey's sole chance for redemption. Vera showers him with gifts, sets him up in his own pad and provides the backing for a posh night club to further his escalating career.

A blackmail scheme is introduced and runs throughout the balance of the play. In the end, Joey loses the young girl he really loves, he loses Vera, the night club and all. But his vanity and ego keep him kicking and he goes off to try his luck and charm elsewhere.

Founded in 1956, the Newton Country Players is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels.

For information concerning the cocktail party, people may phone 969-9737 or 244-1308; for information about tryouts, people may call 969-3993 or 244-3507; for membership data, people may phone Jim Sloane at 969-2665 or write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159.

Phillip G. Marsh named director of personnel

Phillip G. Marsh of Newton Center has been named director of personnel for MediCo Associates, Inc., management consultants in the health care industry.

He formerly was corporate director of compensation and benefits for H. P. Hood Inc., Boston.

A native of Boston, Marsh graduated magna cum laude from the University of Massachusetts where he received a B.A. in economics. He also received an M.A. in labor economics from Boston University.

He began his business career as an industrial relations analyst for the Wage Stabilization Board, serving in the boards's regional (Boston) and Washington offices.

Marsh then joined H. P. Hood Inc., as a wage and salary analyst and subsequently served as manager of wage and salary administration, personnel manager for the company's Ice Cream Division, and most recently, as corporate director of compensation and benefits.

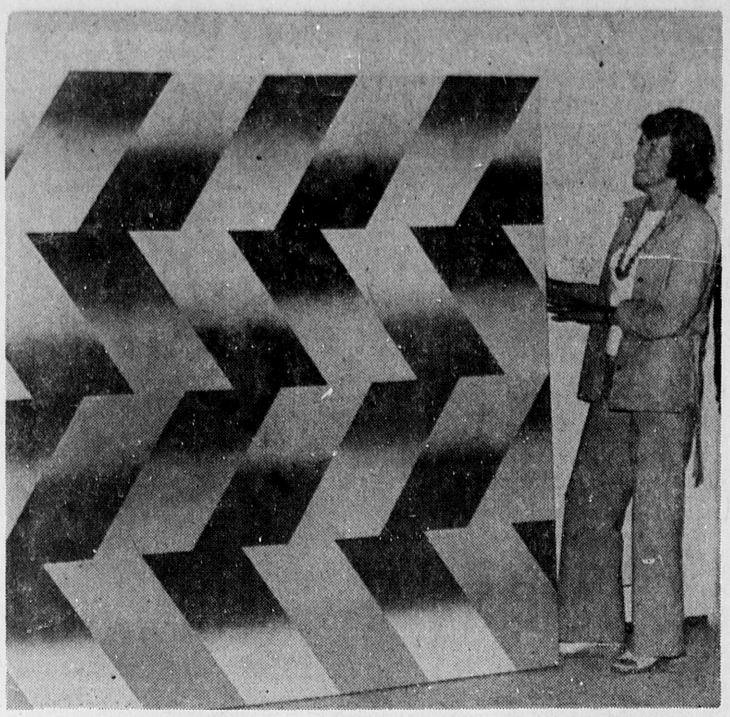

Phillip G. Marsh

Marsh is married to the former Lucille B. Neiterman of Boston, a teacher in the bilingual program of the Framingham School System. They live at 11 Fenno Road, Newton Centre.

The couple has three children, Mitchell, 21, a junior at the University of Massachusetts; Elissa, 19, a sophomore at Brandeis University; and Paul, 9, a student at the Mason-Rice School.

Marsh is a past president of the Newton Taxpayers Association, and a past president of the New England Society for Personnel Management.

He is also a lecturer at University College (Northeastern University).

Musicale

A champagne supper and musicale on the campus of Brandeis University Saturday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m., will open an exhibition of works by recognized artists who are Brandeis graduates. Mrs. Henry L. Foster of Newton is the co-chairwoman of the event that is sponsored by the University and the Greater Boston Chapter of the Brandeis National Women's Committee.

Community development law depends on states, report says

The three-year $11.9 billion housing and community development law signed by President Ford Aug. 22, represents a basic national commitment whose success depends not on Uncle Sam or City Hall alone, but on the states as well, according to a report recently issued by the M.I.T.-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies.

The 50-page report, titled "A Place to Live—Housing Policy in the States" and published in cooperation with the Council of State Governments, "cites the increasing role that the states have assumed over the last several years. As the only level of government adequately equipped to take into account regional land use, environmental and housing problems, the states—once the sleeping giants of the 1950's and 1960's—have begun to reassess and renew their regulatory financing and housing responsibilities.

Bernard J. Frieden, director of the M.I.T.-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies and professor of urban planning at M.I.T., said, "We feel we have identified an impressive range of state activities, extending from direct subsidies to low-income families, and countercyclical financial assistance to creative use of environmental regulations.

"Earlier views of states as sleeping giants, indifferent to the problems of housing and community development have little support these days."

The new federal legislation is the first omnibus housing bill since 1968. It authorizes more local control for the nation's cities by reorganizing seven existing grant programs into a single block grant system. Included in those program are Model Cities, urban renewal and neighborhood facilities.

Arthur P. Solomon, associate professor of urban planning at M.I.T. and associate director of the Joint Center, who was one of the authors of the report, said, "The unique position of the state—midway in the Federal system between Washington and the local community—is a key to moderating cyclical fluctuations in residential construction, enforcing fair housing standards and reconciling environmental and developmental concerns."

The six-year-old New York State Urban Development Corporation (UDC), and the Michigan and Massachusetts Housing Finance Agencie are examples of the country's most successful state programs in financing and stimulating low and moderate income housing."

The report represents the first comprehensive review of the housing programs and regulatory activities of the 50 states. It was co-authored by Nathan S. Betnun, research fellow at the M.I.T.-Harvard Joint Center, and Robert Schafer, faculty associate on the Center's staff and assistant professor of city planning at Harvard. Betnun is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Urban Studies and Planning at M.I.T.

"The extreme diversity of our country—its people and local economies—makes it very difficult for federal action alone to cope effectively with the complex problems of housing and living environments," Solomon commented. "State agencies have proven to be more knowledgeable about local real estate operations, more able to provide rural housing and more suited to assisting minority home buyers in getting a fair deal in the housing market."

His comments were corroborated by a recent report by the United States Commission on Civil Rigts. The report accused the federal government of failing to reduce racial segregation between the "white noose" of affluent suburbs and the deprived, predominantly black central city.

Communities that now resist new construction—both subsidized and privately-built—do so generally through local regulatory powers such as zoning, subdivision controls and environmental impact statements. All of these powers are subject to state supervision, the M.I.T.-Harvard report indicates.

The report makes the point that the problems of slum housing—of physically dilapidated and inadequate structures—is now a far more rural than urban problem. The 1970 U.S. Census documents that 90 per cent of all housing units lacking adequate plumbing lie in rural areas. Lower income and lack of credit are some of the factors mentioned by Solomon, Betnun and Schafer as contributing to the persistence of such problems.

Hawaii, one of the 20 or so states with housing finance agencies, provides another model for urban development through its construction of dwelling units on state-owned land. The housing is being sold to moderate-income families at below-market prices, generally with FHA subsidies. Purchasers may not resell their homes for 10 years, and even then, the profit from resale accrues to the Hawaii State Housing Authority.

The agency cited as most innovative in financing rural housing and housing for the handicapped is the Michigan State Development Authority.

Other states which have overriden local regulatory powers to make metropolitan markets work more effectively include Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania, where the cities of Wilmington, Baltimore and Philadelphia have begun urban homestead programs.

Under these programs, cities turn over tax-foreclosed property in deteriorated areas to families at a minimal cost if the families commit themselves to rehabilitate their new dewllings.

"Many of the problems of housing are more problems of neighborhood and residential services than they are of housing units themselves, Solomon said. "Our national housing goal calls for a suitable living environment as well as a decent home. At the state level therefore, one of the chief aims should be the setting of standards for public health services such as water supply, environmental concerns and waste disposal."

Copies of the state housing report may be obtained by writing the Council of State Governments, Iron Works Pike, P.O. Box 11910, Lexington, Ky. 40511.

Fitness class to begin Sept. 30

At the Newton YMCA, the Physical Education Department is campaigning against fitness fallacies.

On Monday, Sept. 30, a new men's executive fitness class will begin. The course will run every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 7:15-8 a.m. or 5:30-6:15 p.m. for 10 weeks.

The course is based on fitness research by Dr. Thomas K. Curetin of Illinois University. The course consists of progressive walking, jogging, and calisthenics, emphasizing cardiovascular or heart and circulating fitness. The participants are closely guided and instructed in methods of raising their physical fitness levels.

For more information and or a brochure, people may call or come to the YMCA in Newton, Physical Education Department, 276 Church St., Newton Corner; 244-6050.

Upsets and recount mark primaries

Unofficial 16th Middlesex results

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of the Graphic Staff

The primary election, often a humdrum, unexciting exercise, this year in Newton produced two overwhelming surprises, the defeat of State Sen. Irving Fishman by Brookline Sen. Jack Backman and the upset of Secretary of State John Davoren by Newton Representative Paul Guzzi.

The near tie vote for Ald. Richard McGrath and A. Joseph DeNucci, 1736 to 1733, and the recount, already officially announced, will keep the election tension going until that race for 16th District state tepresentative is decided.

Election coverage continues on page 8

About 38 per cent (18,722) of Newton's registered voters turned out to vote Tuesday, considerably more than the 30 per cent maximum predicted. About half the registered Republicans and two thirds of the registered Democrats voted.

Irving Fishman had been expected to have a hard fight inNewton but was expected to make some inroads into Backman's Brookline vote, did not do well in Newton, and was beaten three to one in Brookline.

Fishman and Backman nearly split the Newton vote, with Fishman gaining only some 550 votes more than Backman citywide.

Many observers and Fishman supporters were concerned that Fishman's quiet, nonagressive campaign technique might not serve him well in a campaign against Backman, who seemed to be all over Newton all the time.

Others had thought that Fishman's approach might be a welcome relief from the Backman personality.

Rep. David Mofenson, a close personal friend and political ally of Fishman during Fishman's four years in the state senate, commented, "Everybody is an expert on election post mortems. Maby there is no reason for Fishman's defeat."

Mofenson continued, "In my opinion, Jack (Backman) conducted an extremely energetic campaign, and never let up from the opening bell until the polls closed down. He was tireless."

"Another reason may pave been the extraordinarily large turnout in Brookline, which may have been partly because of the candidacy of Dukakis, who is from Brookline," Mofenson said.

A public official who did not want to be quoted attributed Fishman's poor showing in Newton to the "lack of commitment on the part of certain public officials in Newton and to some Newton citizens who did not follow through on their commitment."

Backman is a shoo-in against Republican candidate Joseph Weinrebe of Newton, whose late candidacy got him on the ballot through stickers in Newton and write-ins in Newton.

Weinrebe's total in the Newton-Brookline district was 378 votes. Needed to get on the November ballot were 300.

The bright side of the state primary is the of Rep. Paul Guzzi as the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State to run against Republican John Quinlan in November.

Guzzi, a "new politics" type of candidate, hit hard against incumbent John Davoren's laxity in the conduct of the office of Secretary of State, and although Guzzi supporters in Newton were claiming that of course their

Cabot, Weeks parents want restoration of old bus routes

By TOM GRAVES
Of The Graphic Staff

While Boston was in turmoil this week over the prospect of forced busing, Newton parents were calling for more buses for their children.

The Newton School Committee heard requests Monday night from both Cabot and Weeks area parents for the restoration of old bus routes which have been changed or eliminated because of a new transportation policy.

There was also an appeal for the busing of Newton provate school students to schools outside the city.

Alderman Robert Gaynor spoke to the School Committee in behalf of parents in the Cabot School area. Gaynor noted that "for at least 20 years, there has been a bus route up Cabot Street to Bigelow. He questioned the advisability of eliminating this route, calling it "extraordinarily dangerous."

This summer, the School Committee approved a transportation policy which would provide free busing for all Newton public and private secondary students who board a bus one-and-one-half miles or farther from their school Previously, the cut-off point was one-and-one-quarter miles from schools. The change in policy has resulted in the elimination of 80 stops.

Gaynor stated two reasons for restoring the Cabot Street route to Bigelow. He said that "special consideratio ought to be given to the safety factor," and listed for the School Committee the dates of accidents which have occured on Cabot Street in the past year.

Gaynor also reported that he had measured the distance between Withington Road and Cabot Street and Bigelow on his car odometer and that it came to 1.8 miles. Under the present transportation policy, a stop would seem to be required in this area if the measurement was accurate.

Assistant Director of Support Services James W. Cameron said that he met with Sgt. Charles Feeley and Officer Robert Braceland of the Newton Police Department Monday afternoon, and that there was discussion of the Cabot area. According to Cameron, Feeley pointed out that Bigelow students can use a manually operated pedestrian signal at Church Street to cross Centre Street. Cameron also reportedd that city engineers have been asked to recheck measurements around the Cabot Street area.

School Committee member Dorothy Reichard suggested that all communications about transportation safety factors be checked out with the Police Department. Her motion was approved by the committee.

This, however, did not appease Cabot parents. Two hours later, when School Committee Chairwoman Eleanor Rosenblum allowed audience comments, Louis Ranieri of 129 Withington Rd. rose to make a demand for the restoration of the Cabot bus route.

"Last year, we had a fine program of busing," Ranieri commented. "With the increase in taxes, we would hope you could continue it this year.

Ranieri noted that Cabot Street is "narrow" and "treacherous. The life of one of thesekids is more important than a cost of a bus."

School Committeman Alvin Mandell replied that the situation "will be rectified if a mistake has been made."

Carolyn Zonderman of 54 Gay Street responded to the suggestion that students could cross Centre Street at Church Street. She remarked that they would have to walk up "treacherous" Newtonville Avenue, and that the walk to Church Street would make the overall route to Bigelow two-tenths of a mile longer than it is if students cross Centre Street at Sargent Street.

Gaynor had pointed out earlier that there are buses from Jackson and Washington Streets and the Charlesbank area which work within the one-

Somers quits

Paul Somers, personnel director for the city of Newton for the pas four weeks, regisned his position effective Sept. 9.

Somers' predecessor, Arnold Kublin, resigned in July after three months on the job.

Somers declined to comment on what had caused his resignation, except to say it was for personal reasons.

A spokesman for Mayor Theodore Mann said this week that the committee to search for a personnel director has been reactivated.

Voter registration

The Election Commission will hold voter registrations at several locations over the next three weeks, Executive Secretary Alan Licarie has announced.

On Wednesday, Sept. 18, from 7 to 9 p.m., voters may register at the Newtonville and Oak Hill branch libraries and at City Hall.

On Monday, Sept. 23, from 7 to 9 p.m., registration will be conducted at the Auburndale and Waban branch libraries and at City Hall.

On Thursday, Oct. 3, from 7 to 9 p.m., voters may register at the main library in Newton Corner, and at the Nonantum and West Newton branch libraries and at City Hall.

A special registration will beheld at City Hall Sat., Oct. 5, from noon to 10 p.m. On the last registration day, Oct. 8, the Election Commission will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Local 800 pact remains unsigned

After the walkout by Local 800 in June, and the subsequent agreement between the city and the union on a two-phase wage increase of 8.06 per cent the first year and 10 per cent the second year, all seemed quiet on the labor front.

However, things are not going well in collective bargaining.

The Local 800 contract has still to be signed, two and one-half months later, and the matter may bring charges of unfair labor practice against the union.

The suggestion has been made in the administration that Local 800 is deliberately delyaing signing of the contract until after the police and fire contracts have been completed.

Joseph McParland, lawyer representing the police, said this week that the city's offer of 8.06 and 10 per cent plus benefits has not been accepted and the matter has been to state mediation, also with no agreement. The next step, according to McParland, is state factfinding, which may take 30 days or more before a decision is reached.

Life Care hearing held

Opponents of the proposed "Life Care Center," planned as a residence for the elderly, rejected changes made in the plan by the developer as minor, nd suggested that the newly formed board of directors for the group, which has now become a nonprofit organization, themselves do not know enough about the proposal.

Developers of the Life Care Center, Arthur Ullian and Dr. Edwin Guiney, have been joined by 12 Newton citizens, many of whom are clergymen or connected with programs for the elderly.

Rabbi Murray Rothman, one of the 12, explained the lack of concrete information on the management of the center with the "chicken-and-egg" analogy, saying that until the center receives the permissive use and change of zone it is seeking, no bank will finance the plan, and until the financing arrangements are made, the group cannot formulate the details of management.

Opponents maintained their objections voiced previously as to the height of the building (now under 60 feet), the density (179 units), and the existing traffic problems on Washington Street that they feel would be exacerbated by the addition of a large residential facility.

Among the half-dozen items heard by the committee this week in public hearing was a proposal by Planning Director Charles Thomas to allow the conversion of single-family houses on 50,000 square feet of land or more to multifamily use.

The proposal would apply to houses in Residence A and B districts which by zoning ordinance require a lot size of 25,000 and 15,000 square feet, respectively.

Under Thomas' plan, a large house on a large lot could be divided into apartments, provided the number of square feet of land per unit equals the number of square feet required per single-family house.

The proposal might be the solution too the problem of deterioration of large, old houses and "estates" on extra-large lots whose owners cannot afford to maintain them properly.

The only alternative now is the demolition of the houses, subdivision of the lots, and construction of more houses, which results in an increased density of population and the loss of open space and architecturally valuable houses.

Thomas' proposal and the Life Care proposal will be discussed with other matters at the next working meeting of the Land Use Committee. No date has been set.

The first day of Kindergarten can be tough

By TOM GRAVES
Of The Graphic Staff

You learn a lot about kids on their first day of school, especially in a kindergarten class.

In Catherine Salmon's K-1 class at Bowen School last week, the kid you noticed first was the one who was unhappy about being there. One little boy began to cry each time his mother said she was going home. He wanted to go home too, claiming with questionable sincerity, "tomorrow I'll go."

There was a little girl who seemed proud of the fact that she had broken her collarbone this summer falling out of bed. When asked what she done during the vacation, she would state this fact instead of the usual response about trips or summer camp.

Nearly all of the 11 kindergarten children and 14 first graders in Ms. Salmon's class were accompanied by a parent when they entered on Thursday. Some parents left quickly while others lingered to look at the room and make sure their children were going to be okay. About 45 minutes after the first arrivals, the room finally became clear of mothers and fathers.

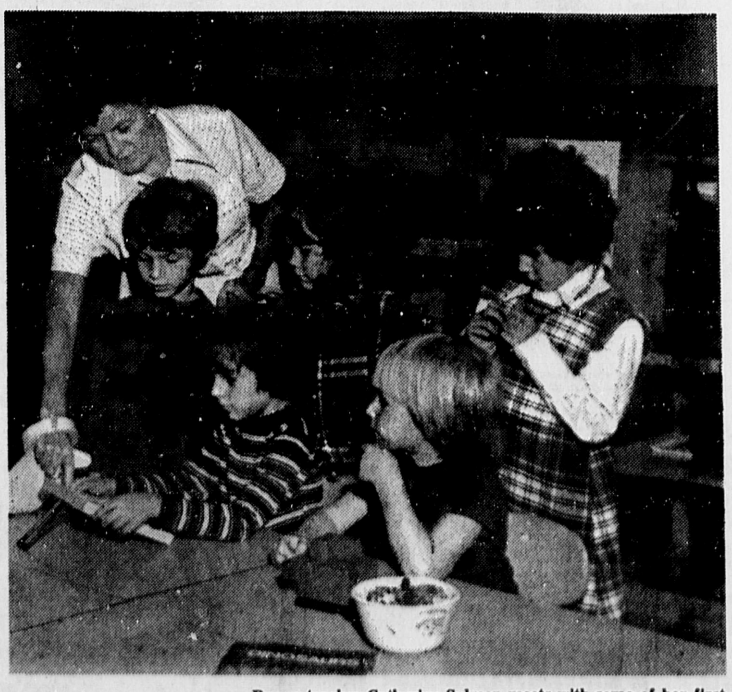

Ms. Salmon had something special to say to every child she met that morning. She asked one boy about his new pair of shoes. Another child had difficulty finding a locker in the hall, and she said to go look for the letter "E", since that it is what his name began with.

Ms. Salmon's room was filled with things to look at and do. As another K-1 teacher said, "you worry about the child who can't find anything to do."

There was a typewriter, a tape recorder, puzzles, games, art materials; it was repeated several times that "the idea is to get kids involved." An advantage of the K-1 grouping is that first graders can help the kindergarten children get used to a room since they were there the year before.

I went out in the hall at one point and found Principal Jack McLeod with another unhappy little boy. He had yet to cross the threshold into Ms. Salmon's room.

Vote on tax rate now before aldermen

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of the Graphic Staff

The Finance Committee last week approved the appropriation of $9000,000 from surplus to be applied toward the tax rate, but decreased Mayor Theodore Mann's requested appropriation of $500,000 for costs of solid waste disposal.

If the $900,000 is approved by the full board, the tax rate will go up $16.60, for a total of $151.20.

The mayor's estimate of $1.2 million for the costs of collective bargaining also was accepted and approved 6-0 with two abstentions by the Finance Committee for inclusion in the already passed 1975 fiscal-year budget. This figure was arrived at by multiplying the city payroll by 8 per cent, the wage increase already granted to some city employees.

One aspect of the collective-bargaining package already agreed to by the city is the conversion from Blue Cross-Blue Shield "medical medical" plan to "master medical."

The revelation by mayoral assistant James Salter that the improved benefits had already been agreed to brought on a diatribe from Ald. Louis Egelson.

Egelson, a fiscal conservative, objected to the extension of health insurance benefits to city employees, which Salter explained would cost a maximum of about $100 per year per employee more than the abandoned "major medical" plan.

"We are entirely too munificent in our negotiations . . . nowadays people are happy to have a job," Egelson said. "By going along with munificent pacts we are giving aid and comfort to the legislators (who pass such laws as the collective bargaining law of 1966)."

Salter's mouth dropped open, and he said, "This is health insurance," pausing between each word. "Health insurance is an important part of collective bargaining, and it would be wrong of the board not to approve it."

The background to the new health plan, as Salter explained it, was that the city was able to obtain the master medical plan in June for just about the same amount that the major medical plan would have cost this fall, when an increase was due to go into effect.

Egelson still criticized the health insurance agreement, and said, "Giving this gratuitously before signing the contract is wrong."

Mayor Theodore Mann, who was sitting in on the meeting, exploded at Egelson. "In my judgement this package is essential for our employees. We've had situations where because of illness, families have gone into financial ruin. It is pure deception to call it a collective bargaining matter without the human equation being thrown in!"

"Every political party is wrestling with national medical insurance . . . there will be some kind of health insurance . . . it's part of the collective bargaining process, but then maybe it isn't," the mayor said heatedly.

Finance Committee Chairman Sidney Small suggested that perhaps the Board of Alderman should have been informed of the health insurance agreement and called for a vote to approve the appropriation of $91,728 for the additional cost of the insurance.

The mayor's request for a $500,000 appropriation for the cost of solid waste disposal for the rest of the 1975 fiscal year was finally cut down to $400,000 to be put into budget reserve, after several aldermen said they thought it was unlikely that all the money already set aside for the upkeep of the incinerator, which is scheduled to be closed down at the end of this year, would be spent.

The administration is committed to closing down the incinerator, which does not meet federal and state air-quality standards and would require, by various estimates, from $5 to $8 million for renovation to bring it into compliance.

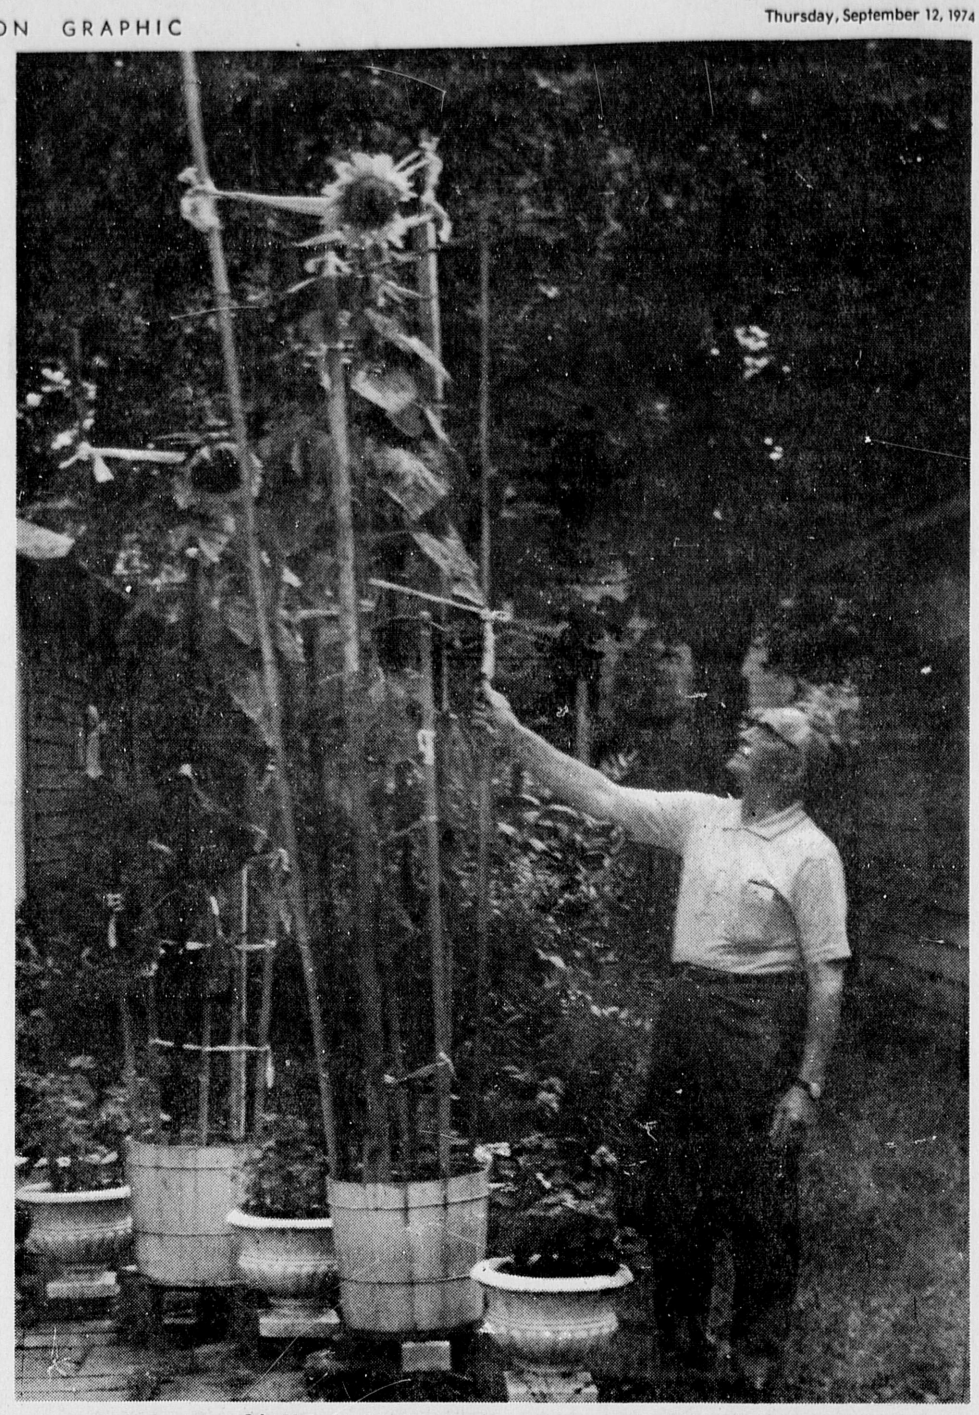

The mayors of Newton and Waltham have before them bids for a joint contract for disposal for the next five years, in which the incinerator building would be converted to a transfer station from which a contractor would haul the rubbish away.

The brief argument in the Finance Committee was a preview of what will take place when such a contract is before the Board of Aldermen, many of whom do not support any means of disposal that does not include incineration in the Newton incinerator.

Salter, for perhaps the first time publicly, said placatingly, "It would be a good idea to upgrade the incinerator eventually," while pointing out that in the interim a reliable method of rubbish disposal must be had.

Proponents of the Newton-Waltham regional refuse district hope to form a viable resource-recovery region composed of several neighboring towns, with state funding of the recovery plant.

A careful reading of Salter's remark should lead to no conclusion on the administration's position.

Curtis withdraws

Former Congressman Laurence Curtis of Brookline, Republican candidate for Congress in the Fourth District, Wednesday announced his withdrawal from the contest.

He was unopposed in the Primary.

In a statement issued from his headquarters, Curtis gave his reasons for this action.

"When I entered this contest, it appeared to be a two-man contest between the Republican and Democratic candidates," Curtis said.

"At that time, a well-known Democrat had announced his candidacy to run in the Democratic primary and had circulated nomination papers for that candidacy, but he later made a last-minute shift.

"Shortly before the final date for filing nomination papers, he circulated a second set of nomination papers as an Independent, without public announcement. I have publicly charged that many persons who signed his second set of papers did not know that they were signing for an Independent candidate," Curtis said.

Curtis pointed out that, "under Massachusetts law the nomination papers for an Independent have the effect of placing his name on the November election ballot, whereas the nomination papers of a party candidate, like Representative Drinan and himself, place his name only on the Primary ballot, and he gains a place on the November ballot only by winning his primary."

"So, the November election will be a three-cornered contest, due to the presence of an 'Independent' who is really a registered Democrat and a Brookline Representative in the state legislature," Curtis said.

"Under these changed conditions, I have concluded that the Republican party could be better served by a different candidate," he said. "I am therefore withdrawing, and under Massachusetts law the Republican Party can name another candidate to take my place on the ballot."

Salter, Yoken 'outstanding'

Two Newton men have been named "outstanding young men of 1974," according to Douglas, chairman of the board of advisors for the publication Blankenship "Outstanding Young Men of America."

James Salter, 32, is the chief administrative oficer of the City of Newton, Mayor Theodore Mann's chief assistant. He has worked for the mayor since the mayor took office in January, 1972.

Salter is married to the former Madeline Herman. They have three daughters, Penny, 10; Jody, 8; and Lori, 7.

Salter was the president of an electronics marketing and service organization with outlets in 28 cities before coming into municipal management. He disposed of the business before assuming his city post.

Salter is a member of the Newton Jaycees, the Newton Rotary, the Garden City Lodge of the Masons, and Temple Mishkan Tefila.

Stephen Elliott Yoken, 1141 Commonwealth Ave., West Newton, was also named to the group of outstandng young men.

Yoken, a lawyer, is portfolio manager for the Keystone Custodian Fund. He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association and the Boston Society of Security Analysts.

Yokem-Yokem and his wife Susan are the parents of two boys, Craig, age 6, and Jonathan, age 3.

Supt. Fink outlines 'state of the schools'

By TOM GRAVES
Of the Graphic Staff

Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink repeatedly emphasized the importance of principals in a "State of the Schools" address to the Newton Schoolv committee this week.

Fink said that the principal is the "key person" in a school. "The principal has the responsibility of developing the best program for each kid."

Fink reported that evaluation of principals was one of 10 priorities recognized by the School Department during the 1973-74 school year. He said that the role of the principal was looked at, and workshops were held for principals.

"I feel insufficient progress was made in developing the principal as an instructional leader," Fink commented. "The principal is pulled in too many directions."

Another priority during the past year was "to review all aspects of the junior high program." Fink noted that "we feel junior highs are making bet- use of the division of insturction," but added that "we're not completely satisfied with our ability to monitor the quality of program at the junior highs." He said that the role of co-ordinator is "extremely important."

A third objective was the implementation of Chapter 766. Fink remarked that the 766 budget was "very conservative."

"We tried to involve all local public and private agencies involved in 766," Fink commented.

He pointed out that the learning disabilities program has been expanded, and that programs for the deaf and hard of hearing have been "highly successful."

In discussing Chapter 766 generally, Fink said that "frustrations in this area are many. Its difficult to deal with the anxiety levels of staff and parents.

"So much has remained unknown," he added. "We know we have to expand services, but we cannot allow the mandate to detract from other services in the system.

"I'm hopeful that the law won't create an adversary situation between schools and parents."

Implementation of an A. D. Little management study was another priority. Fink noted that business services were recognized with "substantial success." He reported that with the division of program handling budgeting, "we have made tremendous progress in the more equitable distribution of money to all schools."

Other objectives were an improved program on cultural and racial differences, and increased awareness of sex role stereotypes.

Fink said that there was curriculum development and staff training, including a race institute, on cultural and racial differences. "We find our programs are more extensive in schools with black staff to promote race awareness," he commented.

Fink remarked that he "would like to see a more cohesive program on the whole American experience." He said that this is "done somewhat on the secondary school level; more can be done on the elementary school level."

Fink reported that industrial arts and home economics classes are for both boys and girls.

He said that "it is hard to get staff to be sensitive to problems of sex stereotyping. Much of the stereotyping may be unintentional."

Fink added that "the athletic budget has been adjusted somewhat." He said that "the issue is to provide equal opportunity for kids."

Another priority was to "plan for the use of facilities and personnel in a period of declining enrollment."

"It's obvious no one wants his school closed," Fink commented. He said that the prospect causes anxiety, as does the reduction of staff.

The School Department also worked with the high schools on curriculum. This included examining program and the house plans at the high schools.

The vocational high school has been consolidated into NewtonNorth. Fink said that over a three year period, "the students served by the technical vocational high school will have doubled; individual course enrollment will have tripled."

Fink said that an important question to be answered is "how do we get kids who don't come to su to come to us."

The use of special service teams has also been looked at. Fink said that there is "now a social worker in each junior high feeder pattern.", "We're making progress in sharing resources, Fink remarked, "but its mighty slow." A problem in sharing has been a feeling of "territoriality," according to Fink.

Another objective was evaluation of the early childhood program. Fink said that a study is now underway of the early childhood organization, kindergarten to grade two, in nine schools.

Fink also talked about individual academic subjects. He noted that English guidelines have been developed, and that a major priority is development of an English skills program.

"I feel very strongly that language is a responsibility of all staff, not just English teachers," Fink said.

He commented that a problem in the foreign language program is diminishing enrollment. He said that he has been trying to get the high schools to combine their efforts.

About the arts, Fink said that "we need to assess the place of the arts in general. There is an inclination to think first of academic areas."

Fink commented that "sex education has to go beyond plumbing. We need to go into kids' attitudes and feelings."

About physical education, he said that "a major problem is providing equity for girls without destroying programs for boys." He noted that there are space and budget problems.

Fink listed 11 priorities for the present school year. They included: improvement in evaluating teachers; improving transitions from grades six to seven and grades nine to 10; promoting a comprehensive program for improving English language skills, kindergarten through grade 12; continuing to improve support services to principals; appraising the relationship of the arts to other areas of curriculum; dealing with sex stereotypes and racial and cultural differences; expanding collaborative programs with other school systems; Chapter 766 taacher training; continuing to plan for a projected decline in enrollment; looking at staffing patterns and uses of facilities; examining and promoting opportunities for staff development; and working with high schools on curriculum development.

"No school system is as good as its reputation, or as bad," Fink commented. "We're successful with a lot of kids, but we know there are a lot of kids we don't reach."

School Committeeman Alvin Mandell called this statement "refreshing," noting that it means there is a willingness to admit room for improvement.

Conservation Commission orders Sidney Hill to correct abuses

The Conservation Commission issued orders to the Sidney Hill Country Club in an effort to correct abuses on Hahn Brook, running in back of the club, which have caused flooding to abutters on Tanglewood Road.

The orders are the results of a Hatch Act hearing held in August under legislation protecting wetlands.

The club is being instructed to remove demolition fill from the stream's edge 30 feet back. One entire quadrant, hidden in the back of the club, is covered with rubble, a contrast to the glamorous pool setting tucked away out of sight. If any further fill is needed, the club is ordered to use clean fill.

In addition, all deciduous vegetation, trees and shrubs shedding leaves annually, must be replaced by grass in at attempt to prevent clogging of pipes and a swale. The club has also been ordered to keep a drain pipe free of silt. They will also be responsible for cleaning the swale, a depression in a tract of land where water can drain, which will be created by grading according to plans set forth by Barnes Engineering.

Keeping the pipe and swale clean may be a problem since there is no opening big enough for a truck to enter and get to the site. Heavy equipment is necessary for this type of cleaning.

This grading may have the costliest effect on the club, since it recently installed an expensive fence. The club had been told not to erect the fence until grading was completed.

However, Attorney Robert Freeto, who represented the club at the hearing, indicated this was one instance where no one could win, since abutters had been after the club to replace the fence when it was broken. Neighbors feared easy access to the club and the pool by children.

In other action, the commission took a bold step, possibly a first in Massachusetts, when it ordered Cramer Electronics, Inc. to use proous asphalt on the parking lot it wishes to build for 750 employees.

Essentially, porous asphalt is black top with some sand removed from the mix, leaving voids for seepage of water. Although the initial cost may be $1.50 per cubic yard higher than regularly used blacktop, the overall cost may be less because there is no need for storm drains or catch basins. Moreover, there is an additional safety bonus, since the surface is more skid-resistant and there will be no more puddles.

What is required is a one-foot trench with crushed rock to receive runoff and additional trenches of 15 feet for some of the low spots.

Cramer is located at the Newton 128 industrial park at Wells Avenue, Newton Centre. Because of the area was in a flood plain, it was subject to a Hatch Act hearing held late this summer.

Conservation Commissioners are Dennis L. Ditelberg, chaiman; Richard M. Staley, Anita Hovey, Deborah Howard, Thelma Fleishman and Helen Heyn, secretary.

A seventh commissioner, Irwin L. Glazier, recently resigned from the commission. Glazier's appointment would have terminated in 1976.

No appointment has been announced by the mayor as yet.

Briefing sessions on Charles River planned

Regular bi-weekly briefing sessions on the Charles River will be conducted at the Charles River Watershed Association office in Auburndale beginning Tuesday, Sept. 24.

The ever-increasing requests for interviews and in-depth discussions of the issues relating to the Charles has prompted CRWA to establish a regular schedule of dates when people in search of information will be welcome for general discussion.

According to Rita Barron, CRWA executive director, "It some times seems as if every college student in metropolitan Boston is doing a project on the Charles." The briefing will be directed essentially to those college students doing research on the river, to secondary school faculty, and to representatives of the metropolitan and local media, the three groups making the most frequent requests for information.

The Association emphasizes that interested individuals, especially its own members, are invited to attend, but stresses that classes of elementary and secondary students are beyond the scope of the sessions. CRWA's full-scale slide show programs continue to be available for school classes and for organizations.

Mrs. Barron points out that this is not a course and that basically the same material will be convered at each session. It is simply an opportunity to discuss the same issues on a more than individual basis.

The sessions will begin at 2 p.m. and are presently scheduled for every other Tuesday until Dec. 17. A 1975 schedule will be released at a later date. For parking directions and further information, people may call CRWA at 527-2799.

Foreign apple pickers increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., says the Labor Department will announce today an increase in the allocation of foreign apple pickers for Vermont.

Aiken said Tuesday he did not know how many more pickers would be allowed.

The department previously approved 281 foreign workers, but Gov. Thomas P. Salmon has insisted 414 workers from the British West Indies are needed to help pick the bumper crop,estimated at one million bushels.

Group forms to protect Staniford site

By ELEANOR SIEGEL
Graphic Correspondent

A citizens group has been formed in an effort to protect a 10 acre site on Saniford Street, Auburndale from development and to encouage the city to take the land by eminent domain.

The group, known as the Citizens for Saniford Street Open Space, has hired Robert Cohen as its attorney and has already called upon Mayor Theodore Mann.

According to Mann, he met with the group to "review all the options" concerning the site. He told them the city "has been moving down the path" towards acquisition and is in the "appraisal period" now. Only one appraisal is in to date. However, the mayor indicated that when the other appraisal comes in, if the property is within the "range of dollars" it would take at least until the spring of 1975 to get city, state and federal approval.

The taking of this property, owned by John and Joseph McIsaac, is supported by the City Planning Department, the Conservation Commission and by proposals made by the Newton Conservator's Open Space Committee. The Planning Department and the Commission also support the buildingof low income housing on two and one-half acres of high ground.

The newly formed group is somewhat divided on the issue of any housingon this land, some of them hoping to preserve it all as open space. The group has opened a bank account with the Auburndale Cooperative Bank and plans to fund raise to meet expenses. Sheila Farnese, past president of the Auburndale Community Association, said that the group has the support of the association because "we don't have much open space left in this part of the city."

The group who met with the mayor were Nora M. Howley, Joseph T. Carey, Sheila Farnese, Robert Cunningham, Hal Mahon and Carol Ann Shea.

Meanwhile, hearings have been scheduled by the Department of Community Affairs Housing Appeals Committee on the controversial site. The hearings are being held under Chapter 774, the so-call "anti-snob" legislation under which Newton meets none of the criteria set up for low moderate income housing.

The suit was filed on behalf of the McIsaac Brothers by attorney Lawrence Shubow after the Newton Zoning Bord of Appeals turned down the devlopers request for the variance needed to build their proposed 32 townhouses and 108 garden apartments. The heaviest factor against having development on this tract was that it is located in a flood plain.

Seminar to discuss job safety and health act

A free three-day voluntary compliance course regarding the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (Public Law 91-956) will be conducted at Valle's Restaurant, Rte. 9, on Sept. 17, 18, 19, 1974, from 8:30 a.m. ; 4:30 p.m. each day.

This will be sponsored by the Massachusetts Safety Council, a non-profit public service organization and chartered by the National Safety Council.

This seminar will be an in-depth study of the OSHAct. Guest lecturers will conduct discussions on:

Industrial safety and health, Dr. Eugene Grillo, industrial hygienist; recordkeeping under the OSHAct, Joseph Conaty, chief of statistics for U.S. Department of Labor.

Present and future roles for the state and its municipalities, under OSHA, John Murphy and Paul Daigle from the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries; inspections and the use of the Federal Register as applied to fields of endeavor, Vincent Pessolano and Kendall Kiely, formerly on the staff of the Massachusetts Safety Council.

Each student will be provided with a packet that includes the "Federal Register, A System of Voluntary Compliance" which provides a quick and accurate manner of using the Federal Register for each particular need. The student packet contains other pertinent pamphlets and guidebooks.

For further information regarding registration, people may call or write the Massachusetts Safety Council, 20 Beacon St., Boston, MA 02108; telephone 523-1135.

Sargent's real race

Governor Francis W. Sargent now moves into the real fight for his political life which he pretended to be making in the Republican primary when he was challenged by former State Commerce Commissioner Carroll Sheehan, a member of the GOP conservative wing.

At the start of the primary contests last spring Mr. Sargent appeared unbeatable for renomination by his own party and a primary victory for Mr. Sheehan was considered beyond the realm of political possibility.

But then during the summer Sargent put on an act which fooled quite a few political observers. He spent a substantial amount of money which he could have saved for his final election campaign.

Sargent seemed to be running scared. Newsmen, talking among themselves, speculated on whether he had panicked.

He hadn't panicked at all, and he wasn't running scared.

He knew he was safely ahead and that he was certain of renomination. But he wanted to make it appear that Sheehan was not a soft touch and that he really won something last night when he swept in first in the GOP gubernatorial race.

Governor Sargent's ingrained Yankee thrift is such that he didn't waste the money he spent on his primary. He beamed his campaign beyond the primary and at the Independents and not-so-solid Democrats, whose votes he must draw on Nov. 5 if he is to survive in an overwhelming democratic state.

That cost him the support or Republican State Committee Chairman William Barnstead who rather foolishly withdrew his previous endorsement of Governor Sargent. Barnstead probably can't influence a handful of votes but it strengthened the impression that the governor somehow was suddenly in a horse race and was struggling for political survival.

If Sargent is reelected next Nov. 5, he presumably eventually will arrange to have Barnstead given the heave-ho from his party post. If Sargent is defeated in the coming election, the Republican State Committee will just about go out of business, and its members will be wishing they had something to complain about.

The GOP Committee can be a useful political organization when it is run by someone who knows what he is doing.

But if Sargent is turned out of office, it is highly unlikely that Senator Edward W. Brooke, who would become the ranking Republican in Massachusetts, would expend much effort or energy to provide the funds needed to keep the GOP State Committee in operation as a working political organization.

The Republican State Committee, of course, does not have the prestige it enjoyed 20 years ago when Christian A. Herter was Governor and Elmer C. Nelson functioned as a very effective committee chairman.

Barnstead and some of his committee colleagues do not seem to realize that the only thing a candidate for state-wide office can win on Republican votes along in overwhelmingly Democratic Massachusetts is the booby prize.

Barnstead and his friends don't seem to realize that the state's conservative Republicans are in the minority even within their own party.

In Massachusetts there are more liberal Republicans than conservative Republicans.

Political Highlights

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Sarge is facing fight for his political life

Governor Francis W. Sargent now moves into the fight for his political life which he pretended to be making in the Republican primary when he was challenged by former State Commerce Commissioner Carroll Sheehan, a member of the GOP conservative wing.

At the start of the primary contests last spring Mr. Sargent appeared unbeatable for renomination by his own party, and a primary victory for Mr. Sheehan was considered beyond the realm of political possibility.

But then during the summer Sarge put on an act which fooled quite a few political observers, including this one. He placed full-page advertisements in the daily newspapers. He spent a substantial amount of money which he could have saved for his final election campaign.

Sarge seemed to be running scared. Newsmen, talking among themselves, speculated on whether he had panicked.

He hadn't panicked at all, and he wasn't running scared. He knew he was safely ahead and that he was certain of renomination, but he wanted to make it appear that Sheehan was not a soft touch and that he really won something when he swept in first in the gubernatorial race.

Governor Sargent's ingrained Yankee thrift is such that he didn't waste the money he spent on his primary newspaper advertisements. He beamed his advertising beyond the primary and at the Independents and not-so-solid Democrats, whose votes he must draw on Nov. 5, if he is to survive in an overwhelmingly Democratic state. He hit out at his Republican opponents.

That cost him the support of Republican State Committee Chairman WilliamhBarnstead who rather foolishly withdrew his previous endorsement of Governor Sargent. Barnstead probably can't influence a handful of votes, but it strengthened the impression that Sarge somehow was suddenly in a horse race and was struggling for political survival.

Barnstead, whose name is not exactly a household word in most Massachusetts dwellings, admitted that his own views coincided more closely with those of Carroll Sheehan than with the more liberal opinions of Francis Sargent.

The GOP State Committee head may have acted because Sargent had offended the conservative Republicans; or he may have seized on an excuse to climb down from the Sargent bandwagon. In either event, his action was not exactly a master stroke.

If Sargent is reelected next Nov. 5, he presumably eventually will arrange to have Barnstead given the heave-ho from his party post. If Sarge is defeated in the coming election, the Republican State Committee will just about go out of business, and its members will be wishing they had something to complain about.

The Republican State Committee can be a useful political organization when it is run by someone who knows what he is doing.

But if Sargent is turned out of office, it is highly unlikely that Senator Edward W. Brooke, who would become the ranking Republican in Massachusetts, would expend much effort or energy to provide the funds needed to keep the GOP State Committee in operation as a working political organization.

The Republican State Committee, of course, does not have the prest9ge it enjoyed 20 years ago when Christian A. Herter was Governor and Elmer C. Nelson functioned as a very effective committee chairman.

Barnstead and some of his committee colleagues do not seem to realize that the only thing a candidate for state-wide office can win on Republican votes alone in overwhelmingly Democratic Massachusetts is the booby prize.

Herter recognized that he had to draw Democratic and Independent voters in order to oust Paul A. Dever from the Governorship in 1952. Massachusetts is even more Democratic today than it was 22 years ago, and Francis Sargent is aware of that cold political fact.

Bill Barnstead and his buddies don't seem to realize that the state's conservative Republicans are in the minority even within their own party.

In Massachusetts there are more liberal Republicans than conservative Republicans.

When George McGovern topped Richard Nixon in Massachusetts in the 1972 Presidential election to carry just one of the 50 states, it meant more than that Bay Staters still harbored a grudge against Richard M. Nixon because of his 1960 election battle with John F. Kennedy.

Among other things, it meant that Massachusetts is the most Democratic and the most liberal of the 50 states.

That is the big obstacle confronting Francis Sargent as he seeks reelection to another full four-year term in the Governorship—that and the public dissatisfaction and discontent with the national economy, the inflation, the high cost-of-living and the high rate of unemployment.

Governor Sargent is not responsible for the inflation or the high cost of living or the unemployment. But when the people are dissatisfied, they vent their wrath on the office-holders and incumbents.

A Republican tide rolled across the entire United States in 1946 because of the discontent of the people over their inability to buy butter, beef, and nylon stockings.

It swept Maurice J. Tobin, a good Governor, out of office, and it carried Paul A. Dever and David I. Walsh down to defeat here in Massachusetts. Dever was defeated for election as Lieutenant Governor in 1946 but was elected Governor in 1948.

That was the last tive a Republican Congress was elected, and one of the last times a Republican State Legislature was elected in Massachusetts.

The Republican party in Massachusetts and across the United States is helped by the fact that Richard Nixon has resigned from the Presidency and is in SanhClemente, not the White House.

While most people are grateful over the departure of Richard Nixon from Washington, this writer has found no solid evidence that they have taken Gerald Ford, a political accident, to their hearts.

In fact, a suspicion exists that Nixon picked Ford for the Vice Presidency because of the belief that the members of Congress, who knew Ford best, would be reluctant to see him assume the duties and responsibilities of the Presidency.

Ford must do more than flash an old-fashioned smile and cook his own breakfast before he can be accepted as a competent President. He still has major problems to solve, and he seems to be making little progress toward solving them.

Curtis hits Rotenberg on nomination papers

Former Congressman Laurence Curtis of Brookline won the Republican nomination for Congress in the fourth congressional district and the right to stand against Congressman Robert F. Drinan of Newton in the Nov. 5 election.

But Curtis does not intend to accept the nomination. He plans to withdraw from the contest and allow the Republican City Committee in Newton and the GOP Committees in the other communities of the district to choose the Republican candidate to stand against Father Drinan.

THE WAY WE WERE

Republican leaders will try to persuade ex--Congressman Curtis to change his mind and remaic on the GOP Ticket, but the likelihood is that they will not be successful.

While Curtis has not yet publicly explained his reason for withdrawing from the congressional contest after expending the effort to obtain the nomination signatures necessary to place his name on the Republican ballot, persons close to him know that he does not like to contest in an election fight in which there is a third candidate—an independent.

Ex-Congressman Curtis was running at full speed in anticipation of a head-to-head fight with Congressman Drinan in November until State Representative Jon Rotenberg of Brookline surfaced as an independent candidate. It was too late then for any other Republican to seek the congressional nomination or for Curtis to withdraw.

So Curtis allowed his name to remain on the ballot but now plans to step aside.

Totenberg, a liberal Democrat of much the same stamp as Father Drinan, announced himself a candidate against Drinan for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

Then, however, Rotenberg circulated nomination papers as both a Democratic and Independent candidate. He finally decided to run as an Independent in the final Nov. 5 election rather than as a Democrate against Congressman Drinan in the zSept. 10 primary.

Since Rotenberg had announced that he was running in the Democratic primary, it is entirely possible and even likely that some persons, who signed his nomination papers as an Independent, thought they were signing Democratic papers.

Curtis charges that Rotenberg was guilty of sharp political practised. He undoubtedly was, but politics can be a rough business and what Rotenberg did was perfrectly legal. It's not illegal to circulate two sets of nomination papers at the same time.

Ironically, a number of political observers believe that Curtis, a Republican, would have a better chance of winning in a contest with two Democrats, even though one of them was labeled an Independent, than he would in a fight with one Democrat.

Rotenberg is a staunch Democrat. He and Congressman Drinan should cut up the Democratic vote between them. Rotenberg also may pick up support from any anti.Drinan Democrats, on whom Curtis apparently was counting.

But on the basis of any analysis of how the vote might be split, Curtis should have a better chance of winning in a three-candidate fight with Drinan and Rotenberg than in a two-man contest with either Drinan or Rotenberg. However, Curtis obviously doesn't see it that way.

Laurence curtis for 10 years was an outstanding member of Congress. He served on both the Judiciary and the Foreigh Affairs Committees. He distinguished himself for his calibur of service for his constitutents. Then in 1962 he was Gerrymandered out of office. His departure from Congress was the people's loss.

He left his mark both on Beacon Hill and Capitol Hill.

What would happen if Nixon found innocent?

N otes from the backs of envelopes!

A umber of readers, who maintain that Richard Nixon was persecuted and driven from office for doing things which every President before him did, have written in to ask what would happen if Nixon were prosecuted, tried in court and found innocent of any wrongdoing. That's a good question. We don't believe anything would happen. He couldn't return to the Presidency but conceivably might run for some other office in the future.

Out in South Dakota where George McGovern is in a hard fight to retain his U.S. Senate seat, former POW Leo Thorsness, McGovern's Republican opponent, has been accusing McGovern--of all things--of irregular campaign financing. Thorness claims that McGovern transferred $300,000 from his 1972 Presidential campaign funds to his present fund to finance his campaign for re-election. Sound familiar?

Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana, Senator Ted Kennedy's pal who was in the airplane with Ted when it crashed on the way to the 1964 Democratic State Convention in West Springfield, is in a fight for political survival in Indiana where Indianapolis Mayor Richard Lugar is Bayh's Republican adversary. The polls show Lugar gaining n Bayh. Issues being used effectively against Bayh in a conservative state include his support of abortion, busing and gun control.

Angela Davis, of all people, has wired Congressman House and Senate Judiciary Committees respectively requesting that she be allowed to testify concerning Nelson Rockefeller's "moral character" during the hearings on Rocky's appointment as Vice President. What about Angela's moral character" during the hearings on Rocky's appointment as Vice President. What about Angela's moral character?

Despatches indicate that Timothy Leary will testify before a Chicago Grand Jury against the Weathermen who helped him to escape from jail and flee from the country four years ago. In return, Leary would get the promise of a speedy parole.

The California Assembly recently voted not to rename the Richard M. Nixon Freeway in Orange County the Gerald R. Ford Freeway. It seems that work on the proposed 42-mile Freeway was stopped because of the lack of funds to finish the final 40 miles.

In response to questions, Republican State Committee chairman William Barnstead does not have as much political muscle as Chicago Mayro Richard Daley wields when Daley is under sedation and confined to a hospital bed.

The Chicago Tribune recently reported that Patty Hearst and her SLA confederates, William and Emily Harris, have been trying to contact the Weather Underground, successor group to the Weathermen. The Tribune story said authorities believe Patty is still in Los Angles.

Leftist lawyers William Kunstler and Mark Lane spent a night in jail as a result of a verbal altercation with Judge Fred Nichol while he was presiding over the Wounded Knee trail. The exchange went like this: Nichol, addressing himself to the two attorneys, "You make one more statement like that and you're going to jail." Replied unstler: "You might as well send us Judge." The irritated jurist did so on the spot.

Former Senator Eugene McCarthy, a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1968, has started a new organization--tpe Committee for a Constitutional President. His purpose apparently is to try to keep himself in the spotlight. McCarthy wanted to run for Congress earlier this year but was rebuffed by Democratic leaders in Minnesota who criticized his delay in endorsing Hubert Humphrey in 1968.

The national House has just passed and sent to the Senate an aendment sponsored by Republican Congressman Louis C. Wyman of New Hampshire which would void government regulations on seat belt and air bags. Senators Thomas Eagleton and James Buckley have filed a similar measure in the Senate.

Chris Herter must be spinning in his grave

When Christian A. Herter was Governor of Massachusetts 20 years ago, his chairman of the Republican State Committee, Elmer Nelson, was addigned the task of digging up Republican candidates to run in districts where Democrats were virtually certain to win.

Nelson, an extremely capable politician, did a tremendous job, with, of course, the backing and cooperation of Herter.

Herter once was asked why he didn't assign a member of his staff to work with Nelson. "The members of my staff are paid from public funds for performing public business," he replied. "Elmer Nelson is paid with political funds for performing political business. We keep the two functions apart."

Christian A. Herter today must be spinning in his grave. In 20 years Massachusetts has become practically a one-party state. After the November election it probably will be one.

Pardoning Nixon

To the Editor:

It is quite apparent that the open and full pardon of former President Richard Nixon raises grave doubts in our minds as to the effectiveness, the ability or any capacity for leadership as it relates to President Ford.

The fact that there is a double standard of justice in this country, one for the powerful and wealthy and one for the common man, is regrettably too obvious. As far as Mr. Ford's conscience goes, what of the conscience upon which law and justice and the Constitution were founded?

Of course Mr. Ford has made a mockery of our legal system in this country and encouraged others to follow a path which establishes the idea that "if you can get away with it, you're innocent."

As to Mr. Noxon's unhappiness over the whole affair and his health, I would only mention the fact that every man on earth suffers depressions when he is faced with the reality of misdeeds. Mr. Nixon is suffering, or was suffering, what millions before him have suffered when caught with their fingers in the till. And I might add that the family of every criminal suffers greatly when a loved one is a criminal. But we have never based our legal system in the past on just how sorry a mother or a wife is becuase her son or husband murdered someone, defrauded someone or committed a felony.

Nixon now knows that he has gotten away with his activities and will continue to lie and cover up his criminal deeds.

I was sorry for Mr. Nixon. Now I am not.

Now let us consider those whom he defrauded. Let us consider the fact that he has done irrevocable harm to the innocent and set a mood and example that many young people will follow.

Let us consider those who went to jail and were led astray by Mr. Nixon's orders. Let us consider their families.

No, one cannot forgive a man for a crime simply because he is sorry, because he suffers moments of depression and because his family is unhappy. Imagine if this were the case in all criminal proceedings? Imagine if our legal system was based on how sorry a man says he is and how unhappy he feels. We might as well open the doors of all our jails right now.

The act of Mr. Ford does not put anything behind us, rather it opens up Watergate anew and on a vastly more serious scale than ever before. It opens the questions of whether our particular form of government really works after all. I don't believe that it does and one man at the head of government with so much power for good or evil can literally make or break a nation.

Presidents can do wrong. They can be fools. One man at the head of our government, as proven by Mr. Ford and Mr. Nixon, can no longer be allowed.

We cannot put the success or failure of our free enterprise and democratic process into the hands of what Harry Truman might have called "one blamed fool."

Mr. Ford acted on a whim, on the fact that Nixon was a crony and the fact that he was emotionally involved with the Nixon family. He acted on a whim at the expense of the American legal system and the American people and our Constitutional way of life.

Few people can really ever trust any decision that Mr. Ford now makes. I'm sure he felt for Mr. Nixon, but the presidency takes a toughness which Ford lacks. It must finally be pointed out that the Watergate tapes state rather flatly that Mr. Nixon was involved in "pay-offs." Other men are now spending 10 to 20 years behind bars for similar conduct.

Mr. Agnew got off because he was a rich and politically powerful man. Mr. Nixon got off because he was a rich and politically powerful man. Mr. Ford has dragged this nation down so far by his decision that our free way of life will probably never quite recover.

He has raised doubts now as to whether men can really live free. Perhaps men are too foolish and too whimsical to ever conduct their own lives without the careful application of laws and systems of checks and balances. Certainly the institution of the presidency needs a better system of checks and balances than now exists.

When Mr. Ford acts in the fashion that he has, it is quite obvious that our government is not of the people, by the people and for the people. This is the biggest fraud of them all.

Mr. Ford, we now know, is also a dictator.

Mr. Ford has proven one thing by his act of pardon; that he is also corrupt, that he also does not know right from wrong. Mr. Nixon picked the right man all right. He picked the best man to be his vice president.

Here is Mr. Nixon's penalty: he receives $96,000 a year for fun. He receives $60,000 a year for office expenses. His wife receives $20,000 a year for reasons I do not know of.

One of the greatest and cleverest criminals in the history of this country has managed to pull the wool over the eyes of a man with too much power, Gerald Ford.

Congress has a new court jester to play with now. And to top it all off, Richard Nixon requested an immediate $850,000 of Congress to set up an office.

I don't believe it. The star on America's horizon is fading. When morality goes, so goes the nation.

and-one-half mile limit. These buses reportedly exist because of safety factors.

Mrs. Zonderman suggested that it might be less dangerous for Cabot area students to board the Jackson-Washington bus than to walk Cabot Street. Walking to this bus would reportedly require the crossing of Washington Street.

There were also complaints from several Weeks parents about the changing of Weeks bus routes. Dorothea Fine of 23 Channing Rd. noted that the bus stop at Morton Street has been eliminated although it is "exactly 1.5 miles to school."

Mandell repeated what he had said before. "If there are areas we have missed, we'll restore them."

In response to concern over a possible safety problem for students, School Committee member Joan Needleman said that this should not be "an adversary situation. The School Committee feels children should be safe."

There was talk about the state reimbursement formula for busing. After it was reported tthat the state reimburses 65 per cent of the costs, a man in the audience suggested that parents be given the option of picking up the other 35 per cent to get additional busing.

This might be difficult to administrate, however, because the 35 per cent reportedly represents $5 per every student in the city.

Robert Sherer of 7 Burr Rd., Newton Centre questioned the School Committee's policy of denying busing to private school students attending schools outside of Newton. He said that the "private school transportation ruling is contrary to the General Laws." He referred to Chapter 76, Section 1.

The School Committee has received a legal opinion which says it is not obliged to transport private school students outside of Newton.

First day

McLeod suggested that they "go down to the gym to see if there are any balls there," but his companion said he did not want to go.

"I want to go home," he told McLeod. "I'm tired."

When the moment of forced entry to Ms. Salmon's room finally arrived, the boy tried to hold onto a wall to keep himself outside. This proved unsuccessful, and the room soon had its second cryer of the morning.

I asked several other children why they thought the boy was crying. One suggested that maybe he had "a cut or something." Ms. Salmon reported that she asked a first grader who had a similar problem last year the same question, and he said he did not know why the boy was crying.

McLeod explained his efforts with the reluctant student. "We want to keep him," the principal said. "If we let him go, he's won. He's learned a tantrum will get him what he wants."

McLeod remarked that the boy will now associate him with trauma, since he held him while his parent left. "It may take months to get a relationship with him," McLeod said.

The boy was left with physical education teacher Henry van Putten Jr., and his efforts were apparently soothing, because toward the end of the morning, they both returned to Ms. Salmon's room. The boy sat in the doorway of the room, and eventually made use of art materials in the room to begin a picture.

Ms. Salmon did not impose any organization on her children during the first hour they were in the room. The kids learned the resources of the room, and the teacher mingled from child to child.

Around 10 a.m., the kids were called together to a circle on the floor and attendance was taken. Two children did not join the group.

The first unhappy boy had remained in tears during most of the morning. He continued to sob as names were read off and other children began to tell of what they did during the summer.

He eventually came to sit just outside the circle, fingers in mouth, but not crying. When the morning ended, he had accepted the room enough to be working with Lincoln Logs.

The other loner stayed with the Lincoln Logs while his classmates gathered together. Ms. Salmon traveled to his territory to learn his name.

Ms. Salmon reported this week that there has been no crying since the first day. She said that one of the unhappy boys told her on the second day that she was "the best teacher in the whole world."

An interesting feature of the first day was the patience shown by the children toward their unhappy classmates. Not to be found was derision or condescension toward the kids who were having trouble.

The kindergarten children and first graders meet together every morning while first graders stay afternoons. Mornings included special activities like music, art, and gym, while reading and math are stressed in the afternoons.

Ms. Salmon said that "in the long run, the brighter kindergarten child advances faster than he would normally" as a result of being with first graders. She noted that first graders can teach their younger classmates things they have learned.

Ms. Salmon commented that kindergarten children will sit and watch first graders doing something until they are sure they can do it and want to do it.

"It has been very revealing to see the groups together," she said.

Electrolysis may offer clean source of energy

Where will we find clean sources of energy for the future? A new exhibit at Boston's Museum of Science suggests that the chemical process of electrolysis may be one answer.

A relatively simple process, electrolysis involves the breakdown of water, H2O, into hydrogen and oxygen molecules. It is accomplished through the transfer of electrical energy to chemical energy.

The resulting energy can be stored in the hydrogen and oxygen, and released when it is needed later by recombing the two gases. A specifically designed fuel cell can be used to convert the chemical energy directly to electricity, or the two gases can be recombined by combustion to produce heat and pressure.

The only byproduct of this process is water, a clean residue. Thus, the energy released through the recombination of oxygen and hydrogen provides a non-polluting source of power.

Museum visitors can activate the electrolysis process by pushing a button on the metal and glass exhibit. Once it has begun, they may watch the bubbles of hydrogen and oxygen rise through the glass tubes into a bell jar. Lighted numbers count down to the spark that ignites the molecules and causes the recombination of the gases. As this happens, visitors can hear the "pop" sound and see the faint light given off when the energy is released.

Scientists researching possible solutions to our energy problems are examining electrolysis as a workable means of producing a clean, abundant source of energy, says Larry Bell, Education Associate at the Museum. One idea under consideration is the use of solar energy or wind power to electrolyze ocean water and pepe the resulting hydrogen gas and oxygen gas to shore to provide power for electric plants.

Electrolysis may sound like a mouthful to the average layman, but visitors to the Science Museum who can now study it at close range will find this term - one that will probably be heard more often - to be a surprisingly uncomplicated and easily understandable process.

Special Friday programs at Museum of Science

At Boston's Museum of Science, the arrival of mild autumn days signals the beginning of a whole new array of programs for all ages.

From September until June, the Museum offers a different evening program every Friday at no charge above half price Museum admission (after 5 p.m.). Early fall Fridays are an especially good time for college students to visit the Museum, as they are admitted for only 25 cents on Friday nights (5 p.m.-10 p.m.) until October 4.

On Friday evening, September 13, Museum visitors will have a chance to study the training and performance demanded of dogs used in police work. Demonstrations of the dogs' abilities point up the absolute necessity of both obedience and intelligence. The program is being presented by the Hanover Police Department.

Attention will shift from the animal kingdom to the botannical world on September 20, when the Boston Mycological Club holds an open evening meeting at the Science Museum. Related exhibits of mushrooms from the Museum's collections will underscore the program's emphasis.

The last Friday in September will feature the first of a two-evening series of science fiction films. The Flash Gordon classic, "The Purple Death from Outer Space," will be shown September 27 followed by "Them," the story of mutant ants, on October 4.

Other special attractions scheduled during September include "To Catch a Rhino," a free film shown twice daily through September 12; "The Stars of Fall," presented daily in the Charles Hayden Planetarium from September 16 to 30; a temporary exhibition, "The Intelligent Ear," featuring a variety of visitor-operated components on sound and hearing; an extension, by popular demand, of "Color Around Us," an exhibition illustrating the importance of color in every aspect of our lives.

The Museum is located on the MBTA Lechmere route of the Green Line, at Science Park. For those who drive, parking is available at reasonable rates in the Museum's garage.

'Parish Alert' religious education congress set

Over 3,000 religious educators are expected at the Boston Religious Education Congress to be held at Hynes Veterans Auditorium, Boston, on Sunday, September 15th. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and for the rest of the day the Congress entitled "Parish Alert" will be geared to updating religious educators throughout the Archdiocese of Boston in the current thrusts of religious education.

The exhibition area will be taken over by more than 40 exhibitors presenting the latest publications, audiovisuals and books in the field of religious education.

Arriving from Louvain Catholic University to give the opening address, "Sacraments - The Center of Family Life," will be Dr. Christiane Brusselmans. This year Dr. Brusselmans will teach at Harvard Divinity School and Boston College.

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros will celebrate a special liturgy for the throng at 11:15 a.m. The liturgy is being prepared by Rev. Richard Butler, Secretary of the Diocesan Liturgical Commission, in conjunction with Rev. Francis Strahan, Director of Music at St. John's Seminary.

Following the liturgy there will be a break for lunch and visiting the exhibit area.

The afternoon session will open with the well known author and columnist, Rev. Joseph Champlin, who willtalk on "Making the Parish a Christian Community." His syndicated column "Worship and the World" appears in over 90 diocesan newspapers. He will offer suggestions for building a parish into a believing, praying, loving and serving community.

An interesting panel will highlight the afternoon session. I t will feature Rev. Alfred McBride, O. Praem, of Catholic University; De. Rebecca Carroll of Baltimore, Maryland; and Rev. Regis Duffy, O.F.M. of Holy Name College, Washington, D.C. This panel of educators will discuss the unique gift of individual persons as they contribute to the vital areas of adult education and family life.

The Congress will close with a short prayer service of Thanksgiving at 4:30 p.m.

Cliffhanger on election night

By CYNTHIA BLACK
of the Graphic staff

Election night is always either triumph or tragedy, depending on whether or not you've backed a winner or a loser.

Tuesday was another election night of surprises in Newton when word began circulating through the city that the 16th Middlesex district race between Joseph DeNucci and Richard J. McGrath was going to be a cliff-hanger.

Early after the polls closed, the once extremely confident Richard J. McGrath stood in his kitchen staring incredulously at a blackboard on the kitchen table, the results of the work of his spotters at the polls.

His original talleys showed that DeNucci had him by eight votes. The figures on his blackboard were DeNucci, 1715 and McGrath, 1708.

Oblivious to the crush of fellow-aldermen and supporters, McGrath just continued to look down at the blackboard, mumbling rhetorical questions.

Meanwhile, back at City Hall where a small crowd had gathered to await the precinct by pricinct vote counts, DeNucci supporters appeared with their candidate.

Another surprised and watchful group, trying to find confirmation of their results.

They had arrived at a dead heat.

Their figures said: DeNucci, 1708 and McGrath, 1708.

What hung in the balance were the absentee ballots.

At City Hall, election regulars were aware early in the evening that they were in for a long night.

The polls closed at 8 p.m. Silence and inactivity reigned at "election central" until well after 9 p.m.

McGrath supporters, also seeking confirmation, appeared in the basement cafeteria.

There was nothing to do but wait.

DeNucci said Wednesday he spent his night sitting at his headquarters and analyzing the results.

"I really felt that we were going to be the official winner," the candidate said, "my organization was tremendous."

The unofficial outcome, coming well after midnight, was neither DeNucci by 8 or a tie. It was the squeaker vote, McGrath by 3.

There will be a recount.

"There will positively be a recount," DeNucci said. "And if, in fact, he (McGrath) wins; I will urge my people to support him."

McGrath Wednesday was cautiously confident.

"Machine figures are pretty reliable," he said. "Everyone seems to think that the vote will stand up."

"It wasn't exactly what you would call a comfortable margin to win by," he said.

"We'll just have to wait and see."

While results began to trickle into City Hall, the Fishman and Backman people had completed their duties; and by 9:30 p.m., the grapevine was reporting that Fishman had conceded.

He'd held Newton by a slim margin. Backman had buried him in Brookline.

At Fishman's home on Beacon Street, the Fishman trademark, dignity, prevailed over the tendency toward gloom.

It was quiet talk, philosophical approaches, acceptance.

Fishman's chief aide, James Barron, weary after days without sleep, returned again to his theme of the contrast in styles of the two campaigns.

The quiet man versus the dynamo.

14,000 Newton Democrats had voted. Almost half went for Backman over Fishman.

"Jack had one resounding victory," Fishman said. "It's a tribute to Jack - he's done a good job."

"My own city did not stay with me or turn out in sufficient numbers to offset the margin in Brookline," Newton's senator commented.

The scene at the Chateau Garod in Brookline was what can be expected when entering the winner's circle.

A jubilant Backman stood at the door greeting supporters while a party swirled around him.

"I worked hard to get reelected, and I got reelected," the delighted winner said smiling.

"It is a great victory, but a sad one," he went on to say. "I'm going to miss Irving in the Senate."

With that, he was off and running on the issues again.

"We must do something about the economic climate in Massachusetts," he said, changing the subject abruptly. "It's a Massachusetts problem and a national problem and it's our prime responsibility."

"We must fight to bring new industry into Massachusetts and we must fight even harder to see that not one more enterprise leaves Massachusetts."

And then another crush of people, a grab of his arm, a shout of 'congratulations,' and he was gone.

Local 800 pact-

The principal points of contention, McParland said, are the police demands for time-and-one-half pay for overtime and improved educational incentives.

The Fire Department negotiations are "stalemated," according to Capt. Bernard Goulding, and Lt. Richard Beecher, in charge of negotiations, describes the situation as "at an impasse."

The lawyer for the Fire Department, E. David Wanger, is away on vacation and will not return until Sept. 23. Until then no decision can be made about whether it will be necessary to go into mediation.

The Fire Department has been offered the same increase as Local 800, but negotiators are asking for a cost-of-living increase, which they figure at 11.9 per cent.

Reportedly the firefighters will accept the increase partly in improved fringe benefits.

Officials of Local 800 have denied that they are deliberately delaying signing their contract.

"The wording is still not right," Vice President Robert Hand asserted, and went on to say that the entire membership may have to vote on the contract once it is worked out.

One of the conditions galling Local 800 appears to be the possibility that the police and firemen may wind up with a more favorable contract. This potential was avoided in the contract of two years ago, which stipulated that other bargaining units would get no higher increases than Local 800.

candidate would win, no one believed it possible until a recent newspaper poll showed Guzzi making enormous strides and rapidly.

Guzzi's final victory of some 100,000 votes surprised even his most ardent believers.

In the 16th District three-way race for Democratic nomination ballot sheets from the voting machines are already locked in a City Hall vault and under 24-hour police guard.

The candidacy of Mrs. Helen Doona, who gathered 555 votes, may be responsible for the close vote between McGrath and DeNucci, although neither of the two would admit that her votes cut into his opponent's vote.

According to law, the recount cannot begin until seven days have elapsed. After the election.

Challenger William Matthews, a Republican unopposed for his party's nominatiom in the primary, appeared at City Hall while the results were being given, and seemed to enjoy the situation.

In major state offices, voting was extremely light for Republican candidates for governor, with Gov. Francis Sargent outstripping Carroll Sheehan by more than two to one.

Although Newton resident William Cowin had the endorsement of Mayor Theodore Mann and pulled in over 1600 votes here, Josiah Spaulding took the Republican nomination for attorney general statewide.

Republican Laurence Curtis of Brookline, who on Monday announced his withdrawal as a candidate for 4th District U.S. Congressman, opposing Robert Drinan, received 3,206 votes in Newton. Drinan's vote was 11,284.

The Republican party now has to get together and select another candidate to oppose Drinan in November.

For Democratic state offices, Michael Dukakis out polled the more conservative former attorney general Robert H. Quinn as candidate for governor to oppose Sargent and in the large field of potential candidates for attorney general, Edward Harrington of Needham won Newton but lost the state to Francis X. Bellotti. In Newton a large vote expected for George Sacco did not materialize.

In the uncontested Democratic primaries for state representative Peter Harrington of the 17th District, David Mofenson of the 18th, and Lois Pines of the 19th all ran consistently below the total Democratic votes in the precincts comprising their districts.

YMCA offering karate course

The Newton YMCA is offering a karate course in the Korean, tae kwon do style. This version of the martial arts emphasizes precise footwork as well as swift, decisive hand and arm techniques.

Chung-Koon Ma, sixth dan degree black belt, will instruct both experienced and inexperienced students. In 1964 and 1965 Ma was Korean national champion. He trained soldiers in the Korean and Vietnamese armies. Ma now operates his own school as well as teaching courses for the Y.

The Y course will meet on Thursday evenings from 7-8:30 p.m., starting Oct. 3. It will be for people 15-years-and-older, new or experienced. Class size is limited. People may call the Y at 244-6050 or visit at 276 Church St., Newton for more information.

Conservators plan tours of open spaces

The Newton Conservators will sponsor a series of tours this Fall of open spaces in Newton.

Conservators President Susan Wilkes, in announcing the tours, pointed out that both members and non-members are welcome and that there is no charge. The tours will go on regardless of the weather, and will not be postponed in the event of rain.

The first, on Sunday, Sept. 22, will be a bus tour of the geology of Newton, led by Dr. George Ehrenfried. It will depart at 2 p.m. from the MDC parking lot adjacent to R.H. Stearns at Hammond Pond Parkway.

Subsequent tours have been scheduled as follows: Sept. 28, Norumbega Area Walk; Oct. 6, Biology of Ordway Park; Oct. 13, Flora of Hammond Woods; Oct. 20, Bus tour of proposed Charles River Park and Oct. 27, Botany of Cold Spring. All tours begin at 2 p.m.

In addition to the tours the Conservators will hold a series of meetings on land use-open space issues in the city. A variety of land use issues are pressing upon Newton, Ms. Wilkes pointed out, and decisions are going to be made in the relatively near future that will affect the fate of the remaining 1195 acres of vacant land in the city. That figure includes the golf courses.

Further information on the tours may be obtained from Ms. Wilkes by calling 244-3174 between 7 and 9 p.m. Membership information may be obtained from Ms. Ann Dwelley at 332-4543.

Dodgers nip Braves 1-0

Don Sutton pitched a four-hitter for his fifth shutout and 15th win for the Dodgers, who maintained their 3 ½ game lead over the Reds in the West. Consecutive singles by Steve Garvey, Willie Crawford and Ron Cey off Carl Morton drove in the game's only run in the second inning.

Recreation notes

Square dance class for beginners starts Monday

Newton people from 16 to 80 are being invited to join the square dance class for geginners sponsored by the Newton Recreation Department. The class will be held in the cafeteria of the new Frank A. Day Junior High School, Minot Place, Newtonville, from 8-10:30 p.m., Mondays, beginning Sept. 16.

President Irving Park of the Garden City Squares has announced that Monday, Sept. 16 and Monday, Sept. 23 will be "open nights" and residents are invited to come find out what square dancing is all about.

Lessons will be given by well-known square dance caller Archie Howell, and experienced dancers will be on hand too help newcomers.

There are about 250 calls, but beginners may expect to learn 150 basic calls the first year. The classes will continue through June of 1975. The first two sessions are free, but from the third evening on a donation of $1.25 will be required. Refreshments will be served and parking is a vailable on Walnut and Craft Street, and Linwood Avenue.

Now in its third year, the classes average 70 dnacers a session and in the first two years have graduated 146 dancers from the beginners class. Residents may register Monday night at F.A. Day Junior High, or may get further information by calling Irving Park at 244-0598.

Adult Tennis Tourney

Some 60 players participated in the Adult Tennis Tournament recently sponsored by the Newton Recreation Department.

Tom Fentin defeated Bill Ruth 7-6 and 7-5 for the Men's title, while Connie Allen won the women's championship by defeating Jo Pepper 6-3 and 6-3.

In the doubles, Gene Dressler and Jack Wittenberg defeated Tom Weinstock and Jay Goldman, 6-1 6-7, and 6-3.

The women's doubles crown went to Phyllis Adelburg and Jo Pepper, who won over Dorie Thomas and Jean Cole, 6-1, 7-6.

Tag Football

The Recreation Department's Tag Football League will begin league play, Thursday, Sept. 24th. An organizational meeting was held at the Recreation Department office Monday evening. Teams in the league this year include George's Packers, Capello Bros., Paulini Loam, Roupen's Raiders, Rogan's Sporting Goods, Magoos, Troubadours, Post 440, and the Auburndale A.C.

Games are played Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Albemarle Playground. The first game is at 6:30 p.m. and the second at 7:30 p.m. under the lights.

Pop Bryant Memorial

An all-star squad from the Newton Recreation Department's "A" Division of the Softball League will represent the City in the Newton Pop Bryatnt Memorial All-Star Tournament to be held at Albemarle Thursday, Sept. 19 through Sunday, Sept. 22.

Other entries are from Cambridge, Brookline, Dedham, Wellesley, Brockton, and the Puerto Rican All-Stars from Boston. It will be a double elimination tournament. All proceeds from the tournament will be turned over to the "Jimmy Fund."

Girls' Street Hockey

The Newton Recreation Department's Girls Street Hockey League will begin play on Tuesday, Sept. 17th at Cabot Park. Girls in the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth grades are eligible. Individuals or teams should report to Cabot Park at 6 p.m. on Sept. 17 ready to play.

The initial session will be devoted to registration and practice. Girls should bring their sneakers, but the Recreation Department will supply sports equipment.

For further information people may call Fran Towle at the Newton Recreation Department 969-3171.

YMCA to have open house

Newton residents are invited to an open house at the Newton YMCA, 276 Church street, Newton Corner, Sept. 18 at 10:30 a.m. and Sept. 19 at 7 p.m.

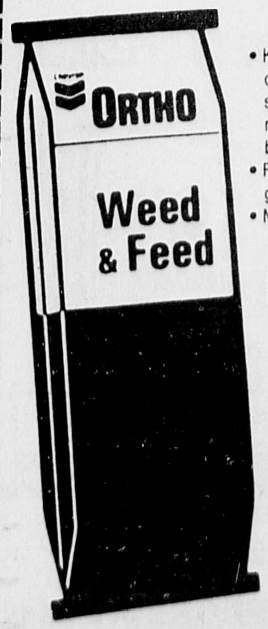

On Sept. 18, there will be pool activities; tiny-tot swims, swimnastics, synchronized swimming, and women's lessons' demonstrations.

A buffet lunch - open free to the public - will follow upstairs with slymnastics, volleyball, tennis, racquetball, squash, gymnastics, floor ping-pong, and more.

Along with lunch, will be a fashion show with Mrs. Mary Bonica's students as models. There will also be ceramics displays, cake and sugar decorating, and indoor and outdoor gardening.

Hello

Newly born Matthew D. Harrington greets his parents for the first time. Matthew's birth is followed in a photo-article in the September issue of the "Quarterly," published by Newton-Wellesley Hospital. The article traces two families through family-centered childbirth from labor to delivery to family-centered care. The magazine will be mailed Sept. 12.

Adult education registration at Newton Junior Sept. 18, 19

Newton Junior College will hold registration for its adult education program from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 18 and 19, at Administration Hall, Washington Park, Newtonville.

The program is open to all residents of Newton and neighboring communities. It includes academic, cultural, and general education courses without credits or prerequisites.

The courses and workshops are designed for adult citizens who wish to continue their formal education in morning and eveing programs at the College. The program is sufficiently broad in scope to provide ample opportunity for adults to promote self-improvement, to meet specific educational feeds, or to fulfill a particular cultural or civic goal.

The courses will met one night a week, 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. unless otherwise indicated, from Sept. 23 to Dec. 19, and from Jan. 27 to April 17, 1975.

The courses offered are: Counseling services for adults - an opportunity for Newton adults to meet individually with a professional counselor of the college faculty to discuss educational or vocational concerns. Persons seeking aid on such matters as future schooling, career possibilities, and personal decision-making as related to vocational or educational choices are invited to schedule an appointment by calling the college at 969-9570.

Language laboratory - The learning laboratory at the college will be used in all beginning language courses to give students an opportunity for individual and group practice on basic oral expression and listening comprehension. Recordings of student responses to audio tape statements under the supervision of the laboratory instructor will help a student develop his skill in conversation an understanding. Meets Monday nights.

French beginning - An opportunity to begin the fundamentals of French and to use them in extensive oral practice. Conversations, narrations, and brief discussion among class members are designed to increase the students vocabulary and acquaint them with idiomatic expressions. Topics are based on comon occurrences. Dictation, grammar, vocabulary, and comprehension work aid students to arler Francais. Meets Monday nights.

French, intermediate - Designed to help students acquire the habir-forming processes of spoken language, construction, patterns, and speech sounds. This course makes possible greater facility to self-expression. A thorough and systematic review of fundamental principles of grammar with intensive practice is included. Course meets Monday nights.

Italian, beginning - A course for those who have no previous formal knowledge of the anguage. Those who have had some familiarity with spoken, but not written Italian, may find this course especialy helpful. Emphasis on conversation provides a background of vocabularly and grammar as the students learn to understand and speak the language. MEETS Mondays.

Italian, intermediate - A course for those who have had beginning Italian or its equivalent. The student is encouraged to think in Italian in order to acquire ease in expressing himself orally and in writing. This class may expect to quickly review the grammar. As soon as the student learns an adequate, simple vocabularly, discussions, especialy on Italy today, are conducted in Italian. Course meets Tuesdays.

Spanish, begining - The course is especially adapted for the adult student. By means of object-conceptive and audiophonic methods the student will be guided in the use of basic elements of the Spanish language as a means of communication. Course meets Monday (Sec. 1) - Wednesday (Sec. 2).

Spanish, Intermediate - A course in spoken Spanish, stressing frequent structures and idiomatic expressions in the language. Classroom discussions will focus on assigned reading material that deal with family life, travel, custom, traditions, and attitudes of the Spanish people. The progressive development of the listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills will be emphasized. Course meets Thursday.

Operadventures - A series of slide illustrated programs, each devoted to a different opera, will both introduce and entertain. The course includes both repertory and revival operas to be performed by the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Companies. Course meets Thursdays.

For further information, people may call the College at 969-9570.

Manning, Bernard Roach and Lewis B. Songer.

GUIDELINES ON ALCOHOL PROBLEMS

MORE AND MORE TEEN-AGE DRINKING

Parents are being cautioned not to breathe a sigh of relief just because their teenagers are not on hard drugs. The number of teenagers, under 19, arrested for intoxication has tripled in the past 10 years. Some cities even have A.A. groups strictly for young people.

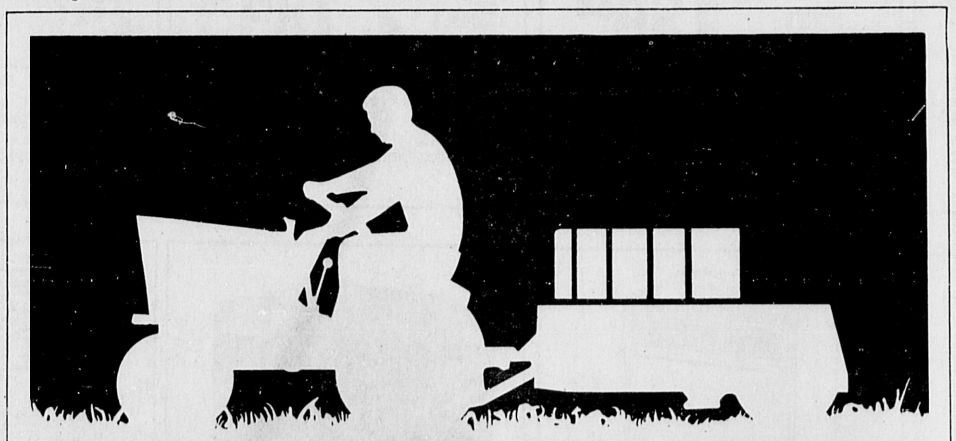

A high official in New York state is concerned that the dramatic publicity and programs focused on hard drug abuse by teenagers will becloud the fact that alcohol is far more serious problem in this age group. Alcohol, too, is a drug . . . and an addictive one.

It may be cheaper to start on, but its final toll far surpasses that of hard drugs.

Lawn Doctor®

If you like what we're doing for someone else's lawn... you'll love what we do for yours!

No two lawns are exactly the same. That's why Lawn Doctor gives you customized service!

Year round, your Lawn Doctor specialist gives you customized service, tailored to your own lawn's unique needs. What's right for your neighbor's lawn or the fellow's down the street isn't necessarily right for yours.

Your neighbor may have a chickweed problem. The guy across the road may be fighting off armyworms.

But your lawn's worst enemy may be fungus, grubs or billbugs. That's why Lawn Doctor chemically analyzes your lawn before prescribing the best treatment to keep it healthy and beautiful.

Seeding, fertilization, weed, fungus and insect control—these are just some of the services we customize for your lawn's year-round care. And we always follow through with periodic checkups to ensure that your lawn receives the best possible care!

Special $24.95 introductory offer.

Take advantage of the special one-application introductory offer available now from your local Lawn Doctor lawn service. It begins with a thorough examination of your lawn. This includes soil tests to determine the exact composition of your lawn. Once the results are analyzed, you get seed, two kinds of top-quality fertilizer, power aeration, power rolling and all labor. You get all this—for an area up to 4,000 square feet—for just $24.95. That's practically what you'd pay for the seed and materials alone!

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening; a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparalleled sound sensation . . . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation.

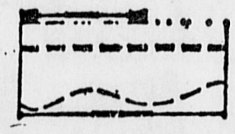

1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

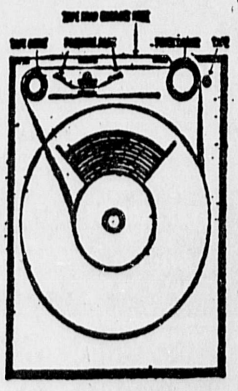

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited.

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.

How does a tape cartridge work? Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

Kidney women continue to seek transplant donors

The Women's Committee of the Massachusetts Kidney Foundation is forging ahead in its search for kidney donors. As co-chairmen of the Educational Committee, Mrs. Sidney Sandler and Mrs. Gerald Schuster report that a kidney transplant is the only hope for thousands of people — men, women, and children alike who are afflicted with kidney disease. Since 1954 there have been over 8,000 kidney transplants throughout the world. By donating a kidney you are actually giving a gift of life to a patient suffering from kidney failure.

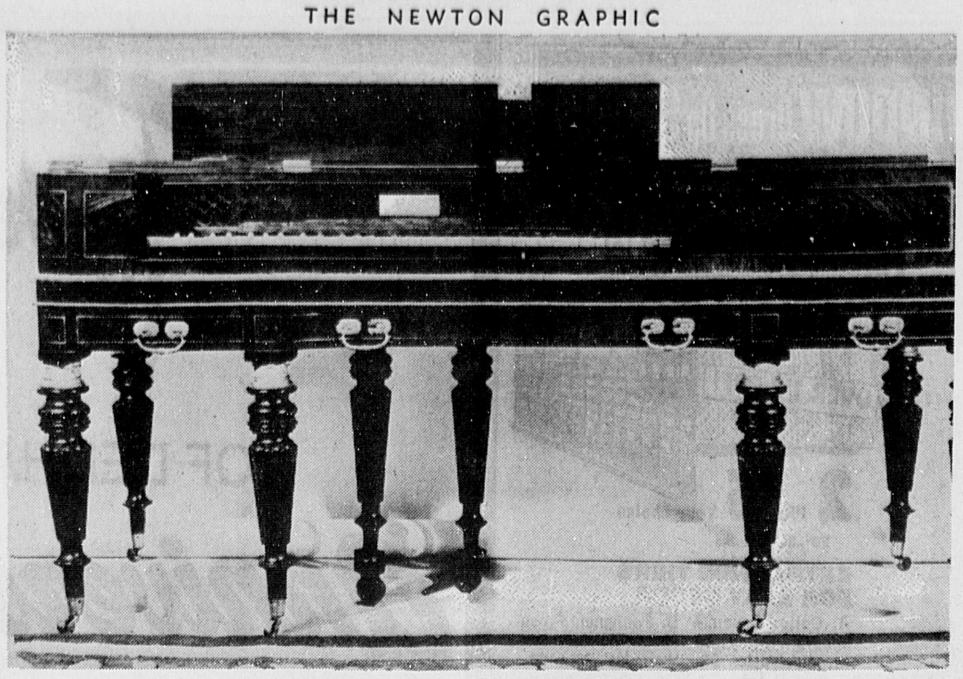

To raise funds for their educational program the Women's Committee is sponsoring the premier of the new motion picture "The Odessa File." The Oct. 17 showing will be held at the Sack Cheri Theater at 8 p.m.

Chairmen of this gala event are Mrs. Norman Goldberg and Mrs. Jeffrey Kosow. Chairman of reservations is Mrs. Frederick Anderson.

More information about the premier and a brochure about how to become an organ donor is available by contacting the office of the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts at 137 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.

Auction

This rare instrument will go to the highest bidder Nov. 14 at the New England Baptist Hospital League's auction in Horticultural Hall. It is a Babcock piano, circa 1820.

West Newton women chair fundraiser

Mrs. Frank N. Allan and Mrs. Everett D. Kiefer, both of West Newton, are area cochairwomen for New England Baptist Hospital League's major fund raising event in November.

Antiques will be sold at a benefit auction to be held in Horticultural Hall in Boston Nov. 14.

Donated anonymously, a Babcock piano, circa 1820, is one of the 300 antiques to be sold.

Working in one of several of his shops in Boston, Alpheus Babcock, was said to have excelled in both the aesthetic and functional aspects of piano making. He oatented an iron piano frame and experimented with cross-stringing. Adaptations of his ideas are still being used today.

Other auction items include collections of pewter, glassware and china; antique jewelry, rare paintings, a Sheraton desk and a grandfather's clock.

Mrs. Allan said that gifts of "forgotten treasures," especially "those of fine arts quality" are still needed for the auction and are tax deductible.

The catalogue listing donors will close Oct. 1. Contact Mrs. Allen at 527-8783 for further information.

Hospital Trustee Richard A. Bourne of Hyannis has contributed his services as an auctioneer for the special benefit. Mrs. Kenneth D. Wakefield of Duxbury is the chairwoman.

An auction preview reception will be held Wednesday, Nov. 13.

Handguns subject of LWV unit meetings

Handgun control will be the subject of the League of Women Voters of Newton at unit discussion meetings Sept. 19 and 20. This topic was adopted as an emergency "mini-study" by the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts.

Handgun laws have recently become of interest at the local, state and national levels. Federal legislation is a relative newcomer to gun regulation and is of limited scope. Many states are considering passing or amending present laws because of the crimes committed by the misue of handguns.

As of now, threr are more than 20,000 state and local laws dealing with firearms regulation, ranging from very little control to strict control.

Mrs. Betty Dyer, chairman, and her committee will act as resource persons in discussing what the existing laws are and whether they are effective and enforceable. Questions such as whether there is need for further limitation on the sale and possession of handguns will be raised.

The report of the Newton League members will be submitted to the state League along with reports from other Leagues in Massachusetts. A position on handgun control, which will be the basis for action, will then be formulated.

The Newton meetings will be held at the following times and places: Thurs., Sept. 19, 9:15 a.m. at the First Baptist Church, 848 Beacon St., Newton Centre; 8 p.m. at 73 Parker St., Newton Centre; Fri., Sept. 20, 9:15 a.m. at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock St.

Interested members of the public are invited. For directions and further details call Judy Lavine (969-2953).

Miller noted for sales efforts

Cincinnati-based Texo Corporation has established a president's club to honor all of the firm's salesmen who have done an outstanding job in sales and service during the past year.

Stanley Miller is among the first Texo representatives to receive this award for 1973 efforts. Future awards will be given at this time annually.

Miller will receive a plaque, business cards imprinted with the president's club seal, and other corporate recognition.

Deadline

The deadline for copy for the women's pages of the Newton Graphic is Friday at noon.

All stories, Around Newton items, weddings, engagements and pictures must be received by noon of the Friday preceding publication.

Stories can be mailed to: Women's Editor, Newton Graphic, P.O. Box 400, Newton, Mass. 02161 or dropped off at the Graphic office, 1178 Walnut St., Newton Highlands.

Weddings and engagements are used on a space available basis.

Tony Bennett and Lena Horne to perform at medical center benefit

"Join us for an evening with Tony Bennett and Lena Horne" is the message on hundreds of invitations mailed recently by the Ladies Committee of Tufts-New England Medical Center. The two world-renowned performers will appear in concert on Oct. 23 at 8 in Symphony Hall to benefit the hospital's Development Fund.

To add to the evening's festive atmosphere, a Dutch Treat Dinner will be held at the Constitution Room of the Sheraton-Boston Hotel. Cocktails at 5:30 will preced a 6:30 dinner.

An unusual combination of two highly distinctive song stylists, the concert should delight the entire family. Appearing individually for a part of the evening, Mr. Bennett and Miss Horne will sing together at the opening and closing of the program. The concert marks their first appearance together in Boston and the only one in the United States this fall.

While this unique event will benefit the Development Fund, members of the T-NEMC Ladies Committee are also responsible for on-going fund raising activities which include the hospital's Gift, Thrift and Coffee Shops. Through these projects the Ladies Committee raises funds to support purchase of new equipment, expansion of facilities, and other pressing needs of the medical center.

During the past year, the Committee also completed a community beautification effort — the landscaping of the new Proger and Dental Health Sciences Buildings.

The October 23 concert is the only fund-raising event sponsored by the Committee this year. Long-range planning was necessary, and Mrs. Edward J. Mitton, chairman, and her benefit committee have been at work since early spring.

Committee members include Mrs. Weston Howland, Jr., chairman of the Ladies Committee; Mrs. Alexander Welch and Mrs. Robert H. Watts, invitations; Mrs. George L. Sargent and Mrs. George C. Seybolt, sponsors; Mrs. Samuel H. Proger and Mrs. Burton C. Hallowell, representing T-NEMC and Tufts University respectively; Mrs. Arthur G. Mitton, Jr., mailing; Mrs. John W. Sheetz, tickets; Mrs. David H. Howie, treasurer; and Mrs. George W. Roberts, publicity.

Births

Recent births at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital include the following:

A daughter to Mrs. Philip R. Gannon, 119 Harding St., West Newton.

A son to Mr. and Mrs. Mark F. Lapham, 403 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Newton "Y" offers sports programs

Three new swimming activities for women and girls highlight the expanding physical program offered this fall at the Newton YMCA.

Women's swimnastics, an aquatic exercise program, will be available for the first time on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. The class features 45 minutes of muscle relaxation and toning in the "Y" pool to the accompaniment of music.

Also offered for the first time will be separate classes in synchronized swimming for women and girls. Classes for women are on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings, while the girls' course is on Thursday.

Another new activity for girls is the swim team, which will compete in the Eastern District YMCA League this winter. Competition is slated for three age groups, and practices will be held at least twice weekly.

The great success of the tiny tot gym classes at the "Y" has spurred the creation of "Tigger Gym," another low organizational class for young children. For boys and girls 6 and 7 years old (tiny tot gym is for 3-5 year olds), tigger gym classes will feature basic sports skills and games in an effort to develop coordination and aid in socialization.

Many successful adult activities are being continued this fall, including volleyball of every level and vareity. Recreational volleyball time is set aside for men, women, and coed enthusiasts, in addition to team practice for the more serious players.

Once again, the women's exercise program is offered three mornings and two evenings each week. Also, a new physical fitness testing clinic for women if available by appointment for those interested in testing clinic for women is available by appointment for those interested

Engagements

Sherman-Fine

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sherman of Newton Centre announce the engagement of their daughter Robin Meryl to Mr. Richard Alan Fine of Brookline.

Robin, a 1975 graduate of Lesley College is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Shuman, Hyman Sherman and Minnie Sherman.

Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fine of Brookline, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. I. Louis Fine of Brookline and Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Zaretsky.

A December 21st wedding is planned.

Foster-Tingley

Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Foster of 10 Baker Place, Newton Lower Falls, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Ruth, to David Halliday Tingley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Tingley of 605 Briarwood Rd., Charleston, W. Va.

Miss Foster is a graduate of Newton High School, class of 1971, and is presently a senior at Morris Harvey College in Charleston. She is also a gymnastics instructor at the Lawrence Frankel Physical Fitness Center.

Mr. Tingley graduated from Morris Harvey College with a degree in biology. He is employed by the Appalachian Power Co.

A May 1975 wedding is planned.

Forster to speak at Sidney Hill

Arnold Forster, associate director and general counsel of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, will address the annual dinner meeting of the New England Regional ADL Board Sunday evening, Sept. 22 at 6:30 p.m. at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

Forster, who was recently honred by Jewish community leaders in New York, for "35 years of achievement in behalf of civil liberty and human rights," is co-author with Benjamin R. Epstein, the League's national director, of "The New Anti-Semitism." His address to the New England Regional ADL Board will be based on the research found in this new book which was recently published by McGraw-Hill and reportedly documents a world wide insensitivity to Jewish welfare and concerns.

Another highlight of the annual meeting will be an election of officers for 1974-75. The nominating committee report will be made by its chairman, Morton R. Godine. Board members and their guests from six New England states will attend a cocktail party and reception prior to the dinner meeting, which will be chaired by Simon Scheff, outgoing chairman of the New England ADL Board.

Mrs. Silverstein presides at Hadassah's first meeting

Mrs. Maurice Silverstein, Chestnut Hill, newly elected president of the Boston Chapter of Hadassah, will preside at the opening fall meeting of the Chapter on Thursday, Sept. 12, at 1:15 p.m. in the Social Hall of Temple Ohabei Shalom, 1187 Beacon St., Brookline. The Boston Chapter is comprised of over 8000 members in Greater Boston, Brookline and Newton.

Highlighting the afternoon program will be a new film, "Al Always, Hadassah," depicting the outstandng role played by the Hadassah Medical Center in Israel during the Yom Kippur War and emotional scenes of the wounded, he emergency treatment given by Hadassah's medical staff and the process of recuperation and reunification with the soldiers' families. Mrs. Paul D. Slater, West Newton, Donor Bruncheon Chairman for the Chapter, will introduce the film.

Dolly Silverstein, a graduate of Boston Teachers College and a former teacher in the Boston school system became a life member of Hadassah over two decades ago and has attained an impressive portfolio of volunteer service with the Boston Chapter ever since.

Founded by Henrietta Szold in 1912, Hadassah is the largest women's organization in the United States and the largest Zionist organization in the world today, spending millions of dollars annually for its helath, educationa, vocational, social welfare and land redemption programs in Israel.

Homestead hours list

Mrs. William H. Cannard, director-curator of the Jackson Homestead, has announced the winter schedule for the house.

Facing the fall

Summer has long been a time for taking things easy—relaxing the rigid discipline that had you counting calories—forgetting the warnings of dermatologists against long hours in the sun—failure to keep skin moist with application of specially prepared moisturizers.

It's time now to face fall with a new look. Clothes are more feminine than they have been in years and it's wise to make the most of your assets.

All beauty, according to a famous makeup artist, begins with the skin. No makeup, regardless of price, will look right unless the foundation upon which it is built is good, and this care begins when a girl is eight or nine years of age.

Good skin starts from the inside, so it is important to watch the diet and eliminate fried foods, sweets and too many starches. Be sure to eat yellow and green vegetables (so abundant this time of the year) and include fresh meat, poultry or fish daily. Drinking four to six glasses of water daily is another "tonic" for healthy skin.

Everyone knows that lack of sleep shows up in tell-tale fashion on the face—bags under the eyes and poor color. The skin also reflects your emotional state. Whenever possible, try to avoid tension which leads to frowning and other facial expressions which can bring about permanent lines or wrinkles.

Overexposure to the elements usually results in loss of moisture to delicate skin tissues . . . this condition has long been considered the chief cause of premature aging of the skin.

Beauty seekers, as well as beauty authorities, have been aware that today's women are constantly on the go . . . in the rearing of children and running a household or holding down a 9-5 job (some women are doing both with miraculous expertise). These women just don't have the time for half-hour beauty regimes; their needs are for both treatment and makeup that will be effective in a relatively short period of time.

Estee Lauder, one of the world's leading cosmetics producers, has created a swift new beauty system that is simple, straightforward and most important, compatible with the fast-paced lifestyle of the new woman on the go. The products are called "Primary 4."

In describing this "new woman," Estee states, "You see them all day, everyday, on the tennis courts or rushing to the supermarket, leading a peace march or presiding at the P.T.A. They're the activists at the political conventions or the girl sitting next to you on the bus. They go—by jet, by boat, by car, by train, by bicycle or just plain walk, but they're alive, young in spirit and always, always moving."

"I know this woman wants the same speed, performance and absence of frills in her beauty products as she does in her life and I have made 'Primary 4' for her."

This consists of four products that get right down to the basics. They are a complete makeup and treatment regime: Allover Cleanser, All-over Moisturizer, Allover Cover and Allover Color (a type of liquid-blusher).

By Allover Cleanser, Estee Lauder really means . . . ALLOVER. This cleanser is a concentrate of gently cleansing ingredients to use with water to remove makeup, to take into the shower, to wash your face, your hair and your body. The lotion turns into a soapy froth on your skin, leaving you clean and silky from head to toe.

Allover Moisturizer is where you begin to pamper yourself—use it lavishly on your body after bathing . . . on your hands . . . on your face during the day under makeup, and again at night while you're asleep. An added plus is that the moisturizer has a sun screen to protect the woman on the go from the sun's dangerous ultra violet rays.

Makeup is called Allover Cover and comes in only one shade which works for everybody. Without heavy coverage (which is aging) this cover gives skin a healthy outdoor glow and looks as great over a tan as it does over a protected Dresden complexion. No fuss either, the application goes on as easily as a moisturizer.

The fourth Primary is Allover Color meant be be used subtly as a glow on cheeks, chin, noise, earlobes, or knees. "The entire Primary makeup routine from cleansing to glow takes just 3 minutes," says Estee Lauder, "now even the busiest woman has time to look her best."

"Primary 4" does not include lipstick or eye makeup—those finishing touches are up to you. What it does give you is good, quick skin care discipline which will, in turn, be the foundation for a healthier, fresher-looking face.

A new, easy basic approach to beauty

Just in time for the Jewish High Holidays (as well as being an all round cookbook for all denominations) a newly created "Kosher Cookbook" called "Creative Cuisine" is available with original recipes from the members of the Chestnut Hill Bat Ami Group of Hadassah. Editor of the cookbook is Adrienne Silverstein, wife of the Concert Master of The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Joseph Silverstein; co-Editor is Mrs. Malcolm Rosenblatt of Newton.

This book was created for fundraising purposes for Hadassah, its healing, teaching and research programs and projects in Israel. The charge for the book is $4.95 if it is picked up personally from any Chestnut Hill Hadassah Member, or from the Hadassah Office at 325 Harvard Street, Brookline. The book will be gift-wrapped and mailed anywhere for an additional charge of $1. Hadassah totally and solely supports two hospitals in Israel—the Hadassah Medical Center in Jerusalem and the Hadassah General Hospital on Mt. Scopus. Following are two excerpts from this unusual cookbook:

BRISKET WITH APRICOTS AND PRUNES

3 pounds lean brisket of beef
1 envelope onion soup mix
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon pepper
¾ teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
8 medium baking potatoes
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon brandy
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 pkg. (8 oz.) dried apricots (1 and one third cup)
1 cup pitted dried prunes
1 can (12 oz.) beer

Pull off a 26-inch length of 18-inch heavy-duty foil and place in center of a 10¾x7¾x2½-inch disposable foil roasting pan. Sprinkle one-half pkg. onion soup mix in bottom of foil-covered pan; place brisket in pan and sprinkle remaining onion mix over meat. Close and seal foil, Bake at 350 degrees for 3 hours. Meanwhile: Combine brown sugar, cinnamon, pepper, ginger, lemon juice, brandy, Worcestershire sauce and beer in a large bowl; add apricots and prunes; cover with foil; reserve. Remove heat from oven. Carefully open; turn back; pour apricot and prune mixture over meat and reseal. Return meat to oven; place potatoes on rack. Bake another hour or until meat is tender and potatoes are soft.

APPLE SQUARES

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
¼ pound butter
½ teaspoon salt
2½ cups sliced apples
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Confectioners sugar

Mix flour, sugar, butter and salt until crumbly. Press one-quarter of this mixture into an 8-inch square pan. Bake for 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Divide half the remaining mixture and mix with apples and cinnamon. Place on top of baked crust. Sprinkle remaining mixture over apples and bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar and, when cooled, cut into squares. Keep in refrigerator.

Our thanks to a reader who writes: "I am sending you the following recipe for Moussaka because my husband thinks I prepare it better than any he's ever eaten. Though there are 3 steps in making this casserole-type dish, it is well worth the effort and is really easy and oh so delicious!" Mrs. W., Canton. (A marvelous, inexpensive dish to serve at a dinner party.)

JANE'S MOUSSAKA

1 very large eggplant or 2 medium-sized ones
¼ cup melted margarine
Salt
1 tablespoon oil
1 cup chopped onion
1 pound ground beef
1 clove garlic, chopped fine
1 teaspoon oregano, crushed
1 teaspoon sweet basil, crushed
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt and dash of pepper
2 cans (8 oz. ea.) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons margarine
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt and dash pepper
2 eggs
8 tablespoons grated Cheddar cheese
8 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Step No. 1—Wash and dry eggplant and halve lengthwise. Cut into ½-inch slices and place cut side down on cookie sheet. Brush with melted margarine and sprinkle lightly with salt. Broil for about 3 minutes until golden—turn slices, brush with melted margarine and sprinkle lightly with salt and broil till golden. Remove from oven and set aside.

Step No. 2—Meat sauce: Brown onion, garlic and meat in oil. Add oregano, basil, cinnamon, salt, pepper and tomato sauce; stir well and simmer for 30 minutes, uncovered. Add 2 tablespoons fine bread crumbs to sauce and remove from heat.

Step No. 3—White sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons margarine, add flour, salt and pepper and stir with whisk. Remove from heat and add milk, stirring well; return to heat and bring to a boil, stirring until thickened. In a small bowl, beat eggs with wire whisk; stir in ½ cup of white sauce, stirring as you add—return this mixture to white sauce and stir well (prevents curdling). To assemble Moussaka: In large casserole or deep baking dish, arrange half of eggplant slices, overlapping or touching. Sprinkle with 4 tbs. grated Cheddar and Parmesan cheese. Pour entire meat sauce over eggplant. Add remaining eggplant slices and then pour cream sauce over all. Top with 4 tablespoons grated Cheddar cheese and 4 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Bake in 350 degrees for 45 minutes. (This dish can be made one day in advance—or frozen.)

Question: Can you tell me how to make garlic butter—the kind I can use to spread on French bread. Thank you.

S.R., Dedham

Answer: Here it is—the taste is divine and the aroma—well, it's worth it!

GARLIC BUTTER

4 large garlic cloves
½ cup water
½ cup sweet butter

Peel garlic cloves and boil them in the water for 2 minutes. Drain, dry on a paper towel, then crush in garlic press or mortar and pestle. Cream the butter thoroughly; add crushed garlic and mix until well blended.

Food and Fashions

by Ruth Lenson

Across the kitchen counter

There is a certain enchantment about recipes handed down from grandmother to mother to daughter, and never is it more prevalent than at holiday time.

Monday night, September 16th, is Rosh Hashonah and according to the Jewish calendar the year is drawing to a close. The holiday is deeply religious, marked by prayer and tradition and, as with other holidays, food is an important part of the celebration.

Symbolic of the hope for a good, sweet new year, on the evening of Rosh Hashonah the father of the family gives the benediction and each member of the family is given a piece of bread and a slice of apple dipped in honey.

The menu is a festive one. Roast turkey with rice and apple stuffing accompanied by carrot Tzimmes make a delicious holiday twosome. The golden succulent bird is stuffed with a savory rice mixture that includes orange juice, apples, raisins and walnuts.

Fresh fish has always had a special place in Jewish menus and here, replacing the customary gefilte fish is fish baked with vegetables. The seasoned vegetables are baked first until barely tender. The fish is then gently laid over the vegetables, and baked 20 minutes longer. Served with thick slices of buttered egg-rich challah, it is an immensely appealing dish for meatless meals.

Honey cake is also traditional. This is easy to make and is rich with raisins, chopped nuts and a subtle blending of honey, coffee and just a whiff of whiskey.

There is much visiting of family and friends at this time. Guests are usually offered thin slices of honey cake and lemon flavored cups of tea.

ROAST TURKEY WITH RICE AND APPLE STUFFING

½ cup peanut oil
1½ cups uncooked converted rice
2 cups orange juice
1½ cups water
3½ cups chopped pared apples
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
½ cup raisins
½ cup grated onion
6 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons grated lemon peel
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 turkey (10-12 pounds)
1 tablespoon peanut oil combined with 1 teaspoon salt
Orange slices
Parsley sprigs

Heat ½ cup peanut oil in 2½ quart saucepan and fry rice until golden brown, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add orange juice and water. Bring to a boil, then simmer 10-12 minutes, or until rice is almost tender. Cool slightly. Combine prepared rice with apples, walnuts, raisins, onion, sugar, lemon peel, salt and cinnamon and mix thoroughly. Set aside. Rub the turkey cavity with peanut oil and salt. Fill turkey with prepared dressing; tie or fasten with skewers and place breast side up, in a shallow roasting pan. Brush lightly with peanut oil and roast at 325 degrees for 3½ hours or until a meat thermometer registers 180-185 degrees when inserted into the thickest muscle of leg. Loosely cover with tented foil, if browning too quickly. Serve garnished with fresh orange slices and parsley sprigs. Serves 12.

CARROT TZIMMES

4 cups diagonally sliced carrots
1½ cups water
½ teaspoon salt
One-third cup honey
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons peanut oil
Grated lemon peel

Place sliced carrots in saucepan with water and salt. Bring to a boil and boil vigorously for 10 minutes. Add honey, sugar, cinnamon and peanut oil and cook over medium heat for 30 minutes, or until most of the liquid is absorbed and carrots are nicely glazed. Garnish with grated lemon peel. Serves 4-6.

Fish with vegetables

FISH WITH VEGETABLES

1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen cut green beans, thawed
6 small onions, halved
6 small potatoes, pared and sliced
4 carrots, pared and quartered
3 tablespoons butter or pareve margarine
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons Ac'cent, divided
1½ teaspoons dried dill weed
1 can (6 or 8 oz.) whole mushrooms, drained
2 pounds halibut steak
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

Place green beans, onions, potatoes and carrots in a 2-quart baking dish. Dot with butter and sprinkle with salt, pepper, 1 teaspoon Ac'cent and 1 teaspoon dill. Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for 1 hour. Uncover and add mushrooms. Place halibut steak over vegetables and sprinkle with remaining 1 teaspoon Ac'cent, ½ teaspoon dill and lemon juice. Cover and bake for 20 minutes longer, until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve from baking dish or transfer to a platter and garnish with fresh lemon slices. Serves 6.

HOLIDAY HONEY CAKE

2½ cups all purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking posder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon instant coffee powder
½ cup water
2 tablespoons whiskey
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup (8 oz.) honey
½ cup peanut oil
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a bowl, combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Set aside. Dissolve instant coffee in water—add whiskey and set aside. In a large mixing bowl, beat eggs and sugar for 3 minutes until light. Stir in honey and peanut oil and beat for 1 minute. Slowly add dry ingredients alternately with coffee mixture and beat only until mixture is well blended. Do not overbeat. Fold in raisins and nuts. Pour into a well greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan and bake in preheated oven for 1 hour and 10 minutes or until cake tests done. Turn out on rack to cool. Makes 1 loaf.

Can U.S. fashions ignore Paris couture?

The American fashion world likes to think that it can ignore Paris, but the couture fall collections have stirred up as much interest and controversy as ever.

After experimenting over the past couple of seasons, Paris has gone all out for a trend which can be described in three words: long, loose and soft. That may not sound controversial, but just add "very" in front of those words, and you have the fashion world in a swivet.

How much softness, looseness and length will the American woman go for? In the usual manner of couture, Paris put the three things together to get lots of bulk. Most fashion people here don't think that their customers will go for all that bulk.

"American women have good firuges and want to show them," said one leading American designer. Another added, "With the active life here, what woman wants to handle all that stuff?

Still, the trend is there, has been for at least a year. Classic sportswear, on which so much fashion has been based recently, certainly means at least a knew-length hem, soft silhouettes and fabrics. The only question is, how much?

As most American designers see it, following the trend should be done at a distance, say the distance between Paris and this country. For some, such as Mr. Blackwell, this is no problem. For years he's been dressing the kind of woman who likes to be fashionable in her own way.

This fall, he figures that 'way' as including a skirt with soft bias flare and hemline length that covers the knee but no more. Tops can be loose, too, but the American liking for a trim waistline must be accommodated.

One result is a pretty mohair costume with a batwing-sleeved jacket that buttons on a fitted waistband, and a gently rippling skirt. Another is a plaid suit with the same kind of skirt and a figure-accenting hipbone-length jacket with collar points long enough to extend over the shoulders. Mr. Blackwell gives it a new touch, a matching visored cap with a bit of veiling.

If the suit look is back, so is the two-piece dress. Ilie Wacs likes the rippling skirt to stop just above the calf. The top is tunic length, cut like a loose, pullover shirt and sashed. Wacs also believes the American waist should be shown off. Calvin Klein does a tunic top with that extra-loose couture cut, but he sashes it. At Ralph Lauren, the shirt grows longer and looser, but it's belted.

The American way of following the trend, therefore, is to combine length and looseness with some element of fit. At Gino Paoli, where knitting is a fine Italian art, but the designing is American, the three-piece suit combines a black skirt swinging with pleats and tunic-length, belted jacket in black, orange and red geometric jacquard, with a boldly notched collar. The turtleneck sweater beneath is in matching jacquard.

Gayle Kirkpatrick for Tudor Square puts separates together with the same combination of fit and looseness. His collared loden cape with the buttoned front is cut dashingly full, but the long turtleneck sweater accents its soft fit with a belt, and plaid pants complete the effect.

Stan Herman for Harmon puts lots of ripple into a skirt of soft wool, nylon and rabbits' hair blend that may be calf-length but isn't droopy.

Then he cuts the long line by tucking in a paisley crepe blouse, and making the knit cardigan jacket thigh length. In effect, the longer skirt doesn't really look all that long when the silhouette is cut with horizontal lines in two places.

It's this kind of adaptation that American designers do so well. When Morty Susman of Mollie Parnis Boutique does a calf-length crepe evening dress, he gives it an almost waist-length rippling capelet top, or a dolman-sleeved bodice whose width reduces the apparent length of the dress.

The American way with new softness, looseness and length is seen in this mohair costume. Skirt in rippling bias cut covers the knee, batwing jacket opens down to a waistline-accenting buttoned waistband. About $300

Mt. Ida courses to start Oct. 1

The child study department of Mt. Ida Junior College, Newton Centre, is offering courses which may be of interest to parents and teachers of young children.

Fall Courses, which will start Oct. 1, include the following: living and working with children of special needs (for teacher aides and parents), supervised teacing and seminars (for working teachers), student teacing and curriculum (for the non-professional), and the competent child - a look at normal and atypical development.

Courses will meet for 10 week periods; each offering three undergraduate credits.

Seminar to discuss crisis intervention

Crisis theory and victimology, trauma syndrome, techniques for crisis intervention, rape and the legal process will be among topics discussed at a two-day Boston College seminar called "Victimology and Crisis Counseling" to be held at the University on Oct. 9 and 10 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The seminar, presented by B.C. School of Nursing's department of continuing education, will pay special attention to problems affecting the victim, the family and the community with case material presented relevant to the emotional, physical, social and legal aspects of rape.

Directing the program will be Anne Burgess, professor of nursing and Lynda Holmstrom, professor of sociology. In response to the growing problem of rape in the Boston area, professors Burgess and Holmstrom staffed one of the first programs in the United States providing 24-hour-a-day crisis intervention for rape victims. The victim counseling program began in July 1972–a voluntary effort between the Boston College School of Nursing and Boston City Hospital.

The program will include guest panelists from the department of health and hospitals, Boton City Hospital, Boston VNA, Rape Crisis Center, Boston College Law School, Police Department, and District Attorney's office (Suffolk County).

Although the seminar is directed to nurse educators or nursing service supervisor-educator, nurses and crisis workers are welcome. Tuition is $50 for the two days. Registration must be complete by Oct. 1. An early registration is urged.

For further details, people may call or write: Mrs. Jane S. Hanron, Department of Continuing Education, Boston College, Chestnut Hill, Mass. 02167, 969-0100, est. 2445-2446.

Free courses for senior citizens

Senior citizens can take any course offered by the division of continuing education at Middlesex Community College free of tuition on a space-available basis. The courses may be audited or taken for academic credit.

Courses begin the week of Sept. 23. People may call 275-1016 for a continuing education catalogue, registration, and other information.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

START SOME PERENNIALS: Now's a good time to sow perennial seed, if you want to build up a good supply of plants for next year's show. A coldframe is an ideal structure for folks who have no greenhouse for sowing seed. Your window sill makes a good "greenhouse" for starting most seeds. Some common garden flowers that may be started from seeds now include peppy, apinted daisy, gloriosa daisy, stokesia, hollyhock, sweet William, baby's breath, columbine, pansy and viola, to name a few.

Best mixture for starting seed consists of equal parts of sand, peat and loam, with perlite or vermiculite added. Seed can be sown in rows or "broadcasted" over the surface. Water the mixture thoroughly and please a plastic bag over the container to hold moisture and heat.

As soon as the seedlings are up, remove the plastic sleeve or glass pane and give the seed box good air circulation. When plants are 1 inch tall, they can be transplanted into individual clay pots. Carry them over winter in a coldframe. Ventilate on hot days in fall. The only winter protection needed is a light straw mulch over the plants.

HANGING BASKET CARE: A good many hanging baskets are a bit ratty looking now. You can shape plants in hanging baskets by removing several inches of terminal growth. Just pinch the tips back, remove old flowers, seed pods and daed material which makes the plants unsightly and encourages insects and diseases.

Bring outdoor baskets inside before the first frost, and place in south or east window. Do not leave plastic containers out in the cold as they may crack when frozen.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writers: "We have a chance to get wood chips from an elm tree which was cut down. Is there any chance that the disease or insects will live in the chips and spread to our other trees?"

Ans.: There's no danger of the elm beetle or disease living in the chips. These, along with chips from other trees can be used as a mulch in the vegetable and flower bed, with no danger. The only thing you have to watch out for is that any organic material such as sawdust, chips, or manure, have a mild tendency to take nitrogen from the soil, causing a temporary shortage for plants. Offset this minor problem by adding either liquid or dry fertilizer.

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The title of the new public television series on health that will premiere Nov. 20 has been changed from "Alive and Well" to "Feeling Good." Legal and other problems prompted the change.

Bing Crosby returns to the CBS network for the first time in a decade on Oct. 9 in a music-comedy special,"Bing Crosby and His Friends." The friends are Pearl Bailey, Bob Hope and Sandy Duncan.

Andy Griffith, long a television favorite in various series, will star in two one-hour dramatic projects to be made by MGM Television for the ABC Network.

CONDITIONS CHANGE IN TIME

Q. According to my Sign, Taurus, I am supposed to be materialistic which to a point is true but only because I enjoy a nice home, clothing, etc. Without them I do not get sick. I think we all like money but I am not too much of a saver, I can spend it as fast as it comes in.

Iam a great optimist most of the time and love to paint, sew or anything pertaining to these. In my youth I took opera lessons. Right now I find myself depressed or disgusted for all the work we have put into our twenty two years of marriage we again have money problems. I am so depressed due to things not going right. I was born May 20, 1932 Thursday between 3 and 4 a.m. in Boston, Mass. C.S.S.

A. As noted in this column many times in the past, a Sun Sign is not a horoscope. Your Sign Taurus means the Sun was in that Sign on the date of your birth. All Taurus born are not alike. Your Moon was in the idealistic, well-intentioned, optimistic Sign of Saggitarius indicative of high aspirations and a desire to be independent.

Your chart shows Aries on your Ascendent, Uranus in that Sign in your First House and Mars also in your First House in Taurus indicating you are far less patient with conditions than most folks born with the "Sun in Taurus."

If your time of birth is close to 3:30 a.m. the planet Saturn moving through your Fourth House, close to your Venus, and in aspect to your Ascendent, indicates your anxiety about your security and your sensitivity to conditions. Until Saturn moves past this position, try to make the most of conditions. Keep in mind—

"Nothing human lasts forever,
Be it good or otherwise,
This 'tis well to remember,
When adversity our patience tries".

Come let us reason together

By Dr. William F. Knox

"YOU LET IT HAPPEN"

Sally Lou seemed very puzzled as she described the relationship with her husband, Arthur. "He makes me feel like a child . . . he tells me what I can do and where I can go. He criticizes my cooking . . . the way I drive . . . the way I talk with people. I just don't like the way he makes me feel. Now . . . I'm beginning to drink too much and that's because of the way he treats me."

"But Sally Lou!" I said . . . "You're letting all this happen to you. You're letting Arthur get to you . . . he's not making you feel like a child . . . he's not making you drink . . . you decide how you will react to him . . . and his criticisms."

"What else can I do?" What Sally Lou was doing with the counselor was what she had done with her husband . . . playing "little girl" . . . sayicg "protect me" in essence . . . tell me Daddy, what to do." She played this little girl . . . dependency role well. She's been practicing it for well over thirty years. She knew how to roll her eyes . . . cross her legs . . . use soft tomes to get what she wanted from men. She had learned this from her father. Her father was a nice . . . tender . . . weak man whose pride and joy was his little Sally Lou. She could get anything she wanted from her Daddy. The script with men she learned as an innocent little girl she's still following as a big girl. Her problem is that all men are not like her nice, tender, weak Daddy. So when a man doesn't treat her as her daddy treated her, she's lost . . . cries foul . . . "he's doing these awful things to me."

Of course, Arthur had his problems. He knew better how to treat a dog than he did a woman.

There are many men who think the only way to be male is to throw their weight around. The truth is that they are very insecure emotionally. Power . . . clout . . . keeping the upper hand . . . this is being male to some men. But a woman doesn't have to put up with this sort of subservience. When she does . . . she's just LETTING IT HAPPEN TO HERN

How shall she avoid letting these things happen to her? First, she must disengage herself from what she can't tolerate. When a person loves himself-herself enough to protect oneself from emotional onslaughts . . . as a father or mother protect their children from outside enemies then they won't let things happen to them which injure. Never mind what Arthur will think if you ignore his criticism. Think of what's good for you. Nobody respects weakness.

Secondly . . . instead of reacting as a little child to his attacks, ACT ADULT. Speak your mind . . . "You're not my daddy . . . I'm not your child . . . I will no longer tolerate your abuse . . . nor will I let myself be destroyed by your boorish ways. I'm willing to discuss with you your feelings and wishes and reach adult . . . rational agreements . . . but no more of this browbeating . . . no more of your put-downs."

Sally Lou did just this. She went on and made for herself a program . . . got a job . . . enrolled in an adult education course. She bought a car so she had independence which every woman needs. She quickly grew . . . letting her own good adult emerge. No longer did she just "let it happen to her." The marriage was saved.

If Sally Lou can do it . . . you can do it too.

CARE OF THE CONVALESCING PET
By RICHARD W. BRYANT
Director of Information and Education
Animal Rescue League of Boston

When the family pet is seriously ill, he usually feels too miserable to get into mischief. But when he starts to get better, watch out! During the recuperation period, you'll want to keep close watch on his activities, food and water intake and general condition.

In some cases, an animal may be better off in an animal hospital until completely recoverd; others may do better convalescing at home. Consider the pro's and con's before making your decision.

A family pet usually makes a poor patient when he is in strange surroundings. He misses his owners, the family routine and his usual physical comforts. He might go on a hunger strike even though offered the same food he has eaten with relish for years. He can even become depressed, making his recovery much slower.

But if surgery has been performed, the family pet might need special care available only at an animal hospital. For example, food and medication might have to be administered by tube or by injection, procedures foreign to most pet owners. A surgical opening also needs time to heal - time better spent in the hospital under the close observation of a veterinarian or trained assistant.

Once the healing process is well under way an increasing number of veterinarians are recommending that recovery be completed at home. In a recent article in the National Humane Review, Dr. Worth Lanier, an Alabama veterinarian, listed guidelines for pet owners to follow to help assure complete recovery for the family pet.

The three basic recommendations made by Dr. Lanier are:

1. Keep the pet closely confined in comfortable surroundings.
2. Note and record any undue symptons.
3. Follow the veterinarian's feeding instructions exactly.

Fresh water should always be available, Dr. Lanier adds, and most veterinarians appreciate a daily call from the owner to be sure the animal is recovering rapidly.

One of the worst things a pet woner can do is try to tempt a recovering pet with human foods when the pet refuses to eat the food prescribed by the veterinarian. A recuperating pet won't have a ravenous appitite, Dr. Lanier points out, but his appetite will pick up as he feels better.

By following the veterinarian's directions to the letter, the pet owner will give his recuperating animal the best possible chance for a quick, successful recovery at home. +++

N.A.A. Lions lose to Framingham

The Newton Athletic Association Lions of the Suburban League lost a heartbreaker to the Framingham Vikings of the South Shore League by a score of 8-6. The setback was the second in a row, but reflected a positive reversal of form for the Lions.

As in last week's game, the Lions scored first in the second period. Halfback Paul Butters went over left tackle behind the block of Tony Amicangioli, and cut back across field for a 35 yard touchdoen. The points after were stopped when a missed assignment allowed a defensive man to penetrate and make the stop.

The Lions' defensive unit was superb all day and dominated play during much of the game. Tackle Jim Schmidlein was a standout both ways all day. Aiding Schmidlein as standouts on defense were guards Charlie Slack and John Kane, end Paul DeLuca and linebackers Noel Foley and Paul Butters.

Late in the third period the Lions were ahead 6-0 and had the ball on their own 25 when they were assessed 15 yards for holding. Facing a fourth down and long yardage the Lions attempted a punt. The kick was blocked and Framingham had a first down at the eight yard line.

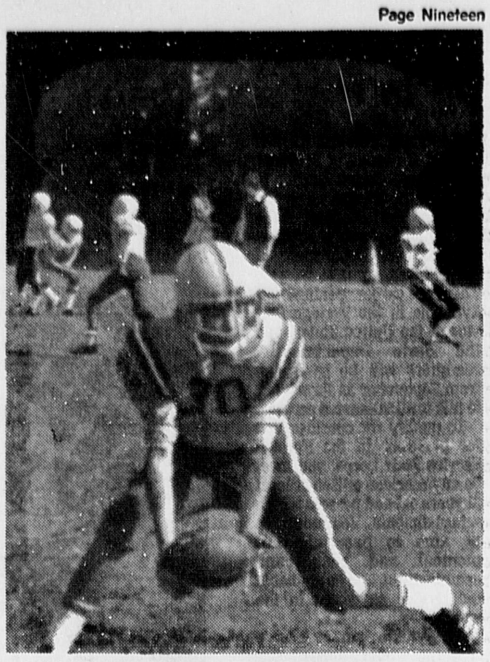

After three cracks it was a fourth and one. With a determined effort, the ball carrier was met at the line and was stripped of the ball. The Lions recovered for an apparant touchback, but the official ruled that the ball carrier crossed the goal line before the funble. The Vikings converted the game-winning points on a sweep around right end.

In the fourth period, the Lions drove to the Framingham 25 before running out of time. Halfback Rich Fuller ran for big yardage in the second half behind blocks by Schmidlein, Foley and Greg Cooper. Opportunist Jim Schmidlein recovered two fumbles and guard John McLellen recovered one.

The Lions opened with two tough non-league opponents in preparation for their Suburban League home opener against prennial contender Brookline this Sunday. Brookline is considered a serious threat to dethrone the Lions as Suburban champs.

The "B" game will begin at 12:30 p.m. followed by the "A" game at 1:45 p.m. at the Newton Highlands Playground.

The Lions captains for 1974, elected by their mates, are John Kane, Jim Schmidleic andiPaul Butters.

Hanscom to compete in golf tournament

Dick Hanscom, golf professional at the Charles River Country Club, has been named to compete in the Birds Eye TV Golf Tournament to be played next week.

Hanscom is one of 32 New England pro golfers and their amateur partners who will vye for $5,000 in prize money and awards. The contest will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Sept. 17-19, off the first tee at Holly Ridge Golf Club, Routes 130 and 28, So. Sandwich, Mass. The event is open to the public without charge.

Each professional has selected a man and a woman amateur from his home club to join him as a three-man team. They'll be competing against similar teams from around New England. Anyone scoring a hole-in-one will be awarded a new automobile and the winning professional will pick up a check for $900.

Scores will be compiled by proximity to the pin in one stroke off the tee, plus the number of chips or putts needed to hole out. In each round — and for each 30-minute telecast — four teams will compete for the lowest team score, in order to advance to the quarterfinal and semifinal rounds. Two teams will compete in the Championship round.

Three television stations will tape play for future showing.

An interview with Sam Cunningham

By HOWIE APPELSTEIN

On Sunday morning, Sept. 8, I traveled to the Marriot Hotel in Auburndale to interview some of the Philadelphia Eagles.

I was unsuccessful in interviewing any Eagles, but I did interview Sam Cunningham of the New England Patriots. Cunningham was visiting a close friend, Eagle tight end Charlie Young.

Cunningham and Young were teammates in college at Southern California. They are such close friends that Young picked Cunningham to be his best man at his wedding.

My first question for the "Bam" was: how did the knee injury he suffered during the college all-star game last year hinder his play in 1973?

"It slowed me down," Cunningham replied. "I was injured all of last season. I couldn't really get going, but it gave me incentive to prove myself this year."

I then asked Cunningham whether he preferred to play halfback or fullback, because last year he saw action at both positions.

"It doesn't really matter to me; I just want to play," Cunningham said. "I don't want to keep switching around like I did last year from halfback to fullback because I couldn't get any consistency going. This year, I'd like to stay in one position."

I proceed to ask Cunningham whether or not Jim Plunkett should call his own plays this season.

"I think its about time for the coaches to allow Plunkett to call his own plays and get some playcalling experience of his own," Cunningham said. "He has a better view on the field than the coaches do from the sidelines. I think it's good for Plunkett and it's good for the whole team because he'll be more involved with the game instead of waiting for plays from the sidelines."

I asked Cunningham to assess the Patriots' offensive line.

"I feel we have good young players on the line like John Hannah, Leon Gray, Sam Adams, and Bill Dulacy," he replied. "So I feel that with experience it can be a great offensive line.

Sam Cunningham became famous for his four leaping touchdowns in the Rose Bowl against Ohio State. I asked him if he thinks this play can be successful in the pros.

"I think the play will work as successfully in the pros as it worked in college," Cunningham said. "I just think it's a matter of everyone tying up a man for a second or so, if everyone can do that, then the play can be a success."

I next asked Cunningham about why he fumbled so much in his rookie year.

"Fumbling is just something that happens," he remarked. "Three or four times it was something that I couldn't do anything about; it was just the way the ball was hit.

"Usually it was a matter of me not concentrating on holding the ball, so this year I have been concentrating more on holding onto the ball. Cunningham added that "sometimes you're vulnerable to fumbling when you're trying to pick up a first down rather than covering up the ball."

I asked Cunningham if one of his goals for this year is to gain 1000 yards.

"My goal is for the Patriots to win, but I'd love to get 1000 yards," he said.

"I think that if we change to more of a running team, then 1000 yards will be near."

Commentary by Mark Witkin

Patriots' Plunkett a new breed

While Jim Plunkett worked miracles on the playing fields of Stanford University, a generation of flower children descended on nearby San Francisco. Whether town and gown actually met is not known, but out of that era has come a new breed of sports celebrity, and Plunkett seems to possess its best qualities. Generous, modest, and articulate according to the accounts of all who claim to know him, Plunkett is not the traditional campus football hero—being neither the social conscious college man of the 1930's to 1950's; nor the small town bonus baby turned playboy of the 1960's. He is earnest, loyal, and decent—qualities that might destroy him as a New England Patriot.

While nice guys don't necessarily finish last; there are some people to whom you can't be nice. To these people, being decent is a sign of weakness, and Plunkett is on the verge of being made a fall guy to cover up their mistakes. It's predictable. Losers don't get rehired unless they can place the blame elsewhere.

Last year the whispering campaign against Plunkett was started in earnest. Members of the coaching staff and offensive line complained to selected members of the Press that Plunkett was erratic and left the protective pocket formed by his pass interference. That's why, the story went, the Patriot's passing game was ineffective.

But what about the holding penalties assessed against the offensive line, which seemed to stall any embryonic offensive surge? Since it was impossible to blame these on the quarterback, responsibility was shifted to nearsighted referees unjustly picking on New England's finest. Probably out of habit, since the same referees have been calling the same penalties on the same players for five years. The whispers also presupposed what didn't exist; a pass pocket Plunkett could run out of. Instead, he led the NFL in a new category—Most Opportunities to Complete Forward Pass While Flat on Back. Through it all, Plunkett took the blame like a gentleman, or perhaps a patsy. That's the trouble.

Pro football is not polite cafe' society, and a star quarterback has to throw his weight around. John Unitas would curse a lineman who missed a block. Bobby Layne gave orders to his receivers. Sid Luckman actually used George Blanda as his chauffeur on trips around town. Norm Van Brocklin would never allow a rookie coach from Oklahoma to select his plays. Even the immortal King Corcoran, when a New England Patriot sent a play from the coach back to the bench with the succinct message: "It stinks." King Corcoran has a nicely developed sense of survival. Plunkett hopefully has the same. In the words of the great chess masters: "The next move is up to him."

Some things however, are already looking up. After three different Patriots rebuilding programs in five years the NFL rulemakers have decided to change the penalty for offensive holding from fifteen yards to ten yards. With a little luck, the Patriot's offensive line should be able to cut their penalty yards by about one-third.

State Dept. recruiting teletypists, stenos

Teletypists and stenos: Why not try a change of scenery? From, say, Boston Harbor to the Bay of Bengal – or the Caspian Sea or even Lake Tanganyika. If you're ready to go, the U.S. Department of State wants to talk to you. There are career openings now available in the Foreign Service of the United States, and the State Department recruiters will be in Boston from September 23 through 27 to talk to all interested persons.

To qualify for consideration for a career in the Foreign Service Staff Corps, you must be an American citizen at least 21 years old and possess a high school diploma. You must also be able to pass clerical, medical and background examinations, and be available for service anywhere in the world.

Teletypists must have teletype operational experience gained within the last six years; stenographers must have a minimum of two years recent office experience, at least one of which must have included the use of shorthand on-the-job.

Beginning salaries for teletypists are $8,028; for stenos, the range is from $7,198 to $8,954. These salaries are supplemented by overseas and travel allowances, wherever applicable.

The State Department also needs typists and stenos for service in the Nation's Capital; you can complete your age and-or experience requirements there and then transfer into the Foreign Service and assignment overseas.

The State Department recruitment team, headed by former Foreign Service secretary Terry Denlnger, will conduct job interviews at the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Room 927, John W. McCormick Post Office and Court House Building, Post Office Square, Boton, from September 23 through 27. The phone number is 223-2633, but no appointment will be necessary for an interview.

Who knows? Next summer, you just might find yourself walking to your office along the shores of the blue Mediterranean.

Housewives on horseback at Y center

The YMCA wants greater Boston area mothers to get "back in the saddle" as their children head back to school this fall. The Y's Ponkapoag Outdoor Center, a nonprofit facility on the MDC Blue Hills Reservations, off Route 128 in Canton, has begun a new weekday horseback riding and social program for women.

The two-week sessions which begin on Sept. 16 will offer instruction and leisurely trail riding in the Blue Hills from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on either Mondays and Wednesdays or Tuesdays and Thursdays.

"The weekday riding is as much a social event as a recreational activity," says program director Caroly Norman. "In addition to getting some fresh air, they'll also be able to meet other women interested in occasional riding for relaxation."

Not exactly the 7th Cavalry, the riders also get a hot lunch served by the Center and a coffee break before leaving for home or to pick up the children. English and Western riding is offered, and groups are limited to 6 women each. Beginners are welcomed, but the Center says it is also trying to attract riders interested in finding a compatible group to be with.

Ponkapoag maintains its own stable, and in addition to its new women's program also offers riding instruction for all ages during late afternoons. Year-round the Center runs the equivalent of what Miss Norman calls "a low-budget New England dude rance," in which adults, teenagers, or families are invited to stay all weekend at the facility for a residential program of riding and horsemanagement. Phone inquiries ar taken weekdays at 696-4466.

Language classes at Hub institute

A 10-week term of day and evening classes in English, French, Japanese, Russian and Spanish begics September 23, at the International Institute, 287 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston. Registration will be held September 16-18.

English classes stress basic conversation skills for the immigrant of foreign visitor. Foreign language classes help Americans improve communication with people for whom English is a second language and are also helpful prior to overseas travel. All classes are offered at beginner, intermediate and advanced levels provided there is sufficient registration to form a given class.

As a United Way agency the Institute offers language classes as one of nany services. Cost is minimal and class size is small.

For registration forms and further information call the Institute at 536-1081.

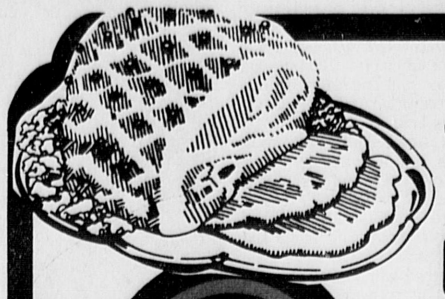

Local men honored by John Hancock

Six West Roxbury representatives of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. will be honored as top sales leaders at the company's Northern New England District Agency Regional Honor Club conference at Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Better biking

Bicycle sales have tripled during the last decade. Deaths and accidents on bikes have doubled, reports the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association.

Biking is a pollution-free way to travel. It can also be fun, healthy, and cheap. But our auto-addicted society has built very few bikeways so far. Cyclists have to straddle car traffic.

Bike riders are supposed to observe most of the regulations and signals meant for cars. But too many don't. A recent study of accidents involving bicycles and cars in Santa Barbara, California, showed that bikers had violated the traffic laws in almost 70 percent of the cases. The most common violation was not obeying stop signs.

Another report by the Oregon State Highway Division also showed that bikers made far more errors than drivers did. Most accidents happened because bikers didn't yield the right of way, used the wrong arm signals or none at all when they turned, rode on the wrong side, and ignored stoplights. And last year a study of 600 bicycle accidents, which was conducted by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, showed that two-thirds of the accidents resulted from riding double on bikes designed for one, performing stunts, losing control of braking, and hitting bumps and ruts.

Safer cycling is possible. Observing regulations helps a lot. Seeing and being seen - by cars, pedestrians, other bikers - is absolutely essential. Bright bike banners on tall flagstaffs are coming into style. And so is reflective tape that is fluorescent day and night. Keeping bikes in good condition is important too; 20 percent of accidents are caused by mechanical and structural failures.

Better biking is one way to cut car exhaust and fight air pollution. Contact your lung association about other ways to help curb pollution. Call 326-4081. It's a matter of life and breath.

Youth hostels still best travel buy

Beginning October 1 outdoor lovers can purchase magic keys to 4,500 of the lowest priced overnight accommodations in the world. The key is an American Youth Hostel membership pass which can be bought for as low as $5.00 if you are under 18 years of age and $10 if over.

Frank D. Cosgrove, Executive Director of American Youth Hostels in making this announcement said, "Our hostel cards will now be good for the calendar year ending December 31. However, those buying their cards on or after October 1 will be able to use them until December 31, 1975, fifteen months instead of a year. With this new policy AYH joins the 47 national associations throughout the world who are members of the International Youth Hostel Federation and have the same hostel membership expiration term."

Hostel overnight fees in the U.S. range from $1.50 to $3.00, except for those hostels in snow or desert locations, where a small extra charge is made for heating or airconditioing. AYH facilities are supervised by resident houseparents under established regulations of the Federation. Alcohol and drugs are barred and high standards of health and safety are maintained. To add to and round out hostel chains for the convenience of travelers, AYH also charters supplemental accommodations which charge somewhat higher rates for additional services but otherwise adhere to AYH standards.

"There was a time," Mr. Cosgrove said, "when people going abroad could buy hostel cards overseas at lower cost, but since last year Americans, and Canadians, too, cannot purchase their passes at lower rates than what they could pay here in their own countries. In fact, it may cost as much as $5 more to purchase their keys to hostel pleasure and low cost abroad. The idea is that you buy your hostel pass at home and help establish more hostels in your own country." American Hostel headquarters in the U.S. are in Delapoane, Va. 22025.

A&P announces this new state-wide program to help consumers better identify the retail cuts of meat. Our new label identifies the KIND OF MEAT, THE PRIMAL CUT, THE RETAIL CUT. While some of the names have been changed to conform to the uniform standards, the meat cuts at A&P remain identical...the trim is the same...the quality is the same...our high standards are the same. This uniform identity program will aid you in being a better informed shopper.

In addition to helping you identify cuts, the plan also aids in selecting proper cooking methods. If, for example, the label shows a cut to be a steak or roast from Beef Loin or Beef Rib, dry heat cooking methods such as roasting, broiling, and frying are recommended. For most other beef, moist cooking methods such as braising or cooking in liquid are recommended. Of course, the label also includes the net weight of the meat, price per pound and total price to complete our full disclosure meat program.

How to understand our new meat labels...

1. The kind of meat (BEEF, PORK, LAMB or VEAL) is the listed first on the label.

2. The primal cut (CHUCK, RIB, LOIN or ROUND) is listed second. The primal cut tells where the meat comes from on the animal.

3. The retail cut (POT ROAST, SHORT RIBS, PORTERHOUSE STEAK, etc.) tells you the name of the retail cut.

4. The net weight of the meat (which does NOT include the package) is expressed in hundreths of a pound. For example, 3.50 is 3 pounds and 8 ounces. 2.75 pounds is 2 pounds and 12 ounces.

Antique show by Lexington Arts and Crafts

The fifth annual antiques show of the Lexington Arts & Crafts Society will take place on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 12 and 13, from 1 to 9:30 p.m., and on Saturday, Sept. 14.

A group of carefully selected antiques dealers, under the management of Lloyd A. Hathaway, will present their treasures on three floors of attractively arranged booths. The quality merchandise will include furniture, accessories, clocks and watches, glass, silver, oriental art, jewelry, paintings, toys, buttons, and many more collectibles.

A gourmet snack bar will serve hot luncheons, drinks, and snacks to weary antiques shoppers.

Look for a reduced admission ad elsewhere in this newspaper.

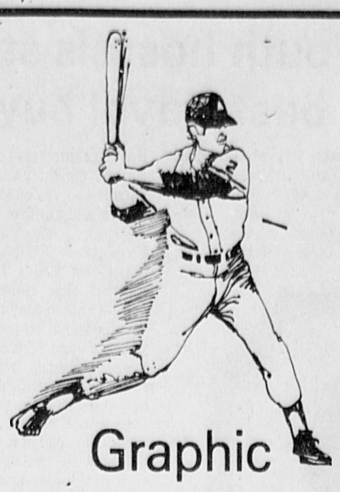

"Miss Mass. Teenager" pageant due

On February 21-22, 1975, The National Teen-Ager Pageant will be presenting the 1975 Miss Massachusetts Teen-Ager Pageant at the Highpoint Motor Inn in Chicopee.

Girls who are between the ages of 13 and 17 and a resident of the state, are eligible to compete in this pageant. They will be judged on scholastic achievement, poise, personality, and appearance. There is no talent or swim suit competition. State contestants also must write an essay on the pageant theme, the topic will be announced at a later date.

The current Miss Massachusetts Teen-Ager is Loretta Rizzo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine RVIZZO OF Somerville. Loeetta was chosen from 51 contestants. She will be travelling to Atlanta, Georgia, on August 27 to compete in the National Finals for the title of Miss National Teen-Ager. She will be flown to Atlanta for six days, all expenses paid, and will be visiting many points of interest and beauty. Loretta will have an opportunity to get acquainted with the other state titleholders.

Applications to compete in the pageant on February 21-22, 1975, may be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope to the Official Certification and Public Relations Office, P.O. Box 406, Rockton, Illinois 61072.

Troubadours edged in benefit softball game

A team of the Troubadour Jesters men and women softball teams played a benefit game against the WHDH personalities at Albemarle Field recently. Troubador Restaurant owner George Setian called the game a great success and was pleased with the donations for the Jimmy Fund.

Mayor Theodore Mann tossed out the first ball in the opening ceremonies before umpire Recreation Commissionr Russ Halloran called play ball.

Jean Cole, a star pitcher for the Women's Twi-Light League Champion Jesters pitched a fine nine inning game in a losing effort. A highlight of the game in the fifth inning when broadcaster Nick Mills stepped up to face Ms. Cole. After teasing him with two low pitches, she sailed in a beautifully thrown grapefruit which was painted white to resemble a softball, and Mills smashed the grapefruit all over the infield.

The Troubadours had an 8-0 lead, but the WHDH men came roaring back to win the game 11-10 on hits by Dave Supple, Bob Tennant, Avi Nelson, Bob Raleigh, Nick Mills, Steve Hausmann, Mike Cain, Tracy Smith, Tim McKenzie, Paul Cunningham, and Coach Karen Kazimor.

Kathy Taglianti of the Jesters took a home run ball hit deep to center field away from Avi Nelson by reaching up and grabbing the ball just before it was to go over the fence at Albermarle Field. Jimmy Quinn took a home run ball away from Bob Raleigh in left field.

Troubadour players included: Jane Oliveto, Jean Cole, Irene Horigan, Nancy Bartley, Kathy Jepson, Kathy Taglianti, Lauri Sonia, Lauri Bartley, Lee Lacey, Laura Rosa, Joyce Gray and Bonnie Fisher of the women's team. The Troubadour men were: Jim Rally, Ben Wall, Gerry Chiarelli, Kevin Lecy, Roger Brown, Dick Fletcher, Tom Rooney, Ad Asaley, and Jim Quinn.

Players and fans were invited back to the Troubadour by George Setian for a late evening dinner.

"A" League champions

Leads N.E. golf open

MT. SNOW, Vt. (UPI) — Paul Barkhouse, 33, of Stoneham, Mass., lead the field entering today's final round of the New England Open Golf Championship at Mt. Snow.

Barkhouse shot 68 and 69 in the first two rounds for a 7-under 137 on the 7,051-yard par 72 course here.

Harry Toscano of Sharon, Mass., was three strokes back in the battle for the $3,000 first prize of the $15,000 tournament.

Bunched right behind Toscano were Joe Benevento of Mt. Snow, at 141, Joe Carr of Worcester, Mass., 142, and Dick Hanscom of Newton, Mass., 143.

Giants on top

Tito Fuentes' bases-filled single and Bobby Bonds' sacrifice fly drove in two runs in the top of the 11th and the Giants hung on for the victory despite a run by Houston in the bottom of the inning. Lee May, Cesar Cedeno and Milt May homered for Houston.

Rose leads Cincinatti

Pete Rose's two doubles and a single led a 12-hit Cincinnati attack which enabled Don Gullett to breeze to his 16th win. Gullett struck out 11 and didn't walk a batter. He was tagged for a homer by rookie Randy Elliott in the fifth and surrendered the Padres' other run in the ninth.

"C" League champions

Matuszak to fight football injunction

HOUSTON (UPI) — Giant John Matuszak, who jumped from the NFL Houston Oilers to the WFL Houston Texans, said he will fight the temporary injunction ordered Monday even if it means he never plays football again.

"If you can get out of the system and make it more viable, then I think you should," the 6-foot-8, 282-pound Matuszak said. "If I can do that and never play football again but make the NFL a better place to work, then I will be a happy man."

State District Judge Arthur Lesher granted the Oilers a temporary injunction preventing the NFL No. 1 draft choice in 1973 from playing in the new league. Lesher had issued a temporary restraining order Aug. 28 when Matuszak signed with the Texans.

"I'm disappointed but I expected the decision," Matuszak said. "It was a hard decision for one man to make but I feel confident in the judicial system and I think if this was in front of a jury it would have been a different decision."

When Matuszak left the Oilers' training camp and signed with the Texans, he claimed there was a loophole in the NFL contract and that he was coerced into signing it. His lawyers argued in Lesher's court last week that the contract was a "one-sided, oneway street" favoring owners.

Matuszak's contract calls for an annual salary of $25,000 and Oiler Coach Sid Gillman is fining the player $500 for each practice missed.

Matuszak's attorney, Bill Pakalka, said they were considering an appeal of Lesher's ruling which cemented the earlier restraining order.

Chestnut Hill's grand new Condominiums are open

As you approach Brookline from Newton along the broad sweep of Hammond Pond Parkway you'll undoubtedly take note of the magnificent group of buildings nestled among the trees just on the right.

These four distinguished apartment houses with 144 elegant residences are now known as Hammond Park.

There is perhaps no suburban environment in all of metropolitan Boston of greater charm and character so uniquely situated in such close proximity to every convenience for total living. The environs abound with lakes, parks, country clubs, tennis clubs and ice rinks. The incomparable Chestnut Hill Mall is at your elbow, and downtown Boston beckons, a short commute by car, bus, or even the MBTA from Chestnut Hill Station, adjacent to the Longwood Cricket Club.

Hammond Park itself clearly evidences an intrinsic value of a rare quality. Such integrity of design and superb construction is virtually unattainable these days. Ownership-in-common includes luxuriously landscaped grounds, swimming pools, lounges and club facilities resulting in a personal residential investment of significant consequence.

You have only to visit our model apartments to know at once that ownership here merits your serious consideration.

Early inspection is suggested while we can satisfy most needs, ranging from studios at $29,000 to three bedrooms at $87,900 — with a wide selection between.

Introducing: Sandra Gwynn

YOUR NEW CONSUMER REPRESENTATIVE

Hello, my name is Sandra Gwynn and I'm your Consumer Representative at Capitol Super Markets. I've been hired to represent us, the consumers, to those who make policies at Capitol and to voice the consumers' point of view. I've been active in consumer issues for the past year and a half and have tried, in various ways, to express the consumers' position. I've always believed that consumers should have an opportunity to express their opinions and participate in developing policies that ultimately affect them. I've worked with producers of the food we eat, to the retailers of that food. I have also worked with the Governor's Office, the Mass. Consumers Council and clubs and organizations across the United States. I will attempt to represent you in those issues which are important to you. I will write a weekly column that will give useful information and recipes. I'll also be here to answer questions and, in general, listen to your suggestions. Letters are welcome. I'm also available for speaking engagements at your organization. So, here I am. Do you need an answer? Do you have suggestions you believe would help in an area you feel is important? Write to me: Sandra Gwynn, Consumer Representative, Capitol Super Markets, 1360 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169.

Dolphins done in by shallow water

BOSTON (UPI) — A New England Aquarium marine biologist says the 100 white-sided dophin stranded last weekend in a Maine cove may have died because their navigating senses failed to work in shallow water.

"They are normally deepwater animals and they likly became confused when they tried to escape from the bottlenecked cove," said Salvatore Testaverde. He and aquarium curator Louis Garibaldi had just returned with tye carcasses of 50 of the dolphin. The bodies were frozen and autopsies will be conducted.

A fast-ebbing tied in Lingley Cove stranded the dolphins in what has been described as a "great natural disaster."

"We have enough work ahead of us to last about six months," Testaverde said.

St. Louis University scientists have completed installation of a network of 16 earthquake detectors along the New Madrid fault zone, which runs south of St. Louis.

Roof-top solar panels collect the sun's rays to heat water used to supply heat for the central wing of the Timonium Elementary School near Baltimore, Maryland.

Solar heated schools: something new under the sun

It was 75 years ago that H. G. Wells wrote "The First Men on the Moon" about the discovery of a highly-advanced lunar civilization of robot-like creatures whose underground cities were run entirely on solar energy.

Since then, Wells' fictional explorers – transported in a diving bell-shaped spacecraft painted with a secret anti-gravity propellant – have been left behind in a cloud of stardust by real astronauts of the 1960s and '70s.

But until the recent energy crisis which spurred research into substitutes for fossil fuels, little had been done by us humanoids to harness the sun's power.

Now, thanks to a grant from the National Science Foundation, school children can read the stories of H.G. Wells and other writers in classrooms heated by solar energy.

Four solar heating projects for schools in the Eastern United States have been funded under the foundation's Research Applied to National Needs (RANN) program.

One of the schools, the Timonium Elementary School near Baltimore, is the first American school building to have a classroom wing heated by solar energy.

Mounted on the school's roof are 4' by 8' glass-faced solar panels, 180 of them in all, tilted at 45-degree angles to face the sun. About eight-tenths of a gallon of water flows through each panel every minute.

The sun's rays heat the water to between 140 and 150 degrees Fahrenheit. This heated water is collected in pipes running beneath each panel and returned either directly to the school's heating system or to a 15,000-gallon tank where it is stored until needed when clouds obscure the sun.

During its trip from the roof to the heat distribution system, the water must be kept close to the temperatures generated by the sun. So an important component of the solar heating system is the insulation used on the pipes.

The insulation chosen for the Timonium Elementary School is a rigid urethane foam material manufactured by Armstrong Cork Company called Armalok, which has a broad temperature range of minus 250 to plus 220 degrees Fahrenheit and outstanding thermal efficiency.

A similar solar heating system was developed by the General Electric Company's Space Division to provide up to 20 percent of the heat required to warm the three-story Grover Cleveland Junior High School in Dorchester, Massachusetts.

After being heated by the sun in panels on the roof, a water-antifreeze solution is pumped through an insulated tubing network to a pair of special solar heat exchangers that work in conjunction with two of the school's 10 conventional heating units.

The solar heating projects for schools are adding important knowledge to our understanding of the sun's immense power and its applications. Their success will determine whether solar heating systems can economically and significantly reduce fuel needed to heat other schools and facilities.

If they can, it may not be too long before science catches up with H.G. Wells' science fiction and entire cities are run on solar energy.

Inmate first to flee Somers

SOMERS, Conn. (UPI) — Robert Koch, the convicted bankrobber whose escape from Somers prison Tuesday was described as an "almost inhuman feat," has surrendered, state police said today.

Koch, 29, became the first person to escape from the maximum security prison.

Further detials were not immediately available.

Robert Koch, 29, of Baltimore, Md., vaulted three fences, one of them 28-feet high, during a recreation period at the fog-bound and supposedly escape-proof state penitentiary.

An alarm was sounded when his flight took him through a magnetic field at 8:30 a.m. but heavy fog masked his flight. A guard reportedly grabbed Koch's foot as he climzed the first fence, but the prisoner kicked free.

"The fog was so thick the guards in the tower couldn't even see him," a guard said.

State police coordinating the search from Enfield said four patrol cars roved the towns surrounding the prison throughout the night but had no reports of stolen cars or other indications that Koch may have been in the area.

Police Tuesday mounted one of the largest manhunts in state history, which included National Guard helicopters and bloodhounds.

Troopers armed with shotguns searched cornfields and dense woods behind the prison until dark. Bloodhounds picked up several scents but none strong enough to follow, police said.

At one point during the search police found a car parked in the driveway of an empty home with a bag of groceries on the seat, leading officers to believe a housewife may have been taken hostage. The woman was later found visiting a neighbor.

Expos tip Mets 6-4

Willie Davis' two-run homer and Larry Lintz' three RBIs led the Expos over Tug McGraw and the Mets. Don Carrithers pitched seven innings for the Expos, raising his mark to 4-1 while the loss was McGraw's eighth against six wins.

Tape salesman Is vet at 23

NEW YORK (UPI) — Howard S. Brenner has been marketing tapes of old radio shows since he was 14 years old and now, at the bright old age of 23, he has issued his first long-play record.

From his catalogue of more than 4,000 tapes, Brenner chose two Fred Allen broadcasts to start his new venture. Although he had not been born when these shows were aired, Brenner could not have made a better selection.

Allen broadcast one of the half-hour segments on Oct. 28, 1945 and the other on April 11, 1948.

Marketed as "Vintage Radio Broadcasts—Fred Allen" (MarBren MBR 741). The recording includes commercials. And the "Allen's Alley" segments get the shows off to a fine start.

If you can remember way back when, you'll enjoy Allen's on the spot interviews with Senator Claghorn, Titus Moody, Mrs. Nussbaum, Ajax Cassidy and McGee and McGee.

The 1945 show delves into women's lib with Allen asking his friends in the Alley, "How do you think women will fit into the postwar business world?" Mrs. Nussbuam says she thinks it will be possible for a woman to become President of the United States but laments that "there's one thing a woman can never become—the father of our country."

The shows include songs by the DeMarco Sisters and skits involving Allen with Charlie McCarthy and Basil Rathbone. They were hilarious at that time and still may amuse a 1974 audience.

At this writing, Brenner does not have national distribution and the Fred Allen record may not be available except in certain areas. Brenner plans to issue a 200-page booklet listing all of his tapes later in the year and information may be obtained by writing to Mar-Bren Sound Co., 420 Pelham Road, Rochester, N.Y. 14610.

You can also take a trip into nostalgia with "Les Paul and Mary Ford—The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" (Capitol ST-11308).

Les and Mary burst upon the scene in 1951 with a new sound that made them the most talked about performers in show business. The sound was an amplified guitar and an echo chamber for Mary's voice.

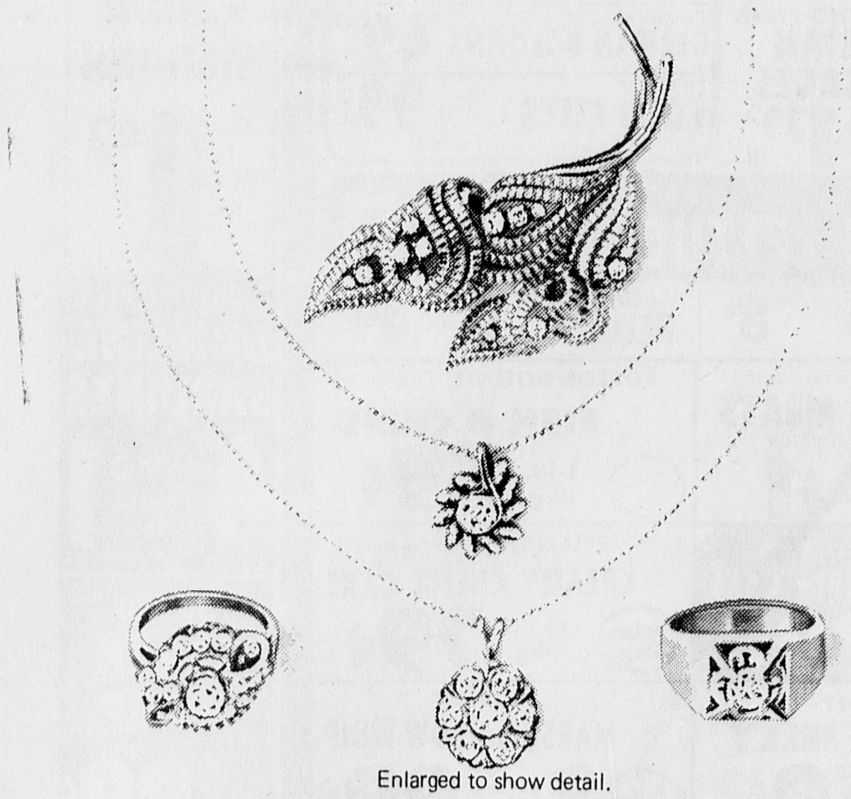

Paul's guitar does not have the heavy shadings of the instruments used by rock stars today but it planted the seeds.

For strong wimmers, a lifesaving course will be given for those interested in receiving either the YMCA or Red Cross certification at the junior or senior level. The class consists of ten 3-hour sessions, with a water test during the first class to determine swimming proficiency.

Other adult physical activities include a men's physical fitness class, a women's exercise room, a men's exercise and weight room, judo, karate, swimming lessons, recreational swim and gym hours, handball, squash, and distance swimming and running clubs.

The girls' physical program will also be enhanced by the addition of field hockey on Tuesdays this fall. Already on the schedule is gymnastics, which features use of the horse, balance beam, trampoline, uneven parallel bars, and floor exercise area.

Boys and girls can bowl with the "Y" by joining one of the parent-child leagues. Mother-daughter and father-son leagues bowl candlepins every other week with an outing and trophy presentation at year's end.

Speedball - a variation of soccer - is the sport on tap for boys this fall on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays at the "Y" field. The ever-popular floor hockey program is also back again, and judo for boys is also offered.

Information about these programs can be gained by calling the Newton "Y" at 244-6050.

Cappeletti happy with Rams

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Cappelletti and his little brother, Joey, are pretty tight. They share practically everything, one another's trials and triumphs and sometimes even each other's trophies.

You probably remember back to last winter when big John, named All America by everybody for the tremendous year he had at Penn State, did an unusual thing upon being presented with the Heisman Trophy.

He immediately dedicated it to his 12-year-old brother.

John Cappelletti had some trouble getting the words out. His voice broke more than once.

"Joey, my little brother, really deserves this trophy more than I do because when I am out on the field I tet a few bumps and bruises, but he has to live with his pain every day of the year ... " Cappelletti said, then stopped.

For a moment, it seemed he might not be able to go on, but he got hold of himself.

"... and it's far greater than anything I've ever suffered on the gridiron," he finished in a husky voice.

The audience hearing Cappelletti that evening gave him a heart-lifting ovation. They applauded a long time. Somebody once said the love of a man for a woman waxes and wanes with the rising and descending of the sun, but the love of one brother for another endures forever. Anybody who listened to Cappelletti that night had no trouble at all relating to what he was saying about his little brother, Joey.

John Cappelletti

Now comes the sequel to that episode.

Rookie running back John Cappelletti has started out splendidly with the Los Angeles Rams, helping them to five victories in their six preseason contests.

He had an ear infection for a while and was competing against six other capable running backs, count 'em—Jim Bertelsen, a third-year man from Texas whom Darrell Royal once called "the finest football player I've ever coached,"; second-year man Lawrence McCutcheon, who gained more yards than any other Rams' back in a single season last year; hard-charging Tony Baker, who came in the Roman Gabriel trade; Cullen Bryant, one of fastest men in the NFL; Rob Scribner, a bright, good-looking kid from UCLA; and veteran Les Josephson, the Rams' third leading rusher of all time. But Cappelletti has been right out there in front of them all, leading the Rams in rushing with 282 yards in 56 carries for an average of better than five yards per carry.

Little Joey probably would like to know his big brother has picked up a nickname among the Rams, who were 12-2 in regular season play last year and could be as tough this year.

They call him "Trophy"—for the obvious reason. He just smiles about it.

John Cappelletti has never been happier than he is now trying to make it with the Rams. Those who have watched him so far say he hasn't anything to worry about, but Cappelletti doesn't feel he has anything really made yet by any stretch of the imagination.

The chief difference he has discovered between playing college ball for Penn State and playing professionally for Los Angeles is adjusting to the Rams' system.

"Things happen much faster in the pros than they do in college," Cappelletti says. "Here in the pros there are more skilled people at every position, and it's up to you to try to neutralize that the best possible way you can.

"I find that coach (Chuck) Knox is similar in some ways to coach (Joe) Paterno. He's a determined man, and he's big for getting the little things done. I'd say coach Knox is the more vocal of the two and shows his intenseness more."

Cappelletti says Elijah Pitts and Ken Meyer, two other members of the Rams' coaching staff, have helped him a great deal.

Big John also reports that little Joey is coming along all right back home in Upper Darby, Pa. s b"the medication he was on was giving him some trouble at the beginning of the summer, but they've found another one that will stabilize him and he's doing a lot better," says Cappelletti.

"No, I didn't promise him I'd do anything special for him with the Rams. If I do well, he'll enjoy it.

"I called him up and spoke with him the other night. He told me he was going out for the team at St. Lawrence grade school which he attends. I asked him what position, and he said tackle. 'Do as good as you can,' I told him. 'I can't tell you too much about that position. All I know about it is that those guys always tackle me.'"

A look at the NFL

Oakland Raiders look good with new faces

OAKLAND (UPI) — The old saw "the rich get richer" fits the 1974 Oakland Raiders to a tee.

Seemingly, owner-manager Al Davis and player personnel director Ron Wolf can do no wrong. While other clubs struggle to find one or two new players each year, Davis and Wolf come up with half a dozen.

Their big finds this year are Canadian Football League refugee quarterback Larry Lawrence, interior rookie lineman Henry Lawrence, rookie running backs Mark van Eeghan and Harold Hart, tight end Dave Casper, rookie wide receiver Morris Bradshaw and rookie linebacker Mike Dennery.

Add to them veterans Leroy Kelly, a running back, Frank Pitts, a wide receiver, and Ron Smith, a kick return specialist, and the Raiders will show a nearly 20 per cent turnover in personnel from the team that went all the way to the AFC title game against Miami last year.

When you consider the Raiders drafted 18th last January, it's even more amazing they could come up with so many new faces. But for years, the Davis-Wolf tandem has managed to keep the supply of new faces coming, and perhaps that is the real reason wvy Oakland has had the best won-lost record in pro football over the last 10 years.

The biggest problem, in fact, the Raiders management had to face this year was deciding who stayed and who went. Other clubs should be so lucky.

Davis and his head coach, John Madden, are naturally conservative men, so you can't get either to make a prediction on the club's chances in the National Football League race that opens this weekend.

The best either will say comes from Madden.

"We have very, very good depth this year over last," says Madden. 'Of course, it's not hard to be optimistic, but a 14-game season is a long one and many things can happen to upset your plans."

Ken Stabler, who is jumping to the World Football League in two years, will lead the Raiders this year at quarterback and his heir apparent looks like Larry Lawrence, a free agent from Iowa, who was the hero of a 5-1 exhibition season.

The veterans Marv Hubbard, Charlie Smith and Clarence Davis plus two from among Kelly, van Eeghan and Hart, are the team's running backs with Mike Siani, Fred Biletnikoff, Mel Branch and Pitts at wide receiver and Bob Moore and Casper at tight end.

The talent is so plentiful at tight end, for instance, that veterans Kent Gaydos and Warren Bankston could wind up on the taxi squad.

The interior linemen on offense figure to be Jim Otto, Dave Dalby, Gene Upshaw, George Buehler, Art Shell, John Vella and Henry Lawrence, a No. 1 draft pick from Florida A&M.

Among the one-job men, George Blanda will handle the field goal kicking chores, Ray Guy the punting and Bob Hudson, a real tiger wherever he is used, will be on the special teams.

Defensively, there are no changes from a year ago. That means Horace Jones, Tony Cline, Art Thoms, Otis Sistrunk, Bubba Smith and Kelvin Korver will operate up front, Dan Connors, Phil Villapiano, Gerald Irons, Monte Johnson, Gary Weaver and Joe Carroll will handle the linebacking while the backfield patrol will be made up of Willie Brown, Nemiah Wilson, Skip Thomas, Jack Tatum and George Atkinson.

The Raiders open the new season against the Bills in Buffalo next week, then face Kansas City, Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the following three games.

Some observers close to the Raider scene think that if Oakland wins its first four games it has a fine chance to go through the season unbeaten. That may be going too far, but it's fair to assume that when the playoffs get under way in late December, the Raiders will be in them.

Thornblade named economist

James B. Thornblade, 27 Central Ter., Auburndale, has been named an economist in the business research department of The First National Bank of Boston.

He joined the bank in 1972 after serving with the Pay Board in Washington and, prior to that, as assistant professor in the department of economics at Syracuse University.

He holds a B.A. degree from Oberlin College anda Ph.D. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Thornblad e is a member of the American Economics Association and the Boston Association of Business Economists.

. He is married to the former Gwendoline Blair of Longon, England. Both are musicians, concentrating in chamber music, and occasionally playing with local orchestras. They have two daughters.

Pats get McGee from Bears

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots have acquired veteran defensive end Tony McGee from the Chicago Bears for two future draft choices, club officials said Tuesday.

The 6-4, 250-pound McGee brings the Patriots' roster to 71, 24 over the limit required at the start of the season.

Homestead

Friday, by calling the Homestead, 332-3920. Groups are limited to 20 children, and there is no charge.

Chairman of the board of trustees is Mrs. Lester A. Steinberg, and president of the Friends of Jackson Homestead is Harry L. Walen.

Mr. Alan B. Larkin, Chairman of the Newton Historical Committee and publisher of the Newton Centennial Journal, is offering a specially designed one and one-half hour lecture on Newton history. Sponsored by the Jackson Homestead, Mr. Larkin will tell, in details appealing to all ages, just how Newton "began," and how it has grown.

Well known as the "city historian," and one of the Trustees of the Homestead, he gave a course on the history of Newton last year to an adult audience at the Newton Lower Falls Community School.

Groups (up to forty in number) interested in scheduling Mr. Larkin's lecture may meet at the Homestead, and may use the Homestead facilities for serving refreshments.

Arrangements may be made by calling 332-3920.

Texas here Saturday night

A look at B. C.'s first opponent

TEXAS VS. BOSTON COLLEGE
Alumni Stadium
Chestnut Hill, Mass.
Saturday, September 14
Kickoff Time:
7:30 p.m. EDT
Attendance:
32,000 Capacity
Series Record:
First meeting between Texas and Boston College.

Last Year:
Boston College was 7-4, Texas was 8-3 including 19-3 Cotton Bowl loss to Nebraska. Texas won SWC with 7-0 conference mark.

Travel Plans:
Longhorns will fly to Boston on Friday, Sept. 13, leaving Austin at 10:30 a.m. via Braniff Charter. A short workout is scheduled Friday afternoon with team headquarters at Dunfey's Parker House. The team will return to Austin immediately after the game. Texas SID Jones Ramsey is scheduled to arrive in Boston Sunday preceding the game and stay at the Dunfey's Parker House.

Longhorn Workouts:
Texas began pre-season training on Aug. 22. Two-a-day drills ended Labor Day with classes starting on Wednesday, Sept. 4. Longhorns have staged two controlled scrimmages and were to wind up contact with a Friday afternoon scrimmage Sept. 6.

Roosevelt Leaks:
Texas' all-American fullback who finished third in Heisman Trophy balloting last year will not play against Boston College. Leaks underwent knee surgery last spring and has not been cleared for contact work though he has been participating in dummy drills. Doctors are to decide Sept. 15, when and if he can participate in contact work. Junior letterman David Bartek, who backed up Leaks last year, and freshman Earl Campbell, have been running in Leaks' fullback slot.

Early Game:
This is the first time for the Longhorns to play an 11th game since the NCAA game permission with the 1970 season.

Freshmen:
Texas is not playing a freshman schedule this year and is working its 29 frosh with the varsity. At this writing 12 freshmen plus a junior college transfer have made the varsity squad with only Campbell earning a starting berth (at fullback). David McLeod of Tyler Junior College (and San Antonio Churchill) is the No. 1 defensive right end.

Captains:
Texas will be led by four captains in 1974. Leaks and center Bob Tresch representing the offense with tackle Doug English and linebacker Wade Johnston heading the defensive unit.

Other Injuries:
In addition to Leaks, these Longhorns have missed some of the two-a-day drills: defensive back Sammie Mason is out indefinitely with a knee injury as is center Stan Freeman. Center Mike Hardage is lost for the year with a knee operation. Running back Jimmy Walker is having recurring knee problems and has not worked for several days.

Lettermen:
Texas now has 28 lettermen returning from the 1973 season with 33 gone. Parker Alford, No. 1 tight end a year ago, was killed in an auto accident in Houston in mid-August and defensive back Kieth Moreland decided to give up the sport and concentrate on a baseball career.

Openers:
Texas has lost nine opening season games in 81 years of intercollegiate competition. Latest opening loss was to Miami last year, 15-20. Others: to Kansas in 1938, LSU 1953, Texas Tech 1955, Southern California 1956, Nebraska 1960, Southern California 1966 and 1967. Opening ties came in 1908 with Texas A&M, 1936 with LSU and 1958 with Houston.

Busy SWC Slate:
All nine Southwest Conference teams will be in action Sept. 14. Arkansas hosts USC in Little Rock, Baylor is at Oklahoma, SMU at North Texas, Texas A&M hosts Clemson, TCU hosts UT Arlington, Texas Tech hosts Iowa State and Rice hosts Houston in non-conference games. Houston does not play for the SWC title until 1976.

Home Opener:
The Longhorns play Wyoming in Memorial Stadium at Austin on Sept. 21. Kickoff will be at 7 p.m. CDT.

Royal's 18th:
The 1974 season will be Darrell Royal's 18th at Texas and 21st overall as a college head coach. His record at Texas is 144-36-4 with 10 SWC titles, three national championships and 14 bowl games. His 20-year record is 161-49-4. He has won 94 conference games at Texas, lost 20 and tied two. Royal needs one more victory to pass former Rice coach Jess Neeley as the coach with the most victories at an SWC school. Neeley won 144 games in 27 years at Rice.

Brother Acts:
The Longhorns have several sets of brothers on this year's squad. There are three Thurmans from White Deer (Rick, Ken, and Donnie); two Mikschs from Needville (Ronnie and Randy); two Wilcoxs from Spring Woods in Houston (Will and Charles); two Hamiltons (Bill and Mark from Las Cruces, N.M.) and two Rickmans (Robert and Allen of San Antonio). Also, there are two cousins on the squad (Walter and Bobby Rowan).

82nd Season:
This marks the 82nd year of intercollegiate competition for the Longhorns who have won 536, lost 195 and tied 28.

Trip East:
This will be Texas' first trip to the middle or northeastern U.S. East Coast since 1960, when the Longhorns beat Maryland, 34-0. It is Texas' first trip to New England since 1931, when Texas lost to Harvard, 35-7. It is also the third time in four years that UT has opened on far distant foreign soil. Last year Texas visited (and lost to Miami, 20-15) Florida, in 1972 the 'Horns hosted Miami and in 1971 the Longhorns opened in California against UCLA, winning a televised battle, 28-10. There's another trip in store next year on Sept. 20, when UT plays Washington in Seattle, but if the 'Horns pick up another 11th game, that probably won't be the season opener.

Texas Fans:
Over 2000 tickets have been sold to UT fans, and the alumni association expects significant gatherings from the New York and Boston Ex-Students' Association clubs. Charter flights are being booked by the group in Austin, and buses are expected from New York.

Cheerleaders:
The Longhorn band and UT's Longhorn steer mascot Bevo won't make the trip, but nine of the 10 UT cheerleaders, headed by Fort Worth senior Jeff Newman, will be at the game.

Minor Note:
Frosh Landry Minor, whose dad played at Texas, is named for Dallas Cowboy coach (and former UT player Tom Landry).

Darrell Royal Notes
Generally:
We're inconsistent-far too inconsistent. We don't have a good comprehension and we don't understand what we're trying to accomplish. We just don't have a good total picture yet.

Youth at Fault?
It doesn't matter who is at fault . . . it is coming from people who we're counting on playing for us this year. There are two or three guys off on every play and it is different people at different times.

Defensively:
We're extremely thin in the secondary, and we're concerned about replacing our experienced defensive ends. We're not that outstanding in athletic ability in the secondary—we're certainly not physical in the secondary with a 138-pound safety.

Earl Campbell:
Earl is an outstanding football player, freshman or not. He is unsure at times because he is still learning, but when he's pointed in the right direction, he's pointed with authority.

Boston College
Boston College always has outstanding talent. . . they had something like seven guys drafted last year, and they always have good personnel. Their patterns are good, offensively and defensively. They are as stiff an opener as we had last year. (Miami defeated Texas 20-15 in last year's first game, then later beat Boston College, 15-10).

SWC Favorite
I think it is more out of force of habit for us to be rated first in the conference. It's a trait of a coach to be jumpy, but I don't feel we're that much of a favorite. Our ball game with Tech was decided by 15 yds. of offense, and while I don't think it would have made any difference when we played, it was still an even game. There is no question they improved as the season went on, but I don't exactly think we were standing still, either.

Retiring Rumors
I'm enjoying coaching and having as much fun as I ever did. Sure, I think about getting out of coaching more today than I did a few years back, but I haven't been 50 all my life, either.

Quarterbacks
We are actually two deep. I think they look about equal, and we are comfortable with either one of those guys in the ball game.

Leaks
He's been cleared for everything except scrimmage and contact work. There hasn't been any change this fall except that we now can put shoulder pads on him. We'll look at him again on September 15, but he definitely will not play against Boston College.

General Offense
We lost some good people. . . we are starting over completely at split end, and due to the tragic personal loss of Parker Alford we are shy of depth at tight end. It looks like we probably have more speed at the corners.

Frosh Surprise
Yes, I'm a bit surprised, but I think we have outstanding high school football in the state of Texas, from the instruction to the interest right down to the football players.

Opening Loss
Yes, I find it harder to coach after any loss, and despite what you as a coach say, the players are aware of ratings like last year when we were number one. I didn't think we were that bad a football team, and I thought we could mold into a pretty solid football team, which we did.

Channel 7 introduces game show

BOSTON — "Race To Riches", a locally produced game show combining the thrills of thoroughbred racing at Suffolk Downs with cash prizes and home participation, will debut Wednesday, Sept. 18 from 7:30 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 21 from 5:30 to 6 p.m. on WNAC TV, Channel 7.

Hosted by Dave Rodman of Channel 7, the two half hour shows will be shot on location at Suffolk Downs with three contestants picked at random. Each contestant is given $140 to wager on their choices to win including perfectas.

Each contestant will pick a "Pony Partner", a viewer who has filled out an entry blank with his-her name and address, with whom the winnings will be divided 50-50.

"Race To Riches" was conceived and created in conjunction with Suffolk Downs. It utilizes the popular game show format in order to involve the home viewer in the excitement of thoroughbred racing.

The contestant winning the most money on the first race of the show is asked to compete again on the second race against two new challengers. The contestant winning the most money on the second half of the show is asked to return on the following program with the possibility of winning several days in a row. The winnings of any on contestnat could be one of the largest cash prizes ever won on television.

A look at the NFL

Healthy Namath key to Jets

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — For the first time since they shed their dubious image as the Titans in 1963, the New York Jets will not have Weeb Ewbank on the sidelines as coach.

Ewbank has retired to concentrate on his duties as general manager and his soninlaw, Charley Winner, will attempt to bind together a team that won only four games last season despite some of the top talent in the league.

Winner's main problem is that he is Ewbank's son-in-law and cries of nepotism already have been levelled. He's in a situation where he must produce now or face the consequences.

The Jets' major problem last season is beyond his control. That came in the second game when Baltimore linebacker Stan White levelled Joe Namath and the Jet quarterback walked away with a separated shoulder.

A healtpy Namath is one of the keys for the Jets to make a run at a wild card slot in the American Conference. Even the most optimistic Jets don't think they can challenge Miami outright for the Eastern crown.

With Namath, the Jets can score from anywhere on the field. Without him, they are just a mediocre club, reaching peaks and valleys.

But there were other problems. The running attack faltered, the defensive line was manhandled and the linebacking was subpar. Only the defensive secondary managed to play well.

Winner can't do anything about keeping Namath healthy but he moved quickly to remedy most of the deficiencies and John Riggins took care of another problem by himself.

Riggins, who gained 944 yards in 1972, never really got started last season. He was late reporting to camp in a contract dispute and never decided if he really wanted to play. He appeared in only 10 games and gained 482 yards.

This year he seems to be the Riggins of old and his running complementing Namath's passing should make Winner's offensive planning that much easier.

Defensively, Winner decided that the Jets traditional small, quick lineman was obsolete and he used his No. 1 draft pick to select mammoth Carl Barzilauskas, a 6-foot-6, 285-pound tackle from Indiana. Barzilauskas has lived up to all his advance notices and right now is the club's best defensive lineman.

Winner also injected youth into the offensive line, once the Jets' pride. Guard Dave Herman and tackle Bob Svihus retired and center John Schmitt was traded to Green Bay, giving way to younger replacements.

The Jets also gained a top-notch rookie linebacker in Godwin Turk, a No. 3 pick out of Southern University. But Turk, who was listed to start, suffered a shoulder injury in pre-season and is expected to miss half the season.

"This is better than a 4-10 team," Winner says. "I know we can win seven or eight games and maybe more. The big thing is to develop our running game, to get it back to where it was two years ago. John Riggins is the key to that. If he and Emerson Boozer play up to their potential, we'll have a solid running attack.

"Joe has picked up our new system very quickly and he's still the best passer in the game. If we can keep him healthy all year, we'll be contenders.

"Defensively, Barzo is going to help a lot. He's going to choke off that middle where we had so many problems last season. You need that big guy in there to keep them honest."

The starting unit offensively should include Namath at quarterback, Riggins and Boozer in the backfield.

State Health Dept. expects 'moderate' influenza outbreak

The state Department of Public Health has issued the following information to local boards of health on the expected influenza outbreaks this winter:

It is expected Massachusetts will experience an outbreak of moderate intensity of both Influenza A and B this winter. Influenza is no stranger to Massachusetts, since it appears each winter in varying amoonts. We may well have nore influenza this year because of the many people who have not yet experienced the new strains of Influenza Aand B. Last winter the flu came late; it appeared in March and disappeared in April. Most patients had Influenza B, while very few suffered from the London strain of Influenza A.

The London strain of Influenza A was first isolated early in 1971. Ifluenza B, which is a relatively stable virus, underwent a major antigenic drift in late 1972 when two new strains were identified.

Influenza A

Influenza Tupe A was first discovered in 1933 by Smith Andrewes, and Laidlaw and contains a number of immunologically distinct strains. Ability to change its antigenic makeup is a characteristic of Influenza A. For example, Influenza A originally appeared in 1933; a variant of Influenza A, referred to as A', caused the outbreak of 1947; another variant, the Asian strain, resulted in the epidemic of 1957. The Hong Kong strain appeared in July 1968.

Early in 1971, a new strain, known as the English or London strain, was isolated from an epidemic in India, and subsequently in England. Antigenically, it varies considerably fromthe Hong Kong strain. The London strain has been incorporated in the new vaccine.

Influenza B

Influenza B was isolated in 1950 by Francis and McGill and, like Influenza A, has a number of different strains. These undergo antigenic variation, although to a lesser extent. The last antigenic change in Influenza B .occurred in 1957. However, in December 1972, two new strains of Type B Influenza were identified. They first appeared in Hong Long in December 1972 and have since been isolated in other parts of the world.

Influenza C

Influenza C was first discovered by Taylor in 1949 and in contrast to Influenzas A and B is a stable virus.

Epidemiology

Characteristically, influenza appears suddenly, in epidemic form, atacking young and old alike, and almost as suddenly fades away, only to attack another area. Thus, a shool may have an absenteeism rate of about 5 per cent one week and the following week the absenteeism rate may jump up to 25, or even 50 per cent. Industry in the same community may experience a similar absenteeism. An outbreak in any one community may last as long as two or three weeks.

Patients complain of headache, lacrimation, nasal discharge, sore throat, and generalized aches and pains. Fever may be mile to severe. The whole illness usuzlly lasts less than five days. Treatment is supportive. Uncomplicated influenza practically never kills but the idsease often paves the wayfor respiratory invasion by other organisms, particularly the pneumococci, streptococci and staphlococci.

Thus, where influenza appears, it is accompanied by an increase in pneumonia and an inkrease in deaths due to pneumonia. Particularly hard hit are the elderly, the debilitated of any age, and those with chronic illnesses such as cardiovascular, pulmonary, renal or metabolic disorders. Children and healthy adults almost always experience an nenventful recovery.

Immunization

Immunization is advised particularly for the following groups of peopld:

1. Persons in the older age group — 60 years of ge or older.
2. Persons in nursing or convalescent homes, rest homes and other facilities where elderly people may be residing.
3. Persons of any age who have chronic disease, such as cardiovascilar, pulmonary, renal or metabolic disorders. These include patients with:

(a) rheumatic heart disease, arteriosclerotic heart disease, hypertensive heart disease and congenital heart disease.

(b) asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, pulmonary-fibrosis, pulmonary emphysema and pulmonary tuberculosis.

(c) chronic nephritis or other kidney disorders.

(d) diabetes and Addison's disease.

4. Vaccination should also be considered for persons who provide essential community services such as those employed by the police and fire departments, mass transit, public utilities, and medical personnel, particularly hsopital personnel.

How Administered

Baccine should be given as soon as possible after September 1, because flu is expected before Christmas. A single injection or bivalent vaccine should be administered either for primary or annual booster immunization. Data indicates that with the current potent influenza vaccine, a second dose of vaccine is not necessary. Intracutaneous administration is not recommended.

Influenza vaccine is approximately 60 to 70 per cent effective in preventing an attack of influenza. However, should one develop influenza after receiving the vaccine, the disease is likely to be milder.

Contraindications

The bivalent flu vaccine is produced in chick embryo and should not be given to those who react allergically to eggs or egg products. Any acute respiratory disease or other active infection is sifficient reason for postponing immunization.

Measures to be Taken During an Outbreak

It is requested that the boards of health telephone the Division of Communicable Diseases, 727-2686 or 2687 should an outbreak of influenza strike their community. Any sudden increase in absenteeism, particularly in the school population and industries, warrants an investigation.

Speaking Out for Children

What is Chapter 766 all about?

By DAVID S LIEDERMAN
Director, Massachusetts Office For Children

This month, a new education reform law takes effect in all Massachusetts schools. Chapter 766, designed to guarantee full education opportunities for children with special needs, will bring some important changes to public schools, and new roles for parents in palnning their children's education.

As Chapter 766 goes into effect, parents and young people naturally have many questions about what it will mean to them. The following are some of the questions most often asked about the new law:

Q: Is "766" for my child?

A: Chapter 766 states that if your child is aged 3 through 21, he or she has a right to an education, including services designed to meet special needs. Special needs include problems with vision or hearing, emotional problems, physical handicaps, difficulties in learning, and behavior problems. Young people aged 16 through 21 who do not have a high school diploma can also receive services under Chapter 766.

Q: Does 766 mean that all children with special needs will suddenly be pushed into regular classrooms?

A: Chapter 766 provides many differenct programs to meet the needs of children, and integration into regular classes with extra services is just one of them. It will only happen when participation in a regular class is beneficial to the child and not disruptive to other children.

Q: What are the possible programs for a child under 766?

A: Under Chapter 766 any child with special needs will have one of the following program options:

— regular education with modifications
— regular education with not more than 25 per cent of the time out of regular class for specialized services.
— regular education with not more than 60 per cent of the time out of regular class for specialized services
— Substantially separate program (within the regular school)
— day school program (not in the regular school)
—residential program
— home or hospital program
— parent-child instruction (as a supplement to other programs)
— diagnostic program (not to exceed 8 weeks)

Q: If I think my child needs special services, what do I do?

A: You request a form called "Special Needs Evaluation Referral" from your local school, Special Education Administrator, or regional office of the state Department of Education. Fill out this form and send it to the local school principal or Special Education Administrator. By doing this, you have requested an evaluation of your child.

Q: What's the evaluation?

A: The school assigns several professionals to give your child a medical and psychological examination, as well as to discover things about his language, reading, and memory abilities, how he acts with others, and how he feels about himself.

Q: Shat's the evaluation for

A: The purpose of the evaluation is to give you and the school information to go on in planning services for your child.

Q: How are the services my child needs decided?

A: A group called the "Core Evaluation Team" (CET) will work with you and your child to determine what services your child should have. The parent is not necessarily present when the child's needs are assessed. For the development of your child's education plan, however, the CET includes($

— you, the parent
— your child's most recent teacher
— the teacher your child will have next (once that person is known), and the teacher's aid
— a doctor
— a psychologist
— a nurse, social worker, guidance counselor, or adjustment counselor
— a rperesentative of the school department
— at the parents' request, any other professional working with the child — specialists, but only with the parents' permission

Q: How can I best participate on the CET?

A: If you want, you can bring a friend with you to meetings of the CET. Bringing someone with you often helps you to talk freely and express concerns you have about your child. You, as a parent, can help the CET remember that three important things need to be found out: what your child can do, what professionals are going to teach your child to do, and how the school is going to provide the program.

Q: What if I don't like the final plan the CET decides on?

A: The parent has final approval of the education plan. If the parent is not satisfied with any part of the evaluation or the plan, an independent evaluation may be requested. Contact your regional office of the Cepartment of Education for a list of the approved agencies that will do an evaluation for free. (If the evaluation is done at any ohter agency, then you willhave to pay.) You and the CET members must come to an agreement about your child's education plan within 30 days.

What meat stamps tell you at the market

By The Norfolk County Extension Service

Consumers are often confused by the stamps, tags and package imprints which indicate inspectors. But if you want to get what you pay for, it will help if you understand the government meat symbols.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture inspection stamp in the form of a circle is your assurance of wholesomeness. This circle appears as a stamp on the meat itself, on metal tags or printed on cans or containers. The USDA inspection stamp is required by law for all meat sold in interstate commerce. This marking is the government statement aht a federal inspector inspected the carcass and determined that it came from a healthy animal and, further, thatt it was processed in sanitary surroundings.

The Department of Agriculture grade stamp is always in the form of a sheidl and is your assurance of quality. This mark is also affixed to various meats or containers in the most conventient way. Unlike the USDA inspection stamp, a federal grade stamp in not required by law. In order to get meat products graded by a f deral inspector, the processor must pay for the service. While much meat is not federally graded, the lack of a stamp does not mean the product is inferior. Some processors have their own quality stamps with equal assurance of quality and satisfaction to the consumer.

About 90 per cent of all the beef and sheep that farmers send to market falls into the Choice or Good grades; about 5 per cent grades are Prime and the rest is lower quality then Good. Most Prime meats go to restaurants; the Choice and Good grades end up at the meat counter. While USDA grading gives youa general idea of quality, it is not specific enough too give you explicit information.

The USDA Choice beef grade, for example, is further divided into five different yeidl grades. Yield Grade One is from a very different carcass; Yield Grade Five is from a very fat carcass, with Yield Grades Two, Three and Four somewhere in between. The USDA Yield Grade designations are meaningful primarily to buyers of wholesale beef, whether it is an entire carcass, a side or a quarter.

Yield Grade Two or Three will best meet the needs of most non-professional buyers of carcass beef. At the meat counter, however, yield grade is of no value because small retail cuts do not carry a yield grade designation. Maximum satisfaction from the beef and lamb you select reauires a sharp and experienced eye. The more you know about meat, the more satisfaction you will get from the cuts you choose.

Pork is subject to the same USDA inspection regulations as are beef, lamb and poultry. But unlike these other meats, pork is never USDA graded.

Chicken and other poultry are federally graded A, B, or C, with A being the finest quality. To qualify as Grade A, poultry must be meaty and attractive. You will seldom, if ever, see poultry that is Grade B or C at the meat counter. A booklet describing the USDA grades and their use in buying foods is available free from the Publications Division, Office of Communication, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Aks for How to Use USDA Grades in Buying Food (G 196).

Bible Society to meet Sept. 16

The 165th annual program of the Massachusetts Bible Society will be held Monday, Sept. 16, at Bible House, Bromfield St., Boston, at 12:30 p.m., it was announced recently by Lewis M. Foster of Newton Highlands, laymen president.

Representatives of Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant faiths will participate in the business of the society, election of officers and the expansion of bible distribution.

Participating will be Arthur B. Worthley Jr. of Back Bay, vice-president; David M. Goodwin, Wellesley, treasurer; Rev. Dr. Howard Pomeroy, Jamaica Plain, secretary; Carl S. Stricklin, Needham, business manager and Mrs. Oscar Phillips, West Medford, chairman of the nominating committee.

Holy Name societies commemorate 700 years

Officers and members of parish Holy Name societies of this area will take part in the commemoration of the 700th anniversary of the founding of the society Sunday, Sept. 15, by participating in a special concelebrated mass.

The mass will be celebrated at 4:30 p.m. in Holy Name Church on Centre Street in West Roxbury. A reception and dinner-dance will follow at the Marriott. The public is invited to attend these events.

Cardinal Medeiros will be the principal celebrant of the mass. Concelebrants will be Auxiliary Bishops Thomas J. Riley, Lawrence J. Riley, Rev. James Lanergan and Msgr. Robert T. Kickham. Music for the mass will be under the direction of Rev. Francis V. Strahan, music director of St. John's Seminary in Brighton.

Cardinal Medeiros will also be the principal speaker at the dinner in the grand ballroom of the Marriott. Secretary of Public Safety Richard E. McLaughlin will be the toastmaster.

Dance music will be provided by the George Graham orchestra.

The organization was founded in September, 1274, at the direction of Pope Gregory X. He directed Joh of Vercelli, O.P., sixth master general of the Dominican order, to establish an organization to promote respect for the name of Jeses Christ.

Joseph H. McPherson of Newtonville is general chairman of the dinner. Arrangements for the mass were made by Father Lanergan.

Final reservations for the dinner may be made by contacting the Holy Name office, 542-7415.

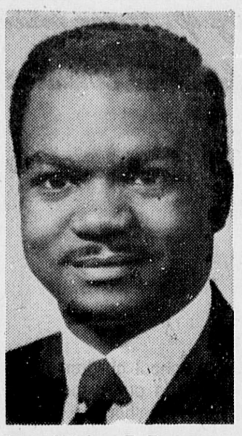

Rev. Fauntroy to give sermon on Sept. 15

Dean George Peck of Andover Newton Theological School has announced that the annual Convocation Worship for the opening of the school year will take place on Sunday, Sept. 15.

The service will be held at 4 p.m. at the Peoples Baptist Church, Boston, and is open to the public.

Walter E. Fauntroy, United States Representative from Washington, D.C., and pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church, Washington, D.C., will preach the sermon. In addition to his duties as a congressman, Rev. Fauntroy is chairman of the board of directors of the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change in Atlanta, Ga. He also is a member of the board of directors of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

For several years, Andover Newton has started its academic year by gathering for worship in a church associated with the black community of Boston. Peck commented that "We look upon this service as a public statement of Andover Newton's involvement with the black community in its struggle for dignity, justice, and a legitimate place in the affairs of our urban complexes. We also want to affirm our commitment to the education of the black ministry and to the importance in American life of the black religious experience."

Rev. Walter E. Fauntroy

Richard M. Owens, pastor of Peoples Baptist Church and a trustee of Andover Newton, will participate in the service along with the Rev. Fauntroy.

The public is invited to attend.

Ms. Tashjian to open book review series

Newton Free Library Director Virginia A. Tashjian will lead off with the first NFL book review of the '74-'75 season at the Upper Falls Branch on Thursday, Sept. 19 at 10:30 a.m.

The series of book reviews-coffee hours will highlight the summer publishing crop and preview the fall books to come. Both fiction and non-fiction titles will be reviewed.

Upper Falls Branch Librarian Mrs. Annetta Gordon invited all book lovers to participate in the discussion and to remain for coffee. The new and just-reviewed books are available for immediate borrowing.

The book review series, a regular feature of the NFL's varied schedule of programs, is held at branch libraries throughout the city on a rotating basis. Different members of the library staff lead the book review discussions.

People may read the NFL's monthly Bulletin, available at all Newton libraries, for listings of children's activities, films, club events, exhibits, and lectures.

For information about the Newton Free Library's Outreach Program, Center for the Visually Handicapped, Listening Post, Shut-In and Readers' Advisor Services. People may call 527-7700.

Campus Note

Bucknell University announces that Marsha A. Salamoff, 60 Concolor Ave., a sophomore, is a member of the University's Bison Marching Band which has recently completed a four-day band camp in the Pocono Mountains. The band will perform at the season opener with Rutgers on Sept. 21.

Mental health program to open center Sept. 16

The Newton-Wellesley-Weston Comprehensive Community Mental Health Program will open the NEWW Center on Monday, Sept. 16 at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton.

This is a social, recreational, and rehabilitation program open to patients, former patients, and others in need of help who are having difficulty in community adjustment.

NEWW Center's programs will be geared around learning skills in jobs, housing, meal preparation, and interacting with others.

The purpose of the program is to help current patients in their readjustment to community ife, and to procide an active, warm, friendly place for people in the community who need special help. The program is exclusively for residents of Newton, Wellesley and Westwon.

An open house will be held on Sept. 16 so that people may learn more about the program. Coffee will be served from 10 a.m. on, and opening ceremonies will be at 11 a.m.

The program is sponsored by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Rebecca Pomroy House of the Newton Community Service Centers, and the Department of Metnal Health.

Braeburn elder center reopens

The Braeburn Senior Center will reopen at 10:30 a.m., Tuesday, Sept. 17. The center will be open thereafter every other Tuesday. Transportation may be arranged through the Department of Human Resources at City Hall.

The schedule for Sept. 17 is hospital work in the morning and a sing-along in the afternoon, with music provided by Mrs. Helen Foster (piano) and Mr. Babe Arduino (banjo).

Diet Workshop plans open house

The Newton Diet Workshop has announced it will hold open house week during the entire week of Sept. 16 in all classes at 285 Centre St. to the High Holidays, Open house at Tejple Reyim will be held at a later date.) The public will be welcome to attend without obligation.

A leading nati nal consumer publication recently gave The Diet Workshop the highest possible recommendation citing the fact that their groups give extra personal attention to each dieter. Therefore, these open houses will provide the opportunity to see first hand why this method of losing weight has proved so helpful.

The liberal diet (nutritionally balanced by Dr. Morton B. Glenn of New York — medical advisor to The Diet Workshop) has been combined with optional exercises, low-calorie recipes for the whole family, and the moral support of group participation.

Luncheon held for new teachers

The Newton Teachers Association (NTA) sponsored its third annual luncheon for new teachers at the Mill Falls Restaurant on Tuesday, Sept. 3.

NTA President Robert Provencher welcomed over 150 teachers, pncluding: new personnel; NTA faculty representatives from various schools; NTA executive committee members, and other NTA leaders.

Thomas Tanous, president of the 50,000 member Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA), an affiliate of the NTA, was a featured speaker.

Both Provencher and Tanous emphasized the importance of teachers joining the United Teaching Profession (i.e. the NTA, the MTA, and the National Education Association) in order in order to promote professional growth; to gain a salary schedule which would not be outpaced by increases in the cost of living; to secure mutual protection; and to gain access to professional services supplied by the NTA, and its affiliates.

The 41-year old Newton Teachers Association is the official bargaining agent for the teachers of Newton, and last year numbered nearly 90 percent of Newton teachers among its ranks.

There will be an unveiling for the late Samuel Andler on Sunday, Sept. 15, at 3 p.m. at the Beth-El Cemetery on Baker St., West Roxbury.

The beginning

This . . . is where it all begins.

This . . . is the first day of thousands more to come.

This . . . is nursery school.

And for all those uncertain parents who left their children at the door, wondering if they were really doing the right thing, wondering if their tiny youngster of four would feel secure amidst new environs; let them be assured by these "untouched" photographs that the largest percentage of youngsters took their first day in full stride.

Who's comforting whom? Tara Tradd seems to know that a little milk is good, even in pretend.

Dr. Kirschbaum joins B.U. staff

Dr. Robert Kirschbaum of Chestnut Hill has been appointed an assistant professor in the department of public health and community dentistry at Boston University School of Graduate Dentistry for the the 1974-75 academic year.

Kirschbaum is a graduate of Harvard College and New York University College of Dentistry. He is a past chairman of the dental health section, Massachusetts Public Health Association; a past president of Newton Lions Club; a past president of the Brotherhood, Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, and is presently a member of its board of trustees. He is also a member of the Rotary Club of Chestnut Hill.

Kirschbaum maintains his home and office at 287 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill.

Wiggin named vice-president

Charles H. Spaulding, president of Spaulding and Slye Corporation, recently made an announcement of the promotion of Charles E. Wiggin of Newtonville to vice-president, residiential operations.

Wiggin joined Spaulding and Slye Housing Associates, a subsidiary of Spaulding and Slye Corporation, as project manager for two of the firm's condominium projects, in charge of the financial forecasting, and coordination of design and construction programs. He was then promoted to general manager of the housing division, working as an overseer for marketing, construction, and planning programs.

Wiggin received a BA from Harvard College, an MBA from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, and was awarded a JD from Harvard Law School. He has had published several papers on corporate and real estate tax analysis techniques.

To Your Readers:

Schools are open in your community. Some school children are walking — some busing. No matter what kind of travel they use, it is our responsibility — yours and mine — to do everything we can to protect them. Together, we must make it possible for children to reach their destinations safely.

If you're a driver, the law requires you to stop when school bus lights are flashing and to remain stopped until the school bus resumes motion of the lights have stopped flashing or until the bus driver signals to proceed. The only exception is when you are on the opposite side of a divided highway.

Now there is a new law which may cause slight delays for drivers commuting along school bus routes. School bus operators must request that passengers cross in front of the school bus immediately upon alighting. The operator is not allowed to move the bus until the children have reached the other side of the way. So, please don't be impatient. Just allow extra travel time to compensate for the slight delays.

Young children going to school for the first time should be accompanied by a parent or guardian until they have responsible walking habits and know the shortest and safest route to school.

There are some who travel to and from school on bicycles — be ready to stop for them if they veer into your path.

Your cooperation in protecting the safety of our children will be appreciated by everyone concerned.

Very truly yours,
David J Lucey

(Join Us.)

There are a lot of jobs to be done in this world, helping people in trouble, in pain, in distress. American Red Cross takes on more of these jobs than anybody. Surprised?

Remember: Red Cross is more than blood drives. It's more than helping the thousands of victims of disasters. In fact, American Red Cross tackles over 100 different kinds of "Helping People" jobs—in the city, the suburbs, wherever you are.

We need money, it's true, so we can go on offering all our free services. But we also need hearts. And hands. And conviction.

Call your local chapter. Join us.

The American Red Cross. The Good Neighbor.

THAT'S A FACT

Bonds are for single girls who want to save a little money.

Sometimes saving is awfully hard for a single person. It's so much easier to give in to temptation. That's why the Payroll Savings Plan is such a good idea. Your money's set aside and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds before you can get your hands on it. Join the Payroll Savings Plan. It helps you save in spite of yourself.

Take stock in America.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Formation of rape prevention advisory board announced

An advisory board of women will assist the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council (MCJTC) in planning a training program for rape prevention and prosecution units of local police departments.

Newton Mayor Theodore D. Mann, MCJTC chairman, announced that the advisory group will include women who are knowledgeable about the characteristics of the crime of rape and the problems faced by rape victims after the incident.

The training program is being developed in response to recent state legislation requiring local police departments to establish specialized rape units to "improve the quality of reporting, counseling, and prosecution."

"In the past," Mann said, "many rape victims have complained of 'insensitivity' on the part of those who have handled their cases. This is one reason, perhaps that an estimated 50 percent or more of all rape cases aren't even reported to the police. Also, the majority of rape investigations do not result in convictions. To reverse these trends, we must assist police officers with better interviewing and investigating techniques. We must also emphasize techniques for communicating rape prevention information to the public."

John F. Kehoe, Jr., commissioner of the Department of Public Safety, has made available staff members of his Research and Development Unit to help plan the training program. They will consult with a number of police chiefs, male and female police officers, and the women's advisory board.

Women who have agreed to serve on the advisory board include: Ann Wolbert Burgess, D.N.Sc., associate of professor of nursing, Boston College, and founder of the Rape Crisis Center at Boston City Hospital; Valerie Costello, Boston Area Rape Crisis Center; and Jenny Gelber, staff member for State Representative John Rotenberg of Brookline, sponsor of the original legislation.

Janis Hoffman, research associate, Boston University Center for Criminal Justice; Elia Kissinger, state coordinator for National Organization of Women and coordinator of Mass. Council on Rape Prevention; Carol Lazurus, program director, Mass. Council on Crime and Correction; State Representative Lois Pines, Newton; and Sandra Rasmussen, Ph.D., director of consultation and educational services and preventative programs, Department of Mental Health and research associate, Harvard School of Public Health.

Rachel Stockton, assistant chief probation officer, Springfield District Court and member of Governor's Commission on the Status of Women; Diane White, assistant dean of security, University of Massachusetts, Amherst; and Jane Pitt, Newton director of Human Resources.

The Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council was established earlier this year to develop and fund training programs for employees of state and local police, court, and correctional agencies. Funding for the Council's programs will come from a 25 per cent surcharge on criminal fines.

Steele named placement director

John E. Steele, has been named director of Career Planning and Placement at Boston College.

The announcement of Steele's appointment was made by Vice-President Student Affairs, James McIntyre.

Steele comes to Boston College after 10 years as director of placement at the Harvard Business School. He is a past president of the College Placement Council and is the co-author, with Robert Calvert, of "Planning Your Career."

Steele is only the second director of Career Planning and Placement at Boston College is almost 35 years. He will succeed George Donaldson who retired this year. It was Donaldson who established the Boston College Placement Office in 1941.

Steele holds AB and MCS degrees from the University of Indiana. He is a resident of Arlington.

Auction Saturday

Auctioneer Jimmy Bergantino of the Street Department will be presiding at the second annual City of Newton Purchasing Department auction at the old F.A. Day Junir High School on Saturday.

About 60 bicycles, 30 watches, 20-25 pieces of jewelry, cameras, television sets, and assorted silverware and other items will be among the items for auction.

According to Capt. John Bartinelli of the Newton police, these items have either been recovered as stolen property the owners of which have not been located, or are lost property not claimed.

Among the School Department and ther city proerty declared surplus and available for auction are counters with sinks, cots, TV equipment, books, records, kilns, kindergarten furniture, and numerous desks and chairs.

The auction will begin at 10 a.m. at the school, 100 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Mrs. Doona files suit

A former assistant city solicitor for the Newton Law Department, Helen M. Doona, has filed a petition in Middlesex Superior Court asking for reinstatement of her job, from which she was dismissed June 25.

Mrs. Doona has also sought an award of $5000,000 for loss of earnings and damage to her personal and professional reputation.

City Solicitor Howard Levine dismissed Mrs. Doona after she announced her intention to run for the position of state representative from the 16th District in Newton.

Levine said at the time that political involvement was contrary to his previously known policy for the Law Department, which must be "above politics."

Her seeking political office would also be a conflict of interest, Levine said.

Levine would no comment on the suit.

Opera Group to open fourth season on Oct. 18

The New England Chamber Opera Group qas announced its fourth season of opera in Boston. Operas to be presented run the gamut of musical theater from the Baroque to contemporary, including works by Handel, Weill, Puccini, Offenbach, and Bernstein.

All of the productions will be conducted by Philip Morehead, musical director of the group, and staged by Rafael de Acha, founder and principal stage director.

The repertory consists not only of chamber operas, but also of selected works from the grand opera repertory presented in chamber format, as well as contemporary operas and lesser-known masterworks from the past.

The 1974-75 season opens with a commemoration of the 50th anniversary of Puccini's death, a production of his most popular opera, "LaBoheme," in a modern dress production set in the Greenwhich Village of the 1960's, with an emphasis on the fundamentally intimate nture of this work. The dates of the performances are Oct. 18, 19, 25, 26 at the Massachusetts College of Art. 364 Brookline Avenue, Boston. The cast will include Thomas Olsen, Deborah O'Brien, and Jason Byce.

The second production is an unsual triple bill in an equally unusual setting. "Pepito" by Jacques Offenbach, "Trouble in Tahiti" by Leonard Bernstein, and "The Little Mahagonny" by Kurt Weill will be presented in cabaret setting, with chamber orchestra. The Brecht-Weill work, forerunner of their full-length opera "The Rise and Fall of the City of Mahagonny" reportedly caused a riot at its Berlin premiere in 1930. The dates for this production are Nov. 22, 23, 24; location to be announced.

The season will close with a New England stage premiere of Handel's opera, "Imeneo," in a new performing edition prepared by Philip Morehead and translated by Rafael de Acha. Performances will be on March 15 and 16, 1975, at the Massachusetts College of Art. The cast will include Susan Larson, D'Anna Fortunato, and Thomas Olsen.

Symphony Orchestra auditions at Meadowbrook on Sept. 29

The ninth season of the Newton Symphony Orchestra will highlight a special Pas de Deux program by the orchestra with the Boston Ballet Company.

Drawing upon the general Newton community and surrounding areas for its membership, the orchestra now consists of more than 60 members. Michel Sasson, the conductor, has been with the orchestra since its founding in 1966. He is also a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, music director of the Brockton Symphony, and of the Boston Ballet Company.

Mrs. Leo Stolbach, chairman of the Orchestra, has announced the following concert dates: Nov. 24, March 2, April 20, and a special chldren's concert on Dec. 14.

Auditions for those interested in joinng the orchestra will be held at the Meadowbrook Junir High School on Sunday, Sept. 29, at 3 p.m. and all interested musicians are invited to apply. Candidates should come prepared to play any piece with which they are comfortable. Simple sight reading will also be required. Thre are openings in all sections of the orchestra.

Collaborating with the Newton Music School and with the Newton School system, Sasson and the orchestra have performed original compositions by Newton students and have also given the young people the opportunity to play with the orchestra itself.

The regular subscription for three concerts and the children's concert is $9. Like all other similar artistic endeavors, the orchestra must depend, however, on suport in addition to the sale of tickets. Members of the community are invited to help directly in any of the following ways:

Purchase at least one series subscription and encourage at least one other friend and-or relative to purchase at least another subscription.

Become a Friend of the orchestra by paying $25. This contribution will bring two complete subscription tickets to the dnor free.

Give a subscription series ticket to makr a happy event. Special gift cards will be sent with the subscription indicating the occasion and the name of the donor.

Information and tickets can be obtained from Mrs. Leo Stolbach, Chairman at 56 Evelyn Rd., Waban.

Theater group plans three-play season

A new professional equity theater company has plans to open in Newton Centre this fall. It will be known as the Piccadilly Square Theatre Company and will operate within the Piccadilly Square business area.

With help from Piccadilly Square developer David Zussman and support from the merchants in Newton Center, the company will present its three-play season at The Playhouse in Piccadilly Square, also known as the Lutheran Church Hall.

The first year will be a seasonal operation, with plays scheduled in December, February and April. Producers of the P.S. Theatre Company are: Anita Sangiolo of Weston and Frank and Muriel Dolan of Wellesley. All have been associated with the touring Newton Theatre Company, the Boston Drama Quintet and the Newton Summer Theatre in 1963 and 1964.

The producers hope to announce their shows shortly, once final approval is received from N.Y. publishers.

According to the producers, the Piccadilly Square area seems ideally suited for such a suburban theatre since it eliminates the hassle of downtown traffic and parking, offers nearby local restaurants and shops, and is one block from the Newton Center stop on the 'T' Riverside line.

The Piccadilly Square Theatre Company hopes to do those plays which are more than commercial Broadway fare and yet are not in the realm of the "grunt and groan" school of theater. Present plans call for performances on Thursday, Friday, Saturday for two successive weeks.

Lecture on children's picture books Sept. 16

"Programs for Reading Enrichment" is a new fall and winter lecture series which will be presented by the Newton Free Library this year at the Nonantum Branch Library, 144 Bridge St. starting Monday, Sept. 16 at 10:30 a.m.

Geared toward adults who want to know about the printed resources of their library, this series will utilize the expertise of library staff members who are specialists in certain subject areas.

Virginia A. Tashjian, library director, will present the September program entitled "The Best in Picture Books for Children." Picture books, which are the first important introduction to literature for children, play an important role in the cultural and educational development of children. The lecture is designed for parents and educators who need to know criteria for selecting the best of the publishers' output.

Other programs in the series are: "A Potpourri of Magazines from Around the World," on Oct. 21; "Cookbooks," on Nov. 18; "Italian Literature . . printed in Italian," on Jan. 20 and "Books on Film and the Hollywood Scene," on Feb. 24.

Brandeis art exhibit to open Saturday

"A Generation of Brandeis Artists," an art exhibit featuring works by American artists, all of whom are graduates of Brandeis University, will be held in Brandeis' Rose Art Museum and the museum's newly opened wing Saturday, Sept. 14, through Sunday, Oct. 13.

Admission to the exhibit is free. The Rose Art Museum is open Tuesday through Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. during the academic year.

The show — first of its kind to be held at the museum — will open with a champagne supper and musicale Saturday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m. Co-sponsored by the University and the Greater Boston Chapter of the Brandeis National Women's Committee, the opening night program will feature a concert of chamber music by Professor Robert L. Koff, violinist and Brandeis music department chairman, and John Gibbons, harpsichordist and Brandeis music consultant, in Pollack Hall at 8:15 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.; and a supper reception-musicale in the Faculty Center continuously from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Admission to these will be by ticket only.

Paintings, prints, drawings, photographs and sculptures will be included in the wide range of art comprising the "Brandeis Artists" exhibit. Many of the works have been shown in prestigious museums, galleries and private collections in the United States, England, France, Israel and Germany. More than half the exhibitors are from the Greater Boston area.

Carl I. Belz, Rose Art Museum director and a member of the Brandeis Fine Arts Department, is organizing the show. Mr. Belz was named museum director July 1.

"An exhibition of art by Brandeis artists was suggested by Mitchell Siporin, the Charles Bloom professor in arts of design at Brandeis," Mr. Belz said, "and we've looked forward to presenting it for a long time. The recent addition of a new wing at the museum is making Prof. Siporin's idea a reality."

The museum wing, which opened last April, was underwritten by Brandeis Trustee Emeritus Edward Rose and his wife, Bertha. The Boston couple also underwrote construction of the museum in 1961. The Roses are serving as honorary chairmen of the exhibition's opening night program.

General chairman is Mrs. Herbert I. Corkin of Chestnut Hill, while Mrs. Henry L. Foster of Newton is serving as co-chairman. Mrs. Charles L. Odence of Brookline, president of the NWC Greater Boston Chapter, heads a committee of area women who are assisting in the program.

Committee officers include: Mrs. Benjamin Levy of Waban, sponsor chairman; Mrs. Sidney Simons of Newton and Mrs. Bernice Johnson of Newton, sponsor co-chairmen; Mrs. Melvin Drapkin of Brookline, reservations chairman; Mrs. Leonard Salter of Newton, reservations co-chairman; Mrs. Benjamin Shuman of Newton Highlands, publicity chairman; Mrs. George Maren of Chestnut Hill, epicurean chairman; Mrs. Haskell Allen of Weston, and Mrs. Robert Shaw of Weston, design and decor chairmen; Mrs. Ryna Shapiro of Newton Centre, hospitality chairman; Mrs. Joseph Mirkin of Jamaica Plain, secretary; Mrs. Eugene Cohen of Newtonville, invitation chairman; and Mrs. Leon M. Shulman of Newton, treasurer.

Mrs. Solomon Stern of Chestnut Hill is national president of the National Women's Committee.

Boston College series to offer talks by authors

On Thursday, Oct. 3, the humanities series at Boston College will sponsor Frances Fitzgerald, author of the Pulitizer Prize-winning book, "Fire on the Lake."

Oct. 10 will bring to Boston College William Bedwell Standford, regius professor of Greek at Trinity College, Dublin. Stanford — a scholar of classical literature, member and leader of numerous professional organizations in the U.S. and Ireland, and the editor of various Greek plays — will address the audience on the topic, "The Emotional Power of Greek Tragedy."

Henri Peyre, sometime Sterling professor of French at Yale, will speak on "The Legacy of DeGaulle in French Politics" at Boston College on Thursday, Oct. 24. Besides his numerous teaching posts, Peyre served in the French army and was decorated "officier de la Legion D'Honneur."

He is a member of the American Association of Teachers of French, the American Philosophy Association and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He is also the author of numerous books, the last being a book of historical and critical essays.

On Sunday, Nov. 3, at 3 p.m., the Earl of Longford will lecture on "Lincoln and De Valera." His appearance in the main ballroom of the Copley Plaza Hotel will be sponsored jointly by the Eire Society and the Boston College humanities series.

Longford, among his many other positions, has served as personal assistant to Sir William Beveridge, lord-in-waiting to the King (1945-46), Parliamentary under-secretary of state, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, minister of civil aviation, first lord of the admiralty, secretary of state for the colonies, and chairman of the National Bank, Ltd. He is also the author of numerous publications.

On Thursday, Nov. 21, Abigail McCarthy, author of the recently published book, "Private face - Public Places," and the wife of Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, will speak at Boston College. Mrs. McCarthy has classified herself as one of those women "whose lives have been defined by other — by wifehood and motherhood."

She is active in ecumenism; has been a member of the American Bishops Committee on Education and Ecumenism, and is vice-president of Church Women United in the United States, an ecumenical coalition of Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox women. She serves on the board of the National Conference for Interracial Justice and the Center for Applied Research in the Apostolate. She has served on the Family and Child Services Board and as president of the Washington International Groups of Congressional and Diplomatic Wives.

Ms. McCarthy has received an honorary doctorate of letters from Trinity College in Washihgton, D.C., and is the first woman to receive the St. Paul (Minnesota) Mayor's Award for her efforts in the cause of educational intergroup understanding.

Sir Ronald Syme, Camden professor of ancient history, Oxford, will speak on "Language and Politics: Ancient and Modern." He is an academic statesman whose contributions to the Councils of UNESCO led to his knighthood. He has held the rank of first secretary at Her Majesty's legations in Belgrade and Ankara and has authored numerous works on ancient history. He was the recipient of an honorary degree at Boston College in May.

All lectures in the humanities series are free and open to the public. With the exception of Lord Longford's lecture, which will be given in the main ballroom of the Copley Plaza Hotel, all lectures will be held in McGuinn Auditorium at 8 p.m.

State Rep. district recount set Friday

The recount of the 1736-1733 Democratic primary vote for the 16th District will take place in the cafeteria of City Hall on Friday (Sept. 20) at 8:30 a.m.

Ald. Richard McGrath, the apparent victor with 1736 votes, and A. Joseph DeNucci both filed petitions this week with the Election Commission seeking the recount.

Election Commission Executive Secretary Alan Licarie has said that "whenever there is a human element there is a possibility for error," and expects that if there is any difference found it will be in the manual tallying of the results of the machine printout.

Licarie thinks that the entire process should take "a couple of hours."

In case of an absolute tie, the decision between the two candidates will be given to the Democratic City Committee, which would probably vote on the choide.

There is no automatic recount procedure for other than statewide office, where a recount is made if there is 0.5 per cent or less difference between results.

In municipal and state representative and senatorial elections a recount may be called for by any candidate involved, regardless of the number of votes difference.

Sometimes, Licarie said, mistakes are discovered in rechecking figures the day after the election. This year a 200-vote bonus was found for Rep. David Mofenson in the 18th District. Mofenson was unopposed in the Democratic primary.

The last recount in Newton came after the mayoral election of 1969, when State Sen. Irving Fishman ran against Mayor Monte Basbas and lost by 254 votes. Basbas gained one vote.

In 1965 a recount was made when the late Rep. James Shea, former alderman Harry Crosby, and Melvin Norris, running for Ward 7 alderman, split the vote so that there was only an eight point spread between high and low vote.

In the recount Shea gained two votes,, for 961, and Crosby lost four, for 957. The matter was taken to court and Shea's victory was upheld.

Mandell put forth to oppose Drinan

Ward 8 School Committeeman Alvin Mandell of Newton was considered by State Republican Committee Chairman William Barnstead the "front-runner" in the selection process undertaken by a Fourth District Republican caucus that met at the Marriott Hotel last night.

In an interview only hours before the caucus, Barnstead said that Mandell seemed to have gathered good support for the nomination to fill the candidacy vacated by Laurence Curtis last week. Curtis withdrew right before the primary election as a candidate to oppose Democratic Cong. Robert Drinan.

The "race" to oppose Drinan has had more people running backward than crowding forward to accept the "honor."

Mandell probably has as good a chance as any one of the many names suggested, which have included Martin Linsky and Avi Nelson of Brookline, William Cowin and A. Jefferson Cornell of Newton, and Robert Belmonte of Framingham.

Cowin said Tuesday night that "under no circumstances" would he accept the nomination. Cornell could not be reached for comment, but his wife said Wednesday morning that he is open to the nomination and has a wait-and-see attitude.

Cornell took out nomination papers for the Fourth District Congressional race as an independent but did not file his papers with the Secretary of State.

Mandell is in his fourth term as a School Committee member, and with each succeeding election got more votes, topping the School Committee ticket last year and coming in eighth in total votes cast citywide among 52 candidates.

Alvin Mandell

Mandell has always run as a fiscal conservative and as the voice of moderation on other issues.

He was willing to take on the opposition to Drinan, Mandell said, becuase he thinks "the forum of the campaign can be used to put forth the moderate views that are seldom aired."

"There is too much far left and too much far right," Mandell said.

Mandell obviously thinks he has a chance against Drinan, and says he hopes to split the Newton vote with Drinan.

One of the points he hopes to make is that while the Fourth District is heavily dependent for employment within the electronics industry on Route 128, Drinan is not doing well in representing those industries in Washington, Mandell feels.

Mandell is 55 years old, an electrical engineer with the Raytheon Company. He has a bachelor's and a master's degree and is on the faculty of Northeastern University.

Mandell has been a registered Republican for the five years, before which he was an independent registered voter.

Beaconwood project bogs down

By ELEANOR SIEGEL
Staff Correspondent

A two to seven foot layer of peat has caused a work stoppage on the Newton Housing Authority's Beaconwood site under construction for 20 units of the first family low-income housing in Newton.

Peat is compacted, dead organic material which grows in bogs and wet places and is not a stable base for building because it sinks.

The architect, David Sheffield of Architect's Collaborative explained that the firm of Haley and Aldrich, soil experts, have been retained to explore the "most economically feasible method" to put up the buildings. He added that they also have a structural engineer, Theodore Weaver and the firm's own civil engineer working on the problem.

The two methods being considered to eliminate the problem are excavation and filling, or putting the duplexes on piles. There are three buildings out of 10 affected by the "unusual soil conditions." To date, however, Sheffield promised the area would be "usuable" for the elderly and they would not have to walk up a sharp incline.

dive foundations have been successfully poured.

The cost to rectify this problem is as yet undetermined and must be approved by the Department of Community Affairs. Asked if the DCA might turn down the cost figures asbeing too expensive, Sheffield replied, "I don't know."

Sheffield pointed out that the Newton Housing Authority had no access to the land prior to purchase to take test soil borings since the land was privateiy owned and taken by eminent domain from "an unwilling seller." However, it had been acknowledged that there might be a soil problem.

Not only is Beaconwood presenting problems, but plans for Thurston Rd. project look like theyj are still too expensive. This project was to include 50 units for the elderly and four units of family housing. Once more, the site is a problem since the tract has a heavy ledge area which is costly to cut through. In addition, the rock has a built in slope;

Right now, the plans appear to be running $600,000 over the DCA's present cost guidelines. Since this project was bid once and turned down by the DCA as too costly, the architects prepared alternative plans which were presented to the NHA last week. These plans could lower site costs by reducing the rock cut in the heavy ledge area.

However, some of these plans would involve going back to the Board of Aldermen for a permissive use and chairmn James Miller feels it would tie up the process for three-four more months. Therefore the architect, members of the authority and Frank Quinn, executive director, are planning to meet with the DCA this week to determine whether or not the guidelines have been raised to permit bidding out the projects with the present unchanged plans.

Activity

A truly cooperative nursery school

Starting from absolute rock bottom, a group of mothers have started a truly cooperative school in Nonantum.

With the blessings of the Nonantum Women's Club, and an offer of a loan that has not had to be accepted, the group has put together a three-day-a-week nursery school in the basement of the Nonantum branch library, where 17 children are enrolled and more are waiting.

Mrs. Ellie Gentile, in charge of fundraising for the nursery school, said that nearly all the equipment was donated by parents, with the exception of furniture that was donated by the city of Newton from school surplus equipment.

The school, which officially opened last week, already has a waiting list. The school, Mrs. Gentile explained is licensed for more, but the school is being treated as a pilot program and will go slowly.

Every day that the school is open, Monday, Wednesday and Thurday, there are one teacher and two parents in attendance. The parents will take turns so that all will have a share in running the school. Each parent has been assigned a specific job.

The children use the library basement from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, when the library is not open. On Wednesday they go directly upstairs for story hour at noon when the library opens.

Mss. Gentile is enthusiastic and hopeful about the new venture.

"I was told by a school principal at the beginning not to count too much on volunteer parents. But I am sure our parents are going to keep working."

Lipof says pardon 'miscarriage of justice'

"The greatest miscarriage of justice in modern times" is Ald. Michael Lipof's description of President Gerald Ford's pardon of former President of Richard Nixon.

Lipof has submitted a resolution to the Board of Aldermen embodying that description and calling the pardon an action that appears "to repulse and offend all law-abiding citizens who firmly believe in uniform application of the law, which must include equal justice for all."

The resolution goes on to call on the Congressional delegation representing Newton to investigate the circumstances that led to Ford's "unfortunate decision" and the constitutionality of a pardon in the absence of an indictment.

According to Lipof, if the Board passes the resolution on Monday Sept. 23, which is possible by a suspension of the rules, Newton will be the first municipality whose legislative body has officially condemned Ford's pardon.

In his introductory letter that accompanies the resolution Lipof says tha alghough he is interested in the health and financial well-being of anyone who is being considered for indictment, "this is no criteria for escape from due process under our laws."

. . . and prices here will go up again

A summer drought has boosted supermarket prices, and grocers all across the country say food prices have only one way to go: Up.

Grocers contacted in a UPI spot survey warned that food prices may reach new heights within the next six months.

"The trend is definitely upward on almost everything," a Chicago grocery chain spokesman said. "And the major shortages caused by the drought haven't hit yet. When they do, I think we're in for some really sharp increases."

"I think you will see meat go up this fall if we have these grain shortages they are predicting," said Mack James, owner of Mack's Big Star supermarkets in Marion, Ill., and Carbondale, Ill.

Recreaton Department to begin issuing ID'S

The Newton Recreation Department, to protect Newton residents and assure them of exclusive use of the recreation facilities at Newton North High School, will introduce a Recreation Identification Card System beginning Monday, Sept. 23.

In order to facilitate the program, the department has established the following procedures for obtaining these identification cards.

Residents with last names beginning with A to L will report to the Hull Street entrance of Newton North on September 23, 24 or 25, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Those residents with last names beginning with M to Z will be able to get their cards on September 26, 27, also from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Applicants will be asked to fill out a form and pay the $2 cost of the card at that time. Residents are requested to bring absolute proff of identity, such as a driver's license or telephone, electric or water bill.

Students who have no driver's license may present a student identification car, a library card, a Newton Public School report card or be accompanied by an adult who has proper identification.

The program sponsored at North High by the Newton Recreation Department will begin on Oct. 1. The tentative date for registration for classes are Oct. 2 and 3. In order to gain entrance to the building, a Recreation Identification card must be presented at the entrance. The card will also be required for registering for the swim, gymnasium and track programs offered at Nort High School.

The only exception will be the tennis courts. Residents may still use the courts until the current tennis badges expire in April, 1975.

The Recreation Identification card will remain in effect until May 31, 1975, for the Newton North High School program only. The $2 cost will be the only cost to Newton residents using the facility during the indoor season. Those residents who are unable to obtain their Recreation Identification Cards on the announced dates will have other opportunities to obtain their cards.

Special information will be noted on the back of the Identification Card. This will include special needs, blood type and other pertinent health data. Newton residents are asked to cooperate with the program, to receive their photograph identification card.

Geology tour of Newton

The first of this fall's open-space tours sponsored by the Newton Conservators will be held on Sunday, Sept. 22. Entitled "Geology of Newon," it will visit the principal points of interest mentioned in the Conservators' booklet, "Geology of Newton."

The tour by bus, departs at 2:00 p.m. from the MDC parking lot on Hammond Pond Parkway adjacent to the R.H. Stearns parking lot and will be led by Dr. George Ehrenfried.

The tour will cover points at Hammon Pond Reservation, Hemlock Gorge and Claflin School. The tour is free and open to the public. The bus is provided by the Newton Recreation Department through an arrangement reached with Mrs. Helen Heyn of the Newton Conservation Commission. In case of rain the trip will be cancelled.

Future tours will be held each weekend through the end of October. The next one, on Saturday, Sept. 28, will be a walk through the Norumbega area led by Mr. Mark Lieberman. For information on any of the tours call Ms. Susan Wilkes, 244-3174.

Preschoolers at the Child Care Center in West Newton, and their parents met at an Open House Sept. 6 with Center teacher-director Susan Werbe and teacher Patricia Dezotell as the Center opened its year.

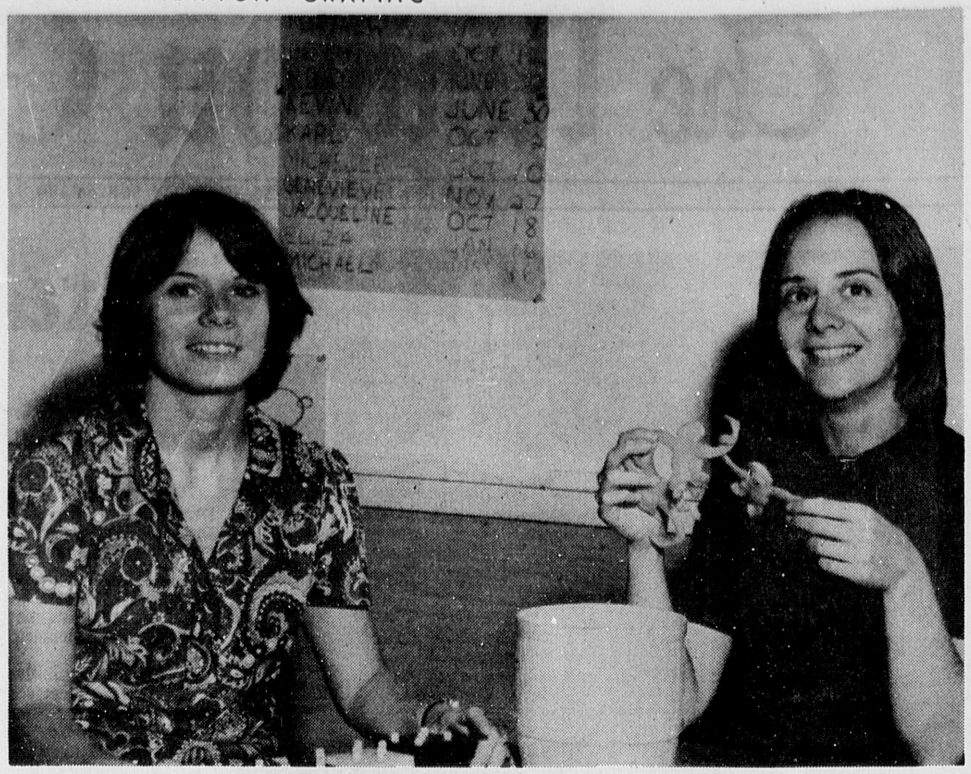

The program, which provides three and four-year-olds with a pre-school experience stressing creative learning situations and social growth at each child's level of development, on Sept. 9, began its schedule of activities, which includes sessions of between three and six hours a day continuing through the end of May.

In working toward its goal, the preschool staff this year will build on such experiences as art, physical activities, improvization, reading, group play and field trips.

Parents interested in learning more about the program, which still has a few openings for the greater Newton area three and four-year-olds, can contact Susan Werbe at the Newton Community Service Center 969-5906, or at the Child Center in West Newton, 527-9757.

Drop-in center opens

Released mental patients in Newton, Wellesley and Weston now have a place to go where they can not only talk to someone about the problems of coping with the problems of every day life but also learn some of the skills needed to take their place in the community.

Under a new program inaugurated this week at the Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton, every Monday and Wednesday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. the house will be open for up too 50 former patients, or even those who have not been hospitalized but need day care.

During the days on which the center is open, serveral different programs will be carried on simultaneously in different parts of Pomroy House.

At the opening-day program, Shirley Snitzer, coordinator of the NEWW Center, outlined some of the programs, which include a course on building relationships, another on orientation to the community, and a course of work training.

Other courses will be given on women's identity and various forms of work training.

There will also be occupational therapy and an Alcoholics Anonymous group.

Ellen Silberberg, in charge of the work training programs, will be asking employers in the three communities, Newton, Wellesley and Weston to reserve jobs for the returned patients.

Volunteers are needed in all phases of the day program, and a special plea has been made for banjos, accordions, guitars and autoharps.

Anyone wishing to attend the program or to volunteer to help may call the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Area office at 969-3660.

T cancels bus routes

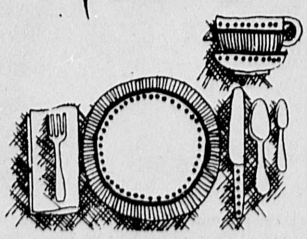

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority announced this week that service between Kenmore Square and Forest Hills Station and the new mall at Chestnut Hill will be discontinued effective Monday, Sept. 23.

Bus service from Kenmore and Forest Hills will terminate at the former termination location, inbound on Route 9 in front of Tallino's Restaurant.

Experimental service to the new mall, which began in June of this year, was provided by extending two existing bus routes. Ridership and the convenience of the route did not live up to expectations and this accounts for the cut-back in service to the original terminal point on Route 9.

Father Twigg-Porter comes to Newton

San Francisco's Emergency Priest (official emergency services chaplain of the eight San Francisco municipal hospitals), former movie star, card-carrying member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, paramedic, wearer of the six-star gold San Francisco police badge, and member of the Medic Alert Foundation International board of directors, visited Mayor Mann recently while on a trip to Boston.

Father George Twigg-Porter, S.J. is currently writing of Mayor Theodore D. Mann's accomplishments in this area for a publication entitled "Second Spring."

During the year of Father Twigg-Porter's service as emergency chaplain, he has served as combination priest and paramedic at shoot-outs, suicide attempts, marital squabbles, drug scenes, (much of his work has been in the Haight-Ashbury area) at accident scense and at burning buildings.

He has many times seen the Medic Alert emblem save a life or avert a well-intentioned but potentially dangerous treatment in an emergency room. Wherever he goes he joins the ever-increasing number of people who make sure tht "search and recognition" procedure is practiced by all EMS, police, fire, and laymen in the event of coming across an ill, unconscious, or seemingly confused person.

Medic Alert is part of the emergency medical scene in Newton as it is in her sister communities. One of the first "grass roots" programs, which since have spread so far nationally and internationally, started here with Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson Fish III did extensive research in finding means to prevent their son from being given tetanus toxoid in case of a minor or major injury.

There is no way of telling exactly how many lives have been saved or dangerous situations averted directly or indirectly by life underwriters who have sponsored Medic Alert but testimonies pour into the Medic Alert Foundation constantly. Many of these fine results are due, too, to the individual who, seeing this protection for his fellow men has carried it independently to his community Kiwanis, Rotary, church or hospital group.

The Medic Alert Foundation International, a non-profit, charitable foundation, is in Turlock, Ca. founded in 1956, by Dr. Marion Collins in an effort to safeguard the life of his daughter, who nearly died from a sensitivity test to tetanus antitoxin. The entire purpose of Medic Alert is to prevent tragic, even fatal, mistakes in emergency medical treatment. The Medic Alert emblem is worn on a neck or wrist chain and is engraved on the back with the wearer's medical problem and file number, plus the telephone number of the central file. Emergency prsonnel or anyone giving aid can get vital information via "collect" telephone call (24 hours a day) from the Central File anywhere in the world.

Frequently, people not immediately engaged in health fields are apt to feel fortunate that they or members of their families are not ill and therefore don't need this protection. It is only when one learns of the 200 plus reasons people wear Medic Alert emblems that they become aware of the need for them.

The American Medical Association estimates that 40,000,000 people in this country alone have need of medical identification of hidden medical problems!!

Mann is taking a strong lead in helping Newton citizens' volunteer efforts in planning and sponsoring Medic Alert but beyond that, since he is vice president of the Massachusetts Mayors Association, he is making our volunteer resources available to mayors of all Massachusetts cities and towns by informing them by letter as to hwo they might proceed to safeguard their citizens' and visitors' lives and to improve further the present status of their emergency medical services by adding this vital link in telemetry and telecommunication.

Chief William F. Quinn is a part of the Medic Alert Foundation International scene as he serves on its General Advisory Committee and constantly contributes his knowledge of law enforcement involvement with emergency medical services to the foundation. His direction has been copied in hundreds of cities with regard to "search and recognition" procedure.

Amnesty group raps Ford plan

Less than a week after Newton's Gold Star Parents for Amnesty was successful in a legal challenge of names stricken from a petition to get the amnesty question on the ballot, the same group has spoken out against President Ford's newly announced amnesty proposal for draft resisters during the Vietnam War.

Mrs. Patricia Simon of Newton, national chairman of Gold Star Parents for Amnesty, reacted this week to Ford's so-called conditional amnesty proposal by disputing the term itself.

"There can be no such thing as 'conditional amnesty,' Ms. Simon said. "What the President has proposed is 'earned immunity.' "

Ms. Simon charged that the proposal is just as unfair as the draft was to the resisters, an that "the review boards will discriminate, as did the Selective Service boards."

"Wnat about the 20 million who legally avoided the draft?" she asked.

Gold Star Parents for Amnesty will continue to push for total amnesty, Ms. Simon said. Her group in Massachusetts is now part of the Massachusetts Coalition for Amnesty, which also encompasses Clergy and Laity Concerned, the American Friends Service Committee, the Presbyterian Peace Fellowship and the Episcopal Peace Fellowship.

Even if President Ford's proposed plan obtains the effect of law, the coalition will work toward mitigating the severity of the conditions of the amnesty in the hope that some changes may be made.

Last week Gold Star Parents for Amnesty was successful in getting a question on the ballot in the Newton-Brookline senatorial district asking whether the state senator shall be instucted to approve a resolution to the U.S. Congress in favor of amnesty.

The Newton Election did not at first certify the requisite number of signatures for getting the question on the ballot, because, Executive Secretary Alan Licarie said, some signatures were illegible.

When the "illegible" signatures were brought to his attention he himself was able to read some of them, Licarie said, but by law was prohibited from certifying them after the deadline.

A judge ruled at least 11 signatures legible and certifiable, making up the required number, and the question will appear on the ballot.

Four other senatorial-district ballots will carry the question.

Viet vet arrested

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI) — A double amputee Vietnam veteran and his companion were arrested Tuesday night in connection with the $54 armed holdup of the Li'l Peach grocery store.

Police said Paul Bartel Jr. 26, Brockton, a double amputee, was charged with armed robbery, conspiracy, unlawful carrying of a firearm in commission of a felony.

His alleged accomplice, Michael Farrell, 26, South Boston, was charged with two counts of armed robbery, two counts of illegal possession of a firearm and conspiracy, officials said. They were ordered held in $50,000 bail.

Farrell allegedly entered the store, asked for a pack of cigarettes, then pulled a gun, demanded the money from a female clerk and fled in a car, police said.

The clerk notified police, who sent out a description of the car. Newton and Boston police chased the car on the Massachusetts Turnpike and stopped it just over the Boston line.

Condominium legislation impacts on rental picture

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of The Graphic Staff

The new state enabling legislation giving Newton the right to enact an ordinance to control conversion of rental housing units to condominums may have implications that affect the whole rental picture in Newton.

To look into the potential effects condominiums — and the control of conversion to condominiums — may have, as well as whether there is a need for rent control in this city, Mayor Theodore Mann has appointed Planning Director Charles Thomas to head investigative committee.

Ald. David Cohen and Ald. Edward Richmond have already prepared and submitted to the Board of Aldermen an ordinance governing condominium conversion that is schedule for a public hearing Oct. 15.

The mayor hopes that the Board will withhold action until the committee has ahd a chance to do its work and help in the formulation of policy.

The committee is to be made up of two aldermen, members of city government, landlords, tenants, possibly a housing-court judge, Thomas, and Director of Human Resources Jane Pitt.

The trend toward condominums, both those converted from existing rental housing and those built as condominiums, is growing rapidly. They offer benefits to owners of convertible buildings because of an immediate high profit and to buyers of individual condominiums because of income tax benefits.

But in many cases a tenant of an apartment does not wish to or is unable financially to buy his apartment as a condominium.

The Cohen-Richmond ordinance is designed to give the Board of Aldermen the right to allow condominum conversion only by special permission, which may include the extension of leases of present tenants and the provision of a relocation service by the condominum firm.

In cases of hardship certified by the Department of Human Resources, leases could be extended for several 18-month periods.

Some people wonder whether the presence of a large number of condominiums in Newton would tend to drive up the cost of rental housing as more and more rental units are converted, thus decreasing the available units for rent.

Some landlords reportedly feel that the only way they can keep up with inflation is to convert the units to condominiums, sell them, and move on.

The mayor's committee will meet around the end of the month and is expected to have some conclusions by December.

West Newton children rescued from burning home

Newton police officers coaxed two young girls to jump to safety from the second floor of their burning home this week.

Police received a call from Joe Kowit, 70 Elm St., West Newton, early Tuesday morning, reporting a fire at 62 R Elm St.

Officers James R. Scalzi and Charles D. Seeley went too the side of the housse and found two children screaming, from a front bedroom window on the second floor.

The two girls, Eve and Cynthia Hacsunda, ages 11 and 7, were coaxed to jump by the two officers. Scalzi caught Eve Hacsunda while Seeley caught her sister.

Fire Lt. Ronald B. Palkey rescued 15-year old Catherine M. Thibodeau from the two-story wooden frame dwelling. Palkey collapsed after the rescue and was given oxygen. He was aided in the rescue by police Officer Thomas W. Frost, Seeley, and Scalzi.

Richard R. Hacsunda, his wife Marjorie B., and three other children were also able to get out of the home safely.

Ms. Thibodeau was treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital for smoke inhalation. Cynthia Hacsunda was treated for burns of the face and both arms and hands. Eve Hacsunda was treated for burns on both hands.

Marjorie Hacsunda was reportedly treated for a laceration of the back while 12-year old Chris Hacsunda was treated for a laceration over the left eye.

Palkey was treated for severe smoke inhalation. Firefighter Robert Baurle was reportedly treated for splinters in the eye.

The police report stated that Scalzi was treated for bruised tendons in his right elbow and strained back muscles after everyone else had been taken from the scene. The injuries were reportedly suffered in catching Eve.

There was a fire damage to the second floor rear apartment occupied by the Hacsunda family. There was smoke damage to a second floor front apartment.

Responding to the fire from the Newton Fire Department were Assistant Fire Chief Harvey D. Preble, engines 1, 2, 4, and 5, ladder 1, and Assistant Chief Philip K. Coakley.

The cause of the fire was undetermined earlier this week.

Clever crooks con bank out of payroll

On the police report it is called a larceny, but it is something you would have expected from Harry Gondorf.

The Community National Bank, 433 Watertown St., Newton was "conned" out of more than $2,000 last week by some clever crooks.

According to police, Dinae Pompei, head teller at the bank, said that she received a phone call at approximately 12:35 p.m. on Friday from a man who identified himself as Frank Casserley of Big Buy. The man reportedly said that the store had just been held up and had been cleaned out of cash.

The man allegedly told Ms. Pompei that a payroll was needed right away, and that a Mr. Hill from the security division would be coming to the bank to get money. Ms. Pompei asked if he would have identification, and the caller said yes.

The caller also reportedly stated that no one was hurt at the store, and that two men known by Ms. Pompei were down at the Police Department in regard to the hold-up.

At approximately 1 p.m., an individual came to the bank and spoke to assistant manager Jeffrey Ireland. The man was asked if he was Mr. Hill and he said that he was.

Ireland reportedly had the man produce identification which included a badge, license, and a First National ID.

The man signed a payroll book and received $2,497 in one dollar bills and change. He also reportedly received two brown bags with the name Newton National Bank on them which contained deposit receipts of Big Buy, $272.64 in cash, and checks.

Ireland reportedly helped the man carry the money to a car where another individual was behind the wheel. The car was described a white Chevrolet four-door sedan.

At 2:55 p.m. that afternoon, personnel came from Big Buy for money and it became evident that the bank had been duped.

Ms. Pompei has described the man who took the money as a white male in his 30s, 5'9", 170 pounds, reddish brown hair, and well-dressed. Ireland described him as a white male 35, 6'1", 175 pounds, brown hair, solid build, and fair complexion, according to police.

The incident is under investigation by detectives.

A breaking and entering at 339 Auburn St., Auburndale was reported to police at 7:54 a.m. on Friday. A pane of glass in a front door was reportedly broken, and a cassette recorder, a roll of stamps, an electric typewriter, and a copying machine valued at $750 were reported missing.

Jack Backman

Last week, after months of listening to political observers agonizing over how difficult the choice was going to be, the electorate went to the polls and selected State Senator Jack H. Backman as the Democratic nominee.

And with the same spirit of dignity and fair play that characterized the entire campaign, State Senator Irving Fishman calmly conceded to Sen. Backman, and Sen. Backman graciously accepted.

Despite all of the political prognostications, Backman is the clear choice of the voters. He got 7,247 votes to Fishman's 2,648 on his home turf in Brookline and he split Newton Democrats almost right down the middle, 6,299 votes to Backman and 6,847 for Fishman here.

Newton and Brookline really couldn't lose in this election. The records of both men made it clear that they think along the same lines.

Jack Backman, on election night, said something very important to a Graphic reporter; something that we feel best characterizes the man who will most likely represent us in the State House next year.

The election over, the legislator went immediately back to thinking about all of the things that must be done in Massachusetts. More importantly, he started thinking about Newton and took initial steps to open lines of communications with Newton.

We congratulate Sen. Backman on his victory and promise the cooperation of this newspaper in his efforts to reach his Newton constituents.

New law should reduce fire and smoke deaths

A new law, which goes into effect next Jan. 1, provides that smoke and fire detectors must be installed on the walls of all homes, built after that date, whether they are one or two-family dwellings or apartment houses.

Experts on fire prevention say that the statute, which was lobbied through the State Legislature earlier this year by Boston Fire Commissioner James H. Kelly, should result in a substantial reduction in fire fatalities.

Most deaths from fire or smoke inhalation occur between midnight and 6 a.m. when the victims are sleeping.

Costs for smoke and fire alarms range from about $100 for a small detector in each room to several thousand dollars for a detection system connected directly to a fire station.

One of the most economical and popular devices is a smoke detector which rings like a school bell when the temperature goes above 135 degrees in a room.

That device, which costs about $100, requires no electric wires and can be easily installed and operated, awakens everyone in a home in the event of a fire.

Fire officials declare that they know of no instance where anyone has died from either fire or smoke in a home which contained an alarm system of that nature.

Some Massachusetts communities, among them Quincy, Scituate and Stoughton, now require fire alarm systems in certain types of housing. Quincy was one of the first cities in the United States to place a fire alarm ordinance in effect. It adopted its requirement in 1958.

The new law allows local fire chiefs to specify the types of fire alarm systems required in new housing or housing undergoing major alterations.

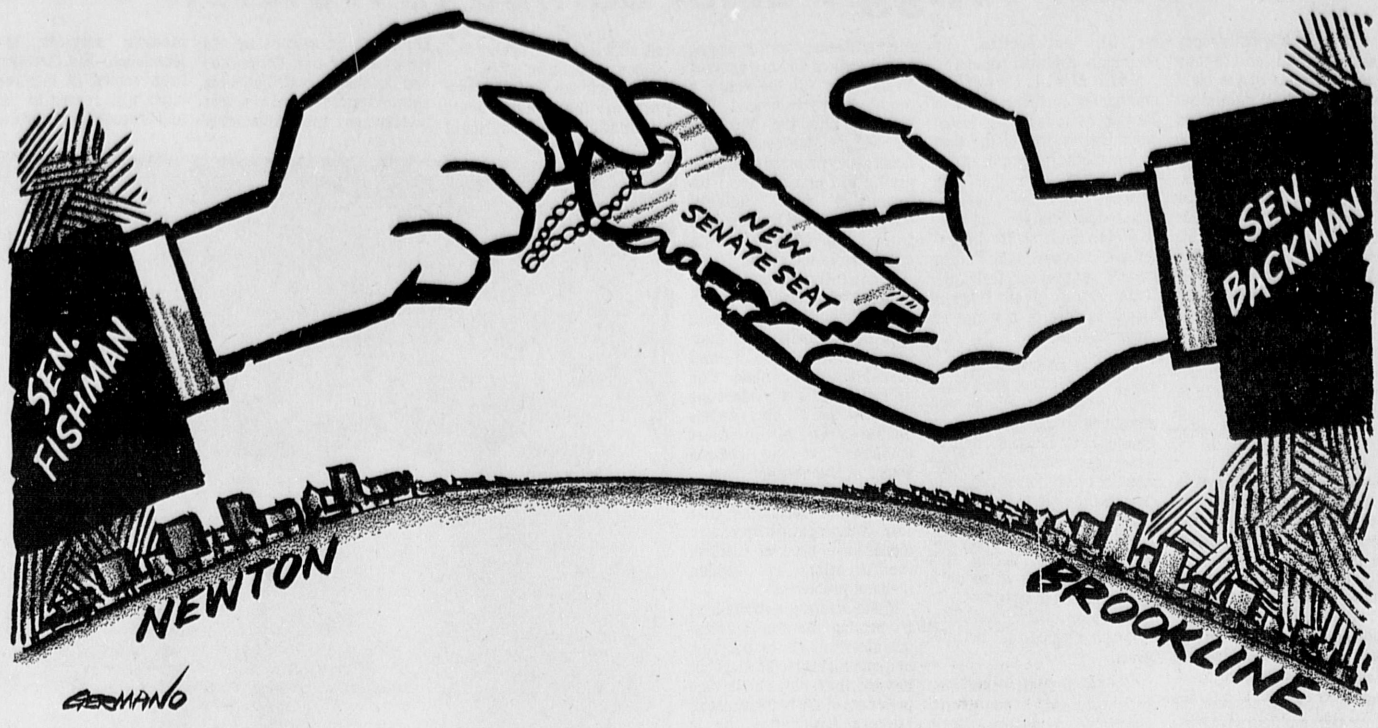

However, State Fire Marshal Joseph G. Sneider has begun a move aimed at taking that power away from the local chiefs. Sneider believes a state-wide standard should be established and that confusion is certain to develop in the housing industry if the requirements differ in various cities and towns.

Sneider will try to persuade either the Massachusetts Fire Chiefs Association or the State Legislature next year that state officials should be authorized to decide which alarm systems housing developers must use.

But at the begining of 1975 that power will rest with the city and town fire chiefs and commissioners unless they voluntarily surrender it.

STILL IN GOOD HANDS

Political Highlights

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Sargent seen favorite over Michael Dukakis

After a short breathing spell and a brief respite in which to get their second wind, Governor Francis Sargent and former State Representative Michael S. Dukakis of Brookline will square away in a knock-down battle to determine which of the two will head our state government for the next four years.

While this may be a poor year politically for Republicans, the guessing here is that Governor Sargent gradually will be come the favorite over Dukakis as he moves through the weeks of autumn toward his date with destiny on the evening of Nov. 5.

Massachusetts is the most Democratic of the 50 states in the union and visitors blini in astonishment when they're told that Republicans have controlled the Bay State Governorship for the past 10 years.

They have done it because Republican candidates such as Francis W. Sargent and John A. Volpe have been able to win the support of some Democrats and Independents. Sarge beamed his primary campaign toward that very objective.

The Democratic party has been torn apart by the bitterness engendered during the closing stages of the promary campaign when Michael Dukakis and Robert Quinn abandoned their agreement to make no attacks upon each other.

Ironically, Dukakis, who must now pull together the various elements in the Democratic party, seemed to be the one most responsible for driving those factions apart.

It was Dukakis who approached Quinn with the proposal that they make a gentleman's agreement that they refrain from criticism of each other and from opening any wounds which would lessen the likelihood that a Democratic Governor will be elected in Massachusetts on Nov. 5.

That pact probably cost Quinn his party's nomination for Governor. He went into the primary campaign with a substantial lead over Dukakis, but his advantage dwindled week by week. He came through as a bland candidate. His campaign seemed dull, listless and lifeless.

Although their agreement seemed to exclude a debate, Dukakis challenged Quinn to a confrontation and maneuvered Quinn into the position of refusing to debate the issues.

Dukakis and Quinn were involved in the rough business of professional politics in Massachusetts, and Dukakis can't be faulted for doing what he felt was necessary to do in order to win the nomination. But his strategy may have cost him some votes for the final election.

The Democratic gubernatorial winner deftly needled Quinn in the final weeks of the promary campaign. Quinn hit back with some advertisements on their respective records which seemed to hurt Dukakis.

The wounds which were opened and the scars which were left upon the Democratic party are not likely to be healed by the election. Dukakis will experience difficulty in attracting some Quinn supporters into his camp.

Governor Sargent, by contrast, came out of the promary aith banners blazing. His contest with former State Commerce Commissioner Carroll Sheehan probably helped him more than it hurt him. It provided momentum which should carry over to his race with Dukakis.

He gambled and won when he beamed his advertising over the heads of the Republicans who would participate in the GOP promary and at the Democrats and Independents who will control the November election

Sarge, who was blasted in the GOP primary for doing too much for Democrats and not enough for Republicans, should benefit from those attacks in the coming election.

He swept in on a landslide of votes to a crushicg victory over Carroll Sheehan who attempted the hopeless task of toppling a sitting Governor without sufficient money to finance anything resembling an adequate campaign.

The conservative Republicans, who voted for Sheehan and against Sargent, now have no place to go except back to Sarge's camp. Some of them might have marked their ballots for Quinn, a moderate Democrat, but they hardly could vote for Dukakis, a left-wing liberal.

Map new move against quality high schools

Here we go again, with another rallying cry to those who would like to keep the Boston Latin School the best public high school in the United States.

A move is being planned by a strange conglomeration of organizations and individuals, including possibly a School Committee member and a judge, to eliminate the examination requirements for the two Latin Schools and Technical High School.

The reason behind such a proposal is that not enough members of minority groups are able to pass the stiff entrance examinations and gain admission to the three quality high schools.

That is not an adequate reason for destroying three of the best high schools in the nation. There should be public high schools in Boston at which boys and girls of unusual ability and talents, regardless of their color or nationality, are able to study and develop those talents.

Abandoning the examination requirement for the three so-called exam high schools would be totally wrong. Some boys and girls are not qualified to take advantage of the educational opportunities at the three exam high schools. That is true of some white boys and girls and some black boys and girls. They belong at other high schools.

But that doesn't mean that the three exam high schools should be destroyed or that their entrance requirements should be lowered or that quality education in Boston should be reduced.

The State Board of Education is still attempting to interfere in the routine operation of the city's public school system. This is bound to hurt Governor Francis W. Sargent in the November election.

Supreme Court Justice Burger cautioned judges across the Unitedd States against involving themselves too deeply in local school affairs, but his words do not appear to have made much impact upon some judges in Massachusetts.

The NAACP apparently is being allowed to pass on requests for transfers which would not seem to be one of its functions.

A School Committee member, who may be hostile to the Latin School, could be wiped out at the next municipal election — if that hostility becomes apparent and if School Committee members are still being elected next year.

A great many people will not stand by and see the two Latin Schools and Technical High Schools destroyed without putting up a fight to protect and retain what quality high school education we have in Boston. A majority of the School Committee members, incidentally, advocate the continued operation of the three exam high schools.

Guzzi, Furcolo make surprise runs here

Two primary developments which surprised this writer were the margin by which State Representative Paul Guzzi of Newton topped Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren in West Roxbury and Roslindale and the strong fight made by Charles Mark Furcolo, son of former Governor Foster Furcolo, against State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, one of the political powerhouses on Beacon Hill.

Crane carried the Parkway community by a rather slender margin, but Crane and his top backers had the shivers and shakes as the returns were being reported during the early hours of Primary Night.

Davoren conducted a low-key campaign and made no real drive for votes in West Roxbury and Roslindale, apparently leaving that effort to persons employed in his department. Crane obviously under-estimated the challenge made by young Furcolo.

One reader wrote in to ask how Attorney General Robert H. Quinn could carry West Roxbury and Roslindale over Michael Dukakis but still lose Massachusetts by more than 100,000 votes.

Another reader requested an explanation of why Furcolo topped Crane in Boston but rane behind him in the rest of the state.

It's not always easy to explain votting patterns, especially in the case of Crane and Furcolo. Furcolo's feat of topping Crane in Boston was a stunning surprise. Possibly, Foster Furcolo is more popular in Boston than he is out in the hinterlands of the state.

As for Dukakis and Quinn, the same issues make different impacts in different cities and towns. An issue which hurt Dukakis in West Roxbury could help him in Newton.

Ford restores Nixon as hot campaign issue

Richard M. Nixon resigned from the Presidency just in time to give a lift to Republican candidates in the coming Nov. 5 election and eliminate the Watergate scandal as an issue from the current campaign. Or so it seemed at the time.

President Gerald R. Ford granted an unconditional pardon to Nixon, giving him immunity from prosecution for any of his sins and offences in connection with the Watergate mess, just in time to place Watergate and Nixon back into the election campaign as issues to harass GOP candidates.

On the basis of the mail we have received, a majority of the people are not sympathetic with Ford's action and believe that Congress should have moved to impeach Nixon. How Nixon could have been impeached and removed from office after he had resigned from office is not clear to this bystander. However, that's what a lot of people think should have happened.

This writer casts a minority vote in support of the forthright and courageous action by President Ford. It would not change our opinion if the pardon for Nixon necessitates the release of other Watergate offenders.

We offer no defense for Nixon. What he did was wrong. incredibly stupid and completely unnecessary. There was no way he could have lost the 1972 election to George McGovern. At the same time we concede there may be some merit to the claim of those who protest Nixon did nothing other Presidents did not do before him.

While agreeing that this is not an open-and-closed argument, we feel it is time we put the Watergate bungle behind us and get down to the great problems of the day involving the national economy–inflation, the high cost of living and unemployment.

Although Ford's action in closing the book on Watergate and grantng Nixon a full, free and absolute pardon will be an issue in the Nov. 5 election, it will be forgotten before Ford himself stands for the Presidency two years from now.

Ford probably will stand or fall in 1976 on his success or failure in improving the national economy.

He has pledged that he will bring inflation under control in less than two years. If he does, he will be a favorite to win election to the Presidency in his own right. If he doesn't, the likelihood is that he will be defeated.

Gerald Ford will have served more than two years in the White House when he stands for election in 1976. That is a sufficiently long period in which to do something about inflation and the national economy.

Most people will feel at the time of the 1976 Presidential election that he has had adequate time in which to show what he could do and to make a record on which he could be judged.

Right now Republican candidates for places in Congress and for other high offices are worried about the effect the Nixon pardon will have upon their bids for election.

They know it is more likely to hurt than help them although public feeling should subside to some extent by Nov. 5. This, of course, is totally unfair.

Republicans such as Governor Francis W. Sargent and Lieutenant Governor Donald Dwight had nothing whatever to do with the pardon granted to Richard Nixon and should not be punished at the polls because of it. They have records on which they can be judged as a team, and they should be supported or rejected on the basis of those records.

Some letters which have reached this writer have been far out on the matter of punishing Richard Nixon. "If Nixon had been left to stew in his own juice long enough, he might have committed suicide. That would have been proper punishment. But we have two standards of justice in this country, one for the rich and powerful, the other for the poor and humble," wrote one reader who is unlikely to become noted for his compassion.

Some good people went down with Davoren

A lot of good people will lose their jobs in the Secretary of State's Department as a rewult of the surprise defeat of Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren by Repeesentative Paul Guzzi of Newton in the Democratic Primary.

Guzzi and Republican State Senator John M. Quinlan of Norwood now square off for a hard election battle to determine which of the two will move into Davoren's office at the State House next January.

Ordinarily, the Democratic nominee would be a top–heavy favorite to win election as Secretary of State. It has been 28 years since any Republican was elected to that office.

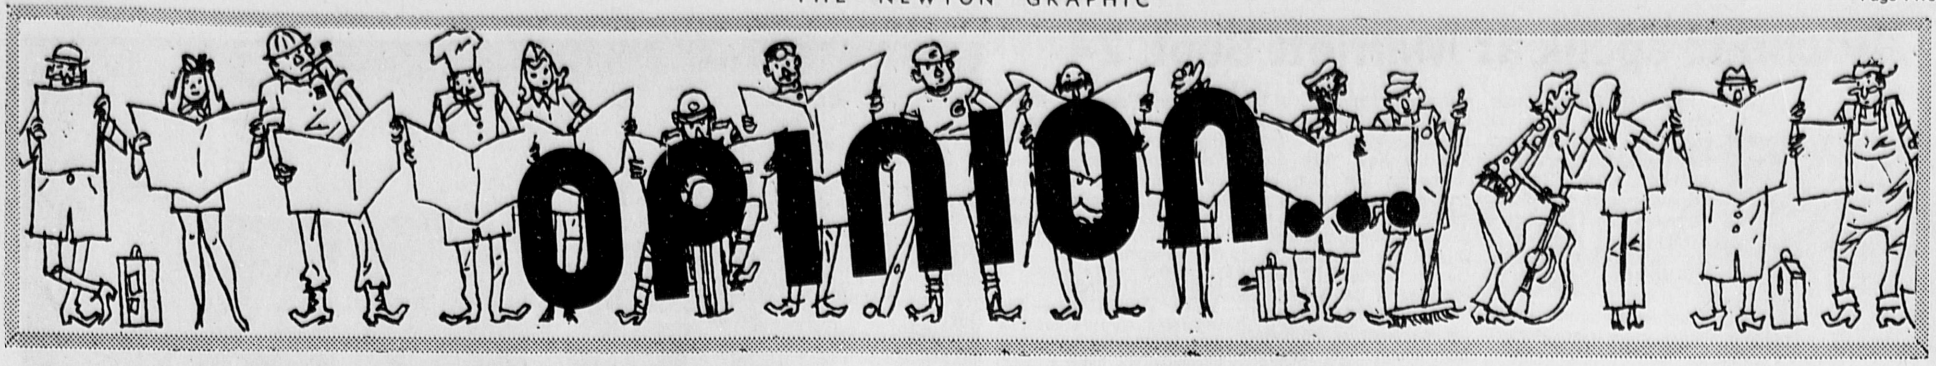

But Quinlan is an exceptional Republican candidate. Like Guzzi, he is young, reform-minded law-maker. He is the first Irish Catholic ever nominated by the Bay State GOP for a state-wide office, and he will be a strong candidate.

Many people are asking what happened to John Davoren. He was an outstanding member and Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Contrary to statements by some television commentators, he assumed the Speakership of the House while the late John Thompson was still a member of the body, not after Thompson's death. He was appointed Secretary of State by the Legislature after Kevin H. White resigned from that office to become Mayor of Boston.

Despite the newspaper criticism levelled at Davoren, the Secretary of State's Department has been run efficiently for the past four years. However, Davoren did not make a good campaign or an active, energetic one. He allowed himself to be maneuvered into a position where he could be placed in an unfavorable light with the voters.

Unfortunately, some good people went over the side with him when the votes were counted Primary Night. Whether Guzzi or Quinlan wins, he will shake up the Secretary of State's Department and place his own appointees in many of the jobs there.

Who needs Kojak?

To the Editor:

Newton citizens are prone to take for granted the amenities the city affords and expect nothing but the best of performances from our civil servants.

But, when an individual citizen, such as I, comes face to face with extraordinary service, I feel it important to share my enthusiasm and good fortune with others. I am, therefore, writing this letter in praise of the Newton Police Department.

On a Sunday morning in May, my husband discovovered the ignition of our car, which was parked in the driveway of our home, had been broken off during the night. When he called the police to report what had evidentally been an attempted theft, the police were at our home within minutes to collect the necessary information and to inform us about the previous night's car theft activities wtihin the neighborhood.

About two weeks later, on a weekday evening, I was at home entertaining my young grand daughter when our burglar alarm went off. Again, within a short period, a patrol car with two officers drew up in front of the house. Their presence was sufficient to allay our fears, but then, on routine duty, they carefully searched both house and grounds for any sign of an intruder.

That same week, I received an overtime parking ticket. On that day I had deposited money in the meter, but the time hadn't registered. I then had attached a note to the broken handle, but the meter maid had obviously not seen it, for it must have blwon away during the rain storm. I sent a check in payment of the fine and ecnlosed a letter of explanation with it. By return mail I got my check back with an apology for the inconvenience.

A few days later, at the suggestion of a neighbor, I called the Police Department Division of Community Services to ask to borrow an electric engraving pencil with which to mark our television and stereo set.

I was told there would be a six week wait, but when the officer in charge learned we were going away for the summer within two weeks, he said he would see what he could do to help us get one sooner. He called the next day to say he had a pencil waiting for us at the station.

Then, in August, we were called at our home in New Hampshire and told by Sergeant Cox of the detective squad that our house in Newton had been burglarized; however, the thief had been apprehended that same night, and he thought that everything that had been taken from our house was in the hands of the police. He felt there was no particular reason to return immediately to the city as long as the house was secured.

The next day Sergeant Feeley greeted us at the station house with his usual gallantry and good humor and introduced us to the day officer so that we could identify our property. Later in the day the two detectives Sergeant Halloran and Sergeant Marchand, who had made the arrest the night of the robbery, came to our house to introduce themselves and to tell us the story of the robbery.

Sergeant Halloran, while telling his story, said, "Kojak wraps his cases up in an hour. Sometimes it takes us four months."

But, with police such as we have in Newton, who needs Kojak?

Gratitude

To the Editor:

Now that the primary election is over, I would like to express my gratitude for the role your newspaper palyed in bringing my message to the new Newton-Brookline Senatorial district.

The advertisements which I placed with you obviously were helpful in bringing about my primary win. Those of my campaign staff who worked to place these ads have told me of your cooperation and efficiency. I am delighted to be serving ina district with such an active and concerned press.

Please always feel free to contact me on matters of interest to you.

With best personal regards and wishes.

Brutal budgetary facts

The brutal fact, as responsible officials point out, is that there is no escaping a rising municipal budget as long as everything we need constantly costs more - even if there are no additional services provided.

It is hard to fault city officials who successfully held the line for a year and a half and who now struggle with rising costs and the impact of runaway inflation on current collective bargaining which involves 80 per cent of the budget.

Tremendous changes in our national economy and the spiraling of prices since the last budget are bound to be reflected in the new rate. City officials, prior to the last municipal election, foresaw developments and were candid in their forecast of upward change even as circumstances then permitted a rate reduction.

Tax rates are not determined out of thin air. The procedure is prescribed by state law and involves the Board of Assessors which sets it after the budget is submitted, reviewed, and screened by the School Department and the Board of Aldermen as well as by the Executive.

Nothing positive is to be gained by carping criticism and second-guessing.

Top experts disagree as to the cure for the economy which is basic. But we are confident that our city officials will, however, persist in their efforts to meet local problems benefited by the excellent teamwork now prevailing among the several branches of city government.

They need our encouragement and support as they in our behalf meet the many vexing challenges of these difficult days.

Traffic safety priorities

To the Editor:

We, the undersigned, are writing this letter in order to publicly clarify some facts and to publicly state a position regarding the traffic barriers that have been erected on Commonwealth Avenue at Morton and Cedar streets.

Inasmuch as these traffic problems are of considerable interest to the residents of the area bounded by Centre, Homer, Walnut and Mill Streets, and inasmuch as the press has not been able to provide the complete coverage that the issue requires, we felt that a public letter was in order.

We will begin by reviewing the process by which these temporary barriers came to be erected.

The story begins in April, and it begins with Herbert and Barbara Lipke, who reside at the northwest corner of the Commonwealth-Cedar intersection. On one evening, in the space of just a few hours, a guest's car was struck (in front of their house) by a passing motorist; and then just a short whle later a tree in their yard was knocked down by another speeding car.

The Lipkes wrote to the Police Department and to the Newton City Traffic Commission complaining about the high frequency of accidents at their corner.

The Traffic Commission conducted a study of the accident frequency rate along Commonwealth Avenue, between Centre and Walnut Streets. They found that the highest accident rate occurred at the Cedar Street intersection, and the second highest rate occurred at the Cedar Street intersection and the second highest rate occurred at the Morton Street intersection. The Commission, nothing that the accidents occurred largely because of cross-traffic, voted to experiemtn with a temporary barrier at Cedar Street, to reduce the through traffic from Homer to Mill, and thereby to reduce the traffic accident rate.

Alderman Richmond then pointed out to the Commission that Morton Street was also a through street, and recommended that the trail be extended to include the Morton Street intersection as well.

The experiment has been underway now for about six weeks. During that time, city planning officials have doncuted careful traffic counts to determine what effects the barriers have had.

It appears, with one notable exception that we shall discuss below, that the primary objective of detouring high speed through traffic to main arteries (i.e., Walnut and Centre Streets) has been achieved.

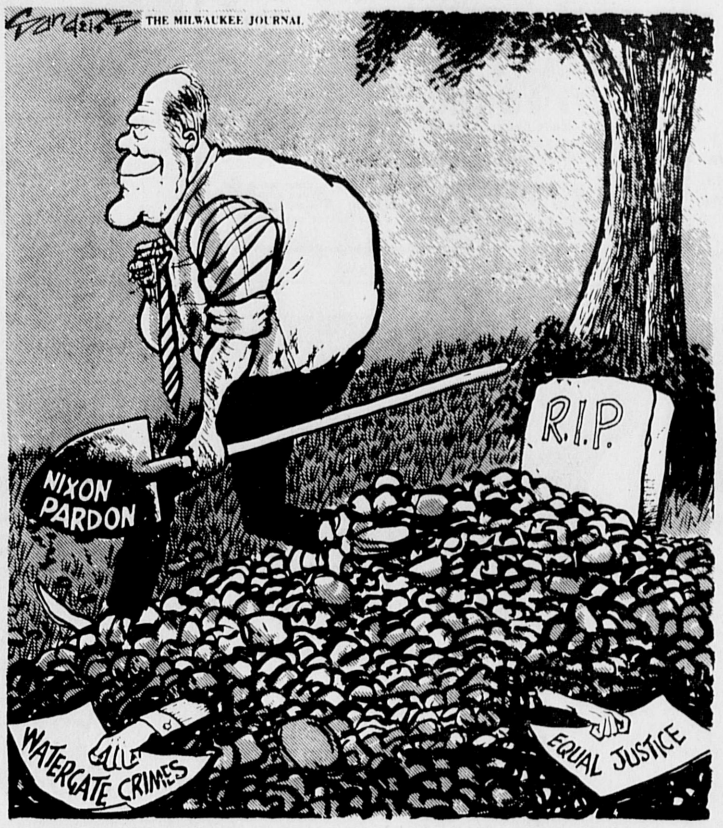

In almost all of the local streets concerned, the traffic flow has been substantially reduced, both in quantity and in speed. Thus, the traffic in the area is now only the local traffic consistent with the population density of the area.

Therefore it seems quite clear that the overall effect has been to reduce traffic volume, traffic speed, attendant noise and air pollution, to say nothing of the reduction of the possibilties of serios accidents. In addition, it is worth noting that the pre-barrier traffic counts were taken during the summer, before the schools were in session. Thus the traffic count decreases were undoubtedly underestimated because of the absence of students driving to Newton High School.

The one problem that the barriers have created is the shifting of some additional traffic to Morseland street, which geographically speaking, is also something of a through street. It would clearly be unfair to solve the Cedar-Morton problem by dumping it onto the residents of Morseland Street. However, it would also be less than brilliant to use tha as an excuse for going back to the status quo. Let us resolve the Morseland Street problem as well, so that they too can enjoy the safety and quiet of a residential street.

In sum, we feel that diverting the through traffic has made our niighborhood safer, for children and adults, and we hope that as citizens interested in safety and tranquility, that the barriers can be made permanent.

A Final Coverup?

Newton School Committee needs an overhaul

To the Editor:

Similar to the majority of the people of any community, I am an apolitical person — which in essence is an euphemism for an apathetic citizen. However, when the immovable object — public apathy — meets the irresistable force — private interest — results are inevitable.

In my particular case it was a state law which provides state financial reimbursement to cities and towns supplying student transportation. Since a large percentage of cities and towns in the Commonwealth do now provide both intracity and inter-city transportation to private school students, I, along with an interested group of parents in a similar situation have attempted to determine our eligibility under the law.

The possibility of state financial reimbursement for our transportation costs is not of monumental proportions considered in terms of our total costs; but neither is it negligible. However, upon examination, it became a matter of principle and a point of law.

Our initial reaction was to attempt to obtain more information. Being political ingenues combined with the fact that we were told it is a School Committee issue, we were destined to start in the wrong place by going to the School Committee first. By contacting our own School Committee members we were variously informed and introduced into a plethora of problems (all unrelated to our own) involved in the fulfillment of the School Committee members' position. My own School Committee member referred me to one of the support program administrators.

While I received no information from my School Committee member, I did nevertheless learn something — the School Committee has a language all its own. What they call "referral" is in translation "buck passing."

After many phone calls to various sources, the most helpful of which were the School Committees of other communities, we were able to determine the requirements and possibilities of the particular bill. Our next logical area was to determine our qualifications.

We were able to learn that as residents of the state, we qualified. However, as residents of Newton, we were again confronted with the School Committee. The School Committee's response was to write a letter to them, which I did. The response to the leter was a letter from the School Committee that the written request would be read as a communication at the meeting on Sept. 9.

Realizing that our potential eligibility and the resolution of the request was not to be an agenda matter or a serious consideration, I nevertheless decided to attend as an interested observer. It is now Sept. 10, and having attended last nights' School Committee meeting, with no expectation of results, I can unequivocally state that the School Committee did nothing to alter my expectations. What they did do, however, was manage to effectively achieve a performance of unmitigated disservice to the community. My first Newton School Committee meeting was an unexpected educational experience.

The meeting began promptly, and Eleanor Rosenblum as chairman performed creditably. She was efficient, composed and displayed an exercised control. After reading several communications, and acknowledging the presence in the large audience of many parents with requests, she announced an alderman had requested special permission to speak at this time. After his citation of accident statistics and the genuine concern of parents for the physical safety of their children, the request was responded to by the School Committee by referring it to the Police Department.

At that point, the chairman announced that with the exception of the alderman no one else in the audience would be allowed to speak until the conclusion of the regularly scheduled meeting since there were important items on the agenda which took precedence.

Aware that my own concern was not urgent, that the physical safety of my children was not in jeopardy, I nevertheless could not conceive what issues could be more vital than those of the other parents in the audience. Parents, obviously present out of an immediate and primary parental concern for the physical safety of their children. In a meeting that lasted in excess of four hours we were to be exposed to the "vital issues" and "professional" performance of the Newton School Committee.

The increase in the number of boys lavs at one was duly discussed and attested to; the removal of sand piles inappropriately utilized was recorded. Rather heated discussion about Alvin Mandell's repeated requests for a portable burglar alarm system for the School Committee office were discussed. Mandell's apparent urgent concern for the safety and security of the School Committee office having been resolved by a request for such purchase, Mandell continued to perform throughout the entire evening with a consistent sense of priority and propriety.

He demanded and received the right to discuss "personalities" at an executive session meeting immediately following the conclusion of this meeting; he continually displayed an acute case of misinformation and misunderstanding by: stating as "attended" to an EPA edict of which (according to the statement of the 7-17-74 minutes) the Newton School Committee is in violation of the law; he erroneously quoted the Transportation bill as "bus stop to school" distance; he gave factually unsupported statistics contradictory to state information.

In essence he created a performance which can only establish him as a Master of Malaprop. After several hours of this unrelieved concern by the School Committee with "vital issues," we were informed by the chairman that the superintendent of schools, Aaron Fink, would deliver a "State of the Schools" report. What followed was a protracted exercise in endurance.

The report lasted for an uninterrupted 1 hour and 35 minutes. It was received by the audience if not with avid attention at least with sustained silence. It is incredible that Mr. Fink, as a professional educator, had obviously failed to learn the basic concept in education of the limits of the human attention span. The most dedicated listener to the most profound pronouncements could not have endured the time alloted this report.

The substance inherent in the contents of the report could only have been delivered in a particular type of public school system. It consisted of a recitation of chapter headings in a text book. It was repetitive and redundant, there was no substance, no subject of controversy, no objective evaluation, no positive recommendation. It was like a cross section — exposed but unexamined.

There was nothing to distinguish it as a Newton School System report, no issues nor specifics endemic to Newton; so totally devoid of substance that it defied either acceptance or challenge. Which was exactly how it was received by the Newton School Committee.

Mr. Fink obviously functions under the false assumption that "more is better." It is inconceivable, but nevertheless a fact that a report of this duration and on this subject could be delivered without eliciting one intelligent response from any member of a full complement of the School Committee. Mandell, in characteristic profundity, stated it was "refreshing;" Dr. Needleman in what she called a rhetorical question asked how does one measure the effectiveness and Mrs. Reichard responded that all one had to do was walk into any school and see the busy and satisfied students.

I, as a parent, was justifiably disappointed in the unprofessional standards of evaluation of academic and scholastic achievement in terms of modern educational values as demonstrated by the performance of the Newton School Committee.

At this point, the chairman closed the agenda and stated that there would be 15 minutes alloted to the audience to speak, because of the late hour (it was after 11 p.m.) The 50 or 60 parents in the audience who had patiently waited to be heard were justifiably annoyed that a time limitation had so arbitrarily been imposed. Only one person, Mayor Mann, had the consideration to reassure the audience that they would be heard. Each parent who spoke explained that they were there because, having been referred to one official after another, they were told that the School Committee meeting was the final step.

It was apparent that by design and policy the School Committee meeting had become a court of last resort. But unlike a court, no decision was made, no issue resolved and no judicious discretion extended. It was a place where the parents could be heard but not listened to. It was an exercise in futility deliberately perpetrated by the School Committee.

No one even remotely aware of the magnitude and the multiplicity of problems facing a School Committee — any School Committee — could underestimate the demands of that position. But this does not obviate the fact that there are certain standards, requirements and qualifications inherent in the position, qualities manifestly absent in the performance of the Newton School Committee. The entire proceeding emitted a pervasive sense of disorganization.

The School Committee members both in attitude and fact demonstrated a chaotic attempt at control. They did not show any evidence of purpose or function but appeared rather as a very defensive group in an adversary position. They offered no alternative, suggested no recourse and evinced no interest.

The fact that they are a branch of the executive office is confused by their arbitrary selectivity implementing legislation. Their apparent refusal, for obvious reasons, to relinquish any of the myriad agencies now under their jurisdiction is compounded by the fact that they are not efficiently (judging by the audience) managing to execute their responsibilities adequately.

The fact that a School Committee meeting is neither the time nor the place to hear individual requests proved that they have not provided the proper channels for resolving these serious issues. The fact that the agenda items may have been necessary but were certainly not vital and were more appropriate for a subcommittee demonstrates their lack of priority. The School Committee has apparently confused autonomy with autocracy and in so doing, has lost effectiveness.

I have no doubt that individually, the majority of the School Committee members are dedicated and sincere. But collectively they function almost as a Machiavellian group, apparently committed to some abstract ideal of education, as though unaware that the purpose of education is people.

The tedious complexity of modern educational systems is a fact of life. It is the attitudes and abilities of the people who administer the system that determine the quality of education and to a large extent influence the student.

The Newton School System as it now operates is apparently too archaic in its structure, too overextended in its function and too formalized in its approach to adequately perform the public service for which it was intended. It is for that reason that I suggest the Newton School System be reevaluated and reexamined for the purpose of providing an efficient and progressive system more consistent with community standards.

New Deaconess post for Mrs. deBettencourt

Mrs. Mary deBettencourt, 18 Sterling St., West Newton, has been appointed assistant director of social service at the New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston.

For the past two-and-a-half years, she has been supervisor in the department, and will continue to supervise caseworkers, but will assume more responsibility for the department's administration.

The social service department provides services to patients and their families who need help in meeting personal, social, and financial needs encountered during illness.

Mrs. deBettencourt received a B.S. in social service from Simmons College and an M.S. from its School of Social Work. She began her career as a caseworker at Rhode Island Hospital, and then worked at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Following a position as casework supervisor of student social workers at Georgetown University Hospital, she retired temporarily to raise a family. She returned to social work at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

At the Newton Mental Health Center, Mrs. deBettencourt was involved in psychiatric casework. Before joining the Deaconess she counseled at the Crittenton Hastings House in Brighton.

Mrs. Mary deBettencourt

Mrs. deBettencourt lives in West Newton with her husband Joseph, a chief consulting scientist at the Raytheon Company in Wayland. They have three children, John, a certified public accountant who lives in Woburn; Joe, a commercial airline pilot in Chicago; and Diane, an elementary school teacher in Marblehead.

GUIDELINES ON ALCOHOL PROBLEMS
DANGER SIGN: BLACKOUTS
A blackout is a period of time about which you have no recollection of your conversations, actions, companions, or location(s). A blackout is like being under anesthesia . . . and alcohol was one of mankind's first anesthetics.
The frightening aspect of a blackout is in not knowing if if you insulted, injured, or killed someone during that period . . . or even if you were driving a car. Blackouts can last a few hours . . . days . . . or weeks! They are caused by high-volume and/or high-speed drinking whereby the body does not have time to burn off the alcohol. Insurance agents meet

The Independent Insurance Agent's Association of Newton held a Boston area advertising seminar Sept. 11 at Valle's Steak House, Newton, on the planned year-end campaign.

Jeff Cornell, Newton's advertising director and Boston area advertising director for the Massachusetts Association of Independent Agents and Brokers, explained, "this campaign is being directed by Bernard Rogan of Doremus and Company and is being offered to all independent agent's associations in Massachusetts and New Englnad. It is basically the same program as the National Association of Insurance Agents will be using on a nationwide basis."

Newton Association President, David Krongrad added, "the thrust of this program is to point out to the public that there is a distinct difference by one company, and the independent, self-employed agent. We hope to bring home the fact that the independent agent depends directly on service to his clients for his success. Each independent agent can represent several companies. He, therefore, has an opportunity to shop around for his client for the best available coverage."

The slogan for the Independent Agent's campaign is, "If we can't help you, nobody can."

Memorial service at Brandeis Sept. 22

Members of the Newton community are invited to attend a holocaust memorial service to be held Sunday, September 22, 11 a.m., at Brandeis University's Berlin Chapel.

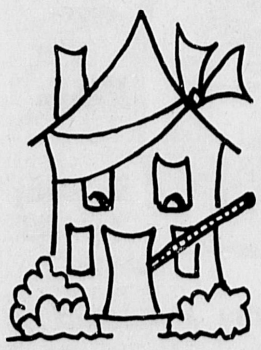

The service is sponsored by the holocaust memorial committee of the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston in cooperation with the New Americans Association of Boston.

Rabbi Zev K. Nelson, chairman of the holocaust memorial committee and spiritual leader of Temple Emeth, Chestnut Hill, and Cantor Gregor Shelkan of Temple Miskan Tefila, Newton, will officiate at the service.

Guest speaker at the service will be Rabbi Joseph Polak, director of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at Boston University. He recently returned from a year sabbatical in Israel where he studied as a Danforth Fellow. Rabbi Polak received a B.A. from Sir George Williams College and was ordained at the Rabbinical College of Canada in Montreal. He has served as director of Boston University Hillel for five years.

The service will be held near the Statue of Job, which the New Americans Association donated in memory of the victims of the Holocaust two years ago. This year, the association is placing a commemorative plaque at the base of the statue. President of the group is Mrs. Brenda Wluka of Milton.

For further information on the service people may contact the Jewish Community Council at 542-7525.

Adult education program to begin at Temple Emeth Oct. 15

The Adult Education Committees of the Conservative temples in the Newton-Chestnut Hill area wish to announce that the fall series of the combined adult education program begins at Temple Emeth, South and Grove Streets, Chestnut Hill, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 15, and will continue for eight consecutive weeks at that temple.

All members of the general community are invited to attend. Each Tuesday, classes are held from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. and lectures from 9:15 p.m. to 10:15 p.m., followed by refreshments. Each participant may select one of eight courses in the classroom series.

Four language courses are offered. Elementary Hebrew will be taught by Mrs. Illona Handel of the Solomon Shechter Day School. Mrs. Shoshanna Green of Temple Reyim and Mrs. Judith Bahat, a former teacher in Israeli public schools and in the Israeli Army, will teach basic conservational Hebrew and intermediate conversational Hebrew, respectively. Those students with some knowledge of Yiddish may select intermediate Yiddish, taught by Mrs. Harriet Segal of Temple Emeth.

In addition to the language courses, a course on "American Writers and the Jewish Experience" will be taught by Mrs. Sylvia Rothchild, a writer and member of the faculty of the Radcliffe Institute. Allen Mintz, founder and an editor of Response Magazine, will teach "Modern Jewish Thought." "Israel: The Political Realities" will be taught by Isaac Neustadt Noy, doctoral candidate at Brandeis and instructor at the Hebrew College. Arnold A. Wieder, a professor at the Hebrew College, will teach "The Bible Viewed through the Eyes of the Midrash."

After classes end, all students gather together to hear the lecture of the evening. The opening two lectures on Oct. 15 and 22, will be given by Saul Wachs, director of Jewish education at the Philip W. Lown Center for Contemporary Jewish Studies, Brandies University on "Prayer as Empathy."

The next two lectures, on Oct. 29 and Nov. 5, will be on "Aspects of the Thought of Maimonides" to be given by Dr. Marvin Fox, Appleman professor of Jewish thought, Brandeis University.

Yoseph H. Yerushalmi, professor of Hebrew and of Jewish history at Harvard University, will present a three-lecture series on "Underground Judaism: The Marranos of Spain and Portugal" on Nov. 12, 18 and 26.

The lecture series will conclude on Dec. 3 with "The New Jewish Community: A Balance Sheet," to be given by Manheim S. Shapiro, principal consultant of Insight Development Services.

The cost for this entire series is $12 to the general community, $8 to adults from sponsoring temples, $5 to Golden Agers, and free to students.

This course and lecture series is the product of cooperation of several temples. Further information is available at the offices of Temple Emeth (323-9649), Temple Emanuel (332-5770), Temple Mishkan Tefila (332-7770), and Temple Reyim (527-2410). Registration is possible either through these temple offices or at the door.

Instrument demonstrations to be given at junior high schools

Newton elementary students, who are now in line for musical instrument study, and their parents have the opportunity to hear and see the various instruments in action.

The music department faculty will demonstrate the wide selection of instruments available for student study. They will give five demonstrations at area junior high schools. These are designed to acquaint students and parents with the instrumental program offered to the young student. The Demonstrations will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening on the following schedule:

Thursday, Sept. 19, at Bigelow Junior High for: Cabot, Lincoln-Eliot, Underwood, Ward;

Monday, Sept. 23 at Meadowbrook Junior High for: Countryside, Emerson, Memorial, Oak Hill, Spaulding.

Tuesday, Sept. 24 at Warren Junior High for: Angier, Burr, Davis, Hamilton, Peirce, Williams:

Monday, Sept. 30 at Weeks Junior High for: Beethoven, Bowen, Hyde, Mason-Rice.

The Newton Schools provide at least one year of class instrumental lessons. Students are then encouraged to take private lessons. Instrumentalists begin participation in school orchestra and bands very soon after individual instruction has started. String instruction can be started at the third grade level. All instruments can start for the fourth grade on. Brass and woodwind instruction might be started in the child's third grade in school, if recommended by the music specialist.

Music teachers, where time permits, are expanding instrumental offerings from the usual four instruments (clarinet, flute, violin and trumpet) to include such instruments as tuba, cello, string bass, trombone, saxophone, and others.

Newton students of all ages and their parents are encouraged to attend any one of the demonstrations. If unable to attne, people should contact their school's music faculty member to discuss their child's place in instrumental music.

Newton Community Service Centers conducts classes

The Newton Community Service Centers announces its fall creative art classes under the direction of Judy Kelleher. There classes for children ages 2 through 12.

For the younger ones, "Parents and Tots" (ages 2-5) class privides a childs' first introduction to creativity and social awareness with the special support of mother and teacher. Many forms of art media will be experimented with. Mothers and children will engage in mutual creative efforts: painting, puppet making, building things, etc. in a relaxed atmosphere free from siblings and telephones.

"Nursery Combination of Music and Art" is an exciting class for 3-5 year olds. This is a good transition class for pre-nursery aged children. They will use their bodies and voices as instruments, and have fun in singing, dancing, miming, foot painting, flag making, costumes and animal games. The class will provide the opportunity to explore and develop the capacity to move rhythmically in conjunction with various art media.

For the older child, 5 to 7, "Kindergarten Discoveries" provides more opportunity to discover the pleasures in exploring a subject in depth. The world of animals, cultures, natural forces and other topics will be explored through the eyes of a 5 year old with stories, games, songs, dances, films and court art. This is an exciting group for children who love lerning in a fun way.

"Media Workshop" is a class for 7-12 year olds who love art and want lots of time to work. The workshop is 1½ hours long, enables the child to work at his own pace and choose materials that appeal to him or her. For those who like more direction, a specific lesson will be planned for each of the 10 sessions.

For more information, contact the Newton Community Service Centers, 429 Cherry St., West Newton or phone 969-5906.

Prices

Usual summer sales for corn and tomatoes were canceled because they were hard to get. A spokesman for Minnesota's Red Owl stores explained why: "Prices never came down. We never got anything of decent quality and the quantity was not there either."

Pittsburgh area grocers surveyed said the largest price jumps in the past six months have been in food products containing oil, such as margarine, cooking and salad oils.

"Prices on these items have skyrocketed during the past few months and they may go higher before this ends," a Pittsburgh chain store spokesman said.

In Los Angeles, Chicago and Atlanta, bread was up an average of 5 cents a loaf over prices of six months ago.

In Chicago, beef prices were up with increases ranging from 9 to 20 cents a pound. Chicken was up by as much as 20 cents a pound.

In San Francisco, whole frying chickens were up by 16 cents a pound, the price of radishes doubled and the price of margarine nearly doubled.

Leon Dillenberg, a spokesman for the Bay Area Grocers' Association, said most grocers were switching to cheaper products and other grocers have noticed that people are simply eating less.

"Maybe it's the heavy emphasis on diet as well as rising food costs," he said.

BAK-R-FOAM Insulated Siding

Insulate With . . .

Be ready for cold weather!

Alsco's Rigid BAK-R-FOAM is the only Insulated Aluminum Siding to be Recognized by F.H.A. as Having Acceptable Insulating Values!

WARM in Winter
Cuts fuel bills substantially in winter by keeping more furnace heat inside the house — your furnace works less, lasts longer.

COOL In Summer
Keeps out oppressive heat in summer — your home stays cooler; air conditioning equipment doesn't have to run as hard.

MOISTURE Control System
Moisture control notches spaced every 31½" in foam insulation board . help dissipate trapped moisture.

First, you get complete home restyling with Alsco aluminum siding. You'll have a home that's bright and new-looking. A home that's paint-free, care-free; where maintenance costs just about disappear.

Next: money-saving insulation made possible by Rigid Bak-R-Foam's foam "sandwich" construction. Proved so superior that it is the only insulated siding with FHA recognized insulating values.

And the Alsco "Total Protection" idea offers you more than aluminum siding — gives you a complete new "breathing" Wall System for positive moisture control AND an Electric Grounding System that protects your home.

Newton man president of Ford Hall Forum

Emanuel M. Gilbert of Newton has been elected president of Ford Hall Forum, Boston, the nation's oldest, continually-operated forum for public expression. He succeeds Superior Court Justice Reuben L. Lurie of Brookline.

EMANUEL GILBERT

A former New York Times correspondent, who has taught at 11 colleges and universities, Gilbert heads the E. M. Gilbert and Associates, a Newton-based public relationsfirm serving clients in commerce, industry, public service, health and welfare and education. He has also lectured extensively on his specialty, public relations, in amany parts of the country.

Ford Hall Forum was founded in 1908 and has afforded a platform for men and women who presented both popular and unpopular views on politics, economics, religion, social problems labor and capitalism. Its programs, which will be conducted for the first time in Northeastern University's Alumni Hall, are open to everyone. The new series begins Sunday night, Oct. 6, with CBS Correspondent Marvin Kalb as the speaker.

Vice-presidents of the Forum are Superior Court Justice David S. Nelson and Mrs. Paul T. Smith. Louis F. Smith is treasurer. All are Boston residents.

Gilbert is a trustee of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies and of Temple Shalom, Newton. He is chairman of the CJP Committee on Public Information and Medica Chairman of the CJP-Jewish Community Council of Boston Joint Committee and a trustee of the N.E. Region and ADL and of the American Friends of Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Come let us reason together

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

Doug was a Real Estate and Insurance man. He was mediocre . . . didn't really fail . . . neither did he have much to point to as success. He was a good looking fellow . . . 45 and graying. His wife Blanche, was average in education . . . in looks . . somewhat ambitious . . . and very unhappy . She wanted more in life and blamed Doug for not providing it.

"He's lazy" . . . she blurted out. "He doesn't get out in the mornings until after 10:00 . . . he comes back home for lunch . . . he doesn't call back on his telephone calls. He leaves everything to tomorrow . . . or to me. ' tired of covering for him."

Doug came up with some lame excuses for the changes Blanche had made . . . which he knew . . . and I knew . . . and Blanche knew were only excuses. The truth is that Doug had been the same way since boyhood. He was the youngest of four boys. His mother had protected him . . . having chores done by his older brothers. "Douglas is too little" . . . his mother would explain. Now at 45 Douglas is following the same script . . . someone else will do it".

He procrastinates . . . delays . . . "leaves undone what he ought to have done" as the prayer reads. It's hiw way of life.

Of course . . . there are some people who have learned to use the technique of delay deliberately advantageously. Laymen become very disgusted with the way many lawyers work . . . the delays . . . the waiting . . . reaction rather than acting. There are times when this may be to the client's advantage. It's a way of working in the legal profession. In a home . . . in relationship . . . procrastination can be destructive.

Another reason for procrastination is INDECISIVENESS . . . the fear to make decisions (decedophobia). This often results when parents are too overwhelming . . . too controlling. This was another of Doug's problems. His mother was not only over protective . . . she was also domineering. The boy was afraid to make a decision or take an action for fear "It would be wong" in his mother's eyes.

Doug is learning now at his middle years to overcome the misguided parental "overcare" of his earlier life. How is he learning? First . . . by planning his day. Up at 7:00 . . . good breakfast . . . telephone calls pertaining to his Insurance work . . . then he's out and keeping appointments. He tries to lunch with business friends for more exposure. More telephone calls , , , More appointments. He's working two evenings each week. His insurance business has doubled this past month.

Secondly ,. . . Doug is facing up to hinself , , , instead of letting himself be lazy he is pushing himself. At first he was overdoing it . . . the new thrill which he felt at the new successes he was having was so exhilerating. Now he's learning to pace himself.

The third venefit is the greatly improved relationship with Blanceh. Blanche is proud of the changes in Doug . . . and she tells him so. "I never dreamed he could come alive as he has" . . . she said. "He's so much fun to be with now." They go dancing each Saturdaynight . . . take a week-end vacation three or four times a year. Their lives have changed.

Whatever destroys people . . . or a marriage is an enemy. Doug saw this . . . and took action in time.

Pearl Harbor veterans sought

The most "exclusive veterans group" in the country is looking for you. A veteran or overseas veteran isn't enough to qualify. In order to be eligible for membership you must be a military survivor of the attack on Pearl Harbor or within three miles of the shojes of Oahu between 7:55 a.m. and 9:45 a.m. December 7, 1941.

Faculty appointments announced

The appointment of the following new faculty members for the 1974-75 academic year at Pine Manor was recently announced.

Laure Sondra Kesner, a resident of Brighton, will be joining the staff of Pine Manor as an assistant teacher in the child study center. Ms. Kesner is a 1973 graduate of Wheelock College, and holds a B.S. degree in early childhood education. She is married to Jeffrey Kesner.

Christina Adams Nichols of Cambridge will be teaching dance at the College. Ms. Nichols holds a B.A. degree from Wheaton College and an M.F.A. degree from N.Y.U. Her training has included study with Hanya Holm, Rudy Perez, and Clay Taliaferro. Ms. Nichols has choreographed and performed in a number of solo and group works both at Wheaton and in New York.

Will Stackman of Cambridge will join Pine Manor as technical director in the performing arts department. He holds a Masters degree from Wesleyan University and is working on a Ph.D. in film. Stackman has taught at California State University, Long Beach, where he directed a student experimental theater; and at Douglass College, Rutgers, as designer-technical director.

For the past two years he has free-lanced in the Boston area, directing for Publick Theater, designing and building sets for OM Theater Workshop, and assisting Playwrights Platform during the past summer season.

Volunteer New England Aquarium volunteer Mrs. Ralph Bender of Newton Centre (left) explains the anatomy of a horseshoe crab to two youngsters. Elementary school visits are part of the Aquarium's field associate program.

Aquarium recruiting volunteers

"Get wet" at the New England Aquarium! Get involved in the "world of water" as a volunteer in the school program where as a field associate you may share the joy of a child's first encounter with an otter; explore the fascinating world of the salt marsh; or take excitement to a classroom in your local elementary school.

Mrs. Ralph Bender of Newton Centre sums up her school visits as an Aquarium field associate as one of "the most enjoyable forms of volunteer service. During the past year Mrs. Bender has visited schools in the Newton area and will continue her service during the coming year.

The field associate program is a volunteer activity at the New England Aquarium sponsored by the Aquarium's education department. Volunteers come from many communities in the area and no special knowledge is necessary.

In an effort to make school visits to the Aquarium valuable educational experiences for school children, the field associate program trains volunteers like Mrs. Bender to prepare students and teachers for such visits. Field Associates present a brief aquatic program to children in the classroom prior to their scheduled trip. Live animals — muskrats, otters, crabs, and sea stars — as well as audio-visual materials, are available to field associates to enhance their classroom presentations.

To reinforce the learning experience at the Aquarium, the associate may return to the class to discuss with the children their impressions of what they observed and to answer questions.

The New England Aquarium is currently recruiting additional volunteers for this program. A two-day volunteer orientation program will take place at the Aquarium on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 24 and 25, from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Following orientation, a 10-lecture training course will be offered, beginning in October.

For further information about the Field Associates or other volunteer opportunities at the Aquarium, people may contact Mrs. Ralph Bender, 969-7940, or the volunteer office at the New England Aquarium, 742-8830, ext. 37.

Sketches at Newtonville Library

Beacon Hill, Haymarket and the Old North End are among twenty pen and ink sketches by Helen McDermott of Roslindale now on view at the Newtonville Branch of the Newton Free Library, 345 Walnut Street.

Ms. McDermott uses watercolors to bring out features of old Boston buildings. Brickwork, chimneypots and cobblestones are some of her specialities.

Ms. McDermott worked for five years as a commercial artist before starting her own business as a printmaker. Trained at the New England School of Art, she now makes prints of her sketches and hand watercolors them for sale.

Ms. McDermott's work will be on view through September at the Newtonville Branch Library. Winter hours there are 9 a.m. - 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Red Cross course to start Oct. 1

The advanced first aid and emergency care course originally scheduled for Sept. 11 has been postponed until Tuesday, Oct. 1. The training will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7-9:30 p.m. for a period of 8-10 weeks.

At completion of the course, participants should have developed the functional first aid capabilities required of policemen, firemen, emergency squad members, ambulance attendants and others who are required to provide initial emergency care necessary to sustain life until qualified medical help can be obtained.No previous first aid training is required as a prerequisite for this course. A charge of $2.50 will be made for the textbook.

The course will be held at the Newton Red Cross Chapter House, 21 Foster Street, Newtonville. People may call 527-6000 for registration and further information.

All this, and Chestnut Hill, too.
As you drive down along the broad sweep of the Hammond Pond Parkway in Newton you will undoubtedly take note of a magnificent group of buildings nestled among the trees just on the right approaching Brookline.
Today these four distinguished apartment houses are known as Hammond Park, with 144 spacious and elegant residences-in-condominium. Included are ownership-in-common of luxuriously landscaped grounds, swimming pools and other amenities comprising a personal real estate investment of significant consequence.
If you have been considering a new residence, there is perhaps no suburban environment in metropolitan Boston of greater charm and character so uniquely situated in such close proximity to convenience. Lakes, parks, country clubs, tennis clubs, ice rinks—our environs abound with opportunities for total living. The Chestnut Hill Mall is at your elbow, and downtown Boston beckons, a short commute by car, bus or even the train from Chestnut Hill Station.
Hammond Park itself clearly evidences an intrinsic value or a rare quality in its design integrity and construction that is hard to find these days. You have only to visit a model apartment to realize at once that ownership here merits your serious consideration.
The range of choice today varies from studios at $29,400 to three bedrooms at $87,900 with a wide selection between.
Your inspection is invited ten til' seven daily or by appointment.

Award for WCVB-TV

A WCVB-TV (Channel 5) editorial series on emergency medical care has won the top award in the international competition of the Radio and Television News Directors Association.

WCVB-TV Editorial Director Philip S. Balboni of Newtonville and New Director Larry Pickard were to have accepted the award at a special luncheon, Friday, Sept. 13, at the RTNDA convention in Montreal.

Award

Troops from the Massachusetts Army National Guard, Newton Armory, were presented with the "Service to Youth" award for their parts in the statewide march for disadvantaged youth. Jerome Leary (right) of Newton, vice president of Horizons for Youth, gave the award to Maj. Frederick York (left).

Stuart Currie to give slide tour of Australia

Australia will be featured at a slide-talk at the Waban Branch of the Newton Free Library, 1608 Beacon Street on Thursday, Sept. 26 at 10:30 a.m.

In addition to the usual tourist sights of Sydney and Melbourne, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Currie enjoyed the sights along a 1500-mile automobile trip taken with Australian friends. They travelled in New South Wales and Victoria, to the capital territory of Camberra, along the shore, and inland to the Canyon land.

People may join Branch Librarian Arlene Lynde for coffee and conversation at 10 a.m. A slide tour with Stuart Currie will follow at 10:30 a.m.

Schonarth named notary public

Vincent C. Schonarth, 180 Cherry St., West Newton has been appointed a notary public, State Secretary John F.X. Davoren has announced.

The term of the West Newton notary public will expire in seven years.

Women hired by college

Two Newton residents have been appointed to the faculty and staff at Bradford College. They are Mary Grace Baron, 390 Dedham Street, Newton Centre, who will teach psychology, and Elizabeth D. Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damon Carter, 60 Rokeby Road, Waban, who has joined the admissions staff as assistant director.

Miss Baron received a B.A. from Barat College and an M.A. from Boston College where she is currently a Ph.D. candidate.

Miss Carter is a cum laude graduate of the University of Rochester. She has worked at resort areas in Massachusetts and Spain and most recently at a Boston advertising agency.

Theatre group to do casting

The Jewish Repertory Theatre, sponsored by the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center has announced that casting for this year's productions will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 23 and 24 from 7 to 10 p.m., at the Center, 50 Sutherland Road, Brookline.

Actors and actresses, as well as supporting staff and technical workers, are invited to come xdown these evenings to speak with Bill Kracov, the director of the group.

The first two productions of the season will be, "The World of Shalom Aleichem," and "Waiting For Lefty."

For further information, people may call Bill Kracov at 782-0894.

Davis named vice-president

Gerald Davis of Waban has been named vice president - senior merchandise manager for Zayre Corp. by the company's board of directors.

Davis joined Zayre over six years ago and was named vice president - staff merchandising earlier this year. His new responsibilities include the domestics, traffic appliances, major appliances, housewares, hardware, and home improvement departments.

Previously, Davis was general merchandise manager (hardgoods) for a major department store chain.

He is a U.S. Navy veteran and holds a B.S. degree in economics from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Davis and his wife, Betty Lou, and their three children reside at 24 Ferncroft Rd., Waban.

GWENDOLYN BATES, has been named equal employment opportunity manager for Honeywell's Field Engineering Division in Newton. For the past 10 months, she has held a similar post at the company's Tampa, Fla., office. Mrs. Bates is a graduate of Talladega, Ala., in 1964 with bachelor of arts degree. She and her husband have two children.

People serving United Way

Three Newton residents are serving as loaned executives at the United Way of Massachusetts Bay. They are: Lillian B. Rabatsky, Sally Anderson, and Alan I. Bloom.

Ms. Rabatsky, an employee of the General Services Administration of the federal government, served as a loaned executive in last year's United Way campaign.

Ms. Anderson, a staff accountant at Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., attended Northeastern University.

Bloom, a supervisory social worker at the Veteran's Administration outpatient clinic, is a graduate of Northeastern University and holds a M.S.W. degree from the University of Connecticut.

SUMNER H. GOLDMAN, of Newton, group vice president of Star Market, has named Neil J. Kelly of Holliston a produce buyer for the 60-store supermarket chain. Kelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kelly of Newton. He is married and the father of two children.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening, a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparalleled sound sensation . . . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation

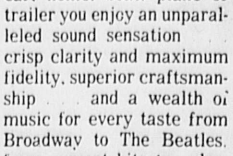

1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button

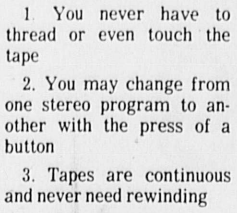

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.

How does a tape cartridge work? Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

Nature photography contest

Amateur photographers in the area, particularly those interested in nature and wildlife, are invited this month to submit some of their color slides and-or prints to the 12th Audubon International Exhibition of Nature Photography.

This is a bi-ennial special activity sponsored by the Massachusetts Audubon Society in cooperation with the Massachusetts Camera Naturalists, an amateur group that manages the entire event and produces the resulting Salon to be shown throughout the state later this fall.

For a nominal entry fee each photographer may submit up to four color slides and four prints; the subject matter is not restricted except that it should be entirely natural and unrestrained. Photos of domesticated animals or bids, or cultivated flowers and shrubs, etc., are not eligible, nor are human beings; any man-made object appearing in a photograph should be unobtrusive, at least.

In past exhibitions, hundreds of nature photographers from the United States and 15 foreign countries have submitted slides and prints to this distinguished competition, regarded by many as the finest assemblage of natural history photography in the world. Entrants vie for the 15 medals awarded the top contenders, and for a like number of ribbons of Honorable Mention. Although no cash or merchandise prizes are awarded, many professional photographers compete for the prestige value of the medals.

Area photographers wishing to enter may obtain further information and official entry blanks from Camera Naturalists, c-o Gil Fernandez, P.O. Box 53, Dartmouth, Mass. 02714. Early application is advised since closing date for receipt of entries is Oct. 1. All pictures submitted will be judged by a panel of distinguished naturalist photographers from New England and New Jersey early in October.

Those slides scoring in the top 20 percent, approximately, will be selected for inclusion in the Salon showing, a wide-screen, multi-projector spectacular with background music which will be scheduled for showing locally in the late fall, date and place to be announced.

A display of the top prints will be on exhibition in the galleries of the Boston Camera Club during the week beginning Oct. 20.

Plant sale by Horticultural Society Sept. 19

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society will hold its fourth Annual Autumn Plant Sale on Thursday, Sept. 19, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Vale in Waltham.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit the Taylor Greenhouse, maintained by the society at the Vale as a teaching center.

A wide range of plants will be available, including houseplants, herbs and garden plants.

"We have a wider range of plants for sale than we've had in many years," said Miss Eleanor Thatcher, Horticulturist at the Taylor Greenhouse.

Miss Thatcher also pointed out that a lot of the plants have to be sold to make room for upcoming courses the society will conduct at the Vale, including "Pruning," September 12; "Fall Bulbs," October 7; and "Greenhouse Gardening," October 15 to November 12.

For directions to the Vale, call the Horticultural Soceity, at 536-9280.

Plane Accidents

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fatal accidents during 1973 in the domestic passenger-carrying operations of scheduled air carriers claimed the lives of 128 passengers and 10 crew members, the National Safety Council reports.

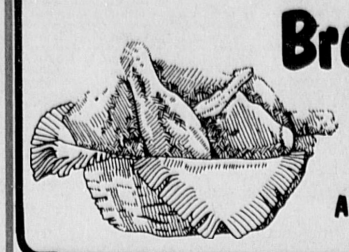

The passenger death rate per 100 million passenger-miles was 0.10, compared to 0.13 in 1972.

Radcliffe alumnae exhibit works of art

From all over the United States, patrons, sponsors, lenders and guests will be gathering at the Fogg Museum, Cambridge, on Oct. 9 for a gala champagne Preview of a special exhibition of works of art collected by Radcliffe Alumnae.

Among those attending will be Mr. J. Carter Brown, Director of the National Gallery in Washington, D.C.; also, from New York, the Rev. and Mrs. William Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rothschild, Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Weill and Mr. Tessim Zorach, son of the sculptor William Zorach, whose work is included in the exhibit, and Mrs. Zorach.

Many festive dinner parties have been planned to honor the event. Among hostesses for these are: Mrs. Lawrence Fine, Mrs. Daniel Vershbow and Mrs. Max Wasserman of Newton; Mrs. Edwin G. Fischer and Mrs. Bucknam McPeek of Chestnut Hill; and Mrs. William Cochran and Mrs. Fred Kulow of Weston, and Mrs. Richard L. Best of Wayland.

Entitled, "The Discerning Eye: Radcliffe Collectors' Exhibition," the showing will include furniture, silver and textiles as well as sculpture and paintings. Many of the pieces have never been viewed outside the private collections to which they belong. Contents of the Exhibition range from a statue from the Egyptian XIIth Dynasty to a contemporary sculpture by Claes Oldenburg.

The Exhibition was conceived by Ann Blake Smith, a local alumnae, as a tribute to such distinguished Radcliffe alumnae as Gertrude Stein '98 and Helen Keller '04. Miss Stein, especially through her "discerning eye" encouraged a circle of youg Parisian painters, including Picasso and Braque, whose activities during the first decade of this century changed the course of art history. Accompanying the Exhibit will be a series of six weekly symposia on the arts conducted by leading scholars.

Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, Jr. of Boston, is General Chairman of The Discerning Eye exhibition. She is also a Trustee of Radcliffe College and former Dean of the Radcliffe Institute. Members of her Committee from Newton are: Mrs. Max Wasserman and Mrs. Arthur Vershbow.

Chairman of the gala Preview is Mrs. Clifton E. Helman, of Brookline. Assisting her are: Mrs. Edwin G. Fischer, of Chestnut Hill; Mrs. Robert M. Ravven, of Brookline. Mrs. Ravven will also be conducting the M.I.T. Woman's Chorale a cappella singers who are providing music for the event.

The Exhibition will be open to the public from Oct. 10 through Nov. 24.

Irish Sweepers

Founding member of a new society, the "Irish Sweepers," Mrs. Richard Viano of Newton (left) and Mrs. Paul Viano (right), put the finishing touches on the kick-off benefit that was held Sept. 14. The new society will support a new rowing program at Notre Dame.

Mrs. Spertner named presient of foundation

Seven area women were elected officers of the Greater Boston Chapter of the Dysautonomia Foundation following the organization's annual balloting.

Mrs. Vivien Spertner of Newton was elected president, succedding Mrs. Jane Ansin of Newton, who has held the top post since 1972. Other new officers are: Judith Elgart of Newton, first vice-president; Harriet Goldstein of Norwood, treasurer; Ellen Suvalle of Wayland, second vice-president; Linda Wolfe of Newton, corresponding secretary; Nancy Davis of Bedford, financial secretary and Elaine Nierman of Newton, recording secretary.

The Greater Boston Chapter is one of 10 Dysautonomia Chapters across the United States raising funds to underwrite research to find a control and cure for familial dysautonomia, an hereditary disease of the autonomic nervous system which afflicts Jewish children.

Mrs. Vivien Spertner of Newton is the newly elected president of the Greater Boston Chapter of the ssysautonomia Foundation. Six other area women were elected officers of the chapter.

Local resident named delegate

Virginia Abato, West Newton, of the Modernfold Co., Inc., Wellesley Hills, is among the representatives of the Boston, Mass. Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction, Inc. who will be attending the 19th annual convention of the NAWIC in New Orleans, La.

Speaking to the delegates will be Paul Harvey, news commentator, and Ethel Bent Walsh, member of the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Workshops will be led by representatives of The American Society of Association Executives and NAWIC.

Weddings

Ecumencial ceremony unites S. Bryant and W. Niedzwiecki

A reception at the Newton Centre home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul P. Bryant followed the wedding of their daughter, Sandra M. and Wallace Niedzwiecki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace C. Niedzwiecki, Middleboro.

The Aug. 17, double ring ceremony was held at the Newton Centre United Methodist Church. Rev. John Waters and Rev. John Corcoran officiated at the ecumenical service. The bride was given in marriage by her family.

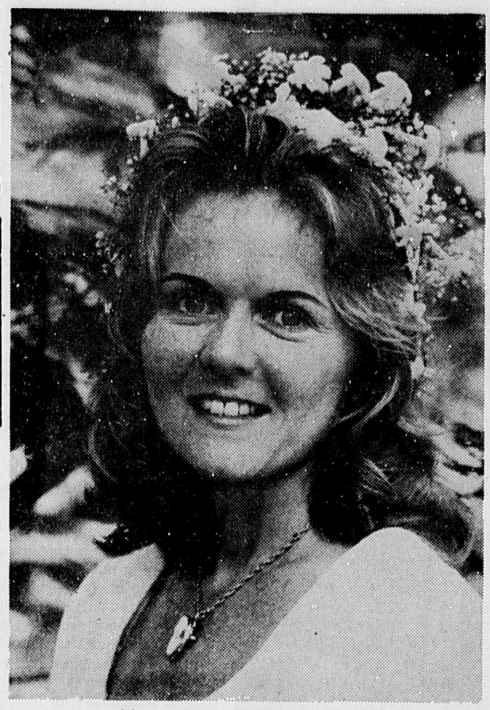

The bride made her own gown which was of linen with crewel embroidery on the sleeves and front skirt panel. Her headpiece was a cap of stephanotis and baby's breath, and she carried a single white rose.

Andrea L. Bryant was her sister's maid of honor. Teresa A. Bryant, another sister of the bride and a professional singer, rendered selections and served as bridesmaid.

Daniel Ruthwicz, brother of the groom, was the best man. W. Barry Bryant, brother of the bride, and Michael Kohl of Buffalo, N.Y. shared ushering duties.

The new bride is a graduate of Boston University and is currently a high school guidance counselor. Her husband graduated from Stonehill College and he is a public accountant.

Following their wedding trip to Cape Cod, the couple will reside in Wellesley.

Mary Immaculate of Lourdes scene of Bardini-Miele nuptial

Rev. John William Ryan officiated at the recent double ring ceremony at Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church when Jean Marie Bardini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bardini, Newton Centre, and Peter C. Miele Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miele, Methuen, became husband and wife.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Tony Bardini of Malibu, Cal., the bride was attired in a white organza gown, lace trimmed train and wrist length veil. The reception was held at the Hillcrest, Waltham.

For her maid of honor, the bride chose Sheryl Ann Hilliard from Newton. The bridesmaids were Lynda Larson, Burlington; Lynne Shapiro, Haverhill; Joan Ball, Methuen and Clarice Torromeo, Methuen.

Donald Bohondoney, Salem, N.H., was the best man. Performing the ushering duties were Stephen Nadolny, Burlington; Alfred Abate, Methuen; George Torromeo, Methuen and Robert Ball, Methuen.

Both the bride and the groom graduated from the University of Mass. in Amherst. She is a teacher in the Bedford school system and he teaches in the Lynnfield school system.

Upon returning from their honeymoon in Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Miele are now residing in Methuen.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Miele Jr.

Sherry and Stephen Litwack to reside in Syracuse, N.Y.

The wedding of Sherry Lynne Forman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Forman, Newton Centre, and Stephen Elliot Litwack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Litwack, Milton, was solemnized on Sept. 1 at Temple Israel, Boston.

Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn officiated at the ceremony where Mr. Forman gave his daughter in marriage. A reception at the temple followed the service.

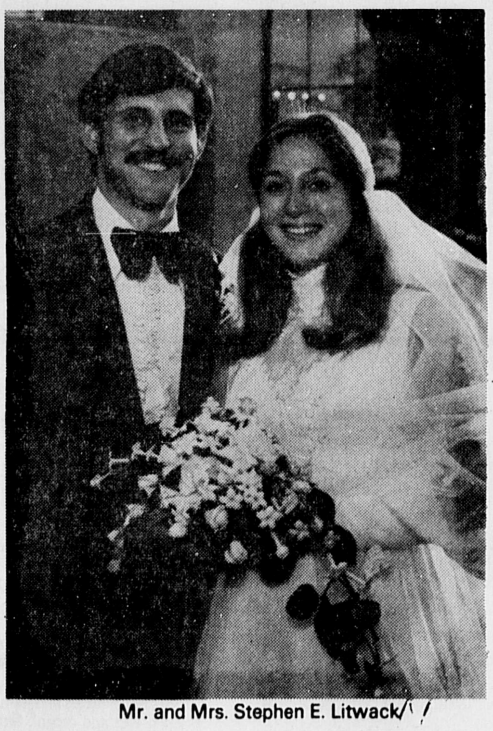

The bride was attired in a Bianchi gown of English net with Alencon lace applique and scattered beaded flowers. Her matching chapel length veil, which was self-designed, was attached to a beaded Juliet cap. She carried a crescent-line bouquet of white glaroses, sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Loretta Levin, Newton Centre, was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Barbara Motenko, Skokie, Ill.; Marie Bornstein, Cincinnati, Ohio; and Annette Paul, Brockton. All of the bride's attendants wore apple green wrap around gowns and carried bouquets of bird of paradise, yellow statice and pink roses.

The best man was lawrence Litwack, Stoughton. Sharing ushering duties were Michael Forman, Newton Centre; Glenn Paul, Brockton; Steven Weinstein, Hyde Park; Joshua Shapiro, Brookline; Michael Swartz, Brookline, Stephen Unik, Sharon; Philip Kaplan, Chicago, Ill.; and Frederic Siegel, Ann Arbor, Mich.

The new Mrs. Litwack received her B.A. from Brandeis University and her Master's degree in education from Harvard University. Her husband received his B.A. from Brandeis University, his Master's degree in school psychology from Syracuse University, and is currently working towards his doctorate at Syracuse.

When they return from their honeymoon trip, the couple will live in Syracuse, N.Y.

'Discovery' offers day trip series

A visit to the studios of several Marblehead artists on Wednesday, Oct. 2 will launch a new four-week series in the Discovery program of art studio and luncheon tours.

Now offering its third series, Discovery affords women the opportunity to be guests in the homes or private studios of artists within an hour's drive of Boston, and to spend an informal hour viewing the artist's work.

The October programs will be conducted on four successive Wednesdays (Oct. 2, 9, 16, 23) from 9:30 to 2 p.m. and will involve visits to Lincoln and Weston, Manchester-by-the-sea, and the South Shore, as well as Marblehead. Each day women will visit two artists, then lunch at a fine country restaurant selected for its charm as well as its excellence in cuisine.

According to the more than fifty women who are "alumnae" of the Discovery programs, the day trips are a unique experience in art appreciation, a stimulating day "away" in congenial company, and a chance to purchase art at unusually low prices.

The groups are limited to fifteen, and driving is shared. For further information, call Ellie Mamber at 244-4145 or 244-2074.

BCON to meet at Mt. Ida Sept. 22

"The Black Child in the Newton Public Schools" will be the topic discussed by a panel of educators and students at the Sept. 22 meeting of the Black Citizens of Newton (BCON).

The panelists will be Samuel Turner, principal of Newton's Oak Hill Elementary School, Don Shelton, assistant principal at Warren Junior High in Newton, Mrs. Kathy Jones, Newton's METCO Coordinator, Mrs. Dorothy Frauenhofer, METCO psychologist-Newton Public Schools, Linda Jordan, a METCO student at Newton North High, and Stuart Perry, a student at Newton South High. The panel will be moderated by Bob Hayden, co-chairman of BCON's education task force.

The meeting will take place at Mt. Ida Junior College, Alumni Hall, Dedham Street, Newton, from 4-7 p.m.

BCON — a two-year old organization — has task forces working on housing, politics, education, economic development and community relations.

The pajama game

Marilyn Monroe confessed to wearing just a few drops of Chanel No. 5 when she went to bed — however, if you're one of the members of the less glamorous majority of women, you prefer to wear long nightgowns and only during the hot summer months do you resort to wearing short gowns or nothing. Pajama wearers are in the minority . . . all of these statistics according to a recent survey attempting to find out how the average woman dresses for bedtime.

With cool nights in the offing, there's nothing to compare with the comfort of baby-soft brushed nylon, and when the style is by John Kloss for Cira it's bound to be a knockout.

Outstanding in his collection, a soft, clingy brushed nylon T-shaped sleepgown with armholes slit above the bustline and skinny bows closing the slit bodice available in white, pale yellow or vibrant blue. As with most fashions this fall, Kloss' nightgowns feature lots of fullness not only in the body of the garment, but in sleeve and shoulder treatments as well.

His junior collection continues the sleek, fluid silhouette with demure necklines, both high and scooped, often edged in tiny ruffles. A versatile bolero with ruffling and tie-closings is offered with and without sleeves to be worn as a topper with wide-legged pajamas or as a bed jacket over a gown.

A return to more feminine clothes is evidenced in sleepwear by the application of delicate lace ruffling; particularly lovely, a series of camisole styles designed in a "back-to-the-bedroom" mood. Another new touch is a shirred Grecian sleeve inspired by ancient Hellenic culture, which appears on a group of long, easy fitting gowns fashioned in butter smooth Tango fabric. This new silken-textured Tango fabric is available in a subtle palette of grayed-down colors that Kloss refers to as "cosmetic hues."

The nicest of the Gabor sisters, beautiful and glamorous Eva, has joined famous fashion designer, Luis Esteves in producing a collection of long dresses and evening pajamas to wear at home, at someone else's home or anywhere at all.

With a laugh, Eva adds, "In these clothes you won't be home alone for long!" The famous beauty considers herself one of the sixty percent of American females ranging in height between 5'2" and 5'6" — these women are curvy and have difficulty finding clothes that both fit and flatter.

Using Eva as inspiration, Estevez created these glamorous clothes that glorify the real "All American" figure. Color and pattern have skillfully elongated the figure and attracted the eye to "curvaceous assets."

Most designs have adjustable waistlines or clever bodice draping so "you can eat and enjoy yourself, and still have room to breathe," Miss Gabor explains. Deep cleavage, low backs, ruffles and diagonal drapings always emphasize the positive and tend to minimize the heavier figure.

Though Estevez's fabrics are high priced in appearance, using satins, chiffons, velvets and silks in look-alike synthetic versions that shed wrinkles and do away with cleaning worries, he has priced them in the budget class, selling for $60 to $120 at department stores and specialty shops.

These fashions are all very well for the woman who can afford the luxury of designers' clothes — but what of the shopper who is more interested in making a decision between buying a fleecy nightgown or a new electric blanket.

There are low-priced, warm and beautiful new brushed gowns made delicate and tender with the addition of lace trimmings. Even the popular fleece robes take on the look of luxury when smothered in lace edgings.

Taking the place of pale neutrals are robes in rich teal, burgundy, brown and dark green. According to manufacturers, the wrap robes of the '40s are expected to replace the still popular caftan style. One reason for the increase in sales may be that there is no important fit problem — making the robe a great gift idea. (Speaking of gifts, if you're into sewing this year, you'll find the wrap pattern an easy one to run up on your sewing machine — in fact, you can make a his and hers wrap robe by using one pattern, and if you begin now you're sure to have them both completed for Christmas giving!)

Loungewear worn out in public? Why not! Lingerie has led a double life for quite some time now — many women shop for evening fashions in At Home departments and jacketed pajama sets and jersey gowns are worn on festive occasions accessorized with costume jewelry, sandals and a very special hairdo.

The new pajama game, according to Vassarette, is spiced with variety. Sleep in it, lounge in it or stay at home — it goes any way you do. The sexy black halter pajama bares the back and moves with flared ease from dinner table to dance floor never missing a step. As one designer put it, "Why put labels on clothes indicating the purpose of the garment — it makes more sense to call these fashions "everywhere clothes."

Question: My daughter visited Boston recently and told me about a delicious noodle pudding that contained apple pie filling. I would appreciate this recipe which, I understand, was printed in your column. — Mrs. Ida Steinberg, Halandale, Florida

Answer: A recipe this good bears repeating!

BETTY SNYDER'S NOODLE PUDDING

1 pkg. (12 oz.) medium noodles
½ cup sugar
4 eggs
1 stick margarine, melted
½ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup golden raisins
½ cup seedless raisins
1 can Comstock apple pie filling
½ cup corn flakes, crushed
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Juice of ½ lemon

Cook noodles as directed on package. Drain and set aside. In large bowl, cream sugar and eggs, add melted margarine, orange juice and salt. Add cooked noodles, raisins, apple pie filling and mix well. Put into greased 13 x 9-inch pan and top with crushed cornflakes. Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over top; drizzle lemon juice over all. Bake in 350 degree oven for 1 hour. Serves 9-10.

Letters from readers are always a delight — such as the one Mrs. H. C. of Roslindale who writes: "I asked my mother for a recipe she is famous for — it's called 'Quadrettini Casserole' and that means 'four' in Italian because it consists of four basic ingredients — meat, tomatoes, spinach and pasta all seasoned and blended with a rich tomato sauce. I think you and your readers will really enjoy this dish which serves 5-6 easily and not too expensively.

QUADRETTINI CASSEROLE

¼ cup margarine
¼ cup salad or olive oil
½ cup finely chopped carrot
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1½ pounds ground beef chuck
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
3 cups chopped peeled fresh tomatoes or canned tomatoes in puree
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons dried leaf oregano
1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
½ teaspoon tabasco pepper sauce
2 cups uncooked regular or spinach noodles
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

In a large saucepan, melt margarine and add oil. Add carrots, onion, celery and garlic and cook until tender. Add ground beef and cook, stirring with fork, until browned. Add tomato paste, tomatoes, salt, oregano, basil, thyme and tabasco. Simmer uncovered for 1½ hours. Cook noodles according to package directions, drain and rinse with cold water. Cook spinach and drain well. Add noodles and spinach to sauce. Turn into a 2-quart casserole, sprinkle with cheese and bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes or until heated through. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Question: I understand there's a new carrot cake that is quite popular and that it is different from the one I have because this one calls for an orange — the entire orange. Do you have such a recipe? Thank you! — Mrs. J. E., Dedham

Answer: Your request sounds very much like the Orange Carrot Cake that came out of the test kitchens at Sunkist Growers, Inc., in California. Here it is!

ORANGE CARROT CAKE

1 orange
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups vegetable oil
4 eggs
2 cups grated carrots (approx. 3 medium carrots)
½ cup chopped nuts
Orange Carrot Cake Frosting

Trim a thin slice from both ends of orange; cut in half lengthwise. With a shallow V-shaped cut, remove white center core. Cut halves into wedges, removing any seeds. Cut into chunks and place in electric blender; puree. Reserve 1 tablespoon puree for use in frosting. Sift together the dry ingredients. Add oil, then orange puree, mixing well. Add eggs and combine thoroughly. Stir in carrots and nuts. Line two 9-inch cake pans with waxed paper. Pour batter into pans and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until cake tester inserted into cake comes out clean. Let cool in pan for 10-15 minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely before frosting.

ORANGE CARROT CAKE FROSTING

1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese
¼ cup margarine
1 lb. powdered sugar
1 tablespoon orange puree

Beat cream cheese and margarine until just blended. Add powdered sugar and puree.

Question: My neighbor has given me a basket of nice hard pears and I would like to make a sort of marmalade that's unusual and easy. Thanks for your help. — Mrs. U. A., Walpole

Answer: Take advantage of your neighbor's kindness and gift her with a jar of:

PEARALADE

4 pounds pears, cored but not peeled
4 pounds sugar
½ teaspoon powdered ginger
2 small lemons, seeded but not peeled
½ cup brandy

Put pears and lemon through finest blade of food chopper (or chop in electric blender). Place ground fruit into a heavy kettle including all juices. Mix with sugar and ginger; let stand several hours or overnight. Bring to a boil and cook, covered, about 1½ hours stirring occasionally. When mixture is thick and amber, test by pouring a little from the side of a spoon; the last drops should come together and fall from the side of the spoon as a "sheet." Add brandy and pour into hot sterilized jars equipped with rubber seals. Seal, invert to cool. Makes about 5 half-pints.

Food and Fashions

by Ruth Lenson

Across the kitchen counter

Why all the fuss about eating a good breakfast? As far as children are concerned, those who skip or skimp on breakfast generally show signs of a mental and physical slump around 10:30 and 11 a.m. In studies made since 1966. it has been shown that children who skip breakfast perform poorly in the morning and are most likely to sleep through study periods. When these students were given nutritious breakfasts in school, principals reported definite improvement in class attitudes and attention span.

An active teenager who doesn't like breakfast, the conventional kind that is, should be encouraged to eat, according to nutritionists at New Mexico State University, a cheese sandwich for breakfast along with a banana and meat balls or hamburg on a bun as long as the foods chosen for the entire day include specified amounts from the basic four food groups.

Adults who go to work without eating are more prone to have accidents and perform less efficiently. According to Dr. Leon J. Warshaw, chief medical director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, "Breakfast should be a pump-primer. Why try to start the engine at the end of the journey?" Those who grab a couple of Danish pastries and coffee have consumed around 350 calories but only approximately five grams of protein — which could lead to mid-morning let-down, headaches, irritabilty, fatigue and poor concentration. An equally unbalanced lunch and then a heavy meal before retiring are eating patterns that are not conducive to good health.

A balanced breakfast includes fruit (preferably citrus and tomato juice), whole grain bread and cereal, butter or margarine and protein provided by milk, eggs, meat or fish. To keep protein high and food volume low, you can fortify a glass of milk with powdered skim milk and spike your cereal with wheat germ.

Since September is Good Breakfast Month, it's also a good time to check up on breakfast habits for the entire family.

BREAKFAST COOKIE BAR
(LOADED WITH NUTRITION)

1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup dark molasses
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
4 eggs
2 cups all purpose flour
1 cup wheat germ
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup rolled oats
1 cup raisins
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Cream butter or margarine until fluffy; beat in molasses and sugar. Stir in eggs and add remaining ingredients. Spread mixture evenly into a greased 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Cool in pan and then cut into 1 x 2-inch bars.

BAKED FRENCH TOAST WITH CITRUS SYRUP

Syrup:
1 cup light corn syrup
One-third cup orange juice

Combine corn syrup and orange juice in small saucepan; bring to a boil and keep warm until serving time.

3 cups corn flakes
2 eggs
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
6 slices day-old bread, cut in halves, diagonally
¼ cup margarine or butter, melted
Cottage cheese

For Baked French Toast: Measure corn flakes; crush into fine crumbs. Place in shallow dish or pan; set aside. In second shallow dish or pan, beat eggs until foamy; stir in milk and vanilla. Dip bread into egg mixture, turning once and allowing time for both sides to take up liquid. Coat with crumbs. Place in single layer on well-greased baking sheet. Drizzle with melted margarine. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, about 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Place a scoop of cottage cheese on toast and top with hot Citrus Syrup. Serves 4.

Hearty waffle-sausage-bacon breakfast with cranberry pineapple syrup.

Frozen waffles can be fancied-up with an unusual, colorful syrup such as Cranberry-Pineapple Syrup and served with sausage and-or bacon.

CRANBERRY PINEAPPLE SYRUP
FOR WAFFLES OR PANCAKES

1 cup maple-blended syrup
½ cup whole cranberries
1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
Dash of salt

Or use ¼ cup ground cranberries; simmer for 2 minutes.

Combine syrup and cranberries in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer for 5 minutes. Add pineapple and salt. Serve warm. Makes 1¾ cups.

QUICK SCRAMBLE
FOR THE FAMILY

¼ cup margarine or butter
1 medium sized onion, peeled, sliced and separated into rings
1 large green pepper, seeded, cut lengthwise into thin strips
1 large tomato (or 2 small), cut into wedges
10 large eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Melt butter or margarine in large heavy skillet; saute onion rings and green pepper strips until tender but not brown. Add tomato wedges. Pour beaten eggs over the entire mixture. Sprinkle with salt and grated Parmesan cheese. Cook over moderate heat, stirring until eggs are done to desired degree. Serve at once. Serves 4-5.

OLD TIME BRAN MUFFINS

1½ cups bran
1¼ cups milk
1½ cups all purpose flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
One-third cup sugar
¼ cup light molasses
1 egg

Combine bran and milk; let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar. Blend in molasses, egg and cereal mixture. Add dry ingredients gradually; mix until all dry particles are moist. Fill well-greased muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake at 400 degrees for 20-30 minutes. Note: for Raisin-Bran Muffins, add ½ cup raisins with molasses and egg. Makes 12 large muffins.

Newton Junior adds to faculty

In response to a grant from the federal government to the Nursing Department of Newton Junior College, the college has added to its faculty.

Two full-time members are Miss Nancy A. Lattanzio, R.N. and Mrs. Geraldine M. Walsh, R.N.

Miss Lattanzio, instructor of nursing, received a B.S. degree at St. Joseph College, Hartford, Connecticut, and M.S. at Boston University School of Nursin. She has had four years of teaching experience at Boston University and 15 years of nursing experience.

Mrs. Walsh, instructor of nursing, holds a B.S. from McGill University and has taken graduate courses at Bridgewater State College. She was formerly instructor of nursing at Brockton Hospital School of Nursing.

Joining the faculty as part-time lecturers are Mrs. Linda L. Dangel, R.N., Mrs. Elaine Elinsky, R.N., and Mrs. Patricia J. Kenny, R.N.

Mrs. Dangel has a B.S. from Cornwell University and has taken graduate courses at Boston College. Her experience includes nursing at the Beth Israel Hospital and work as a Public Health nurse in the City of Newton.

Mrs. Elinsky holds a B.S. from the University of Pennsylvania and an M.S. from the University of California. She has served as instructor at the Boston University School of Nursing.

Mrs. Kenney holds a B.S. from St. Joseph College, Hartford, Connecticut, and has completed graduate courses at Salem State College. She has held the position of instructor in nursing at the Malden Hospital School of Nursing.

The Newton Junior College nursing program is approved by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing and includes liberal arts courses as well as nursing education and hospital experience.

NJC offering courses geared toward women

Newton Junior College will offer courses of interest to women in its adult education program, starting the week of Sept. 23. Late registration will be held during the week of Sept. 30.

"Journeys: Women in the First Person," is based on some first person accounts of women's lives in journals, autobiography, and letters.

Readings will include writing by Elizabeth Cady Stanton, a 10th century housewife turned feminist; Carolina Maria de Jesus, a diarist of life in Brazil; and Anais Nin, a novelist who prefers the diary as an honest and revealing form; Maya Angelou, who portrays growing up black in the 30's with pain and poetry; Sally Carrighar, a naturalist who chooses to live in the wilderness; Mary McCarthy, a fiction writer who admits to some "truthful" fictionalizing of her own autobiography; Isak Dinesen, Francoise Mallet-Joris, and others. This course will be offered Tuesday morning, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m., Sept. 24 - Dec. 17.

A second course, "Voices of Women in Poetry," is a workshop in reading and responding to a variety of poetry by women poets including Brooks, Dickinson, Kizer, Kumin, Spivack, Sexton, Giovanni, Rukeyser, Rick, Levertov, Whitman, and many others well known and little known.

This course will be offered Thursday mornings, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m., September 27 to December 19.

The lecturer in these courses, Mrs. Holly Zeeb, holds a B.A. degree from Radcliffe and a M.Ed. from the University of Wisconsin. Her experience includes teaching English at Newton South High School and several years on the staff of the Newton adult education program.

For further information people may call the College at 969-9570.

"America" series to be shwon Thursdays

Alistaire Cooke's "America" film series will be screened at the Newton Free Library on alternate Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. beginning Sept. 26 and continuing on Oct. 10 and 24 and Nov. 7 and 21.

"America" is a look at the history of our country and her heritage, as seen through the eyes of Alistair Cooke, famed historian, journalist and broadcaster, who is the creator, author and narrator of the "America" film series.

Two films from the series will be screened on alternate Thursday evenings, "The New Found Land" and "Home Away From Home" will be shown on September 26th.

"The New Found Land" is a survey of North America during the early years of exploration; first by the Indians, then by the Spanish and French who arrived to spread their cultures to the Southwest, Quebec and New Orleans. The British made settlements alon the Atlantic.

In "Home Away From Home" merchant adventures and social dissenters colonized the East Coast from Plymouth to Jamestown.

The "America" series will also be screened free on alternate weeks, both at the Wednesday noon film showings and Thursday mornings at the Newtonville Branch Library, 345 Walnut Street at 10:15 a.m.

"Making a Revolution" and "Inventing a Nation" will be shown on Thursday, Oct. 10; and "Gone West" and "A Fireball in the Night" on Oct. 24, etc.

The Thursday evening free film series will continue throughout the year at the Main Library, with a varied program of feature films, documentaries and travelogues. Companion book exhibits on related themes will be available for circulation.

Coffee will be served and the public is welcome.

Program for asthmatic children announced

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association has announced that registration is underway for their recreational and physical conditioning program for asthmatic children.

Children, ages six to 13 years, can participate in this program, which will be held at the Needham YMCA this fall for 20 consecutive weeks.

Classes will be held on Thursday afternoons, from 3 p.m. until 3:45 p.m. They will be taught by the director of physical education of the 'Y' and supervised by a pediatric allergist and chest physiotherapist.

The program will give an asthmatic child an opportunity to participate in supervised physical and recreational activities in order to improve physical fitness and develop full physical potential. This will be done through special breathing exercises to increase respiratory capacity; by teaching the child how to respond to asthmatic attacks in order to minimize their severity; by teaching the child self-management of his asthma, in order to increase self-confidence.

There will be a registration fee, and parents will be required to participate in approximately five evening meetings of an educational nature.

The program is designed to augment a child's medical treatment, and approval by the child's physician will be required.

To register for this program, people may contact the Lung Association at 326;4081. Applications should be submitted by Oct. 7, 1974.

Rev. Collins appointed rector

The board of trustees of Saint Sebastian's School, Newton, has appointed Rev. Frederick J. Collins to succeed the late Rev. Msgr. John F. X. Harney as rector for the new school year which began Sept. 9.

Fr. Collins is a priest of the Boston Catholic Archdiocese who has taught mathematics and science for 10 years at St. Sebastian's and has been academic headmaster for the past four years. He is a graduate of Northeastern University and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

After studying at St. John's Seminary, Brighton, he was ordained to the priesthood in 1955 by Richard Cardinal Cushing.

St. Sebastian's has 326 students enrolled for this year in grades 7-12.

Cleaner lungs for children

Swallowing chips of leaded paint is not the only cause of lead poisoning in children. Car exhaust is also a culprit, says the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association.

Lead concentrations in the blood of more than 5,000 children were measured by a research team from Rutgers University and the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. Comparisions were made for children living close to a major traffic street and those living farther away.

The researchers found that children living near a major traffic street had much higher levels of lead in their blood than those living a block or more away. The findings were reported in a recent publication of the American Medical Association.

"Our findings not only indict present automobile emissions," the report concluded, "but argue for a realistic planning policy that can effectively reduce these types of emissions, or alternatively, shunt heavy traffic away from areas of high-population density."

Improved public transportation is one alternative. According to Russell E. Train of the government's Environmental Protection Agency, public transit is, on the whole, about 25 times cleaner than individual auto use. Restricting auto travel in the cities and improving public transit, he estimates, would save 8 million gallons of gas every day.

Cleaning up the air in our cities can give them a new lease onlife. And also help protect the lungs of children–and adults–who now live near the traffic. Find out more about the fight for cleaner air. Contact your lung association at 326-4081. It's a matter of life and breath.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

KILLING TOUGH BUGS—Two of the toughest insects you have to fight on house plants are white flies and mealybugs. Actually, the home gardner doesn't have good insecticides to fight these toughies, but don't despair. Right in your own kitchen or bath room are two good items to kill these bugs.

White flies are a sucking insect which congregate on the undersides of leaves. At temperatures of 85 degs. F. the life cycle is complete in about two weeks, making it tougher to eradicate completely.

Dozens of gardeners are using liquid dishwashing detergent as a contact insecticide at the rate of four teaspoons per gallon of water, using a 1 quart plastic trigger sprayer. Even the low-priced liquid detergents sold in supermarkets under their own brand names are suitable.

The detergent kills aphids, certain other bugs, cabbage worms, some thrips, white fly larvae and adults. Some gardeners even claim that the detergent will also control red spider mites.

Dishwasher detergent is harmless to humans and does not injure established plants. It's harmless to pets and wildlife.

To fight mealybugs and scale, a product in your bathroom—hair spray—is useful as a control. As you know, mealy bugs and scale are covered with a waxy coat of armor. Hair spray directed against these armored insects will get into every nook and cranny, and penetrate the coat of wax. A greenhouse operator, writing in UNDER GLASS magazine writes: "I soak the infected plants with the spray, and it does the trick. I keep a can in the greenhouse always.

And don't forget those cigar and cigarette butts. They make a good bug killer. Soak the butts in water until you get a brown liquid. Pour a little on the soil surface of your houseplants and watch how quickly it dispatches springtails,nsymphyllids, and other underground pests. This juice is good for spraying on aphids also.

Green Thumb Clinic—"We have some fruit trees which always grow so tall we can't pick fruit from them. Would it do any harm to cut the tops off? When's the best time?

Ans.: It's perfectly safe to top your fruit trees. In fact, many commercial growers "bob" the tops to make spraying and picking easier. Best time to do this is in late fall or during the winter months. Don't worry about painting the cut surface. Just make sure the cut is made flush, so no stub will stick out and delay healing, or encourage rot.

Better biking

Bicycle sales have tripled during the last decade. Deaths and accidents on bikes have doubled.

Biking is a pollution-free way to travel. It can also be fun, healthy, and cheap. But our auto-addicted society has built very few bikeways so far. Cyclists have to straddle car traffic.

Bike riders are supposed to observe most of the regulations and signals meant for cars. But too many don't. A recent study of accidents involving bicycles and cars in Santa Barbara, California, showed that bikers had violated the traffic laws in almost 70 percent of the cases. The most common violation was not obeying stop signs.

Another report by the Oregon State Highway Division also showed that bikers made far more errors than drivers did. Most accidents happened because bikers didn't yield the right of way, used the wrong arm signals or none at all when they turned, rode on the wrong side, and ignored stoplights. And last year a study of 600 bicycle accidents, which was cnducted by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, showed that two-thirds of the accidents resulted from riding double on bikes designed for one, performing stunts, losing control of braking, and hitting bumps and ruts.

Safer cycling is possible. Observing regulations helps a lot. Seeing and being seen–by cars, pedestrians, and other bikers–is absolutely essential. Bright bike banners on tall flagstaffs are coming into style. And so is reflective tape that is fluorescent day and night. Keeping bikes in good condition is important too; 20 percent of accidents are caused by mechanical and structural failures.

Better biking is one way to cut car exhaust and fight air pollution. Contact your lung association about other ways to help curb pollution. It's a matter of life and breath.

Temple Emeth to mark its 35th anniversary

Leo Rabinovitz, overall chairman of the 35th Anniversary Committee, announced a series of events for this 35th year of Temple Emeth.

LEO RABINOVITZ

The start of the festivities was a testimonial dinner for Joseph Miller, president of the Temple for the past three years. He was presented a portrait of himself for his devoted service by Incoming President Herbert L. Shivack.

Rabinovitz further stated that Mr. and Mrs. Morris Ellis, who were among the original founders of the Temple were to be the Honorees of the Journal. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis are being honored for their faithful and continued service to the Temple and the community over these many years.

Among the coming events Rabinovitz listed are consecration service for new students on Sept. 30; the Temple play "Fiddler on the Roof," the PTA Harvest Ball during November, and the 35th anniversary banquet that will take place in mid April.

Temple Beth Avodah Yom Kippur program

In a special Yom Kippur program, the Temple Choir and Youth Group of Temple Beth Avodah will perform at 9:05 p.m. on WBZ f.m., Sunday, Sept. 22.

The most serious Holy day of the Hebrew year is Yom Kippur. It is a time of fasting and soul searching, repentance and worship. Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, Jews all over the world will listen to the strains of the Kol Nidre, aware of promises left unfulfilled, goals that have not been attained.

At Temple Beth Avodah, the worship service will be introduced by Werner Gans playing Ernest Bloch's poignant "Kol Nidre" on the cello, accompanied by the Temple organist, Helen Gordon. Cantorial soloist, Frederick Shapiro, will chant the Kol Nidre. Rabbi Robert Miller has chosen as the text for his sermon, "Sons and Daughters."

The next morning, worship service will recommence at 10:30 a.m. The Junior Service for young people from grade 4 through age 13 will be held in the Library Chapel. In the Sanctuary, Rabbi Miller will lead the congregation in prayer on the Day of Atonement. His sermon will concern "The Art of Being a Jew." During the Memorial service, selections from the Holocaust literature will be read. The childrens' service for the youngsters of pre-kindergarten age through grade 3 will be held in the Sanctuary at 3:15 p.m.

At sundown, after worshipping together, the Temple family will brak the fast, together.

Livezey to lecture

A lecture will be given by Glen C. Livezey, a Christian Science practitioner from Chicago and a member of the Christian Science board of lectureship, on Thursday, Sept. 26 at 8 p.m.

His talk, "Let Your Basis Be Love," will be delivered in the Wellesley Junior High School auditorium, Kingsbury Street, Wellesley.

The public is welcome, and child care will be provided during the hour talk.

Before entering the public practice of Christian Science in 1967, Livezey held executive positions in advertising for 15 years.

During his business career, he established a consulting firm and also served as publication director and president of an appliance trade magazine.

Livezey's lecture is being sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Wellesley. Local arrangements are being coordinated by Mrs. Judith R. Erikson.

Church to celebrate anniversary

Myrtle Baptist Church of West Newton is a black congregation west of Boston of about 200 members. The Church was established in 1874 by ex-slaves and freedmen who migrated North.

From this beginning, the Church has continued to function as a spiritual base as well as a social and civic center for the black community.

In honor of this historic date the church has chosen its annual awards banquet, Oct. 20, to begin its 100th anniversary year colebration.

The guest speaker will be Lovell Dyett, executive producer and host of "The Sixteen 74 Show."

Rev. Harold A. Pulley, Pastor invites former members, friends of Myrtle and the entire community to be guests.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Church office - 332-5870 or 332-0810. Adults $10, children $5.00.

Second Baptist Church to have commissioning service

On Sunday, Sept. 22, at 7 p.m., there will be a commissioning service at the Second Baptist Church of Newton Upper Falls to set apart Linda Johnson of Needham for service as a short-term missionary in New Guinea with Wycliffe Bible Translators.

Speaking at the service will be Bob Vetter, former director of the Needham YMCA and now assistant to the president at Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary in South Hamilton, Mass.

Ms. Johnson graduated from Needham High School and Bryant and Stratton. She has been employed by Ratheon since graduation and will be used as support staff at the Wycliffe base in Ukarumpa, New Guinea.

Walk for Youth Sunday, Oct. 20

Troops from the Massachusetts Army National Guard, Newton Armory, 1137 Washington street, were presented with the "Service To Youth" Award for their effective part in the state-wide March for Disadvantaged Youth.

On Sunday, Oct. 20, members of the National Guard, on a volunteer basis, along with civilian volunteers, leave on a 12-mile hike that will start and end at the Newton Armory, 1137 Washington street. Departure time is 9 a.m.

Volunteer walkers should contact their local armory for walking kits at their earliest convenience.

Horizons For Youth, an affiliate of Kiddie Kamp, established in 1938, has served over 40,000 needy and deserving boys and girls throughout the Commonwealth.

Barbara Melvin Lost 225 Pounds at Gloria Stevens Figure Salon
Since Nov. 3, 1972, Barbara Melvin of Haverhill, Mass. has lost 225 pounds. Two years ago, Barbara's doctor told her she would die if she did not lose weight. She was desperate. She gave Gloria Stevens a try, and the photographs above tell her dramatic story.
Barbara's comment: "If I can do it, then anyone can."

N.A.A. Lions beat Brookline, 38-0

The N.A.A. Lions opened their league season in resounding fashion by overwhelming the Brookline Rams 38-0 last Sunday at Newton Highlands Playground.

The Lions, who dropped two non-league encounters to Norwood and Framingham, had a lot of people believing that they would be "passed by" in the 1974 Suburban League race. But, with all the experimenting over, it appears that the Lions will be a difficult team to beat.

The Lions opened the scoring on their first scries of the game. Halfback Rich Filler, who gained 126 yards in the first half, blasted over left tackle for a 64-yard touchdown jaunt. The hole was opened by tackle Tony Amicangioli, end Scott Seidman, halfback Paul Butters and fullback Jack Fortl. Halfback Paul Butters tallied the conversion points over right tackle.

The Lions defense forced a Brookline fumble that was recovered by Paul Butters at the Ram 25. The Lions' offense advanced the ball to the 15 where Filler scored on the identical off tackle play he first scored on. The attempted pass conversion failed.

Brookline ensuing series was no different than their first one. On first down, a hard hit by defensive end Jack Forti forced a fumble which was recovered by Jim Schmidlein. The Lion offinse stalled, however, and ralinquished the ball at its own 45.

The Lion defense roared to life and forced Brookline back to its own 47 where it was forced to punt. Lion endds Jack Forti and Paul DeLuca converged on the kicker and blocked the punt which gave the Lions a first down at the Tam's 41.

Five plays later, Filler turned left end for a29-yard T.D. sweep. Halfback Paul Butters tallied the points after over right tackle for a 22-0 second period advantage.

The lead increased to 30-0 when Paul Butters returned a punt 60 yards down the right sideline behind a wall of blockers. Throwing key blocks on the run were John Kane and Jim Schmidlein. Quarterback Tim Hoban rushed the points on a sneak to cap the first-half scoring.

The Lions' second offensive and defensive units played the whole second half with some surprising results. On defense, they ensured the shutout; on offense, in the fourth period, the second group went 45 yards in nine plays. It scored when Rick Shone burst over from the three. Quarterback Charlie Slack hit end Doug Jackson for the conversion to finish the scoring at 38.

The starting offensive line, which has really started to gell, includes center John Kane, guards John Williams dnd Jason Michaels, and tackles Jim Schmidlein and Tony Amicangioli, who is the smallest starting tackle ever for the N.A.A. at 107 pounds.

Jack Forti was pressed into the starting fullback role when Greg Cooper was slightly injured. Noel Foley and Paul Butters continue to play superbly at linebacker. Jason Michaels and Scott Seidman improved their performance significantly.

The Junior Midget Tigers tied their Brookline counters 6-6 on a Scott Buffington score. The N.A.A. Cowboys lost to Brookline, 26-0.

This Sunday, the Lions and Tigers travel to Featherland Park to meet the Sudbury Warriors.

North unbeaten after three games

By BARRY SILVERSTEIN

Newton North's varsity soccer team has started defense of tis Suburban League title with three straight victories.

The Tigers, who are weeking their sixth consecutive championship, scored successive wins over Rindge Tech, 4-1, Weymouth South, 8-0, and Cambridge Latin, 1-0. They now look to a pivotal game with unbeaten Brockton on Friday.

Against Rindge, the Newton goals were scored by Jeff Silton, John Williams, Joe DeLorenzo, and Joe Moussalli. Coach Mike Buzzi cited halfbacks George Jessup and Silton, and fullback Matt Berry as outstanding playser in the game.

Newton scored six times in the first half against Weymouth South. Kim Hatton scored three times in the game, while Moussalli had two goals, and single goals were scored by Ken Halloran, Alan Freedom, and Sami Fam. Buzzi praised the play of Jessup, Mark Vassalotti, Berry, and Williams.

Buzzi was happy following the Weymouth South game, but warned his team against overconfidence since neither Rindge or Weymouth South are recognized as contenders for the laague title.

Buzzi said that he would be better able to judge the team after the Cambridge Latin game.

The Cambridge game turned out much as expected. It was an even game, and the only goal was scored by Newton's Freedman in the third quarter.

It was a costly victory for Newton, however, as junior halfback Doug Jessup suffered a broken nose and could be out for some time.

Buzzi felt that Newton did not play its best game, but was "encouraged by the play of the substituted who came in a tough situation." He singled out halfback Greg Buck, who he said "DID AN OUTSTANDING JOB." Buzzi also mentioned Moussalli, Williams, sophomore Bill Gerlach, and Berry, who played outstanding soccer in the first half before being hurt in the second half. Berry is expected to be ready for Friday's game.

Rick Olin played superbly in goal.

On Friday, Newton travels to Brockton for a game with the only other unbeaten team in the Suburban League. Brockton was the only team to beat Newton during the regular season last year, defeating the Tigers 3-2 at Brockton on a rain-drenched field. Although it is still early in the season, Friday's contest is a key game for both teams.

Newton's next home game will be against Weymouth North on Monday, Sept. 23. Newton's home games are played at Allison Field, behind the McDonald's on California Street.

B.C. loses to mighty Texas, 42-19

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

CHESTNUT HILL — The traffic jam on Rte. 9 was piling up as early as 6:15 p.m. The traffic on Beacon Street was inching along as early as 5:45 p.m.

The massive parking lot adjacent to Boston College's Alumni Field was crammed with cars, well-dressed alumni, Texans sporting 10-gallon hats, and families and students roasting hot dogs and chugging beer.

Little kids, just as they do at Bruins games, were accosting approaching fans, begging for extra tickets.

The whole thing looked like a cross between a carnival and a "You've got a lot to live" commercial.

This was the social event of the season, the season being the college football season, on a cool, clear Saturday night in mid-September.

The Boston College Eagles, this area's only contribution to major college football, was trying to enhance its virtually non-existent national reputation by locking horns, so to speak, with Texas, one of the schools which made college football what it is today — big business.

Thirty-two-thousand fans, the most ever to jam the stadium, were on hand to learn whether Boston College really was stepping in way over its head this time, or whether just maybe the Eagles would catch Darrell Royal's bunch in a slightly complacent mood.

The chances of that, of course, were considerably slimmer than they might have been last year. Last year Miami gave the then-number one ranked Longhorns the surprise of their lives by upsetting them on opening day. This time Texas would be a little more cautious.

The oddsmakers, for one group, didn't expect any miracles. Their varying predictions gave the game ball toTexas by 17-to-20 points.

Boston College was a team of believers, though, and when the Eagles won the coin toss and the privilege to receive, the entire team was so psyched it burst into spontaneous jumping exercises.

The Eagles looked good from the opening kickoff with junior quarterback Mike Kruczek running the club for the first time, backs Mike Esposito and Keith Barnette plowing through the vaunted Texas front wall, and the defense, led by linebacker Alex MacLellan, handling the Longhorn backfield with ease.

After Texas quarterback Marty Akins tucked the ball under his arm, and dashed down the sidelines for an apparent 60-yard touchdown, the play was called back on an off-sides penalty.

The BC fans were going bananas as time ran out in the first quarter with the backs hammering down the field and Kruczek tossing completions to flanker Howie Richardson, this year's answer to Mel Briggs. But the drive stalled and the fans didn't know it, but the high-point of the effort was over.

Kicker Fred Steinfort and his magically blessed toe booted a 17-yard field goal for a 3-0 BC lead.

One-and-a-half minutes later it looked like another break for the Eagles when Akins was clobbered and had to be carried from the field on a stretcher. Akins never returned and didn't even regain consciousness until the half, but his replacement Mike Presley came on and immediately made like that venerable pro relief pitcher Earl Morrall.

Within moments he lofted a 52-yard pass to Kevin Scott at the BC nine and seconds later scored from the one himself to give Texas the lead for good.

The second quarter was catostrophic for BC and Texas went into the locker room up 21-3.

Gloom was settling in on the fans.

Not only were the Texas freshmen backs, Earl Campbell and Gralyn Wyatt, ridding themselves of boyish inhibitions in their first college game, but they insured that All-America fullback Roosevelt Leaks would never have to take a step in anger.

Leaks, whose torn up knee was sufficiently healed to allow him to appear at midfield for the coin toss, didn't come on the field again.

Although BC pulled itself together after the awful second quarter and ended up gaining almost as much yardage as Texas (424-422), the game was really over by halftime.

The real back-breaker came at the start of the third quarter after another Steinfort kick, this time from 45 yards.

Raymond Clayborn, a defensive back, was the third man to touch the ball on a razzle-dazzle, kickoff return, and just blew past everyone for 98 yards and a 28-6 Texas margin.

Texas kept running in new people and running up the score, though BC added two more touchdowns on short runs by Kruczek and Barnette,and it finally ended at 42-19, just about what most people expected.

Presley, in true Chip Hilton fashioned, was easily the game's MVP with three completions for 65 yards and 97 yards rushing for an 8.8 average.

He was happy, but contrite in the locker room afterwards.

"I'm very fortunate," he said, while sitting on a table soaking wet wearing only a towel. "The team was awfully strong. Everyone did an excellent job blocking.

"We had a lot of respect for Boston College coming into the game and I still respect them."

It is always fascinating to talk to a living legend, particularly when that legend has just been enhanced.

Darrell Royal was at least diplomatic and at times positively gushy about his experiences in Boston, but one thing he was sure of was that his team was better.

"I have tremendous respect for coach Joe Yukica and his staff," drawled Royal to a gaggle of writers. "Boston College was not outcoached tonight. It was outpersonneled.

"We were plenty serious for this game. We lost our opener to Miami lastyear. I was nervous. I felt we had a beter team and we could win. I thought we played errorless ball, just one turnover."

Presley, a senior, who has sat on the bench much of his career, also drew plaudits from the boss.

"Presley played an outstanding ballgame," said Royal. "I'm glad to see it. He's waited a long time. He has the talent. I'm very happy for Mike."

One of the strange aspects of the game, Royal felt, was the positively royal reception of his team by the fans.

"I never had fans thank me for bringing my team to play before," he said "Even after the game numerous people sait it. I feel good about that."

South undefeated in soccer pre-season

By MARK SHUSTER

It is hoped that this year's Newton South soccer team will not be a carbon copy of last year's team.

The early signs are similar as the team has gone undefeated in the pre-season as last year's team did. But something went wrong last year. Some say it was individualism by the players which caused a disappointing season, while others say it was bad breaks. Whatever it was, it is hoped that the result, a 3-8-2 record will not be the same this year.

The Lions have looked extremely good in their four scrimmages. They defeated B.C. High, 1-0; battled to a 3-3 deadlock with Winchester; defeated Arlington, 4-0; and tied the Brandeis freshmen, 3-3.

Many players have looked good in the pre-season, especially Lenny Kraicer, Michael Stoller, Jim Goldfarb, and Mike Lafferty.

The team has chosen John Bamel, Ray McKinney and Lafferty as its tri-captains who will lead the Lions through the Dual County League schedule.

South must consider Lincoln-Sudbury, a perennial league powerhouse, Concord-Carlisle, and Weston as the teams to beat this year. Action-Boxboro, Bedford, and Wayland are other league teams which should not be taken lightly.

In an attempt to insure depth on the team, Coach Ophair Caras has decided to keep 25 players on the varsity squad. The starting line-up is shaping up to be the following:

Other players who should see a lot of action include Jay Reubens, Corey Rosenfield, Brian Levy, Jay Labourene, Humberto Fagundes, and Ron Litwin.

South's regular season begins Friday at home against Acton-Boxboro.

"Philatelic Center" coming to Newton

A special mobile "Philatelic Center" vehicle, fully stocked with dozens of items of possible interest to local stamp collectors, will be at the Newton Centre Post Office on Sept. 27, from 10 a.m. to noon, according to an announcement by Dave Henry, the manager of the post office.

The "Philatelic Center" will also be at the following location in this ares: King's Department Store parking lot on Sept. 27, 1-4 p.m.

"We are extending an invitation to the thousands of stamp collectors and 'would-be collectors' in the Newton area to visit the special philatelic vechicle which will be stocked with a large supply of various commemorative stamps, starter kits, souvenir mint sets, American commemorative panels and the latest edition of "Stamps & Stories," a full color, pocket size book, containing information on more than 2,000 United States and United Nations stamps," the manager stated.

Postal Service market surveys indicate that approximately 16 million Americans, young and old, collect postage stamps, a hobby known as philately.

"Philately is an educational hobby that should be encouraged, especially among the young people," the manager stated. "In these days when we all need to be reminded of our American heritage, the study of stamps can be rewarding. A stamp collection sketches the history of our nation and its many accomplishments."

Henry announced that his office will continue to carry a well-stocked supply of philatelic items for the convenience of local collectors. For a complete stock of available philatelic items, postal customers are urged to visit the newly established "Philatelic Center" located in the lobby of the General Post Office, corner of Milk and Devonshire Streets, in downtown Boston. The center is open Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Cross-country season begins today

By TOM HIGHTOWER

In two practice meets, the Newton North cross-country team has looked strong and fared well.

In the first meet against Natick, Tom Hightower and Duncan Scott came in first and second, but the team lost 27 to 29. Owen Kupferschmid was unable to compete in the meet. Over the summer, Kupferschmid experienced heat stroke, and now he can only run in meets when the temperature is less than 75 degrees. On the day of the Natick meet, the temperature was 85. Kupferschmid had to be content with cheering his teammates on.

The next meet was run on Monday, Sept. 16, against Needham (two years ago Needham was state champion) in perfect weather. With the Newton team at full strength, it defeated Needham, 19 to 40. Newton got the first three places as Hightower, Kupferschmidt, and Scott all broke the 14-minute barrier. Newton also picked up eighth and ninth places with strong performances by Jon Black and Howard Pearce.

Newton looks to be a top contender for the Suburban League title. On Thursday, Sept. 19, Newton will run its first official race of the season against Waltham.

The members of the team who have joined since school started are: Tom Baker, Steve Cohen, Dave Friedman, Bill Hughes.

The varsity includes: Jon Biack, John Carleo, Hightower, Mark Laredo, Howard Pearce, Rich Schilder, Duncan Scott, Michael White, Allen Yun and Kopferschmid.

WIN IS NO HELP

BOSTON (UPI) — Ilie Nastase, defending Commercial Union Champion, failed to improve on his sixth-place position in this year's standings despite winning the $50,000 Perspectus Tennis Tournament at Cedar Grove, N.J., it was announced Tuesday.

The fiery Romanian broke out of a two-and-a-half month slump with the win, but still remains 53 points behind Stan Smith, who is in fifth place.

Guillermo Vilas from Argentina holds a slim lead over Jimmy Connors for the top spot in the standings, 495-456. Bjorn Borg, the U.S. Professional Champion from Sweden, is right behind Connors with 449 points.

Whalers start camp Saturday

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — A healthy Terry Caffery and NHL defector Fred O'Donnell will be among 30 players reporting Saturday to the New England Whalers' World Hockey Association training camp at Wesleyan University.

Caffery, rookie of the year two seasons ago when he scored 100 points, is fully recovered from a knee injury that sidelined him for the entire 1973-74 schedule. O'Donnell signed with the Whalers last spring but sat out the remainder of the season after jumping from the Boston Bruins ratherd than accept a trade to the Vancouver Canucks of the NHL.

Veterans Tom Webster, Rick Ley and Brad Selwood will be absent from opening workouts, playing instead for Team Canada against the Russians.

Among the hopefuls at camp will be former Swedish National team members Thommy and Christer Abrahamsson. Thommy is a fast skating forward while twin brother Christer is a goalie.

Among those veterans expected to report will be goalie Al Smith, centers Larry Pleau and Tom Williams, forwards Tim Sheehy, Mike Byers, John French, Tom Earl and John Danby and defensemen Ted Green, Jim Dorey and Paul Hurley.

Four-ball tournament held at Chestnut Hill Country Club

Libbie Lipman and Phyllis Fredd were winners in the A flight of the fall four-ball tournament at Chestnut Hill Country Club.

In B flight, Gladys Eisman and Helen Wecker were victorious. Libby Brodney and Bernice Snyder were winners in C flight.

In D flight, Amy Brass and Trudy Sokolove triumphed.

FIRE SIGNS KELLY

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Fire announced Tuesday that Leroy Kelly, the fourth leading career rusher in the National Football League, has signed and will play against the Memphis Southmen Wednesday night.

A look at the National Football League

By BRUCE BOYNICK

The 1974 National Football League season will be characterized by innovation and controversy. It will feature rule changes, competition with the fledgling World Football League, and dispute between club owners and the players after the oft publicized preseason strike.

The rule changes will incorporate more offense and excitement into what has been a kicking man's game. The goalposts have been moved back ten yards, as in college, and missed field goals (past the 20 yard line) now come back to the line of scrimmage. The season will be "kicked-off" at the 35 yard line instead of the forty, almost ensuring a return of the kickoff.

The punting game has been altered in favor of the return, and on offense, those 15-yard holding penalties that ruined many a drive are a thing of the past. The modification of the bump and run will allow teams with fleet receivers to bring the "bomb" back to the game. Weeb Ewbank once said, "a tie is like kissing your sister." Well, the rule changes have also solved that problem with a sudden death fifth quarter in the event of a tie.

The season promises to be an exciting one. Miami, rulers of the NFL for two years running, is having its problems. Team dissension, an inconsistent preseason, and an opening day loss to the Patriots indicate the Dolphins may not be the best anymore. If not, look out for the Raiders and Rams. Now a preview of this much awaited 1974 season.

It's no secret that Miami will win the AFC Eastern division. How convincingly they do it will indicate the team's post season playoff chances. For despite the dissension caused by Csonka, Kiick, Warfield, and a host of others who said they were jumping to the rival WFL next year, Miami is still one of the best teams in football. Filling up the Orange Bowl remains the only problem for a team that is strong at every position.

The Buffalo Bills have come a long way. In a few short years they've gone from division cellar dweller to Miami's bridesmaid. And bridesmaid they'll remain. Buffalo's only hope for a playoff birth is the wild card. Winners of nine games last year, the playoffs are more than a remote possibility for the Bills.

The Buffalo offense is top flight. The Bills have one of the best receiving corps in the game with speedsters J. D. Hill and Ahmad Rashad (Bobby Moore). And coach Lou Saban need not rely on them with a running tandem of Jim Braxton and a fellow named Orenthal James Simpson.

Buffalo has one of the finest offensive attacks in the league, but defense still remains a problem. The linebacking is unproven, and the defensive backfield, which employs bump and run tactics, will be hurt by the new ruling. But Buffalo is not far from the top and could most definitely challenge the likes of Cincinnati, and Denver as the wild card team.

Despite that stunning 34-24 conquest of the World Champion Dolphins last Sunday, the New England Patriots will have their troubles. With a remaining schedule that features such powerhouses as Miami, Los Angeles, Minnesota, Oakland, Pittsburgh, and Buffalo the Pats will have trouble improving upon last year's 5-9 record. Jim Plunkett is one of the best, and has a capable line and an abundance of fine receivers, but any similarities between the Pats and a winning team end here.

Rounding out the division, the Colts are lame, and the Jets without Joe Namath are like a team without many victories.

Cincinnati's final contest of the year is against Pittsburgh. The teams are so close that the Central Division title could very well be decided on that season finale. The Bengals have matured into one of the finest teams in the league. An explosive offense is one of the main reasons. Boobie Clark, lastyear's rookie of the year, is one of the best backs in football and fleet receiver Isaac Curtis, who averaged almost 20 yards a catch last year, should be unstoppable with the new bump and run regulations. The Bengal defense, led by All-Pro Mike Reid, Sherm White and Ron Carpenter is strong at every position.

In Pittsburgh, Chuck Knoll's Steelers could have some problems. The defense is still tops, boasting the best front four in the game, but the offense is suspect. At quarterback, Terry Bradshaw and Joe Gilliam areoverrated, and the offensive line and running backs aren't much better than mediocre. If Bradshaw or Gilliam can develop any consistency, gifted rookie receivers Lynn Swann and sleeper John Stallworth will put desperately needed points on the board.

In the past, the AFC Central has been a three team race. Well, Cleveland recently dropped out of that race. Quarterback Mike Phipps has never reached his potential, the offensive line is poor, and the defense is spotty. Houston, winner of two games in two years, would have trouble maintaining a winning record in an octogenarian league.

The Oakland Raiders are a sure bet to win the AFC West. With the best record in football over the past decade, Oakland is better than ever. The offense is simply awesome. Replete with running backs and receivers, outstanding quarterback Ken Stabler is protected by one of the finest lines in the game. Young star Phil Villapiano and veteran Dan Connors lead a top notch defensive unit.

Following Oakland are formidable Denver and veteran Kansas City. Denver just missed the playoffs last season and has definite wild card possibilities this year. But the Broncos will have a hard time of it with a schedule that features the Raiders (tiwce), Rams, Redskins, and Steelers. And in Kansas City, the Chiefs aren't exactly on thewarpath but then again, they're not quite ready to bite the dust. Old cliches? Well maybe they are the best way to describe an aging team bordering on mediocrity. The Chiefs are a band of familiar faces that haven't gone many places since that Super Bowl year a half decade ago. As for the Chargers, they're the 26th best team in football.

In the NFC East, Washington and Dallas will battle it out, even though both will make the playoffs. The Redskins, so the experts say, have been over-the-hill for years. Well, as usual, there's no reason to believe them this season. The Redskins are strong everywhere, except the offensive line, which is weak.

In Dallas, the Cowboys appear a step better. On paper, they are the best team in football. On offense, Roger Staubach was the top NFL passer last year, statistically. And the defense is so good, lastyear's number one pick in the draft, Ed Jones, may not start. The Cowboys' main problem will be maintaining morale, an annual problem at Dallas.

Like the Patriots, Philadelphia combines a potent offense with a weak defense, which amounts to a team that won't go far. Quarterback Roman Gabriel, a seasoned veteran, is one of the best. He has great receivers in Harold Carmichael and Charles Young, but this team will never threaten without a respectable defense.

While Philadelphia will not finish near Dallas and Washington, they will not finish near St. Louis or New York either. The Cards are impotent and not even New Haven deserves the Giants.

It's highly improbable that Minnesota will have any trouble in the Central Division. But like Oakland, the Super Bowl trophy has always eluded them. This is the same Viking team that lost to Dallas in the NFC hampionship a year ago. The aging defense is perhaps a shade weaker, but the development of second year sensation Chuck Formeman at running back should compensate. Tarkenton to Gilliam remains one of the best aerial tandems in the game.

After Minnesota there isn't much. Detroit, Green Bay and Chicago might all finish below .500. The Lions are old and overrated, the Pack is going nowhere without a quarterback, and the Bears have been hibernating.

Unless Los Angeles sinks into the Pacific, the Rams will run away with the divisional title. More than that, 1974 could be the year of the Ram. Last year the Rams led the league in team offense and defense, and finished with a 12-2 record, their two losses by a total of three points. A team with no weaknesses, the Rams have second string players that would start on most other teams.

Like Minnesota, the Rams also have the luxury of playing in a division with three weak teams. Atlanta is faltering, and San Francisco and New Orleans are flat.

The playoffs? How about Miami, Oakland, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati from the AFC, and Dallas, Washington, Minnesota and Los Angeles from the NFC. The Super Bowl? Why not Los Angeles over Oakland by a touchdown. We'll see come mid-January.

Eagles still number one

BOSTON (UPI) — Even the overpowering Texas offense can't hurt Boston College's football reputation in New England.

The Eagles, with a week off to smooth their feathers following a 42-19 plucking by Texas, received eight of 10 first-place ballots cast to head New England major colleges in the first weekly UPI Coaches poll.

Boston College collected 43 points to 35 for runnerup Dartmouth, which doesn't open until Sept. 28 against Massachusetts. Dartmouth, second to Boston College in the preseason poll, will be after a sixth straight Ivy League championship.

Yale, rated a contender for the Ivy crown this season, picked up 17 points in light voting to finish third. The Eli open Sept. 28 against Yankee Conference champion Connecticut. Harvard, which opens Sept. 28 against Holy Cross, was fourth with 14 points.

Northeastern, 2-0, and Connecticut collected 11 points apiece to tie for fifth place. Northeastern plays at Rhode Island Saturday while Connecticut opens its season at home against Vermont.

Points are awarded on a descending scale, with a first-place vote worth five points.

WFL to stock up

THERE COULD BE SOME BIG SURPRISES IN THE World Football League beginning tonight.

WFL teams, after waiting for nearly six weeks, finally have gotten a chance to sign players dropped by National Football League clubs and quite a few of the have-not teams have been busy restocking their rosters.

Previous scouting reports and game films could be meaningless with all the new personnel filtering into the league. The NFL held on to massive 60-70 man rosters until last week when they reduced their limit to 47 players, making available about 300 players for the new league.

In tonight's games, Portland is at Jacksonville, Philadelphia at Florida, Memphis at Chicago, Detroit at Southern California and New York at The Hawaiians. Houston is at Birmingham in Thursday night's national television game.

With the season little more than half over, the close races are in the East and West while Southern California has surged to a three-gamehbulge in the West.

Florida, stunned by Detroit last week as the Wheels won their first game, is tied with the New York Stars for the Eastern lead. The Blazers, who have given up the fewest points (149) in the league, will get a big test in the passing of Philadelphia's King Corcoran.

New York, meanwhile, will be playing the first night game in Hawaii this season and the big time change could be a faator. The Hawaiians played their previous home games on Sunday afternoons but have switched to the Wednesday night format. The game will begin at 1:30 a.m. EDT.

Memphis, which trails once-beaten Birmingham by a game in the Central Division after ending the Americans' unbeaten string last week, will try to put Chicago into a hole.

Gardening courses at Horticultural Society

A new calendar of events for all gardening courses and activities of the Mass. Horticultural Society is now available to the general public at no cost.

The new calendar, which covers activities from Sept. 1974 through June, 1975, will be of interest to indoor and outdoor gardening enthusiasts.

The Horticultural Soceity will offer more than 50 courses over the nine-month period, ranging from "Basic Indoor Gardening" to "Care and Maintenance of Gardening Tools."

The schedule also includes a number of one-time lectures, to be held both during the day and at night; and a number of special events, such as a "Flower Arranging Free for All."

To obtain the free calendar, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to: Calendar, Mass. Horticultural Society, 300 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Ma. 02115.

Pups protest The Animal Rescue League of Boston's Canine Committee meets to protest the cancellation of National Dog Week, scheduled for Sept. 22-28. Even with the bite of a tight economy, their bark prevailed and the occasion will be marked with a week-long exhibit at the Burlington Mall.

Dog Week will be observed after all Sept. 22 through 28

Do away with Dog Week? You bet your dog biscuit they won't!

Despite recent notice that its sponsors have cancelled National Dog Week this year, the Animal Rescue League of Boston has announced that the local humane organization will proceed with its plans for the observance, traditionally held next week (September 22-28).

Highlight of the activities will be a week-long exhibit at the Burlington Mall in honor of man's best friend. Sponsored by the Concord Dog Training Club, the mall exhibit will feature demonstrations of dog grooming, dog training, breeding information and many other topics of interest to dog owners and dog lovers.

The Animal Rescue League exhibits at the Burlington Mall will includd a display of prize-winning animal photos, audio-visual presentations on a pet owner's responsibilities, a pet care information corner and literature on animal care and ownership. Visitors will also have a chance to climb aborad and inspect one of the League's new fleet of ambulances, used for collection and rescue work in Boston and several surrounding communities.

The purpose of National Dog Week, notes Dr. Carlton E. Buttrick, League president, "is to promote better care for pet dogs, and call attention to the plight of the hundreds of thousands of not-so-lucky dogs who have been abandoned, neglected and left homeless".

Anyone who can offer a loving secure home to one of these "underdogs" is invited to visit the League 's adoption center, Arlington & Tremont Sts. in Boston, Monday to Friday, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. or Saturdays mornings, 9-11 a.m. The League also operates adoption centers in Salem and Brewster.

A new look Bulldozers are at work on Incinerator Road, an access to the town incinerator and the Dedham Mall. The project includes a new road, sidewalks, landscaping and decorative lighting fixtures. The finished product will be a road that is pleasant and safe. Construction is being finances by Flatley Realty Investors, owners of the Dedham Mall. Because the new road will go over town property, an easement was granted to Flatley Realty Investors at the annual Dedham town meeting. The target date for completion is the week of September 23.

Series of Garbo films to open Sept.19 at Museum of Fine Arts

Greta Garbo, symbol of timeless beauty, will be in the spotlight at the Museum of Fine Arts September 19 through December 22. For the first time, outside of New York, all 26 existing Garbo films will be shown in the Museum's retrospective.

This unprecedented collection of Garbo classics provides an opportunity to study and evaluate one of the most amazing careers in film history. Playing a wide range of characters (from "Queen Christina" - 1933 to "Ninotchka" - 1939 from "Anna Christie" - 1930 to "Camille" - 1937) Garbo has consistantly appealed to all viewers for her sensitivity, dignity, and richness of emotion.

An independent woman on an off the screen, her personal life reflects the same breadth as the characters she portrayed. Working with such partners as John Barrymore, John Gilbert, Charles Boyer, Clark Gable and Robert Taylor, Garbo reigned as the ultimate Hollywood superstar from the 1920's until her departure from the screen in 1941.

The Museum of Fine Arts will present this outstanding series in conjunction with the International Museum of Photography at Eastman House, Rochester N.Y. The series has also received partial funding from the National Endowment for the Arts.

James Card, director of the Department of Film, Eastman House, will give one lecture at each of the four series and film notes will be distributed at each showing.

The Museum will screen these films in a four part series: Thursdays 7 p.m., Fridays 6 p.m., Saturdays 2:30 p.m. and Sundays 2:30 p.m. The complete Garbo film schedule at the MFA is as follows:

SERIES I - Thursdays 7 p.m.:

Sept. 19 The Temptress (1926, silent) with Antonio Moreno, Lionel Barrymore. Directed by Fred Niblo.

Sept. 26 Flesh and the Devil (1927, silent) with John Gilbert, Lars Hanson. Directed by Clarence Brown.

Oct. 3 A Woman of Affairs (1929, silent) with John Gilbert, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Directed by Clarence Brown.

Oct. 10 The Kiss (1929, silent) with Conrad Nagel, Lew Ayres. Directed by Jacques Feyder.

Oct. 17 Inspiration (1931) with Robert Montgomery, Lewis Stone. Directed by Clarence Brown.

Oct. 31 Grand Hotel (1932) with John and Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery. Directed by Edmund Goulding.

Nov. 7 The Painted Veil (1934) with Herbert Marshall, George Brent. Directed by Richard Boleslawski.

Nov. 14 Anna Karenina (1935) with Frederic March, Basil Rathbone. Directed by Clarence Brown.

Nov. 21 Camille (1937) with Robert Taylor, Henry Daniell, Lionel Barrymore. Directed by George Cukor.

Each program runs approximately 90 minutes. All silents are with music. Reductions are available for series subscriptions; individual tickets are sold at the door one hour piror to each performance.

For subscription and price information call 267-9300 ext. 395.

Vietnam-era veterans are eligible for G.I. insurance

Some 2.7 million Vietnam-era veterans are eligible for a new-low cost Veterans Group Life Insurance program which offers as much as $20,000 coverage for $3.40 per month to young veterans, but they must apply before August 1, 1975, according to William F. Connors, director of the Boston Veterans Administration office.

Connors pointed out that more than 68,000 Vietnam-era veterans in Massachusetts become eligible.

The nonrenewable, five-year term insurance is available for veterans discharged from military service since April 2, 1970.

Connors siad that the new Veterans Administration-supervised program, authorized May 24 under the Veterans Insurance Act, also offers coverage in amounts of $5,000, $10,000 and $15,000. Rates for the maximum $20,000 coverage are $3.40 per month for veterans aged 34 and under and $6.80 for those 35 and over.

Application forms for veterans discharged prior to August 1, 1974, are available from VA offices or from the Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102. Applicants must furnish evidence of good health. However, VA-rated service-connected disabilities will be waived.

Servicemen discharged after August 1 will receive application forms automatically, Connors pointed out. Personnel leaving active duty are permitted 120-premium-free days to convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to Veterans Group Life Insurance without medical examination.

TOPS Personnel Service opens office in Dedham

TOPS (Temporary Office Personnel Service) a division of Technical Aid Corporation of Waltham, Mass. and Hartford, Conn., opened its new Dedham offices this week in the Gobbi Building, 515 Providence Highway, (Route One) Dedham.

The newest suburban office for the firm will offer the same full-service placement techniques which have characterized its growth in TOPS' Boston and Burlington offices dealing exclusively with temporary clerical field personnel.

The local office situated conveniently just outside of Dedham Square will be managed by Ms. Barbara "Bobbie" Johnson, assisted by Ms. Cheryl Peterson. Also planning to be on hand frequently is TOPS division manager Joseph DiPietro.

DiPietro said that he and Tech-Aid officials Sal Balsamo and Ambrose Bonnano chose the Dedham site "because of the rapid industrial and commercial growth we've seen taking place in the southern Route 128 and South Shore areas." He noted that TOPS had already logged 25 women as clerical workers on the Dedham office payroll prior to the opening of the office.

Area residents, particularly women interested in learning more about TOPS opportunities, are invited to visit the office during this week's special Open House or call for information.

YMCA has course to make prents 'effective'

Parent Effectiveness Training heads a list of seven new adult courses offerec at the Newton YMCA this fall, registration for which is now taking place.

Mrs. Lynn Cavanaugh, of the nationally franchised Parent Effectiveness Training, Inc., teaches her course in methods of communication skills which aid parents. A professional counselor and experienced group leader, Ms. Cavanaugh focuses on skills to decrease resistance and conflict in the family. The workshop involves application of skills in group participation situations, spontaneous sharing of parental experiences, and the demonstration of learned skills through the use of tapes.

Also offered for the first time is weaving, as taught by Ms. Pamela Perry of Watertown. A number of simple techniques—including rigid heddles, "God's eyes," frame looms and cards—will be stressed. One session will even deal with dyeing the yarn used by students.

Creative needlework is also scheduled for the first time with Ms. Enid Mallock, who begins with a review of the basic stitches. Students then learn to adapt paintings, stamps, photographs, and other materials into designs to be worked with the needle. Transfers will be dealt with for those interested in more traditional work.

Another new arts and crafts offering is the art workshop, which is designed to involve students with a variety of art activities. After learning the fundamentals of drawing using charcoal, pencil, pen and ink, and pastels, students then apply their drawing skills to painting. Different painting styles are practiced, after which a number of sculpting techniques will be presented to round out the course. The sculpting portion will include the use of unusual materials such as plasticene and "junk."

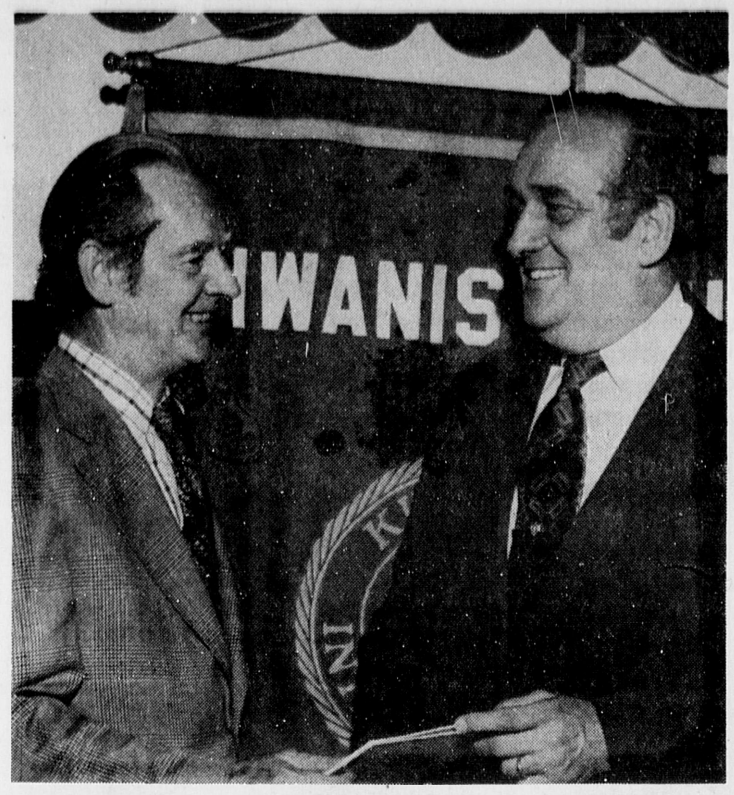

For those interested in 10 weeks of sculpture alone, a new course taught by exhibiting artist and teacher Sara Baker of Newton will be presented. Ms. Baker has instructed at the Center for Creative Living and at Wellesley Junior High School, and has shown her work on many occasions. In 1972 she won the "President's Prize" from the Cambridge Art Association for her limestone piece "Two." Her course will focus on work from a solid form, including plaster, stone and wood.

Ballet is another new class for adults who may or may not have had contact with this art form as children. Instructor John Duane, who teaches ballet and drama to children at the "Y," takes beginners through all basic positions. Among other credits, Duane has danced with Warner Bros. Studios.

Other dance courses offered include ballroom dancing—fox trot, tango, waltz, cha cha and other—and modern dance. Ms. Nikki Van Duser of the Joy of Movement Center in Cambridge is the new modern dance instructor Always a popular program at the "Y," Ms. Duser's course is both for those interesteed in modern dance as an art form and those desiring a chance to exercise creatively.

Some 16 other recreational, educational, and creative courses are offered at the "Y" including drawing, painting, flower arranging, enameling, indoor gardening, leaded glasswork, pottery, yoga, contract bridge, archeology, driver education, dressmaking, sewing, cooking, folk guitar, and a self-direction workshop for women.

For further information about any "Y" program, call 244-6050, or drop by the association at 276 Church St. in Newton Corner.

Appreciation The Newton Kiwanis Appreciation Award was presented to Judge Monte G. Basbas (right) by President Frederick Gibbons (left) after Judge Basbas addressed the club on changes within the court dentention system.

Retiring editor honored at dinner

Paul Heins of 29 Hope Street, Auburndale, retiring editor of "The Horn Book Magazine," was honored at a dinner at the Wellesley College Club on Friday, Sept. 6.

The dinner was attended by the Board of Driectors of The Horn Book, Inc., the council members, book reviewers, and staff, several of whom spoke in appreciation of Mr. Heins' contributions to "The Horn Book Magazine" during his editorship.

Heins has edited "The Horn Book Magazine" about children's books and reading since 1967 when he left Boston English High School where he had taught English for 20 years.

A magna cum laude graduate of Harvard College, he received a master's in education degree from Boston State College. In 1954-1955, Heins lived with his family in Oxford, England, where he studied Anglo-Saxon and medieval English and read contemporary English literature. For three summers he was a member of the Institute for Education through Vision at Phillips Academy, Andover.

A voracious reader of children's books as a child, Heins' reading of books to his children combined with a lifelong interest in literature, increased his knowledge and intensified his appreciation of children's literature. He was often asked by Ruth Hill Viguers, his prececessor, to review books of special literary quality for "The Horn Book Magazine." As editor, he is said to have brought a keen critical judgment to the reviewing of children's books that added to the value of the reviews.

The last issue to be edited by Heins will be the 50th anniversary issue to be published in October. The magazine was founded by Bertha Mahony Miller, director of The Bookshop for Boys and Girls in Boston in 1924. Her aim was to "spread the word of children's books beyond the Boston area." The magazine now goes to librarians and others interested in children's books in every state of the Union and in 62 countries abroad.

Heins will continue to review books for "The Horn Book Magazine" and devote a good deaal of time to writing and speaking on the subject of children's literature.

Service Centers offering many diverse activities

With the return of youngsters to school, the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc., is preparing itself for the start of another busy year.

Anthony J. Bibbo, executive director of the Centers, stated last week that brochures outlinging the agency's many activities have been mailed to city residents. The Centers are fortunate in that they will have numerous facilities at their disposal in which to conduct activities, and retain a staff of qualified and experienced personnel to run the program.

Among the Centers regular offerings is the "Ecole de la Danse" under the direction of Miss Phyllis Buda. The dancing school offers a schedule of graded classes in ballet set for regular progression from beginners through advanced.

Beginner and advanced tap classes will also be offered.

Added this year is "Young Jazz" for boys and girls nine years old andup. A brochure on all the above activities is available at the Centers office.

The creative arts program for children is once again directed by Mrs. Judy Kelleher. The primary goal of this activity is to stimulate children to explore art, and in this exploration, to build their awareness of themselves and the world around them. By presenting material to children from a range of subject areas, an attempt is made to increase the children's sensitivity to the sensory environment they experience.

The art of baton twirling offers young people an opportunity to participate in an increasingly popular, and enjoyable activity. Poise, bearing, grace, and physical dexterity are elements included in the classroom instruction offered by Mrs. Marjorie Gilbert.

A child center in West Newton at the First Unitarian Society, day care at the United Presbyterian Church, and the Headstart Program also at the Unitarian Church, will all be continued. Preschool youngsters three and up are included in these actvities.

A sampling of the large number of programs planned for youngsters include: an after-school day care program for grades 1-4, sewing classes, woodworking at all levels, drama group, boys club, girls club, cooking, crafts classes, crocheting and knitting, and the Saturday Camp - a camp for seven to twelve year olds conducted on Saturdays, including semi-weekly Friday overnights at the 1000 acre Hale Camping Reservation in Westwood.

Programs for teenagers include the Newton Youth Center, a youth run activity open to all high school aged citizens. Teenagers are encouraged to call the main office and help create their own programs.

The Youth Center also coordinates the Job Bank, a non-profit student employment service for those in the 13-22 age range. This service is free to both employer and employee. To list a job or file an application, people may drop in at 429 Cherry St., or call 969-5908.

Programs offered to adults range from women's craft class, mothers' clubs, sewing classes, movement and dance, golf school, multi-media experience, weight watchers, yoga cake decorating, ballroom dancing, Country Players drama group, senior citizen clubs, and woodworking, a new activity which will include basic woodworking skills and introduce minor home repairs techniques.

The Centers sponsor a Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) which provides volunteer work opportunities for persons over 60 years of age. Individuals are placed in programs of their choosing.

For additional information, or to register, people may phone or visit the Centers main office at 429 Cherry St., in West Newton or phone 969-5906. Office hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Ms. Pound on Pine Manor staff

Isabelle Pound, a resident of Brookline, has joined the staff of Pine Manor Junior College in Chestnut Hill this year as assistant director of the Open College.

Ms. Pound's experience in continuing education is both professional and personal. She holds a master's degree in education from Northeastern University and an M.Ed. in counseling from Boston College. She will continue advanced studies in counseling psychology at Boston College.

Ms. Pound was a long-time senior staff member at Ginn and Company, a Xerox Education Company.

The Open College is a special program for adults who do not wish to apply to Pine Manor as regular full-time degree candidates. They may enroll in regular Pine Manor courses or in special Open College seminars on subjects designed to apply to the current needs and interests of women.

Nelson and Bishop named to bank posts

Robert E. Nelson, manager of the Wayland office of the West Newton Savings Bank, has been advanced to assistant treasurer according to Kenneth W. Rogers, president of the institution.

The announcement followed a meeting fo the bank's trustees on Sept. 10.

Nelson, who joined the West Newton Savings in 1971, was previously associated for seven years with the Middlesex Institution for Savings in Concord.

He is a graduate of the School for Supervisory Personnel conducted by the Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts, the Branch Manager School and the Mortgage Lending School of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, and has completed courses given by the Mortgage Bankers Association.

He is currently attending the Graduate School of Savings Banking sponsored by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks at Brown University.

A resident of Acton, he is a member of the Finance Committee, Town of Acton Water District.

Trustees of the West Newton Savings Bank have also elected Stephen M. Bishop, Jr., an assistant treasurer, according to Rogers.

Bishop, a resident of 6 Standish Rd., Wellesley Hills, joined the bank on Sept. 3 where his present duties are primarily concerned with loans and internal operations. He was previously associated for five yeaars with the State Street Research and Management Co., Boston, prior to which he was employed by the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Co.

A graduate of Northeastern University with a B.S. in finance, he has also completed courses at Boston University, Burdett College, and Wentworth Institute.

In addition to past service with the United States Air Force Reserve, he is a past member of the Newton Jaycees and is currently a director of the Intercommunity Homemaker Service Inc.

Hector Cicchetti

A funeral mass was said Tuesday (Sept. 17) in Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, for Hector F. Cicchetti.

Mr. Cicchetti, 71, of the North End, died Friday (Sept. 13) in Framingham Union Hospital.

He was a corporation counsel for Boston when John Hynes was mayor. He also served as an assistant attorney and advisor to the Professional & Business Women's Lodge No. 2055 Order of the Sons of Italy.

He was a member of the Seaman's Friend Society and the founder of the Roma Club of Boston. He was also a member and officer of the Ansonia Council, Knights of Columbus, and past president of the Fillipo Corsi Society of Newton Centre.

Mr. Cicchetti is survived by his mother, Mrs. Anne Cicchetti of Boston and several nieces and nephews.

Burial is in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Herbert Gately

A funeral mass was to be said in Our Lady Help of Christians Church at 10 a.m. this morning (Sept. 19) for Herbert Gately.

Mr. Gately, 70, of 66 Walnut St., Newtonville, for 20 years active in the Norumbega Council, died Monday (Sept. 16) in Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Mr. Gately was a security guard at the Grover Cronin Store in Waltham. In scouting, he was awarded the St. George's Medal and the Scouter's Award, was unit commissioner and assistant district commissioner for the Norumbega Council and was treasurer of Troop No. 331 of Our Lady's.

He was a member of the Ushers' Club and the Holy Name Society at Our Lady's and was a monitor for the CCD at the church. He belonged to the Cheerio Club at Grover Cronin.

Mr. Gately is survived by his wife, Ada E. Gately; three sons, Thomas A. of Roslindale, Herbert F. Jr. and William J., both of Rhode Island; a daughter, Mrs. Jean Smith of Medfield; three brothers, two sisters and seven grandchildren.

Frederick and Bernadette Stolman

Frederick Stohlman, Jr., M.D., 48, of West Newton and his wife, the former Bernadette T. Bush, were among the victims of the crash of a Trans World Airliner, September 8, in the Ionian Sea, off the coast of Greece.

Dr. and Mrs. Stohlman were en route from Tel Aviv where the prominent hematologist and researcher had presented papers at the Congress of the International Society of Hematology, to Naples, where he was also slated to participate in an international hematology conference.

Dr. Stohlman, who was known throughout the world for his work in the field of blood cell production, was director of medicine and research at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, and professor of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Mrs. Stohlman was an active member of St. Elizabeth's Hospital Auxiliary.

Prior to joining St. Elizabeth's, Dr. Stohlman was a member of the staff of National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md. and subsequently chief of the section of hematology, National Institutes of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, (NIH). At the same time, he was associate clinical professor of medicine at Georgetown University School of Medicine.

Mrs. Stohlman is the former Bernadette Turner Bush of Montreal, Canada. Dr. Stohlman is a native of Washington, D.C., and a graduate of Georgetown University College and Georgetown University Medical School, where he received his M.D. in 1948. He did his internship and residency at Boston City Hospital from 1948-51 and completed a fellowship in Medicine at Georgetown University Hospital in 1952.

He was a member of many scientific organizations which include the American Society of Hematology, Association of American Physicians, American Society for Clinical Investigation, International Society of Hematology, American Federation for Clinical Research, American Society of Internal Medicine, and the American Society for Experimental Pathology which honored his achievements as a young investigator, awarding him the Parke-Davis Award in 1964.

He has been the editor-in-chief of "Blood, The Journal of Hematology" since 1970 and served on the editorial boards of proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, Series Haematologica, and Nouvelle Revue Francaise d'Hematologie.

Over the years Dr. Stohlman has served as a scientific advisor and consultant to the National Institutes of Health, National Academy of Science, Atomic Energy Commission, Pan American Health Organization, American National Red Cross and the Veterans Administration. He has been on the board of directors of the Medical Foundation and the American Cancer Society (Massachusetts Division) and a trustee of the Leukemia Society of America.

A memorial mass for Dr. and Mrs. Stohlman was held Tuesday, September 17 in St. Bernard's Church, West Newton.

Contributions may be made to the Frederick and Bernadette Stohlman memorial research fund, in care of Hematology Research Department, St. Elizabeth's Hospita, 736 Cambridge St., Brighton, Mass.

As a result of his hematological research Dr. Stohlman is the author of more than 150 scientific papers and the editor of three books.

Dr. and Mrs. Stohlman are survived by four children: Bernadette, Frederick III, Jeanine and John all of West Newton.

Thomas Corcoran

Thomas Corcoran of 43 Wolcott Rd., Chestnut Hill, died Sunday (Sept. 15) in St. Elizabeth's Hospital after a long illness at the age of 48.

A funeral mass was said Wednesday (Sept. 18) in St. Lawrence's Church, Brookline.

Mr. Corcoran was the sales manager for the B & H Equipment Co., manufacturers of safety equipment for highway workers.

Mr. Corcoran is survived by his wife, Mrs. Madeleine Corcoran; his mother, Mrs. Bridie Corcoran; three sons, Thomas, Paul and Craig; his daughter, Jacqueline Marie, all of Chestnut Hill; and three sisters, Mrs. Julie Burke of Arlington, Mrs. Mary Falla of Winchester and Mrs. Kathleen McTiernan of Maryland.

Alice Boyden

A memorial service was held Wednesday (Sept. 18) in the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville, for Miss Alice G. Boyden.

Miss Boyden, 82, a long-time social worker and former Newtonville resident, died last week in Concord, N.H., after a brief illness.

She was a member of the church, the Dickens Fellowship, the Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Guild of the American Association of Retired Persons and the Massachusetts Association of Advanced Human Services.

Miss Boyden is survived by two brothers, Robert W. of Waynesboro, Va., and Bartlett W. of Bridgton, Me.

Burial is in Marshfield Hills Unitarian Cemetery.

Elizabeth B. Lee

Elizabeth B. Lee, wife of Richard H. Lee, 107 Mt. Vernon Street, Newtonville, died Saturday (September 14).

Born in Rowaton, Connecticut, on August 20, 1902, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Lane. She was graduated from Hartford Public High School and attended Smith College, where she received her A.B. degree in 1925.

During her student years she was counselor in a girls' camp and an expert swimmer and Red Cross life saving examiner. Following college, she worked with the Bureau of University Travel in Newton, before marrying Mr. Lee in October, 1929.

The Lees lived for many years in Newton Corner, where Mrs. Lee (Ibby) was active in church work, girl scouting and many community activities. She organized and led a scout troop, taught in Eliot Church Sunday School, was a deaconess and president of its Women's Association. She also ran a nursery school at her home for several years, discontinuing it after others became available.

She was active in politics on behalf of her husband, who was an alderman and later state senator, and she took care of the growing children while he was overseas in the service in World War II. She was also air raid warden for her block.

She was an officer of many clubs, including the Social Science Club, Newton Smith College Club, Newell Club, Newton Y.W.C.A., Women's Republican Club, Newtonville Womens' Club and Newton Council of Churches.

In addition to her frequent swims she enjoyed ice skating and square dancing until her final illness. She was an avid gardener and wild flower expert, and bird watcher among other interests.

She is survived by her husband, Richard H. Lee, of Newtonville, two daughters, Alice L. Cairns of Franklin, Massachusetts, and Elizabeth (Betty) Kilb of Santa Barbara, California, and five grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Monday (Sept. 16).

Hugo Nordstrom

Services were held Wednesday (Sept. 18) in Second Congregational Church for Hugo M. Nordstrom.

Mr. Nordstrom, 81, of Newton Centre, died Saturday (Sept. 14) in a Newton nursing home. Born in Finland, he came to this country as a young man and had operated a painting business in the Newton area for more than 50 years.

Mr. Nordstrom was a 50-year member of the Fraternity Lodge of Masons, Aleppo Temple of Boston and a 50-year member of the Newton American Legion Post.

Mr. Nordstrom is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Nordstrom; a daughter, Mrs. Joyce Bent of Needham; and four grandchildren.

Burial is in Newton Cemetery.

Information from the VA

Q — Are female as well as male veterans a target of the Veterans Administration's "outreach" program which encourages high school droptouts to take advantage of the B.I. Bill education benefits?

A — Yes, but fewer of the female veterans are educationally disadvantaged. According to VA statistics, only two of every 100 women Vietnam Era veterans had not completed high school before separation from military service.

Q — Since the Veterans Administration, for effective planning purposes needs to know how many veterans it will be serving in the future, what has the agency to say about the veteran population in the immediate years ahead?

A — The veteran population, which currently stands in excess of 29.2 million, will continue to grow until late 1975, then start a steady decline, according to a recent VA projection.

Q — I understand the Veterans Administration is offering five-year, nonrenewable Veterans Group Life Insurance to veterans whose Servicemen's Group Life Insurance was terminated less than four years ago. When will this coverage be available?

A — On August 1, 1974, as authorized under the Insurance Act of 1974 (May 24). But application must be made within a year of that date.

SCORE FOR REDFORD

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Oscar winner Henry Mancini has signed with producer-director George Roy Hill to compose the musical score for "The Great Waldo Pepper" starring Robert Redford.

INHUMANE

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The American Humane Association listed 20 current films as unacceptable for mistreatment of animals, objectionable use of horses and for animals killed during filming.

Women comprise 45 per cent of the automobile drivers in the United States, according to the National Automobile Club.

Gold bullion now available to public

NEW YORK (UPI) — The year 1975 probably will go down as "the gold year."

A new law signed recently by President Ford gives Americans the right to buy and sell gold bullion (uncoined gold in bars or ingots). This is the first time in 40 years Americans may deal in gold bullion.

Those who can afford to do so may buy gold. All the rest of the people will talk about wishing they had the dollars to buy gold. When you think of that, 1975 will be "the gold year," indeed.

There are some things to know about this gold dealing. Mrs. Virginia Knauer, director of the nation's Office of Consumer Affairs (OCA), is out with a consumer's report on gold.

The report in the OCA Newsletter, is based on questions to and answers from The Treasury Department, brokerage firms, two firms that manufacture gold for industrial and commercial ups, a bank which handles transactions in gold, and New York Commodity Exchange, one of several markets that will handle gold contracts.

The reason Mrs. Knauer's watchdogs for consumers are reporting on gold is this: Buying gold can be risky for the average consumer. Some large investors have lost fortunes through gold speculation.

Highlights of the report:

—Treasury says under provisions of the new law, The Treasury Department has the authority to determine when buying and selling of gold can begin. But the law states that if the Treasury does not act before Dec. 31, 1974, the law goes into effect automatically on that date.

—When the law takes effect any consumer who wants to buy gold, and has the funds, can do so.

—Gold will be sold by a range of institutions: banks, brokerage firms, coin dealers, certain wholesalers, possibly even department stores.

—The gold will be sold in amounts ranging from less than one ounce to 400 ounces. Aside from gold pieces, called ingots, there will be larger pieces called bars. Consumers will be able to buy gold in two other forms. One is the certificate, say for $10, which consumers buy and accumulate and then turn in for actual gold. The other way: consumers will be able to invest in gold through the commodity exchange.

—The Commodity Exchange said consumers can buy gold futures. This means that through a stock broker a consumer can purchase a gold contract of 100 ounces and put down a margin payment — about 10 per cent. The contract is for a specified futures month (up to 17 months from the month it was purchased). By the time the gold is ready for delivery, the price may have gone up or —and this is important —the price may have gone down.

—The Commodity Exchange explained that one of the important points about buying gold contracts is that you can sell them at any time and never have to take delivery of the gold. To offer more information on buying gold contracts, the New York Commodity Exchange is preparing a booklet that will explain what a gold contract is and will give a glossary of terms used in commodity exchanges. The booklet will be available in late fall. For a copy, write: Commodity Exchange Inc., 81 Braod St., New York, N.Y. 10004.

—Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, one of the brokerage firms consulted by Consumer News, said gold futures can be very speculative and because of the money involved they are principally designed for large investors. For this reason, consumers who are considering buying gold contracts should talk to their brokers about the risks before making any decisions in this area.

— Consumer News asked Handy and Harmon, a firm that manufactures gold for industrial and commercial use, about gold being a hedge against inflation.

The answer: "The theory is that the price of gold goes up faster than the rate of inflation. But unlike silver, the price of gold is not determined by supply and demand alone. At present, much more gold is produced than is used for industrial and commercial purposes. Therefore, what drives up the price is speculation which, as you know, can be very risky."

—The Treasury Department was asked: What suggestions would you give to consumers interested in buying gold?

The answer: "If you are going to buy gold bullion, there are certain markings you should look for on the ingot. First, look for the stamp of the company that made the gold. All quality gold ingots or bars have this stamp."

"Also, look for the 'fineness' which indicates the percentage of gold in the bar. This number can range from .995 to .9999 (the best). Finally, look for the weight of the gold.

on Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New Phoenix Repertory Company is preparing for another season under managing director T. Edward Hambleton, who started the whole thing 21 years ago.

The original organization was known simply as the Phoenix Repertory Company, but the present title was installed a couple of years ago when there was a reorganization.

Life has not been easy for the Phoenix and Hambleton over the years despite the fact that the organization has, on the whole, done excellent work with top talent. A repertory company never has an easy time financially.

New strength was added last season when Broadway producer Harold Prince, one of the most successful ever, joined as one of two artistic directors. The other is Stephen Porter, a director of note who had been affiliated with the Phoenix for years.

The new season will see the company in three productions —Congreve's sexy Restoration comedy, "Love for Love;" Pirandello's "The Rules of the Game" and Carson McCullers' "The Member of the Wedding."

Stars of the company this season will be Britain's Mary Ure, well known here from past performances, and John McMartin, a Phoenix stalwart. The Phoenix always has a good over-all acting company.

Plans call for "Love for Love" to open at the Zellerbach Theater at the Annenberg Center in Philadelphia on Oct. 22. New york previews t the Helen Hayes Theater begin Nov. 12, and the premiere will be Nov. 21. Prince will direct this one.

"The Rules of the Game," under Porter's direction, will begin previews at the Hayes on Dec. 5, with the official opening Dec. 12.

"The Member of the Wedding," staged by Michael Montel, begins previews at the Hayes on Dec. 26 and opens there Jan. 2. It will continue through Jan. 11, and the company then will begin a national tour.

Rock bands turning to brass

Most rock bands that use horns end up becoming "horn bands' that sometimes play rock. The brass sound has a tendency to take over and limit the group as a whole.

Now, however, we have Isis, a very good rock band that knows how to use horns without letting them take over.

It should be unnecessary to mention that Isis is all women —perhaps soon that fact will no longer be either unusual or important. But right now Isis stands alone as the only all-female band with everything it takes to make it in the hard world of rock 'n' roll.

A major barrier to previous women's groups has been the lack of an experienced pool of talent to draw from.

"They (women) were afraid to try it," says Isis founder Carol MacDonald. "But let me tell you something —there were a lot of female bands around in the 60's. It's just that nobody took them seriously. It was a drag."

But, she insists, "that's all changed now—with Isis it has. And if it's changing with us it's going to change with everybody else—people who can really play."

Collectively and individually, the members of Isis hold receipts for their share of paidup dues. Most have been in the business for years—and have left many a snub and ill-concealed snicker in their dust.

More important to Isis' music than sex is the band's New York origins, that strange raunchy funkiness unique to the Big Apple.

Their costumes are a case in point, ranging from frilly dresses to studded black leather, from Flash Gordon on the Nile and painted faces to Sta-Prest blue denim cowboy. No attempt at coordination, no way to predict the sound on the basis of appearance.

"I'd be uncomfortable up there wearing a T-shirt," says MacDonald. "I like to wear makeup and dress up. But some of the girls aren't comfortable with that kind of thing. So we just leave it loose."

Isis is pure dynamite live—but a bit shaky on the debut album ("Isis" Buddah BDS-5605).

The band plays well, but the album fails because of a spotty production by Old Pro "Shadow" Morton. One has the painful feeling that Morton failed to take his charges seriously enough as musicians and gimmicked the album to death.

First two cuts on the LP — "Waiting for the Sonrise" and "Everybody Needs a Forever" —are the best, covering the full range of Isis' impressive talents. "Sonrise" is hard rock, straight and simple, pegged on a gutsy vocal from MacDonald and the raspy lead guitar

Photography exhibit opens at Fogg

Photography Unlimited, the Fogg Art Museum's first exhibition of the fall, presents a broad sampling of the most innovative photographs, photo sculpture and mixed media works being done throughout the country today. Pieces by 26 men and 18 women photographers is being shown through October 16.

Special emphasis has been given to manipulative photographic pieces–rather than the traditional silver prints usually seen on the East Coast. The manipulative phenomena is currently more evident in the West, Middle West and the South. In these parts of the country, photograpers is being shown through October 26.

Special emphasis has been given to manipulative photographic pieces–rather than the traditional silver prints usually seen on the East Coast. The manipulative phenomena is currently more efident in the West, Middle West and the South. In these parts of the country, photographers are often returning to earlier techniques of assemblage including quilting, sewing and stuffing their works, utilizing photo sensitized materials in the process.

Works in the exhibition include a photographic sculpture cabbage patch by Lou Brown DiGuillio, mixed media and 3M color by Darryl Curran; Kodality, furmirror-wood pieces by Wendy Calman; interacting nudes by Chris Enos; printing-out-paper contacts by Linda Connor; oil painted photographs by Marcia Resnick; silver prints by Jerry Thompson, Roger Martin, Leslie Poliak and Paul Kohl; and a three dimensional cyanotype by Judy Jacobs.

The exhibition reflects curator Davis Pratt's long-standing interest in the contemporary aspects of photography. Photography Unlimited is New England's first exhibition of such a large variety of manipulative work from throughout the country.

The exhibition will be hung in the museum's spacious courtyard andin two adjoining galleries. After three weeks it will be rehung in other areas of the museum.

American Portraits

A selection of American Portraits in Drawings, Prints, and Sculpture from the Museum's permanent collection is on view through the third week in September. From the 18th century to the present, this small exhibition assembles a gallery of American faces, known and unknown.

Two contemporary Boston artists are represented, Jack Levine by his extremely sensitive pencil drawing, "Portrait of Kanji Nakamura in His Last Illness," and Hyman Bloom by "Portrait of Charlie Flato." Earlier works range from John Singleton Copley's "Mrs. John Scollay (Mercy Greenleaf)" to John Singer Sargent's late chacoal drawings of Mrs. Horace Webber and a pastel portrait of the painter Paul Helleu to James McNeill Whistler's lithographs of Mrs. and Mrs. Pennell, his biographers, and Miss Leyland, the daughter of his patron. John Roger Lane, who selected the works, has also included as a "portrait" George W. Bellows' print "Dempsey and Firpo."

Museum Hours

Please note that the Fogg's regular hours, which resumed on Sept. 3, are different from last year. The Museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

The Busch-Reisinger Museum has also resumed its regular hours of 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Wellesley Players to produce "Dracula"

As a beginning to their 50th anniversary season, the Wellesley Players will produce "Dracula" for their fall production, Nov. 14, 15, and 16, at the Wellesley Junior High School.

Try-outs will be held Monday, Sept. 23 and Wesnesday, Sept. 25, at the Bates Elementary School, Elmwood Road, 8 p.m. M. J. Bercury will direct.

Casting requirements are as follows: Count Dracula — 50's. tall, distinguished, continental, mysterious. Abraham Van Helsing — 50's, alert, nervous manner, astute. Dr. Seward — 50's, severe, rather unfriendly, lives in a world of texts and patients. Jonathan Harker — 20's, very English, educated, excitable, explosive personality, love interest of Lucy. R. M. Renfield — 20's, suspicious, disheveled appearance. Lucy Seward — 20's, beautiful, pale and mysteriously anemic, lives in another world. Miss Wells — 20's, maid, not too bright, attractive. Butterworth — uniformed attendant, cockney accent.

Playbooks are available at the Wellesley Library for the use of those interested. Additional information can be obtained by calling Joyce Neill, casting, at 237-9848.

During this 50th year, the Players will be making a special effort to attract new members. The Players invite the public to attend their first program meeting, Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. at the Bates Elementary School. There will be a one-act play, directed by Barbara Tarlin, a brief, informal business meeting and refreshments. For further information, people may call Hans Petschaft, membership chairman, 235-4573, Carol Frohlich, secretary, 235-4087 or Janet Harvey, vice president, 237-1864.

Other plays scheduled for the 1974-75 season are: "Forty Carats," De French, director, to be produced Feb. 27, 28 and March 1; "A View from the Bridge," BARBARA TARLIN, director, to be produced May 1, 2 and 3.

Community Center to offer pottery program

For the first time in several years, the Jewish Community Center of Brookline-Brighton-Newton, will be offering a pottery program for children and adults.

Instruction for children and adults will be offered by Sarah Fuhro, a Brookline resident and member of the Brookline Pottery Collective.

Ms. Fuhro has taught pottery in the Brookline Adult Education and Summer School programs; pre-school art at Project, Inc., in Cambridge, and paper sculpture in the Spaceforms studio in Watertown. She is a member of the Massachusetts Association of Craftsmen, and has exhibited her pottery.

As a potter and a teacher, Sarah Fuhro places special emphasis on hand-built rather than wheel thrown forms. She is interested in the sculptural and surprise element of clay and hopes to share her enthusiasm for this medium with her students.

Her classes for children and adults will include the following: "Introduction to the Potter's Wheel;" "Colored Clay;" "Glazes;" "Other Forms of Surface Decoration;" "Basic Techniques of Hand-Building;" "Discussion of the History of Pottery;" and "Present Trends as a way of widening the student's choice of techniques."

The adult class will meet at the Center on Thursday evenings from 7-10 p.m. The children's class will meet on Thursday afternoons from 4 to 5 p.m. and is open to 4th through 6th grade boys and girls.

For information about this and other fall programs at the Community Center, people may call 734-0800. Registration is now in progress.

Lohan to give course for young stamp collectors

An eight-session course in philately for 10 to 17 year-old stamp collectors will be given at Cardinal Spellman Philatelic Museum, Regis College, Weston, beginning Oct. 6 at 3 p.m. and continuing through the year on the first Sunday of each month through May 1975.

The course, made possible by a grant from the Anne Boyd Lichtenstein Foundation, will be available to the first 20 students who apply. It is geared to familiarize the young collector with basic knowledge of philately so that greater enjoyment may be derived from the hobby.

Arthur E. Lohan of Newton, who planned the course, will be the instructor. He holds an A.B. from Boston College and has taken graduate courses in the field of education at Boston College and Boston State College. He has been a collector of stamps for over 30 years.

Lohan is president of the Vatican Philatelic Society, vice-president of the Boston Philatelic Society, and a founder member of Cardinal Spellman Philatelic Museum.

Orent promoted

Herbert L. Orent, of West Newton has been promoted to the position of senior vice-president of Morton's Shoe Stores, Inc. of Boston.

Orent, who has been with Morton's since 1961, is general manager of the company's footwear merchandising service division.

Orent, a 1949 graduate of the Boston University College of Business Administration, is a past president of the Claflin School P.T.A. (Newtonville) and the Warren Junior High School P.T.A. (West Newton). He is a member of the American Management Association and is currently listed in "Who's Who In The East." He has served on the executive committee of the Amherst College Friends of Music since 1970.

Daniel Ranalli photographs on exhibit at gallery

Daniel Ranalli of Auburndale is having a one-man show of his photography during September at the Panopticon Gallery of Photography.

Nearly 40 images will be on view through Oct. 3 at the gallery, located at 187 Bay State Rd. in Boston.

Ranalli's formal education was in economics, with degrees from Clark and Boston Universities, and he is primarily self-taught as a photographer.

"The photographer has the advantage of translating his vision directly and literally, but a photograph becomes important when it transcends the literal image," is how he describes his approach to his photography.

Ranalli teaches and advises students in photography through an experimental college in Boston, Campus-Free College, where he is also an administrator. He resides at 248 Grove St., in Auburndale.

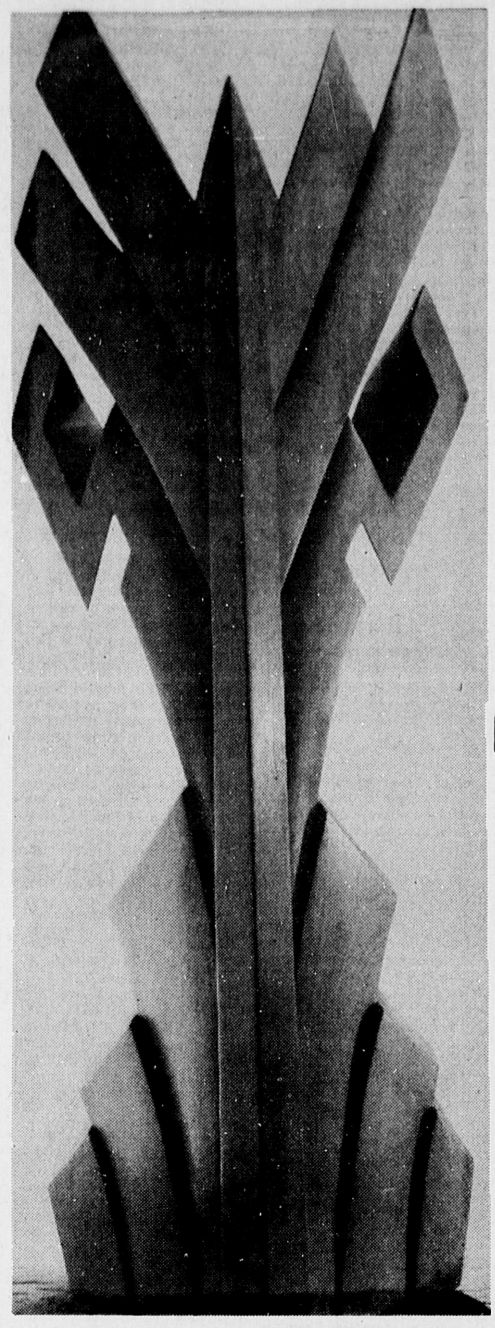

Film series to resume

Free movies for noon-time film fans resume on Wednesday, Sept. 25 at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

Films to be screened during the '74-'75 season run the gamut from Alistair Cooke's "America" to films on acting, Israel and photography.

Wednesday noon movies, which are screened at the Main Library in the Trustees' Room, are popular with the lunch-time crowd and their variety attracts people of different interests and ages.

A schedule of film listings will soon be available at the Main Library and at all branches. People may call 527-7700 for information.

Exhibition

Waban sculptress Hilda Paisner is represented at the fall exhibition of the New England Sculptor's Association at the Arts and Science Center in Nashua, N.H. The exhibition at the Arts and Science Center in Nashua, N.H. The exhibition opened Sept. 8 and continues through Oct. 26. This sculpture is done in mahogany.

Dedham Pottery on view at Main Library

A group of Dedham pottery pieces, selected from the collections of Mrs. Beverly Bernson of Newton, and Mrs. Lorraine Altschuler of Chestnut Hill, are now on view in the glass cases at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

Currently one of the most popular of the folk art collectibles, Dedham Pottery was first made in Chelsea, Mass. Production moved to Dedham, Mass. in 1986. The Pottery, which was all hand-made and hand-decorated, continued to be produced until 1943 by descendants of Englishman James Robertson.

The Dedham potters specialized in the making of gray and blue tableware decorated with flower, fish and animal motifs. The rabbit pattern, one of the most well-known was designed by John Linden Smith, at one time a director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

The rabbit pattern became the trademark of Dedham Pottery. The Pottery closed in 1943 when J. Milton Robertson, the seventh generation of Dedham potters, closed the shop to accept a naval commission.

Inquiries about the collection, which remains on view through early October, can be made by calling Beverly Bernson at 332-6747.

Main Library hours are 9 a.m. - 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m., Saturday and 1-4 p.m. Sunday.

Activity Center to hold yard, bake sales

Susan Claxton, director of the Garden City Activity Center for Cerebral Palsy and Other Physical Handicaps has announced that the Center is now working with Boston University's Sargent College of Allied Health Professions, under an educational agreement, which provides occuaptional therapy students to train at the Garden City Activity Center.

Located in the American Legion Post 440 Building on Victory Field, the Center has been providing services for physically handicapped adults and teenagers living in the Greater Newton area. The programs are geared toward adult education, recreation and social activities and therapeutic self-help skills.

For many handicapped adults, no services have existed in the community which met their needs for normal learning experiences. Among the programs offered are typing, cooking, financial planning and money management, everyday law, a bowling league for handicapped members, and other wheechair sports.

The Garden City Activity Center's fund-raising activities provide funds to sustain the Center and transportation for the participants to come there. A yard sale, bake sale, and auction will be held on Sunday, Sept. 22 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Blanchard's parking lot, 675 Washington St., Newtonville, to raise funds. A special attraction for youngsters will be Big Bird from Sesame Street.

Pictures will be taken with Big Bird to raise money. Chairman of the event is Jason Rosenberg.

The committee consists of Francis Norton, donations; Mrs. Philip Edsall, community assistance; Mrs. WILLIAM Lanciloti, refreshments; Mrs. Joseph Esposito, bake sale; Mrs. Ann Merrick, yard sale and Mrs. Joan Saklad, publicity.

For further information about the Center; people may contact the director, Mrs. Susan Claxton at 295 California Street (965-3389).

All Newton classes begin September 30

The new director of the All Newton Music School, Ayrton Pinto, announces the opening of classes on Sept. 30.

Mr. Pinto is proud to announce the appointment of Francis Nizzari and Marsha Mulroney to its faculty.

Nizzari is a Newton resident and is well-known for his many talents and performances both in classical and jazz concerts. He will teach bassoon, clarinet and saxophone, as well as hold classes on improvisation from the Baroque era to contemporary composers. His classes are open to adults and children.

Miss Mulroney is a new flute and recorder teacher and was a pupil of James Pappoutsakis at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Pinto said he would like Newton residents to know that the All Newton Music School is open to adults too.

Individual lessons, workshops and chamber music are being planned for adults, he said.

Asbestos money stalled again

An additional $78,000 to continue with boxing in asbestos-treated beams at Newton North High School was approved this week by the full Board of Aldermen, but then further delayed by a reconsideration motion filed by Ald. Ernest Dietz.

The contractor has left the job because the previous appropriation, about $100,000, has already been used up.

Unless a special meeting of the Board is called, the reconsideration motion cannot be acted upon until the Oct. 7 meeting.

The extent of the hazard of exposed asbestos is not fully known, but the state Department of Public Health and independent medical authorities recognize that there is a definite health hazard.

The state has recommended that the exposed asbestos in the new high school be covered.

Buildings Commissionera Gene Larson has estimated that the total cost of covering all the asbestos in the school will eventually reach $2 million.

Finance Committeeman Sidney Small seemed to express the feelings of many aldermen when he said before the vote, "I am in complete disagreement with the School Committee on the way we funded this. When we spend the $78,000 we have not solved the problem."

Ald. Joseph McDonnell asked for a complete study of the asbestos problem. "It is irrational," he said, "to spend money on the remedy before we know what the problem is."

The final vote of 15 in favor of the $78,000 appropriation and 9 against would seem to indicate that the matter will pass again.

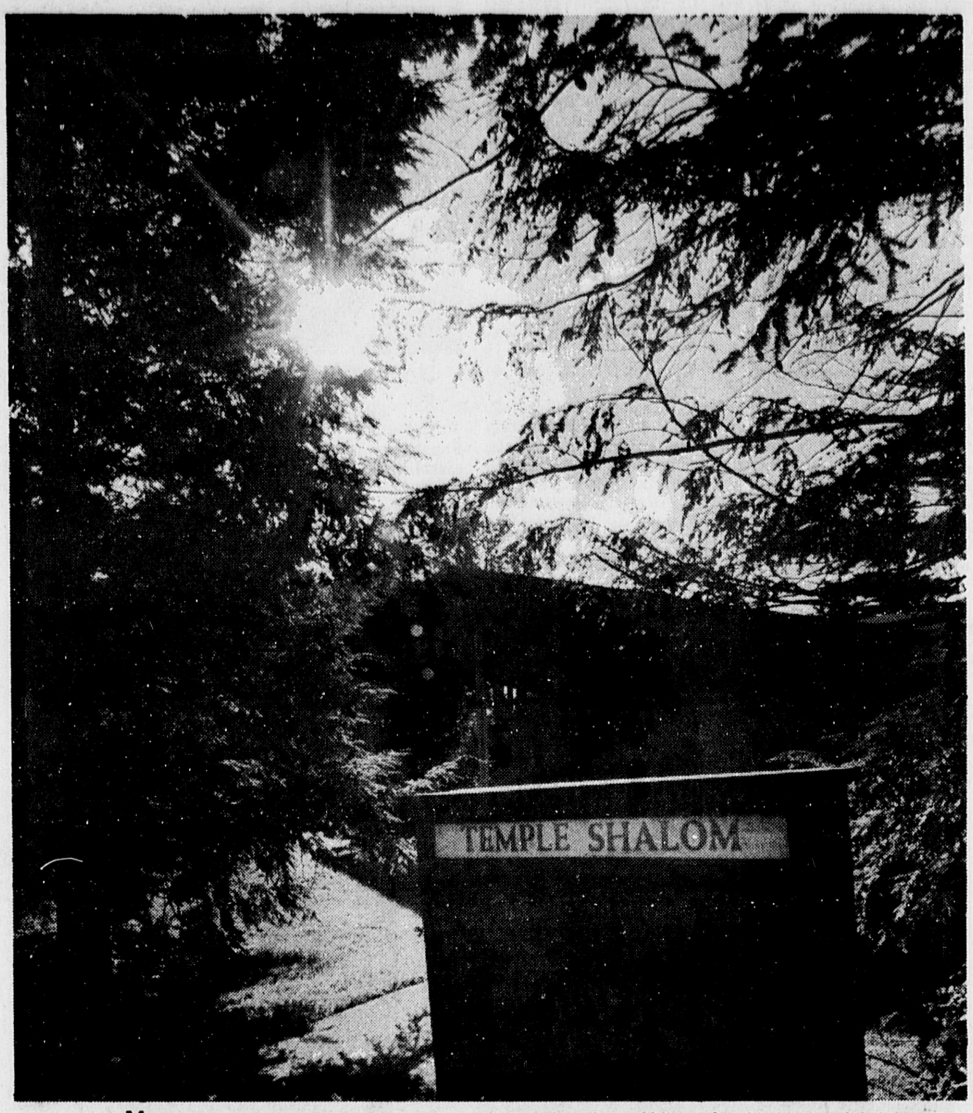

In other action the Board approved with no debate a resolution asking the mayor to allow the creation of an "urban design team" within the Planning Department, whose annual cost would be around $40,000 per year.

Planning Director Charles Thomas said at a recent meeting that a group of one part-time and three full-time people are needed to carry out village-by-village studies of traffic and economic development.

A resolution by Ald. David Jackson asking the Recreation Commission to review its policy of giving preference to Little League in the use of public fields passed, with eight aldermen opposed, one of them a woman.

Several women's groups have complained that Little League is given first choice and girls and women are relegated to inferior fields.

Tax rate is $151

The tax rate for fiscal 1975 will, with little chance for change, be $151 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation, according to Milton Manin, chairman of the Board of Assessors.

At least, on the basis of $900,000 to be appropriated from surplus, approved this week by the Board of Aldermen to be used against the tax rate, the $151 figure will be sent to the state Department of Corporations and Taxation for its final approval.

Manin said that the figure sent in is virtually always approved, but he would not say that $151 is the definite amount until he has state approval.

Last year's tax rate was $134.60.

State approval is expected by tomorrow (Friday), and Treasurer Theodore Scafidi said the tax bills would probably be mailed out starting Monday. Payment is due Nov. 1.

The bills will show the total real estate tax due for the year, but only six months' tax will be due by Nov. 1.

In brief debate on the floor of the Board, Ald. Richard Bullwinkle made an attempt to reduce the amount of surplus to be used first to $700,000, then to $800,000. Both amendments to the original proposal to appropriate $900,000 failed to carry, one by one vote and one by a tie vote.

Bullwinkle was afraid that the cost of collective bargaining would exceed the $1.2 million estimated by the mayor and requested for budget reserve in a related item.

To further buttress his opinion that less than $90,000 should be taken from surplus, Bullwinkle pointed out that the city has been "blessed" in the past few years by absence of heavy snowstorms, which are very costly.

Finance Committee Chairman Sidney Small responded that even using $900,000 from surplus, there would be more left in surplus this year than in previous years.

Street barriers win approval

The barriers to traffic across Commonwealth Avenue at Morton Street and at Cedar Street will be recommended to be made permanent by the Newton Traffic Commission.

The barriers, put up last month on a 60-day trial basis, have been the subject of lengthy discussions and arguments that culminated in neighbors shouting at neighbors at the commission meeting this week.

Proponents of the barriers point to the absence of accidents at the barrier locations and evenon some of the side streets, while opponents, mainly residents of Morseland Avenue, the next street to the east from Cedar Street, protest the 30 per cent increase in traffic on Morseland Avenue.

Residents of the area questioned Traffic Commission members as to alternative means of controlling traffic, and suggested lights and stop signs, citing possible impediments to fire apparatus if the median strip were made continuous.

Fire Chief Frederick Perkins though there would be no problem.

A part of the recommendation that the Traffic Commission will forward to the aldermanic Street Traffic Committee is that concomitant with the permanent closing of the crossings there be a study of how to alleviate the traffic problem on Morseland Avenue.

Shows of hands requested by Traffic Commission Chairman Edwin Wiest indicated 17 residents in favor of closing the corssing and 14 opposed.

The Traffic Commission recommendation will be presented for discussion at the Street Traffic Committee meeting of Oct. 17, where residents may again be heard.

Parents still upset about busing

The School Department has added a bus stop at Blake Street and Withington Road, but according to parents in the Cabot Street area, this is not enough.

A group of Bigelow Junior High School parents has attended the last two meetings of the Newton School Committee to argue that a Cabot Street bus route to Bigelow should be restored. The route was eliminated this year because of a new transportation policy which calls for bus stops one-and-one-half miles or farther from Newton secondary schools. Bus stops may also exist because of safety factors.

Cabot area parents have argued that the old route up Cabot Street should be restored both because of distance and safety considerations.

Assistant Director of Support Services James Cameron told the School Committee this week that a stop had been initiated last week at Blake Street since part of the street is more than a mile-and-one-half from Bigelow.

Cameron said that the Police Department has indicated that they do not feel there is a safety concern in the area for students who may be walking to Bigelow. According to Cameron, though, Officer Charles Feeley has stated a preference for children crossing Centre Street at Church Street rather than at Cabot Street.

Parents have expressed concern about the potential danger of students walking on Cabot Street or crossing Centre Street. School Committeeman Henry Delicata said that he has received calls from parents about crossing Centre Street, and he commented that he thought their concern was justified.

Delicata said that he would like either a police officer at Cabot and Centre Streets to cross children, or the initiation of a bus stop to carry children across Centre Street. This was put in the form of a motion, but there was no second.

After it was suggested that the Police Department could make a survey relating to the need for an officer at Centre and Cabot, Delicata put this in the form of a motion, that such a survey be requested. This motion passed.

After Cameron said that the bus stop on Blake Street is permanent, a woman asked why the bus cannot pick up children along Cabot Street, as it travels to Bigelow and save the cost of an officer.

It was noted later that making stops inside of a mile-and-one-half on Cabot Street would set a precedent for other parts of the city, and other parents would probably soon ask for additional stops.

School Committee member Dorothy Reichard remarked that if Cabot Street is safe enough for Cabot School children, why not for junior high school students.

One woman said, "Why not pick up the kids, and we won't come bother you again."

Delicata asked if it would be possible to initiate a stop until the survey is completed. School Committee Chairwoman Eleanor Rosenblum said that this "would be breaking our policy."

The School Committee hopes to have the survey within 10 days of its request.

One woman asked that the corner of Sargent and Park Streets also be studied.

School Committeeman Herbert Regal summed up the general School Committee response to the concern of parents. "Everybody would like to have bus stops all the way to school," Regal commented, "but we are not going to do it except for safety reasons."

Another hearing for McDonald's

In its appeal to have its revoked building permit restored, McDonald's Restaurants pleaded before the Building Laws Board of Appeals last week that the corporation acted within the purpose of the law and did not intend to circumvent technical regulations of the law.

McDonald's building permit to make alterations to a building at 330 Walnut St., Newtonville, where it plans to establish a 148-seat restaurant, was revoked on July 12, two days after issuance, because the application had been signed by McDonald's instead of the owner or his agent, as required by law.

McDonald's became the owner on July 11.

Opponents of the Newtonville location for the restaurant have proposed ordinance before the Board of Aldermen to regulate the entry of McDonald's-type restaurants into the city.

Notice of a public hearing on the proposed ordinance, published within a few days of the permit revocation, has legally precluded McDonald's reapplication for a building permit.

McDonald's lawyer, Charles J. Kickham Jr., argued that McDonald's is under a "severe hardship" now, having paid $190,000 for a building that it can't use.

Normally, Kickham siad, when a technical irregularity in an application occurs, a telephone call from the city official dealing with the matter would result in a simple correction of the faulty application.

In this case, he said McDonald's was not able to correct the application because of the filing of the new fast-food regulatory proposal.

Acting Chairman of the Building Appeals Board Casper Ferguson tried with varying degrees of success to keep the speakers at the hearing to the problem before the board — should the city's revocation be over-ridden?

"We're not here to discuss the value of McDonald's to Newtonville. Their application is consistent with the zoning laws," Ferguson admonished the opponents.

But the parking problem surfaced again and again, and Ferguson was forced to cut short others who wanted to go into the history of the real estate dealings that led up to the McDonald's acquisition of the property after an announced withdrawal of interest.

The Building Laws Board of Appeals could not reach a diecision at last week's meeting and will hold another meeting, open to the public, at a date to be announced.

Meanwhile, the ordinance that would give the Board of Aldermen control over fast-food establishments, heard in a public hearing of the Land Use Committee on Sept. 9, has been kept in the committee for further work.

And a proposed ordinance to require provision of off-street parking by businesses that change their buildings, resurrected from unfinished aldermanic business to try to prevent McDonald's coming and then dropped temporarily when McDonald's seemed to have lost interest at one point, has been reworked and is scheduled for another public hearing Oct. 15.

McGrath squeaks through in 16th district

By a margin of only four votes after a recount, Ald. Richard McGrath was declared to be the official winner of the primary election of a Democratic candidate for state representative from Newton's 16th district.

McGrath, opposed by A. Joseph DeNucci, won the primary election by three votes, and both candidates called for the recount.

DeNucci lost one vote in Precinct 4 Friday, where an absentee ballot had been chalked up for DeNucci by error, when in fact the ballot had no vote for either DeNucci or McGrath.

The final outcome was 1,736 votes for McGrath, 1,732 for DeNucci.

McGrath will be opposed by Republican William Matthews.

DeNucci said after the recount that he would "abide by the decision of the Election Commission."

"I will now work for the Democratic Party," DeNucci added.

A moment of suspense came at the end of the three-hour recount procedure when three absentee ballots were questioned by DeNucci's lawyer, Owen Brock. When it became apparent that McGrath would still be victorious, the DeNucci partisans decided not to challenge.

Ballots had been kept under 24-hour police guard since the election.

The total cost for the recount, including Election Commission and Police Department personnel, was a few dollars less than $1,400.

Candidates

JACK H. BACKMAN

State Senator Jack H. Backman, newly appointed chairman of a special state commission on unemployment, this week called for federal price controls and aid to industry.

"Although the economic crisis of the United States is considered primarily a federal matter, it is essential that I speak out in regard t the economic plight facing our nation as well as the special Massachusetts problems," Backman said.

"The first priority must be price control now," the Democratic candidate for reelection said.

Backman said measures must also be taken to rejuvenate the business climate, to lower interest rates, to make capital investment money available and bring about full employment of "the vast resources of this nation."

LOIS PINES

State Rep. Lois G. Pines testified last week in support of proposed regulations on student records being considered by the Massachusetts Board of Education.

Rep. Pines is a Democratic candidate for reelection in the 18th Middlesex district.

For the past two years, she has been working to secure the issuance of regulations responsive to legislation that granted students 18 and older and parents of students under 18 the right to inspect student records.

State Rep. Lois G. Pines testified last week in support of proposed regulations on student records being considered by the Massachusetts Board of Education.

The proposed regulations, applicable to public schools, itemizes which materials are to be kept permanently, which temporarily and who should have access to records and under what conditions.

Under the regulations, a student between 14 and 17 would also have the right to inspect his record.

LETITIA ANGELONE

Tax money appropriated for housing by the state or federal governments should be used for the construction or purchase of individual homes, Letitia Angelone said this week.

Miss Angelone is an Independent candidate for state representative in the 18th Middlesex district.

She further recommended that the plan be implemented by providing the money to savings banks at a "sufficiently low rate of interest to enable the bank to charge the taxpayer not more than six per cent."

"All powers of eminent domain now held by charitable, educational, or non-profit organizations, whether they are connected with the state government or are private institutions, should be immediately revoked," she also said.

"Individual homeowners who are hard-pressed to pay their property taxes and make mortgage payments, especially retired persons, should be entitled to tax abatements equivalent to the maximum rental subsidy and the total construction benefit for each home in projects financed by public money or guarantees," she also said," plus maximum unit cost for such projects to the city or town for site clearance."

PAUL G. GUZZI

Democratic candidate for secretary of state, Paul H. Guzzi of Newton stated this week his commitment to the establishment of an Office of Citizens' Assistance with a hotline to the secretary of state's office.

While campaigning, Guzzi said, "I have encountered a general dissatisfaction with government. I believe the secretary of state's office is in a key position to make government more accessible and more responsive to people and their needs."

The Office of Citizens' Assistance would have subpoena powers, could compel the attendance of witnesses and could require agencies to produce relevant documents, Guzzi said.

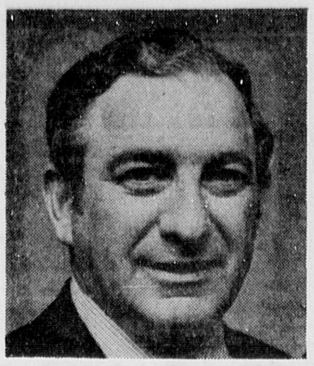

JOSEPH I. WEINREBE

Republican candidate for the State Senate in the Newton-Brookline district Joseph I. Weinrebe of Newton is questioning the write-in procedures on voting machines.

In a letter to State Rep. George D. Kevarian, chairman of the House Committee on Election Laws, Weinrebe charged that "little or no thought has been given to the so-called write-in" on voting machines and "as a result, a portion of the citizenry are effectively disenfranchised unconstitutionally."

"If a short, left-handed person were desirous of writing in a name other than the person pre-printed on the ballot, he would literally have to be hung by the heels from the ceiling," the candidate stated.

Weinrebe was a successful sticker candidate for the state GOP nomination for State Senate in the Sept. 10 primary.

Joseph I. Weinrebe

FRANCIS SARGENT

Governor Francis Sargent, Republican candidate for reelection, established a 25-member task force to develop "ideas for ethnic heritage programs and achievements in the Commonwealth" this week.

Secretary of Educational Affairs Joseph M. Cronin is the committee chairman.

The task force will first examine the possible role of local, regional and statewide ethnic heritage councils, the governor explained. Carmen Necheles of Newton is a member of the task force.

MICHAEL DUKAKIS

Michael Dukakis, Democratic nominee for governor, last week called for an end to "bureaucratic bungling, wasted tax dollars and indifferent leadership" in the governor's office.

It's time for performance in state government; for results, not self-serving platitudes," the candidate said.

He called for a state master plan "to guide our physical and economic growth," a strict no-hire, no-fire policy to balance the budget and quick completion of needed public projects.

JON ROTENBERG

Jon Rotenberg, Independent candidate for congress in the Fourth Congressional district, reported this week that he has been endorsed by the National Small Business Association.

"Because of Jon Rotenberg's concerned efforts, small businessmen will regain their position as the economic and employment base of Massachusetts," the organization's president said. "More than any other legislator, Jon Rotenberg understands the importance of thousands of small businesses in maintaining a balanced economy."

ALVIN MANDELL

Republican Congressional candidate Alvin Mandell this week launched his campaign for election in a speech at the Middlesex Club.

Mandell said the Fourth District "needs a congressman who speaks for the moderate viewpoint, representing neither the liberal far left nor the reactionary far right."

"For far too long, the voices representing the middle majority of America have been muted," he said. "It's time to make a change."

Mandell also said that Massachusetts and the Fourth Congressional District have lost jobs and employment opportunities during the past four years because of the "poor service the present congressman has given in the area of federal contracts and federal support."

ROBERT DRINAN

Congressman Robert Drinan, Democratic candidate for reelection in the Fourth Congressional district, this week urged Congress and the courts to act "decisively to safegeguard the legal rights of mentally retarded children."

"The Constitution guarantees all citizens equal protection of the laws," he said. "It is time that this fundamental legal right was granted to the mentally retarded child."

Drinan voiced strong support of Massachusetts' Chapter 766 which went into effect this month.

Drinan also received the endorsement of the State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, this week.

Brooke to address library conference

United States Senator Edward W. Brooke will address the New England Library Association Conference on Monday evening, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m. at Wentworth-by-the-Sea in New Hampshire, announced Joseph G. Sakey, conference chairman and director of the Cambridge Public Library.

Newton Free Library Director Virginia A. Tashjian, Assistant Library Director John Daley, and other staff members will attend and participate in the conference.

As president of the Massachusetts Library Association, Mrs. Tashjian will participate in several meetings to plan Massachusetts representative at a conference to be held in San Francisco next year.

Mrs. Tashjian will be reporting on her work on two national committees: the Hewins-Melcher Scholarship Committee, which awards national scholarships to applicants for library schools; and a committee doing a study about the dissemination points for children's materials, other than in schools and libraries.

During the conference, Mrs. Tasjian will autograph her latest book, "With A Deep Sea Smile" (Little, Brown, and Company).

Upon their return, NFL staff members will share their conference experiences with other staff members.

Mann meeting with employers

Mayor Theodore D. Mann, chairman of the Newton area Comprehensive Employment and Training Act Program, is hosting a series of morning meetings with key employers in the area for the purpose of developing an Employers Advisory Committee.

The Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program is designed to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged unemployed and underemployed persons by providing training and other services which lead to maximum employment opportunities and enhances self-sufficiency.

The Newton area, under the auspices of the state Office of Manpower Affairs, is comprised of 10 communities, the cities of Newton and Waltham and the towns of Brookline, Bedford, Dover, Lexington, Lincoln, Needham, Weston, and Wellesley. Funds totaling almost $2 million have been allocated by the federal government for this area.

Mayor Mann is meeting with the key employers of the area to solicit their cooperation and participation in forming an advisory committee to provide him with input regarding the current and future development of manpower needs in the area, and also to assist in identifying and developing those training opportunities which will lead to long-term permanent employment.

One segment of CETA is an on-the-job training program which has the objective of providing training in jobs located in private businesses and industry. The training positions when successfully completed are designed for permanent employment. The positions are open to economically disadvantaged individuals who are unemployed and are in need of basic job skills and knowledge to become full-time productive employees.

Mayor Mann suggested that private business should work closely with government to insure the success of the CETA program, as it will benefit both by increasing the numbers of employed persons who have incomes to spend on the goods and services provided by those private businesses.

The employers of Newton which have agreed to participate in the committee are Boston College, the Marriott Motor Hotel, Cramer Electronics, St. Regis Paper Company, Mutual Bank for Savings, the Carr Company, GTE Sylvania, Damon Corporation, Ludlow Corporation, Calvert's Department Store, Raytheon, Polaroid, EGG Inc., Honeywell, Hewlett-Packard, Mitre, and Standard Thomson.

NCDF wins corp. status

By ELEANOR SIEGEL
Staff Correspondent

The Planning Board evaluated and approved findings necessary to allow the Newton Community Development Foundation to win status as an urban development corporation for purposes of gaining tax benefits. NCDF plans to build 50 units of low-moderate income apartments on Hamlet Street.

The vote was based on four major criteria and will be forwarded to the mayor for his approval and then on to the Department of Community Affairs.

According to Edmund I. Mangini, assistant to the commissioner for urban renewal, this is the "only legal method in which a tax deduction can be granted." Mangini explained that once granted, the method is established for "40 years, during which it can't be increased."

The purpose for this he said was to permit a developer to "adjust the rentals within the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency scope and keep the rentals stable by eliminating as many variables as possible." He added that it also "eliminated handshake arrangements with the city," which he indicated were subject to the caprices of succeeding administrations.

The four criteria on which the vote was based were whether or not the site is an "open blighted area," whether it conforms to the city's master plan, whether it contributes to public safety and is consistent with city development objectives, and whether it is of public use and benefit.

The planning board voted consistently 3-1 in favor of approving the findings.

Members of the Planning Board are Sharon Francis, who was absent; Stanley Miller, chairman; Gordon Bloom; David Lurensky; and Prof. Ernest Siciliano, who voted negatively. Siciliano will submit a minority report.

Siciliano questioned the legality of NCDF's claim to legal access to Hamlet Street for the necessary widening. Miller ruled the committee was not in a position to "judge" that but said a memo on this point would go to the mayor.

After the meeting Marc Slotnick, a member of the board of directors of NCDF, stated that a title search done by their attorneys assurred the corporation of legal access on Hamlet Street.

Siciliano said that there was no master plan for the city and thus this critieria would only "prove no conflict with a non-entity." He also felt that the development would be "detrimental to public safety," since the new mall and concomitant traffic already aggravated an impossible situation."

A memorandum from Charles Thomas, planning director, had been issued prior to the hearing stating that the project "is consistent with city land use policy objectives." The memo further stated that the "scarcity of developable aland and the increasing need for such housing continues to exceed the ability of the Newton Housing Authority to construct, acquire, or lease adequate supplies of such housing,"iconclusing that the project would therefore be of public use and benefit.

Chestnut Hill Towers have refunded deposits

Mario DiCarlo said last week at a meeting of the Building Laws Board of Appeals that the Towers at Chestnut Hill, a luxury condominum complex that has not yet been built, has refunded deposits to all its porspective purchasers.

DiCarol is one of the trustees of the corporation that has been trying to build the condominiums for more than two years. All in all, the project has been underway for seven years.

In August, 1973, the project was brought to a halt by the discovery that the permissive use granted by the Board of Aldermen had expired. During the long delay occasioned by the fight against the granting of another permissive use, the Towers lost its financing commitment and has not yet been able to obtain financing.

DiCarlo appeared at the Building Laws Board of Appeals to ask an extension of time for the temporary sales office-demonstration building which was scheduled to be demolished after the Towers itself was built.

GOP picks Mandell to face Drinan

Alvin Mandell says 'yes.' Lupo photo

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of the Graphic Staff

The Fourth District Republican Caucus last week unanimously endorsed Alvin Mandell, Newton school committeeman, as Fourth District Republican candidate.

He will run against Rep. Robert Drinan, a Newton Democrat, and Jon Rotenberg of Brookline, running as an Independent.

The special caucus was made necessary by the withdrawal of Laurence Curtis of Brookline, who announced his intention at the time of the primary election not to further pursue his candidacy.

Mandell was nominated by Avi Nelson, Brookline, who himself was nominated but refused.

Nelson thanked all those who had asked him to run, saying, "I may take a raincheck, but for 1974 I respectfully decline."

Replying to a motion made by Jay Martin of Weston to "nominate no one, no candidate," Nelson said, "Rotenberg mounted a campaign not to have a Republican candidate.

Rotenberg could not defeat Drinan one on one — Drinan would get 65 per cent of the vote if he is not opposed."

"We would have more difficulty dislodging Rotenberg than Drinan. Drinan is so far to the edge and such a kook that members of his own party don't like him," Nelson said.

Looking at the overall effect on the Republican Party that failure to provide a candidate would have, Nelson said, "We ought to look ahead. What will it look like if the Republican Party participates in its own demise? A candidate now will weaken Drinan for '76."

Others offered the nomination at the caucus were Ann Gannett, state representative from Wayland, and Ron Burton of Framingham, both of whom refused.

Mandell's acceptance speech criticized Drinan's performance in Congress and said that it is time for the "voice of moderation, so long silenced," to be represented.

"What is needed in the Fourth Congressional District is a representative who speaks for the moderate viewpoint, representing neither the liberal far left nor the reactionary far right. For too long have the voices representing the middle majority of America been muted."

Mandell's criticism of Drinan centered around the area of federal contracts and federal support for the Route 128 electronics industry.

"In the four years of his (Drinan's) representation the electronics industry in Massachusetts has suffered serious decline, and our state has seen the additional loss of the Boston Navy Yard, the NASA space facility, the Watertown Arsenal, and many others, all resulting in loss of employment for the district's inhabitants," Mandell charged.

Mandell suggested that he "will bring experience in problem solving to the Congress, constructive suggestions, not complaints about the inability of Congress to lead the way."

"It is time," Mandell said, "to heal the festering sores of the past. The voice of moderation and conciliation, so long silenced, must be represented and can lead the way."

The 154 delegates who came to select Mandell were crowded into a small room at the Marriott that seated 112 people, so that many were milling around in a small anteroom, complaining that they could not hear.

The crowd thinned out when the meeting was officially adjourned, and about half the delegates remained to give a vote of confidence to State Republican Committee Chairman William Barnstead.

Barnstead has been under pressure from Gov. Francis Sargent to step down from the chairmanship in favor of William Cowin, defeated candidate for attorney general.

Spaulding and Slye now official developer

By ELEANOR SIEGEL
Staff Correspondent

The embittered citizen battles over redevelopment in Lower Falls are a thing of the past.

Citizens, through their efforts were victorious. And last week, in a lightning fast pro forma hearing, the authority voted unanimously to convey the parcel of land on Washington Street to Spaulding and Slye for commercial redevelopment.

And on Sept. 24, the Zoning Board of Appeals also looked with favor upon Spaulding and Slye. They granted them permission to subdivide the site into three separate parcels for financing purposes. They further gave them permission to utilize two feet of the parking space, where the car bumpers overhang, for grass. Both positions were supported by the NRA, the Lower Falls Project Area Committee and the Lower Falls Improvement Association.

At the appeals meeting, Joel Leighton, chairman of LOPAC, stated that "controls written in will provide continued integrity of the project." And Donald Budge, president of the Improvement Association said that they were willing to "support" the developer and that "green instead of asphalt" was a "positive" contribution.

The commercial area will be known as Newton Executive Park and be built at the intersection of Rt. 128 and 16. The multi-million dollar project will house three buildings, which was the preferred design. The two larger buildings will have 46,000 rentable square feet; the smaller one will have 22,000 rentable square feet.

All buildings will be three stories and the project has been planned with an eye toward minimizing the impact on nearby residential areas. While a groundbreaking date has not been set yet, the projected completion of the development is the fall of 1976. Spaulding and Slye have indicated that they are involved in working out a lease with a major tenant.

North to present "Charlie Brown"

The off-Broadway musical, "You're a Godd Man, Charlie Brown" will be presented at the Newton North High School Auditorium on Oct. 4 and 5 at 8 p.m.

The producer is Neil Goldberg who will be making his debut in a high school production. Goldberg, a junior, is a member of the Family and Concert Choir choruses at the high school.

The director is Bob Stern, also a junior. This is Stern's second production of "Charlie Brown." He had a leading role in his junior high's production of "Pajama Game." He appeared in NNHS' production of "Funny Girl," and recently appeared as Motel the Tailor in the Newton Recreation Department's production of "Fiddler on the Roof." Stern is playing the role of Charlie Brown.

The role of Lucy is being played by Elizabeth Robertson, a senior. Elizabeth has played the role of Tzeitel in her junior high's production of "Fiddler." She appeared in NNHS' "Cabaret" and "Funny Girl," and had the Soprano solo in Poulenc's "Gloria."

Aldo Fabrizi, playing the part of Snoopy, has appeared in NNHS' "Cabaret" and "Funny Girl." He was in District Chorus last year, and is a musician. Besides playing the bass in the NNHS bands and orchestra, he plays with "Legacy," a local group.

Frank Aronson, Linus, had a leading role in his junior high's production of "Damn Yankees." He appeared in NNHS' "Funny Girl," and played the part of El Gallo in "Fantasticks." People may remember Aronson for his performance as Tevya in the Newton Recreation Department's recent prodcction of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Jay Foley, Schroeder, had a leading role in his junior high's production of "Fiddler." This will be Foley's first appearance on the NNHS stage. Jay is a member of NNHS' Concert Choir.

Susan Kaufman will be making her theatrical debut as Patty. Her past experience includes chorus work in her junior high's production of "Hello Dolly."

Musical supervision and accompaniement will be provided by Saul Stern, a Newton piano and voice teacher.

Percussion will be by NNHS' own Scott Karas, a professional musician. Karas, a senior, plays for the NNHS' bands and orchestra.

The stage manager is Ken Bresler, a senior who was also stage manager for the Newton Recreation's "Fiddler" production.

Raymond Smith, head of the music department at the high school is serving as faculty advisor for the show.

Admission to this Oct. 4 and 5 production will be $1.

Drinan has permission

The unexpected controversy over whether or not Congressman Robert Drinan had permission from the proper religious authorities to seek reelection ended abruptly Tuesday.

Father Drinan's Jesuit superior, Rev. Richard T. Cleary, issued a statement Tuesday indicating the congressman has permission to run for office.

"I have granted Father Drinan my permission to carry on his work as a member of the United States House of Representatives," Rev. Cleary said.

"I am satisfied that Father Drinan has always acted and is now acting in good faith, concerning the requirements of that part of canon law which pertains to priests in elective politics."

Congressman Drinan said Tuesday that he knew he had received proper permissions and had contacted Cleary when the issue was raised this weekend in the press and the Jesuit superior had agreed to issue a statement.

Asked if he thought either of his political opponents were behind the sudden controversy, the congressman replied: "that's impossible."

Drinan also pointed out that he is no longer the only priest in politics. He referred to a Jesuit priest in Gren Bay, Wis., who is kcurrently challenging the incumbent congressman in that district for a seat in the House of Representatives and mentioned that a priest also sits in the Canadian Parliament.

Rep. Drinan got permission to run for office for the first time in 1970 from his major superior, Rev. William G. Guindon. Father Guindon also gave him permission to seek reelection in 1972.

These decisions, Rev. Cleary said, were ratified in writing by Rev. Pedro Arrupe, superior general of the Society of Jesus.

Conservators to tour Norumbega area

An appeal has been made to the Department of Natural Resources to overturn the Sept. 5 Conservation Commission orders issued to correct abuses on Hahn Brook by Sidney Hill Country Club.

The request came from Michael Moskow, an abutter, and Lalor Burdick.

Moskow and Burdick contend that if the present orders are carried out, they will ave a "deleterious effect upon storm drains, flood control and ground water supply."

Part of the commission's orders called for partially culverting the brook, a procedure the men contend will "contribute nothing to solving the present problem of a malfunctioning" existing city culvert and should be "disallowed in the public environmental interest."

Moskow addressed the matter of flooding in abutter's homes on Tanglewood Road, saying he is aware of the situation and "feels badly" that his appeal is tied to the problem. In his letter to the DNR he states that the matter "can and should be remedied immediately by cleaning out the existing City of Newton drainage pipe, setting new catch basins . . . removal of compacting material and debris and grading in that area."

The quadrant in the back of Sidney Hill which is covered with the rubble is an area Moskow claims is peat, partly decayed plant matter from ancient swamps, intrinsically soft, and now being unnaturally compressed from the pile of fill, thereby losing its natural water storage capacity.

Appeals on orders issued as a result of Hatch Act hearings can be made by any aggreved citizen, 10 citizens, or abutters under the Aug. 13 amendment to the legislation and must be sent by registered mail 10 days after the commission issues its orders.

The DNR has 70 days from the receipt of the complaint in which to act. In this case, the letter was received by the DNR Sept. 16.

Conservation Commission hears Hahn Brook appeal

The second walk of the Newton Conservators open-space tours in Newton will be in the Norumbega area, meeting at 2 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 28, at 81 Islington Road, Auburndale, with Mark Lieberman as leader. The walk is free and open to the public and will go rain or shine.

The Norumbega area has been a subject of concern to the Conservators for a long time. The entire 31-acre tract had been an amusement park with canoeing and dancing and many recreational facilities. In the 1960s the Marriott Hotel chain purchased 10 acres for a hotel and parking lot. The Marriott then purchased more land for parking, and easement rights over the Charles River frontage land were given to the Metropolitan District Commission, so that presently there are 14½ acres open.

In 1966 a report done by Charles W. Eliot, landscape architect, recommended acquisition of the river's edge and the two wooded "hilltops" to be preserved as a naturalistic park, the field area adjoining Islington Road to be used for active recreation and the rest for single-family residence.

The area was again studied in 1967 by the Norumbega Park Study Committee appointed by then Mayor Monte Basbas. They recommended the area be developed as a planned-unit development north of Commonwealth Avenue, except for the steep riverbanks, and the area south of Commonwealth to be business. The Newton Conservators are considering a position supporting the preservation of the entire tract.

Other open-space tours in this fall series will include Biology of Ordway Park walk on Oct. 6; Flora of Hammond Woods walk on Oct. 13; bus tour of proposed Charles River Park on Oct. 20; and Botany of Cold Spring Playground walk on Oct. 27.

For further information on any of the tours call Ms. Susan Wilkes at 244-3174.

Public meeting Oct. 4 for Highlands election

A public meeting will be held Friday, Oct. 4, at 8 p.m. at the Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus St., to hear from residents on the upcoming Newton Highlands Service Area Council election.

The election is planned to be held in December for the nine council members.

The council and the service area have been authorized in July as a sub-unit of city government by the Board of Aldermen as a result of a petition signed by more than 20 per cent of the registered voters in the area. The new (1971) city charter provides for the establishment of such neighborhood areas.

The purpose of the meeting, proposed by Ald. Joan Saklad, is to find out from residents their opinions on details of the conduct of the election.

The method of conducting the election must be approved by the Board of Aldermen.

Larceny charges dropped

Charges of larceny and conspiracy filed against three Newton men were dismissed in Newton District Court this week.

Walter J. Panzera, 26, of 212 Adams St.; Enzio Gargaro, 24, of 37 Faxon St., and Nicholas J. McGrath, 24, of 244 California St., were charged with larceny over $100 and conspiracy in connection with the alleged theft of 100 pwer lawnmowers June 13 from a Newton retailer.

Judge Monte G. Basbas, at a hearing Tuesday, granted a motion to dismiss the charges against the three men.

Newton Firefighter Richard A. Saia, 39, of 263 Brown St., Waltham, originally a witness in the case, now faces charges of receiving stolen property in connection with the same incident.

Saia's trail date is Oct. 17.

Company to honor long-time employees

Three Newton residents will be honored for 25 years of service with the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. at the 22nd annual Quarter Century Club dinner to be held Friday evening, Sept. 27 at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston.

Paul Revere bowls will be presented to the 93 new members during the pre-dinner reception.

Co-hosting the dinner will be Gerhard D. Bleicken, John Hancock chairman of the board and chief executive officer, and Edwin Matz, president and chief operations officer.

The 838 club members, each claiming a minimum of 25 years of service with the company, represent some 26,000 years of service.

Those to be honored include Anthony J. Sabelli of 142 Homer St., Newton Centre, Permelia D. Swali of 1105 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, and Richard A. Carroll of 31 Dearborn St., West Newton.

Meadowbrook to hold auction

Art, antiques, new merchandise, gift certificates and various services are among the items to be featured as an auction Saturday, Oct. 5, at 8 p.m. at Meadowbrook Junior High School.

Doors will open at 7 p.m. for a preview showing of the items.

Sponsored by the Oak Hill School PTA, the auction will be a major fundraising event for the school with proceeds going toward the continued support of the creative arts program and the school library.

The public is invited to attend the auction. A nominal admission will be charged and will include refreshments.

Call Sybil Michelson at 244-5115 to make donations or receive further information.

A smaller House of Representatives

It seems virtually certain that the people of Massachusetts in the Nov. 5 election will approve a change in the State Constitution which will reduce the size of the Massachusetts House of Representatives from 240 to 160 members.

This anticipated slash in the number of House members has been described by the League of Women Voters as a great reform in the state government. Actually, it could prove a disastrous blunder. It is quite possible it will result in a poorer performance by the Legislature, not a better one.

Many believe it will make the state government more remote from the people and will provide less representation for those who need it most, the poor and the members of minority groups.

But the people have been promised what amounts to miracles and wonders which will be achieved by throwing out 80 law-makers.

Some people don't think that highly about the sagacity of the reduction. The League has unsuccessfully advocated a graduated state income tax while the husbands of some of the members dug down into their pockets to help finance a campaign against a graduated tax. The person retained to head up the campaign was Republican State Committeeman Edward King of West Roxbury.

In the instance the League's campaign for a cut in the size of the House is aided by the poor image of the state legislature. As has been pointed out frequently, the average person likes the State Senator and Representative he helped to elect but dislikes the Legislature as a public body.

That all adds up to the conclusion that on Nov. 5 the people will vote to reduce the size of the House and that in 1976 only 160 House members will be elected instead of 240.

No second guess

There were no ifs, ands or buts attached to the announced decision of Senator Kennedy not to be a presidential candidate.

He spelled out the fact that he would not be a contender for the high office with an exactness and precision that needs no qualification or embellishment here or any other place. Kennedy said "no" to the candidacy in 1976. His statement was short, specific and could not have been more to the point.

No one will ever know all the reasons that together added up to that "no." The Kennedys are a private clan no matter how many of them hold the public spotlight. The Kennedys are fiercely protective of that privacy when they so desire. We all know families like that and there's nothing strange or odd about a desire to hold close the motives and promptings of people whose private lives sometimes dictate decisions.

If there were any key element of surprise in the Kennedy decision it was the degree of certainty and surety that underlined his words. Politicians seldom make announcements that are so clean-cut. They are over fond of leaving the political door open. But no one can say Kennedy did that Monday morning.

He gave his decision with such clarity that no second guesser can wonder what he meant.

DAVID AND GOLIATH

Here we are again

Well, here we are. Today is Sept. 26 and we've been in school almost three weeks.

For some (for most actually), getting back into the "swing" of school is pretty difficult but not impossible. We merely convince ourselves that we'll adjust. (Funny, I've been saying that for 10 years now.) Well, regardless. Some of us don't waste any time in picking up where we left off, whether it be perfecting a report card or organizing a newspaper.

Going South

By Harlan Green

Steven Garfinkle is an ordinary Newton South High School junior, not really any different than you or me. "Different" only in the fact that he is an organizer of a committee designed to solve some of the problems facing us, the high school and junior high school students of Newton.

"YOUth" was born last January in Steve's basement when he started discussing the fact that kids needed a place to spend free time, hold dances, and a place where they could go to relax and unwind.

Later he mentioned this to South guidance counselor, Rev. Charles Coyle of the Newton Youth Commission. Coyle was interested enough so that he invited Steve and several interested members to City Hall where they informed the Youth Commission as to the goals which Steve had clearly defined. They were: (1) To work as a youth-oriented group in dealing with the students' problems in school, recreation and life in Newton; (2) To make this organization a representative group of all the youth in Newton.

The Youth Commission supported Steve, but as with so many good ideas and beneficial programs, the problem of student apathy took hold. By the time some of the obstacles were worked out, the summer had rolled around and most of the kids had gone away.

But Steve stayed in Newton and participated on a student advisory council to the Youth Commission during the summer. It was during these meetings that the idea of a student-run newspaper was born and, through Steve's initiative was proposed at the commission's monthly meeting in September.

Steve has decided to work on establishing the paper at this time and all other plans for "YOUth" will come after the paper has been started. I later spoke with him at his home about the paper.

"The paper," he said, "will attempt to go into depth to give all high school and junior high school students a better understanding of what youth services there are in the city, such as Multi-Service Center, "Families Extended," Family Counseling Service and the Newton Community Service Center, and the programs they have to offer, and more specifically, on keeping students up-topdate on what is happening in their city and in this and other schools."

His "Short-term" goal right now is to get a staff of kids who are enthusiastic and interested in working on the paper and naming it, for he feels it is everyone's paper and it should be everyone's privilege to select a name for it.

"This will be a quarterly newspaper," he told me, "and will be mailed to the home of every junior and high school student in the city in addition to both the junior and high schools."

Fortunately, the city has agreed to pay for the paper, postage, and printing. However, they will not do any folding, stapling or stamping of the 10,000 copies.

Steve feels that there is a "communication gap" between all the different areas of the city and hopes the paper will bring the city together and bridge the "gap."

Right now he is in need of eldtors, photographers, writers, typists, folders, staplers and the like for about two to three weeks every four months. If you are interested in working on this paper or communicating any ideas to the Youth Commission, call them at 244-4700 or you can reach Steve at South in homeroom 4107. He can also be reached at Newton North through Lynne Friedlander in homeroom 1345.

The city will not support this project unless there is firm evidence of student support. Steve needs your help now. He doesn't expect any miracles.

As he puts it, "any small improvement will be a help and a step in the right direction."

Political Highlights

By JAMES G COLBERT

Condition of Ted's son big factor in decision

Senator Edward M. Kennedy's flat declaration that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1976 means several things:

1. It probably means that Ted has serious family problems, namely the condition of his courageous young son who underwent the amputation of a leg to prevent the spread of cancer through his system.

2. It means that Gerald Ford, in all likelihood, will be elected President of the United States in his own right in 1976. Senators Henry (Scoop) Jackson of the State of Washington, Walter Nondale of Minnesota and Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., of Texas, now the three top Democratic Presidential contenders, are not likely to cause any public dancing in the streets.

3. It means that Boston Mayor Kevin H. White may very well be chosen as the Democratic nominee for Vice President 22 months from now. White, perhaps the outstanding young Mayor of the country, is a symbol of urban concerns and the need for federal help in easing them.

4. It also means that the Democratic and Republican politicians, who have dreamed of standing for election to the U.S. Senate in 1976 in the event Ted Kennedy sought election to the Presidency, can awaken from their dreams and make other plans.

Earlier in the year, Senator Kennedy, in an interview with the writer, indicated strongly that he would not seek the Presidency. That was reported in this newspaper.

His greatest concern at that time seemed to be the physical condition of his fine young son for whom millions of people across the 50 states have said a quiet prayer.

Ted talked of many things and answered numerous questions during the interview. Richard Nixon was then still President.

But when Ted had finished and the interview was ended, we had the very strong conviction that Ted's decision on whether he would stand for the Presidency would hinge—not on Chappaquiddick, or the danger that he might be assassinated as were his two older brothers, or on the objections of other members of his family—but rather on the recovery of his son from the onslaught of cancer.

Ted seemed like almost any concerned father worried about a brave, young son who had a leg amputated to hold cancer in check.

Senator Kennedy answered every question put to him without hesitation—almost every one, that is. When he talked about his son, his voice broke. Political columnists across the United States are guessing that Ted Kennedy is remaining out of the Presidential race because either of Chappaquiddick or the danger that he will be killed if he is elected.

That is not our opinion.

The chance that Mayor Kevin White will be nominated as the Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1976 is much greater than is the likelihood that he will be elected as the nation's No. 2 man later that year.

White would be a good candidate for the Vice Presidency. He would surely carry Massachusetts. He would be a great asset to his Presidential running mate in Massachusetts, all of New England and numerous other states where there is a substantial Catholic vote.

But if Mondale, Jackson or Bentsen were the Democratic nominee for President, it would be almost a case of the tail wagging the dog. And they appear to be the three top Democratic possibilities.

White, of course, must be reelected Mayor next year to be in line for serious consideration for the No. 2 spot on the Democratic national ticket. But at the moment he does not appear to have any serious opposition between him and a third term as head of Boston's municipal government.

Friends claim Quinn will never run again

Close friends of Attorney General Robert H. Quinn express the belief that he has made his last political campagin and that he never will seek elective office again.

They dismiss the possibility that Quinn will stand for election as Mayor of Boston next year and assert they can see no likelihood of his attempting a political comeback in the future.

Quinn, according to those closest to him, will support Michael Dukakis in the coming election but will not seek a judgeship or any other appointive position from Dukakis if the latter is elected the next Governor.

Instead, they say, Quinn will return to the private practise of law.

In the clear light of hindsight, the political pundits have been citing some of the mistakes made by Quinn in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor, including the fact that he offended some of the newsmen covering him by not being sufficiently available to them.

We believe Quinn erred in delaying the announcement of his candidacy as long as he did, in making an agreement with Dukakis that neither would attack the other and in declining to debate Dukakis. His refusal to debate apparently hurt him badly in the closing stages of his campaign, when voters who had been undecided up to then were finally making up their minds.

It was Quinn, incidentally, who decided to scrap the pre-primary convention system of endorsing candidates for places on the two State Tickets.

Quinn probably could have won the endorsement of a Democratic State Convention. But when he consulted Dukakis, the latter would not agree to abide by the decision of a convention. So Quinn sent word to legislative leaders to repeal the law calling for Democratic and Republican State Conventions.

Whether Quinn might have defeated Dukakis in the Democratic primary if there had been a Democratic State Convention and Quinn had gained its endorsement, is a question politicians will be arguing about on cold nights next winter as they re-hash the might-have-been.

Quinn took his defeat graciously and like the professional politician he is. He pledged his support to Dukakis and left the political center stage, apparently never to return.

State Senate President Kevin Harrington and House Speaker David Bartley, both of whom supported Quinn against Dukakis, now express doubt that a former legislative leader could ever be elected Governor of Massachusetts.

They obviously base that opinion on the fact that Quinn, a former House Speaker, was defeated by Dukakis and that former Senate President Maurice A. Donahue was defeated by BostonhMayor Kevin H. White in the 1970 Democratic primary after Donahue had been endorsed by the Democratic State Convention.

Harrington and Bartley are astute politicians, but their sweeping statement probably is not completely true. Quinn ran for Governor at the wrong time.

The fact that Quinn was a former Speaker of the House did not hurt Quinn in his 1970 campaign for Attorney General; nor did it handicap John F. X. Davoren in his bid for election as Secretary of State four years ago.

When the Republicans controlled Massachusetts, it was traditional that the GOP leaders served an apprenticeship in the State Legislature, moving up the political ladder to become either Senate President or House Speaker. The Speakership was the springboard from which Leverett Saltonstall and Christian A. Herter went on to higher office.

Sumner Whittier fired GOP state chairman

When Sumner Whittier was running as the Republican nominee for Governor back in 1956, he won a number of political battles, but he lost the election war. FosterFurcolo defeated him for the Massachusetts Governorship.

Whittier was a colorful, articulate, able public leader who made a strong bid for Democratic and Independent votes. He broke away from the ties of the then powerful GOP Old Guard, as had Christian A. Herter before him.

In his political speeches Whittier emphasized that he lived in a "three-decker in Everett," and this presumably set him apart from those Republicans who resided in much more sumptuous dwellings.

One of the things Whittier wanted to do was place his own man in the Republican State Committee Chairmanship. This was one of the political battles he won.

He had the Republican State Committee called into session and insisted that Elmer Nelson be fired from the chairmanship.

Whittier had plenty of provocation. Elmer Nelson had been devoted to Christian Herter but openly hostile to Sumner Whittier, much more hostile than Williamv-Barnstead has been to Francis W. Sargent.

Nelson tried to persuade Christian A. Herter, Jr., to oppose Sumner Whittier for the Republican nomination for Governor. He said Whittier couldn't win election to the Governorship.

Whittier decided he couldn't possibly work with Nelson and had him ousted from the Republican State Chairmanship.

Political observers expressed the opinion at the tim that Whittier was making a mistake, that he would have been better advised to concentrate on his own campaign rather than to open new wounds within the Republican Party.

Nelson, they pointed out, might not do much to help Whittier, but he could not have supported Furcolo.

The Republican party was much stronger in Massachusetts then than it is now, and the GOP State Committee was a far more powerful organization then than it is today.

But in firing Nelson, Whitter, however much warranted his action, weakened himself for the subsequent important election.

Whittier was defeated by Furcolo in an election in which Dwight Eisenhower, seeking reelection to a second term as President, carried Massachusetts by a tremendous margin.

Political analysts expressed amazement at the time that a Republican Presidential condidate could roll up so great a plurality in the state and not carry the Republican candidate for Governor in with him.

In firing Nelson, Whitter caused a commotion which created Republican unrest. Democratic State Committee Chairman Bill Burke had a political holiday informing Nelson through the newspapers that he would bw welcomed with open arms into the Democratic party.

There may be a lesson in that for Governor Sargent and his political advisers. William I. Cowin unquestionably would be more help to Governor Sargent than William Barnstead as GOP State Chairman.

But the Republican party in Massachusetts is so close to extinction and the GOP State Committee is so pitiful an organization that it seems incredible the politically astute Governor Sargent would even consider creating a fuss by attempting to oust Barnstead.

It is not quite as astonishing as the belief of some GOP State Committee members that the Republican party in Massachusetts in some mysterious way would be helped by the defeat of Francis Sargent and the election of a Democratic Governor.

Right and wrong

To the Editor:

Of all the dozens of interviews I heard on television of congressmen and people on the street, about 90 per cent felt that the Ford pardon of the former president was a mistake.

Of this 90 per cent, not a single one wanted the former president ever sent to prison. What they wanted were two things: that the American peopie know what the former president had done wrong exactly as far at the law went, and that his actions did not set any precedent for future political figures to follow.

The idea of sending anyone to prison other than to prevent him from doing physical harm to innocent people to me is repugnant. To non-violent criminals it would be better to fine them, place them in a retrainining institution where they may be exposed to better men and philosophies and education and morality. People like Nixon need first to understand that they have done something wrong.

I agree wholeheartedly with James Colbert's comment implying that Nixon and other Watergate offenders should never be behind bars.

Our legal system is heartless and still quite barbaric. But Nixon and the other Watergate offenders and those who commit fraud, indulge in deprivation of character and invasion of privacy, conspiracy to commit a crime of non-violent nature and similar misdemeanors, must first come to understand that they have done wrong and others in our society who don't understand right from wrong must also be helped in the process.

Compassion is no simple, black and white issue. Honor thy father and mother does not imply being over-solicitous; bending so far over backward that you break your back in the process.

We must learn to be in the business of helping each other. This means being tough sometimes. It means pointing out the fact that the damage done to one member of our society endangers all.

Compassion to Mr. Nixon would be helping him to understand that what he did was wrong, cannot be allowed, and was indeed an impeachable offense.

Nixon still, from all the reports, believes that he made a few minor mistakes in judgment. It is unfair to the man annd the nation to let it hang like that, hang up in the air with no one understanding just what happened. The pardon by Ford left most of us confused and in the dark.

All interviews I heard of those who wanted Nixon to go to court and face his mistakes like a man stated that they never wanted to see the man go behind bars. If one reads the Watergate tapes, one must be dumbstruck by what went on in our government, not for a day but for months and years.

Compassion is helping people and sending a criminal out on the street without his being forced to face his mistake is utterly cruel and uncompassionate. Not to speak of what happens to the innocent who once more must suffer (like Mr. Ellsberg).

Compassion is helping people to face their difficulties. It is obvious that Mr. Nixon had moral and personal difficulties.

He has never understood the meaning of the words honesty, integrity or personableness.

I believe that there is barely a judge in teh country who does not feel sorry for the men and women he sends to prison. I'm sure that most judges wish there were some other way. Many judges are torn to pieces because they see that there is more than the criminal element in people they put away.

There is also good, and we must learn to foster that good rather than accentuate the bad as we are doing. Compassion is not an act of closing our eyes. It is an act of opening them, of waking up to events and times and moralities. It is helping people to understand that integrity and honesty are the only practical traits for people to have in order to live with each other.

A matter of priorities

(Editor's note: The following letter was sent to the Newton Board of Aldermen with a copy to the Newton Graphic)

Gentlemen:

It can probably be accepted as basic that delegation of power and responsibility is a necessity in our complex society today. We each perform in our own sphere to the best of our ability so that our contribution can be the most effective according too our powers and responsibility.

It is always a mystery to me, therefore, why, at various times, members of the Newton Board of Aldermen introduce measures concerning affairs of the national government; and, through these, take up their valuable time at meetings that should be concerned with the affairs of the City of Newton.

I can hear the rebuttal now — that this is a head-in-the-sand attitude and that what is good for the United States is good for Newton.

And I respond with the currently trite phrase that it is a matter of priorities. We have elected the members of the Board of Aldermen to deal with Newton affairs, and all is not so perfect in that department that attention can be spared for congressional affairs.

The citizens of Newton have a direct line to their congressmen; they do not need the intermediary office of the Board of Aldermen where national matters are concerned. By such actions, it seems to me, the Board makes itself look just a little bit ridiculous.

Library adds new services

Newton Free Library Director Virginia Tashjian has announced five new fall features planned to expand the interest and enthusiasm of library patrons.

A new sculpture collection, which is now on display, will begin to circulate Oct. 1. The collection consists of 21 pieces of sculpture ranging in style from classical to modern. The exhibit is enriched by annotated notes describing each piece.

Replicas of museum pieces, including the bust of Queen nefertiti, Henry Moore's "Reclining Female Figure," Maillol's "Seated Girl" and African and Greek pieces, are included in the collection.

Following the same borrowing procedure as for the circulating art collection, the sculptures can be borroed foi one month and can then be renewed. Either a painting or a sculpture may be borrowed at one time.

A second "first" for the Newton Free Library is a series of recorded music concerts to be held in the Trusttees' Room at the Main Library Tuesday beginning Oct. 1 from 12-1 p.m. Selected by members of the library staff, with Director Virginia Tashjian introducing the first program, the concert on Oct. 1 will feature "Overtures" by Beethoven, Von Suppe, Mendelsshohn, and Tchaikovsky.

Relevant books and recordings will be on display and available for borrowing. Written program notes will also be provided. People may lunch to music at the recorded concerts at the Main Library. Free coffee will be served during the concert.

Another NFL "first" is the Thursday morning free film series at the Newtonville Branch Library, 345 Walnut St.

Films will be screened at 10:15 a.m. beginning Thursday, Sept. 26, and will be the same films as those shown at the Main Library on Thursday evenings.

A fourth new fall feature is a monthly series of programs for reading enrichment at the Nonantum Branch Library, 144 Bridge St.

Ms. Tashjian will lead a discussion, "Potpourri of Magazines from Around the World," on Monday, Oct. 21 at 10:30 a.m. Coffee will be served.

Program packets including "The Single Parent" and "V.D. — A Massachusetts epidemic" are the fifth new fall feature. Made available through the Eastern Mass. Regional Library System, the NFL can loan films, books, a speaker resource list, pamphlets and booklists to clubs and organizations. People may call Mrs. Lynch, 527-7700, for additional information.

Main Library hours are Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 4 p.m.

Program for overweight girls

A program for overweight girls, ages 12 to 16, will soon begin meeting once a week at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. The group will meet for two hours for the duration of the school year.

A purpose of the program is to help overweight girls understand their weight problems and what is needed for them to solve their problems.

Before a girl joins the program, an interview will be held to clarify expectations and goals. A physical exam will be required to eliminate those whose weight problem has a physiological cause. Fee for the group meetings is $2 per week.

For further information, people may contact Irene Lamb, R.N., at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, 244-2800, ext. 380.

ID card registration underway

Recreation ID cards

Registration for receation ID cards is now underway at Newton North High School. Newton residents must have these cards in order to use the recreational facilities at Newton North High School for the fall and winter programs.

The first of this week, residents with last names beginning from A to L were processed. Beginning Sept. 26, those residents with last names beginning with M to Z may get their cards.

Newton residents who are unable to get their ID cards in this period may go to the North HighiSchool any weekday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 for the rest of September and through October. After that they may register one evening a week at NorthvHigh.

People who miss these dates, and are otherwise eligible, will be given an interim pass good for one week.

Those planning to register for their ID cards should bring proof of residence. A driver's license or utility bill will sufice. Students may present a library card or school ID card, or be accompanied by an adult who has the required proof.

Swim Class registration

Registration for the fall and winter swim classes at the Newton North HighSchool pool will be held Wednesday, Oct. 2 and Thursday, Oct. 3, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the pool.

Classes will include adult swimming, adult health club, beginner 1, beginner 2, advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer, and elementary diving.

The minimum age for registration is six years. Newton residents may sign up for only one class during the indoor season. This will allow more Newton people to take advantage of this facility. Those desiring to register for an additional class will be placed on a waiting list, and will be admitted if there is room. Registrants will be allowed only two absences per class, then they will be replaced by those awaiting a spot in that class.

In order for the swim classes, Newton residents must first obtain a recreation ID card and those seeking admission to the advanced classes should have a Red Cross card or equivalent proof of proficiency. Classes begin Monday, Oct. 14.

Toneastics

Toneastics classes for Newton women ahve already begun. They will be conducted at the Newton Centre Playground House, Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. for a six–week period. There is a fee for these classes. For information, people may call 969-3171.

Square Dancing

The Garden City Squares, through President Irving Park, invite Newton residents to join weekly classes held Monday nights from 8-10:30 p.m. at the Frank A. Day Junior High School on Monot Place, Newtonville.

The program is now in its third year and many have graduated from beginner status under the direction of Caller Archie Howell and the experienced dancers who participate in the classes. Parking is available and refreshmennts are served. Donation $1.25.

Girls street hockey

The Newton Recreation Department's Street Hockey League for girls in the sixth through ninth grades has begun its 1974 season.

Games are played Tuesday nights, beginning at 6 p.m. at Cabot Park. Players should bring sneakers but the Recreation Department furnishes the rest of the equipment.

Those interested in the league should call Fran Towle at 969-3171.

Library Players

Newton teen-agers interested in dramatics are invited to join the Newton Library Players, now casting and auditioning for productions to be presented this season.

The Players, sponsored by the Newton Free Library and the Newton Recreation Department, are directed by Dick Power. Meetings are held Thursday evenings from 7-10 p.m. and Sunday afternoons from 3-6 p.m. at the Newtonville Branch Library.

Adult badminton

Young people interested in joining the Players may call 969-3171 for additional information.

The fall and winter adult badminton program will begin on Thursday, Oct. 3. It will continue each Thursday night at the Warren Junior High School from 8-10:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jennie Rogan and Leo Passero direct the program for Newton men and women 16 and over. Those wishing to register should report to Warren Junior High any Thursday night at 8 p.m.

Ralph L. Wheeler recipient of award

At the Annual Meeting of Massachusetts Council for Homemaker-Home Health Aide Services held at the Sheraton-Lincoln Inn in Worcester on Saturday, Sept. 21, Mr. Ralph Loring Wheeler of Newton Centre was the recipient of the Effie Waddel Award as Homemaker of the year.

Mr. Wheeler was the first male to be employed by a Homemaker Service in Massachusetts and, possibly the first in the United States. On Sept. 20, 1965, he joined Intercommunity Homemaker Service which serves Brookline, Needham, Newton, Waltham and Wellesley and completed training as a home health aide in November, 1965.

He had retired from his position with the Purchasing Agent's Division of Administration & Finance Office of the Commonwealth and was looking for something to do on a part time basis to help others. He was referred to Intercommunity by the minister of the Harvard Church in Brookline, and came to the agency as a well qualified cook. He had learned this over the years as a member of the Appalachian Club.

Wheeler is very active in his church and in his community. He trains boys' choir at church. He is a member of the Newton Highlands Men's Club, the Newton Highlands Men's Glee Club and the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs for which is is also the librarian.

When the Massachusetts Council for Homemaker-Home Health Aide Services was established, it was apparent that membership and participation of homemakers was desirable. The Homemakers met in 1970 and elected him as the first Chairman of the Homemaker Committee of the Council. He served in that capacity on the Board of the Council for three years.

As a Homemaker-Home Health Aide, Wheeler has been very successful with ill, handicapped and elderly men. In the nine years he has been with Intercommunity his service has been valued by stroke patients, the prematurely senile and the handicapped. In these situations his help was relieved family members to permit them a respite from round the clock care, and the patients have enjoyed the pleasant male companionship which is quite often lacking to the elderly particularly.

Wheeler has been and is a most successful Homemaker–Home Health Aide and finds great satisfaction in helping people back to a happier existence. He is a very good example of the homemaker–home health aide who is selected, trained and employed by Intercommunity Homemaker Service, a not for profit social agency established to provide help in bomes affected by illness, aging, disability or gamily crisis regardless of creed, color, national origin or economic status. The tragedy is the communities do not provide sufficient numbers to meet the needs ij the area.

Intercommunity is always looking for competent men and women who have concern for the needs of others.

Birger is a 1943 graduate of the Tufts School of Engineering.

Cat show

The second annual championship cat show sponsored by the Mass. Colony Cat Club will be held Sept. 28 and 29 in the National Guard Armory on Concord St., Framingham.

Public show hours for both days are 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Proceeds will go to feline research.

Newton cat owners entering their cats include: Katherine and Margaret Burke, 46 Eden Ave., Pat Lituri, 52 Grove Hill Ave., and Mrs. Carl Muckenhoupt, 332 Winchester St.

Esther Stone leaves staff

Mrs. Esther Stone of Newton Highlands has retired from the staff of the Robert B. Brigham Hospital in Boston. Mrs. Stone worked as a medical technologist for 21 years in the clinical laboratory of the Robert B. Brigham.

A native of Ohio, Mrs. Stone graduated fromOhio Weslyan with a degree in chemistry before coming East to complete her technological education at Simmons College. After working as a technologist at Choate Hospital in Woburn she came to the Robert B. Brigham as a technologist in hematology and chemistry.

Mrs. Stone, husband Mason, and their four English Setters are planning to retire to a 300–acre farm in the Finger Lakes region of New Hampshire.

ELLEN WAYNE of 23 Tanglewood Rd., Newton Centre, has been selected for listing in "Outstanding Young Women of America for 1974." Ms. Wayne is a 1964 graduate of Newton South High School and received yer bachelor's degree from Northeastern University in 1969 and her graduate degree in education from Northeastern in 1971. The daughter of Benjamin and Rose Wayne was a member of Kappa Delta Pi Honor Society and an elected member of the Executive Board of the honor society.

Turesky named sales director

American Bankers Life Assurance Company of Florida has announced the appointment of Leonard Turesky of Newton as executive sales director of its Eastern Massachusetts region.

A native of Boston, Turesky achieved the distinction of "Man of the Year" and qualified for the Millionaire's Conference with his former company. He also attained prestigious honor club membership for national leadership in the areas of personal sales and agency production, and has had extensive management training in both sales and agency management.

Turesky is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and received a commission as a second lieutenant upon graduation from the Massachusetts Military Academy, presently attached to the First Corps of Cadets as Medical Service Corps officer in the Massachusetts National Guard.

Newton Boys' Club to reopen Sept. 30

The Newton Boys' Club will open the doors for its 1974-1975 fall and winter seasons' programs on Monday, Sept. 30 at 2:30 p.m.

The club will be open daily Monday through Friday from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. On Saturdays the hours range from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All boys ages 7 to 18 years are eligible for membership and are advised to register soon as possible. Early registration will give an opportunity to sign up for favorite projects and scheduled activities planned for the coming season.

Samuel Crocetti, executive director of the Newton Boys' Club stresses that the main objective of the club programs is to "provide boys with an opportunity to develop basic skills in areas of interest to them, and in this way help them develop a sense of responsibility to them and to others.

"We feel that by stressing qualities such as sportmanship, co-operation, preservearance and honesty we can help the boys not only to build better lives for themselves, but also to become valuable assets to the community. The degree to which we can accomplish this goal is our measure of a successful season."

A record membership of 648 boys and young men were served on a daily basis last year. New equipment has been installed in the complex and some alterations have been made in the club rooms to insure the best possible accomodations for the growing membership.

Volunteer program to be discussed Oct. 1

Family Counseling Service (Region West), In., a mental health agency serving nine towns west of Boston will hold a meeting on Tuesday evening, (Oct. 1) to inform the community about a program it has been running for the past five years.

"The Mother-Child Home Program" is an adventure in early childhood education which attempts, preventively, to break the cycle of school failure, discouragement and eventual school dropout by trying to ensure maximum stimulation for children in their homes. In this program for two-and-three-year-olds, volunteers show mothers how to use toys and books to have fun with their children while helping them learn.

Out of 326 "compensatory education" programs across the nation only 10 were given an "exemplary" rating. "The Mother-Child Home Program" was one of these. Family Counseling (Region West), Inc. is so enthusiastic about the gains that participants in this program have made, they would like to share the details with others interested in the development of preschoolers.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Acquinas Junior College on Jackson Road in Newton. The public is invited.

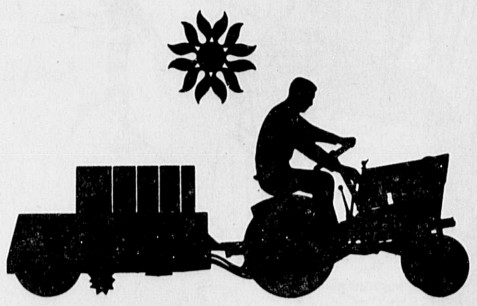

TELEVISION NOTES

The Public Broadcasting Service stations, beginning Jan. 13, will telecast a filmed series, "The Romantic Rebellion," created, written and narrated by Lord Kenneth Clark. There will be a one-hour introductory program for this series about the art world of the late 18th and early 19th centuries, followed by 14 half-hour segments.

Chamber of Commerce to hold annual Achievement Dinner Oct. 3

The Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce will hold its 16th annual Achievement Dinner on Thursday evening, Oct. 2, at Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill.

Arch MacDonald, political editor of WCVB-TV, will receive the Chamber's 1974 Achievement Award. Mrs. Mary B. Newman, secretary of manpower affairs for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, will be the principal speaker.

MacDonald, a native of Florida, is a graduate of Providence College and began his broadcasting career at WPRO, Providence, R.I. He was the first television news anchorman in New England, beginning his association with WBZ-TV in 1948 and continuing for the next 20 years. MacDonald did the first newscast on television in New England (June 9, 1948).

He joined WKBG-TV as anchorman of the 10 p.m. news and special reporter prior to joining WCVB-TV, where he is political editor and achorman for the midday news on weekends.

MacDonald has won numerous awards in broadcasting, including being the first broadcast journalist to be named to the Academy of New England Journalists and winner of the George Foster Peabody, DuPont and H.P. Davis National Award from NBC.

A veteran of World War II service in the Navy, where he achieved the rank of Commander, he received the bronze star it Iwo Jima. He is married and resides in Needham.

Mrs. Newman is the highest ranking woman in Massachusetts state government today and has had a distinguished career as a civic leader and government official. She has been secretary of manpower affairs since 1971.

A graduate of Swarthmore College, she is former president of the Cambridge League of Women Voters and vice president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, in which capacity she served as first editor and co-author of "Massachusetts State Government: A Citizen's Handbook." Formerly a member of the executive staff of the American Friends Service Committee, she also served as secretary and assistant to the comptroller of Swarthmore College and as a member of the College's board of managers. Except for the period of 1955-1957, when she was a member of the Massachusetts Parole Board, she was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives from 1953-70.

She has received numerous civic awards and has held board memberships in such organizations as United Way, Cambridge Community Center and the Cambridge Civic Association. Married to Professor Edwin B. Newman of the Harvard Psychology Department, she holds an honorary degree from Regis College and resides in Cambridge.

MacDonald and Mrs. Newman join an outstanding group of Achievement Award recipients and speakers who have helped make the dinner a community civic event since its inception in 1959. Among the former recipients are Leverett Saltonstall, Howard Whitmore Jr., Judge Monte G. Basbas, Judge David Rose, Judge Franklin Flaschner, Miss Adelaide Ball, Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J., Joseph E. Cronin, Dr. Earl Stevenson, Dr. Charles Stark Draper and the late Leslie B. Cutler. Among the past speakers are President Gerald Ford, Senator Edward Brooke, John Collins, and Wehrner von Braun.

Chamber President Robert L. Tennant is dinner chairman. Tickets are available through the Chamber office (244-5300).

Newton Guidance Clinic has open house Sept. 29

An open house will be held at the Newton Guidance Clinic, 64 Eldredge St., Newton Corner, on Sunday, Sept. 29, from 3 to 6 p.m. to introduce new and old staff members to the community and explain the programs and services offered.

Dr. Elizabeth Herman, director of the clinic, and Barbara Rubin, president of the Newton Mental Health Association, announce a full range of psychiatric, psychological and social work services by a multi-disciplinary staff, including long, short and problem-centered therapy; group therapy for early and late teenage boys, adolescents, single parents, couples, and families; parent effectiveness groups; and a crisis-intervention program. In addition the clinic provides consultation and educational services to various agencies in the community and supervises a nursery school for retarded children.

The Big Sister-Big Brother program is conjointly sponsored by the School department and the Newton Mental Health Association under the supervision of a clinic staff member and involves students from both high schools who volunteer time in a supportive service to younger children in treatment at the clinic.

The NMHA also sponsors a mental health counselor program, whereby volunteers work under the supervision of a clinic staff member in a supportive role with parents of children in treatment, and a professional speakers bureau to lead discussion groups on specific issues as requested by the community.

Complete staff personnel are:

Psychiatry: Elizabeth Herman, M.D., director (half-time psychiatric position not yet filled(. Psychology: David Gallant, Ph.D., CHIEF: Audrey Jones, Ph.D.: Richard Hammer, Ph.D. candidate; Anne Arndt, Ph.D. candidate.

Social Work: Joan Burnis, M.S.W., chief; Phyllis Dana, A.C.S.W.; Dorothy Berman, M.S.W.; Marion O'Day, M.S.S.S.; Penelope Stevens, M.S.W.

Consultants: William Eger, M.D.; Julian Sacks, M.D.; Richard Pomerance, Ph.D.; Scott Rutan, Ph.D.; Carolyn Thomas, D.S.W.

Mental health counselors: Barbara Kasman, Ronna Klein, Emily Lamont, Linda Weis, Nancy Hart.

Trainees: Bill Betcher, Andrea Rubin, Mike Seligman, Richard Siegel.

Nursery school director: Virginia Odell.

Church School opens nursery department

Under the direction of Mrs. Donald Benders, the nursery department of the Weekday Church School in Newton Highlands began classes for three-and-four-year-olds in the community on Sept. 9 at 9 a.m.

The group of three-year-olds, meeting in Dewey House on Columbus Street, Newton Highlands, is taught by Mrs. Charles Dauwalter, Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard, and Mrs. Donald Duguid. This class now has a waiting list with possible registration for new pupils in the second semester in February.

The nursery class for four-year-olds, in the hands of Mrs. Benders and Mrs. Jan Koning, has a few openings at this time, and meets in the Congregational Church on Lincoln Street.

This ecumenical church school of both St. Paul's Episcopal Church and The Newton Highlands Congregational Church welcomes families in the community regardless of denomination.

The nursery department operates from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Mondays through Thursdays and follows the public school schedule of holidays and vacations. It has a diversified program consisting of physical and creative activities. Kindergarten preparation is made available from January through May. Further information may be obtained by calling 527-3898.

Dr. Taeusch appointed to hospital post

Dr. H. William Taeusch Jr. has been appointed pediatrician-in-chief of the Boston Hospital for Women, Children's Hospital Medical Center, Beth Israel Hospital, and Harvard Medical School.

Taeusch was formerly assistant professor of pediatrics and associate director of the perinatal biology laboratory at McGill University.

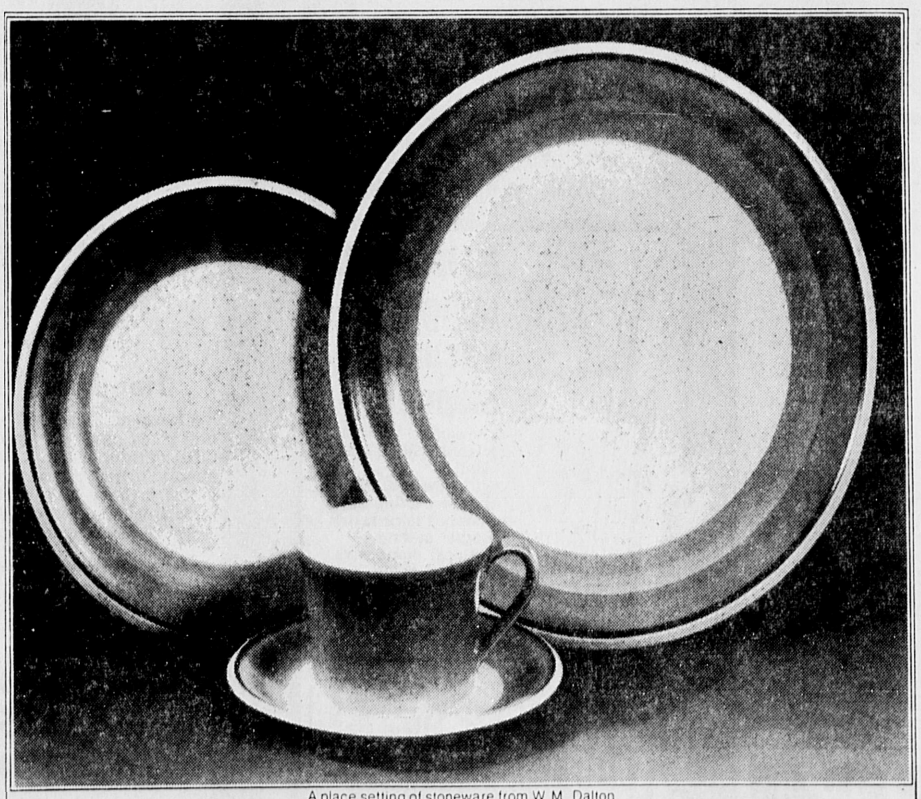

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Taeusch graduated from Harvard College (A.B. degree) in 1961, and from Case Western Reserve University (M.D. degree) in 1965. He interned in pediatrics at University Hospital in Cleveland and served his residency in pediatrics at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

A diplomat in the American Academy of Pediatrics, Taeusch has published a score of papers which deal with lung development. Many of these papers were published with Dr. Mary Ellen Avery, the recently-appointed physician-in-chief at Children's Hospital Medical Center.

Edwards to serve as advisor

Robert A. Edwards, 77 Davis Ave., West Newton, has been named to serve as faculty advisor at Wentworth Institute in Boston, according to an announcement by Edward T. Kirkpatrick, Wentworth president.

The Newton resident, a member of the Wentworth faculty, will serve as section advisor to students for the 1974-75 academic year.

In 1970 the amount of surplus left after the tax rate was set was $251,237; in 1971, $265,026; in 1972, only $24,246 and in 1973, $326,806.

The three other appropriation requests that affect the tax rate are the $1.2 million for wage increases, $1.1 million for the second year of a three-year bonding of teachers' salaries, and $400,000 for solid waste disposal.

Already committed to the salary bonding, the Board approved the other two items, which actually constitute a supplemental budget in that they have been added to the $61 million budget passed last March and the tax rate was computed on the total.

The community schools program was finally assured of the money for its $27,100 budget for the 1974-75 season when in a recess meeting the Finance Committee approved the release of $10,000, which was approved by the Board.

(At a Finance Committee meeting Tuesday night the remainder was approved and will be voted on by the Board Oct. 7. The School Department and the city share the expense.)

A little late to preserve sleep this year, an ordinance was passed regulating the hours of use of gasoline-powered lawnmowers, chain saws, and the like.

After Ald. Joan Saklas suggested that on Saturday commercial gardeners need to be able to start work early, the hours were set at 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day except Sunday, when the hours will be 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Service notes

Navy Lieutenant Carl I. Lundquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Lundquist of 33 Hancock St., Auburndale, is serving aboard the destroyer escort USS Bowen, winner of Destroyer Squadron 20's Battle Efficiency "E" for Excellence Award.

Ships nominated for the annual award are judged on operational performance, departmental inspection results and an overall evaluation of training and readiness.

As a crewmember, Lundquist was commended for his contribution to the initiative and professional competence displayed aboard the vessel. He is homeported at Charleston, S.C.

A 1968 graduate of Marquette University, Milwaukee, with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology, he joined the Navy in June 1968.

Support sought for the National Guard

NEWTON—General Motors executive James M. Roche called on employers today to sign a statement of support for the National Guard and Reserve programs.

Roche, who is serving as chairman of the National Committee for Employers Support of the Guards and Reserve, addressed a breakfast of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce. He said that there are several ways that employers can encourage employee participation in the Reserves and Guard.

One type of support is for employers to allow military leaves of absence without causing employees to sacrifice personal vacation time. Employers could also provide full pay for the military period, or make up the difference between the military pay and the civilian pay of the employee.

A possible deterent in the path to Guard and Reserve enlistment has been concern by employees that it will interfere with promotional changes. Roche said that employers could appease the concern by giving employees who are doing military service equal promotional consideration.

Roche said that 47 million employees are now covered by statements of support from employers. This represents approximately 56 per cent of the work force.

Roche, former chairman of the board and president of General Motors, sees the Reserve and National Guard as a central part of the United States' overall military operation. He said that a strong Reserve and Guard force allows the lowering of defense costs and enables participating employees to gain new skills.

Handwork exhibit planned

A handwork exhibit will be held at the Braeburn Senior Citizen Center on Oct. 1. All Newton senior citizens are invited to bring their handmade articles to show others.

The Center is open every other Tuesday from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. It is sponsored by the City of Newton. People bring sandwiches, and coffee, tea, and cookies are served.

Bus transportation is available to the Center. People may call the Department of Human Resources at Newton City Hall, 244-4700, for a reservation.

Adult volunteers now being interviewed at Science Museum

Boston's Museum of Science announces it is now holding interviews for prospective adult volunteers interested in fall and winter commitments.

Some men and women are needed to act as visitor guides within selected areas of the museum. Rather than being tour leaders, the guides provide information, helping visitors to obtain the greater+greatest possible appreciation of exhibits.

To qualify, volunteers should have a background in science, whether pursued as a hobby or through formal education, and in daz+ dealing - with the public or in teaching.

Other volunteers are needed for Project Eye-Opener which gives first and second-grade, inner-city children a free tour of the museum. Each volunteer takes a group of from two to four children through the exhibit halls and to a playroom where they get acquainted with live animals. The friendly, individual attention the childe+children receive is an important part of the experience. This program, run on Monday mornings, offers a volunteer-manned nursery for little children accompanying their mother-volunteers.

People of varied backgrounds witbaa+with an interest in broadening children's horix+horizons are invited to apply.

Tthe third assignment for volunteers is in the museummuseum's gift shop where sce+science crafts and hobby materials are sold, as well as gift items from around the world. Volunteers assist the staff in sales and other duties of a retail operation, with the gains going toward the support of the . requirement.

In addition, the Museum frequently has assignments for volunteers with specialized talents.

To make an appointment for an interview, call the volunteer office (Service League) at 723-2500.

Herbert Abramson chairman of Boston University 'Octoberfest'

Three Newton men have been working closely with fellow alumni, students, and administrators in planning Boston University's first annual "Octoberfest," which runs from Oct. 1-5.

A 1949 graduate of the University's College of Business Administration (now known as the School of Management), Herbert Abramson of Newton is chairman of Octoberfest. Also the chairman of the 1973 Homecoming at Boston University and a national vice-president of the General Alumni Association, he is the president of Silver Lake Dodge Company in Newton.

Comprised of a University-wide slate of events, Octoberfest is designed to de-emphasize the traditional importance of athletics in the annual homecoming festival, and encourage a greater social and intellectual exchange between all members of the community. The five-day event is unique in that, unlike homecomings which are organized primarily by alumni, Octoberfest has been planned in co-operation by some 300 students, alumni and administrators. In concert with this principle is the Octoberfest theme of "Co-operation, Communication, and Community."

Activities begin at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 1, in the George Sherman Student Union, with a "Gone but Not Forgotten Film Fest;" movies starring such greats as the Three Stooges, Laurel and Hardy, the Marx Brothers, and the Road Runner will be screened.

On Wednesday evening, at 6 p.m., the Tanglewood Festival Chorus will conduct a rehearsal in Jacob Sleeper Hall at West Campus. This night also marks the beginning of the University Distinguished Lecture Series for 1974-1975. The opening address, sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts Forum and the alumni association, will be delivered by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

The bank of the Charles River is the place to be at 3 p.m. on Thursday, when the women's crew rows against the men. The women's team recently became the first Boston University outfit to participate in international competition when they represented the United States at the World Games in Lucerne, Switzerland.

The construction of alumni and student floats will continue all that night behind the School of Management, in preparation for Friday's Octoberfest parade, which begins at 3 p.m. on Bay State Road and will travel the length of Commonwealth Avenue to Nickerson Field. A Bavarian Beerfest at the West Campus plaza precedes the 7 p.m. kick-off on Friday evening for the annual Homecoming football game between Boston University's Terriers and the Huskies of Northeastern. The Terriers are looking for their second consecutive win over their cross-town rivals.

Octoberfest activities of special interest conclude on Saturday with an all-day country fair on the student mall behind Marsh Chapel, and an 8 p.m. Greek Gala featuring Greek and American food, music and dancing. Included in the plans for the country fair is a collection of exhibits representing different student organizations on campus.

Donald Pressman of Newton, a 1956 graduate of the University's College of Business Administration (now known as the School of Management), and a 1951 graduate of Harvard University's Gaduate Business School, is co-chairman of the pre-game Bavarian Beerfest.

David Hollowell of Auburndale is chairman of the Alumni Float Committee for the Octoberfest parade. Hallowell received a bachelor's degree in 1969 from the University's College of Engineering and a master of engineering degree in 1972.

Needs of Vietnamese orphans to be discussed on television

Three representatives of My Friends' House, Inc. (MFH) — a Newton-based program offering care to Vietnamese orphans — will be guests on the "Good Morning Show" of WCVB-TV (Channel 5) in Boston at 9 a.m. on Sept. 30 to discuss their work being done in Saigon.

The guests will be Barbara Harting of Cohituate, an MFH board member and Marc Schwartz of Rockport, an MFH volunteer, and MFH Executive Director Sally Darby. Harting and Schwartz will bring along their adopted Vietnamese children, Nissa and Aram.

My Friends' House operates a nutrition center in Saigon, South Vietnam. Its staff there takes in critically malnourished and ill children from local orphanages. The children are given intensive nutritional and medical care, and then returned.

MFH is preparing to open a second center in the late autumn to double its capacity of care to 100 children.

Its representatives on television will discuss the needs of the orphans in South Vietnam, demonstrating what types of assistance can be provided by individuals in the U.S. Such help can be through contributions of funds, supplies recruiting personnel for the new center, and organizing fund raising events.

MFH's Vietnam center is administered by an American husband and wife team who train local women as nurse-aids in basic child care, nutrition and hygiene.

The U.S. staff of My Friends' House, headed by Ms. Darby, has two paid members and eight volunteers. Because of this, and since many supplies are donated, administrative costs of the program are kept low. This allos the greatest possible proportion of funds to be channeled into direct service to the children.

My Friends' House has a limited program placing with American families those children at the centers who are available for adoption. In late autumn, it will institute a service to place healthy children of South Korean leprosy patients with American families.

MFH recently received national television exposure on NBC's "Tomorrow" Show, which broadcast an interview of the administrators of the Saigon center.

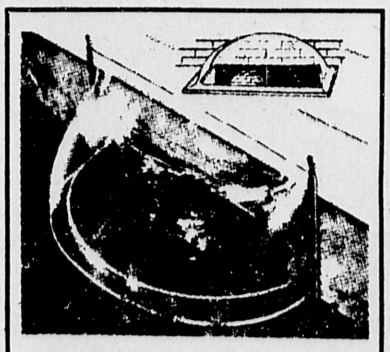

My Friends' House has tax exempt status with the Internal Revenue Service. Its home office is located at 161 Auburn St., Auburndale.

Country Players name choreographer and musical director for "Pal Joey"

The Newton Country Players have announced the selection of Barbara Anthony as choreographer and Peter Sklar as musical director of their season's curtain-raiser, Rogers and Hart's musical comedy, "Pal Joey." It will be directed by Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill.

Performances are slated for Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 15-16, 22-23 and 29-30. The production is available for programming at reduced rates to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising for Sunday through Thursday bookings, Nov. 14 to Nov. 30, at Pomroy Playhouse, 84 Eldredge St., Newton, with its seating capacity of approximately 200.

During her four years as featured solo dancer specializing in jazz and ballet with New York's Latin Quarters, Miss Anthony worked with choreographers Ronnie Lewis and Ron Fields, the latter noted for his dance assignments in the Broadway shows and film productions of "Cabaret," "Applause" and "Zorba." She worked also with well-known choreographer Peter Gennaro ("Fiorello," "Mr. President," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown") during her stint as a regular member of his national TV show.

Miss Anthony received her formal training in ballroom dancing locally at Arthur Murray Dance Studios and in ballet with Marie Govone, Virginia Williams, of the Boston Ballet, and at the Harriet Hoctor Ballet School. Professional training in jazz and modern dance was received from Luigi Maddox of New York City.

She received her start professionally in metropolitan night clubs and on local TV shows as partner of a dance team with Joe Case, currently a Hollywood film dance director. In New York, she appeared on national TV as a dance soloist, her more notable performances being on the Ed Sullivan Show and the Bell Telephone Hour. Miss Anthony performed also as featured dancer on a number of industrial tours.

Certified as a student at Lee Strasberg's Actors Studio, N.Y.C., she appeared in many films including "Murder, Inc." as a dancer and actress, the latter film featuring Stuart Whitman, Mai Britt and Peter Falk. She appeared also in a straight acting role in "Gril in the Nigh" with Ann Francis and Julius Monk. For national TV, she appeared also as an actress on shows sponsored by Alcoa and U.S. Steel.

Other credits include her choreography of an equity production of "Fiddler on the Roof," and commercial modeling for magazine layouts for national corporations including Reminghton-Rand and Breck's Shampoo.

Currently a candidate for a threatre arts degree at Northeastern University, Peter Sklar received a scholarship for piano and theory from Julliard School of Music, N.Y.C., at the age of 12.

Sklar studied piano for nearly 20 years under several teachers including Adele Marcus, Katherine Parker and Donald 'walker, and received training in acting from Boston Repertory Tehater.

For the past few summers, he has held the post of dramatics and music counselor at various camps in New York and Connecticut and has accompanied and assisted in the direction of numerous school and community productions of Broadway musical comedies, including "The Music Man," "West Side Story," "Gypsy," "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," "The Apple Tree," "Guys and Dolls," and "Fiddler on the Roof."

Presently, he holds the position of dramatics director for "Beginnings," a neighborhood youth center in Newton Corner.

Also on the staff of "Pal Joey" is Ruth Boynick of Newton Centre, as choral director. She has served in a similar capacity with Temple Beth Avodah, Newton Centre, for the past 12 years. Previous assignments with the Players as choral director include the productions of "Sam Stiller, Private Eye," "Gabriel Ghost," "Gold in the Hills," and "Anything Goes."

On stage for the Players, Mrs. Boynick has essayed the roles of Mabel in "The Pajama Game," Lizzie Jones, the housekeeper, in "Gold in the Hills," Miss Skillon in "See How They Run," Sue in "Bells Are Ringing," Miss Jones in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," Doris in "Damn Yankees," Agatha in "Guys and Dolls," a nun in "Can Can" and a housewife in "Inherit the Wind." A 12-year veteran with the group, she has worked also as costume designer and props chief and is a mainstay on the Players' board of trustees.

With book by John O'Hara, music by Richard Rogers and lyrics by Lorenz Hart, "Pal Joey" features such music as "I Could Write a Book" "My Funny Valentine," "There's a Small Hotel," and "The Lady Is a Tramp." Co-producers of the play are Margaret Annis of Newtonville and Marilyn Krassin of Newton Centre.

Founded in 1956, the Newton Country Players is a nonprofit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels.

For further information concerning individual membership or theatre party sponsorship, people may phone Jim Sloane at 969-2665 or write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159.

Multi-Service Center to start expansion drive

The Newton-Wellesley-Weston Multi-Service Drug Center has announced the appointment of Newton Mayor Theodore Mann as honorary chairman for its 1974-75 fund-raising campaign.

The center is a non-profit organization staffed by professionals in the fields of medicine, psychology and social work, and by volunteers from the community. It provides free medical services, emergency housing, and crisis and extended counseling for adolescents and their families from the local area.

The center is seeking to expand its program to include 24-hour, seven-day per week service to the community, parent education workshops and preventive education dealing with health and drugs. Larger quarters are also being sought to house the center and its many activities.

The expansion drive will begin on Oct. 1. Anyone wishing to help with the campaign or interested in more information about the center may call 244-4802.

Newton Savings Bank is now
MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS

The name "Newton Savings Bank" has served us well for more than 100 years. But "Newton Savings Bank" no longer adequately describes us. We started in Newton in 1829, but because you've liked our way of doing business, we've grown. We now have offices in Needham, Waltham and Wellesley in addition to the Newtons. But more important, we're a Mutual Savings Bank. And proud of it. It just makes good sense to tell people about it. So we're changing our name. Newton Savings Bank is now MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS.

The word mutual has a very special meaning. Mutual means that our only purpose is to serve our customers and our community. Not our stockholders, because we don't have any stockholders.

We've kept everything that you liked about Newton Savings Bank. The same friendly tellers, the same eight neighborly offices, and we're still dedicated to saving, lending, insuring and helping your town and money grow. Because our customers make up our strength, we're now bigger and stronger than ever.

Our new name MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS describes not only what we are, but the way we serve you.

What's in a name? Now you know.

MUTUAL BANK FOR SAVINGS

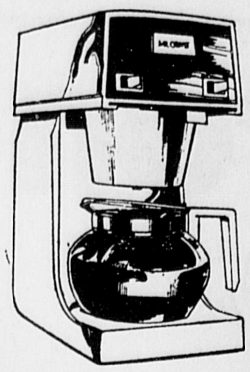

You can still call us Newton Savings Bank till you get used to our new name.

A Bridge Too Far, by Cornelius Ryan. (Simon & Schuster, $12.50.) Conceived by Field Carshal Montgomery, reluctantly approved by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the battle of Arnhem, the greatest airborne operation of World War II, ended in abject failure.

Cornelius Ryan brilliantly recounts this attempt by a combined British and American force to sneak through the northern "back door" of Germany in 1944 and cut short the war.

The Arnhem bridge in central Holland was the key. Montgomery sent two U.S. airborne divisions and one British division, a total of 35,000 men, to "lay a carpet of airborne troops down over which ground forces can pass," as one optimistic British general described the operation.

But the British ground troops, fighting north along a corridor from Belgium and led by the Irish Guards, was blocked. As one bitter lieutenant said, "Arnhem and those paratroopers were just ahead and, almost within sight of that bloody bridge, we were stopped. I never felt such morbid despair."

Ryan has written about more sprawling, complex operations in "The Longest Day" and his book on the battle for Berlin. But here the biting pain of defeat results in a far more grippingly suspenseful story.

Ironies abound: the British ignored a report from the Dutch underground that warned of a buildup of German strength in the attack area; the complete attack order plan, including even the names of the British divisions, was captured by the Germans but ignored as suspect.

Ryan writes clearly, dramatically, with mounting impact, never omitting the telling detail. A Dutch nurse watches from a window as Germans dig foxholes, thinking what a "beautiful view of the battle" she will have. Nearby the American soldier who will become her husband is landing by parachute.

A slambang important story of war and men.

Joan Hanauer (UPI) ——

The Dark Forest, by Raymond Foxhall. (St. Martin's, $6.95) The gummick of using a British detective, Harry Adkins, based on a real life historical character, adds an intriguing flavor to this tale of murder in the days when Great Britain was warring with Napoleon's France. Adkins uncovers a French spy network and jousts with a group of Irish rebels. The background of early 19th Century England gives the novel its special atmosphere.

The Jones Men, by Vern E. Smith. (Regnery, $7.95) Here is a fast, vulgar book that details the world of drugs and crime in all its terror and violence. A big shipment of drugs is hijacked, setting off a mob war for control of the action. The journalist author's intimate knowledge of the drug scene supplies an almost frightening authenticity.

Flash, by Mel Juffe. (Viking, $7.95) A governor dies in a fall from the Waldorf-Astoria and reporter Max Peiper is assigned to find his killer, a proper job for this raucous, slightly insane newsman. En route, weird people jump about like popcorn under fire, events whip and snap. The pace is rapid, zany and often very funny, and the author was once a newspaperman himself.

Cavett, by Dick Cavett and Christopher Porterfield. (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $8.95) Try as he may, Dick Cavett is no more revealing of himself in this book than he is on Wide World of Entertainment. It's a pity when a potentially interesting man fails to tell the reader his innermost thoughts in an autobiography, but at least the jokes are funny.

Frankenstein Unbound, by Brian W. Aldiss. (Random House, $5.95) A fine piece of science fiction in which the main character finds himself transported to the early 19th Century where he becomes involved with the creator of Frankenstein's monster. Aldiss, who has been around the science fiction field a while, is a professional who almost unfailingly is fun to read.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening; a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparalleled sound sensation . . . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation.

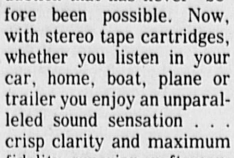

1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

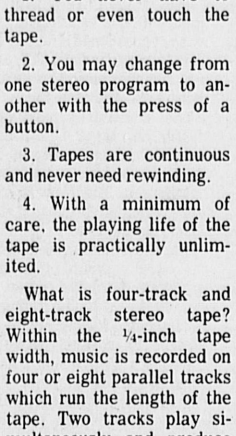

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited.

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.

How does a tape cartridge work? Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

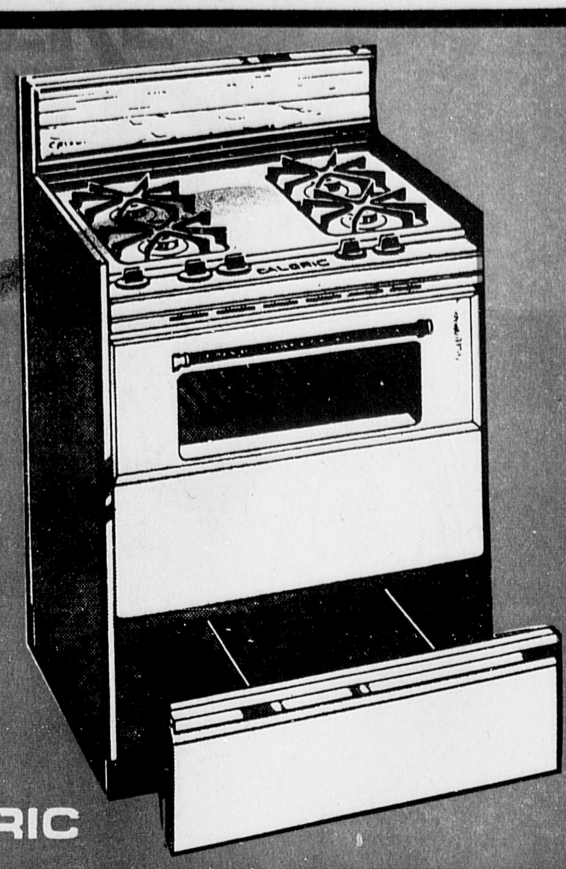

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

Maine, N.H. seek boundary compromise

CONCORD, N. (UPI) — The compromise proposal ratified by Maine and New Hampshire to settle their centuries-old marine boundary dispute is on the way to a special master appointed by the U.S. Supreme Court.

New Hampshire's special counsel in the boundary dispute, Richard Upton, said Tsesday he had been notified that Maine officials had signed the proposal.

Upton said New Hampshire had signed it Friday and sent it to Maine for final state action.

The proposal roughly splits in half 2,400 acres of marine territory between Portsmouth, N.H., and the Isles of Shoals, lobster-rich waters disputed since the 1630s.

A small group of New Hampshire fishermen have protested the boundary compromise and say they plan to intervene when retired Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark, the special master hearing the case, considers the consent decree.

If Clark approves the plan agreed to by the governors and councils of both states, it then would be submitted to the U.S. Supreme Court for final action.

Only Monday night, Harrison Workman, a Portsmouth fisherman, appeared before the New Hampshire Republican Party Platform Committee asking support for the fishermen in their attack on the settlement by included in the party platform. The Democrats agreed at their convention this weekend to back the fishermen.

Mal-and New Hampshire have disputed the area between Portsmouth and the tiny Isles of Shoals, a cluster of little islands about 10 miles from Portsmouth, for years.

King George II in 1740 split the isles between the two colonies, but the actual line between the isles and the mainlands never was clearly established.

Maine has stiffer regulations for lobstermen. Trouble broke out in 1973 when Maine began arresting New Hampshire lobstermen in the disputed waters, claiming it was Maine waters and Maine regulations must be followed.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire ordered the state's attorney general, Warren Rudman, to take the case to the Supreme Court.

A two-state boundary commission had worked without success for several years on the case. Upton was chosen as New Hampshire's special counsel because he was a member of that commission and was intimately acquainted with the problem.

A line curving southward appeared on U.S. Geological Survey Maps in 1916, with no apparent legal basis. That line was not questioned officially by New Hampshire until 1966, and was largely ignored by fishermen of the two states.

The fishermen used the "lights on range" line, a line established by taking a sighting from two shore-based lighthouses. The New Hampshire fishermen argue that still should be the line.

The settlement agreed to by the states would run the boundary down the center of the main channel leaving Portsmouth harbor until it intersects a line between Odiorne's Point and Kitts' Rock Whistling buoy. At that point it turns southeast to the center of Gosport Harbor, which in reality is a passage between two of the Isles of Shoals, marking the boundary between the islands owned by Maine and those owned by New Hampshire.

It's a Ford White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "It's a Ford White House now," said Press Secretary Ron Nessen, a signal the transition period is over. "It's not a Nixon White House."

But to some observers the Ford stamp is more apparent in style than staff.

Some of the more prominent aides in Richard M. Nixon's administration are still on the payroll.

Among them are Ken W. Clawson, former director of White House communications who waged a campaign to help the Nixon administration survive. Clawson moved out of his plush suite in the Executive Office Building this week. Aides say he is still on the payroll, but is living at present in San Clemente, Calif.

Speech writer Patrick J. Buchanan, a major conservative figure throughout the Nixon years, retains his EOB office. Buchanan, according to a high-ranking aide, hoped Ford would appoint him ambassador to South Africa, and a memo seeking the post was forwarded to the President.

The Rev. John McLaughlin, the Jesuit priest and speech writer who was outspoken in his defense of Nixon, will be leaving the White House soon, according to Nessen.

So far, no one in the White House seems to know howgmany Nixon holdovers there are and who is supervising them.

All that may change when NATO ambassador Donald Rumsfeld comes aboard Friday as the new White House chief of staff. Rumsfeld, 42, a former Illinois congressman, succeeds Alexander M. Haig, Jr. in the powerful position of presidential administrator and coordinator.

Rumsfeld headed the transition team which reportedly recommended that there be no chief of staff who might try to control other staffers' access to the President. But Ford apparently decided he needed someone to keep the White House running smoothly. Rumsfeld will have the title of assistant to the President, Cabinet rank, and will be on a par with Ford's other counselors.

Filibuster kills consumer agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to create a consumer protection agency has been filibustered to death for this session of Congress.

Backers of the idea pledged a renewed and top priority effort for next year after meeting Tuesday and deciding they did not have enough votes to seek an unprecedented fifth attempt to end a Senate filibuster against the bill.

The fourth and final attempt to break the filibuster fell short last week by two votes, but Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield indicated then he might allow another chance if the backers could prove they had switched one vote. They couldn't.

The House-passed legislation would have established an agency to lobby for the consumer by intervening in government decision-making where prices, safety and other issues were involved.

Sens. James B. Allen, D-Ala., and Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C, filibustered against it, claiming the agency would clog government machinery and be costly to business. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce opposed it.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, DConn., who is expected to assume chairmanship of the Senate Government Ooperations Committee next year, said the agency would be the "first order of business —I am confident that next year will bring a new complexion to the Senate and with it a new sense of purpose toward protecting the consumer."

Anothr chief supporter, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said the failure to break the filibuster "really represents a failure of our legislative process, since a small minority was able to utterly frustrate the will of the majority of the Senate and the Nation."

Ralph Nader's Public Citizens, Inc., which supported the bill, said: "The automotive industry, the Chamber of Commerce and other corporate interests and the White House have used their enormous resources to defeat by one vote legislation to give consumers a small voice in federal policy making."

Stormy weather ahead

By RUTH LENSON

Pennies from heaven have been falling for rainwear manufactures.

The last few years have marked an upward trend in rain or shine coats that have become the true all-purpose coat. You'll notice that the term "raincoat" is seldom used nowadays and that's because raincoats are considered only a small part of the rain clothes story.

Max Adler for T.T. Mallo, Ltd., has designed coats for every hour of the day not only for keeping dry but even more important, keeping today's fashion conscious woman looking great every hour of the day.

Big coats, pantcoats, double breasted trench coats, storm coats, long contoured evening coats - they are all in his fall collection in unbelievably varied fabrics most of which are woven exclusively for the designer.

Beginning with canvas as a base cloth, Max adds embroidered nylon, vinyl, pure silk tweeds, Qiana animal prints, a real suede look and velvets to his all-weather concept.

Length? The designer does them all - his coats range from just below the knee, mid-calf, floor lengths and of course the hip length pantscoat which has become a must for the active woman. In contrast to styling shown in recent French collections, Adler's all-purpose coats are strong in tailoring - nothing is droopy.

Examples include double-stitch trim, trench coat detail and patch pockets that are really slip pockets. Linings extend from subdued scotch plaids to amusing animal prints and cozy pile. A number of coats have fur collars and sometimes fur cuffs as well.

"The big point," says Mallo, "is to keep dry comfortably, and, naturally, to look smart in the offing". Highlights of the collection are:

A double-breasted red canvas all-weather coat with light badger raccoon notch collar... self belt with a gold buckle. . . lined in beige pile with quilted side insets.

An almond colored canvas pantscoat trimmed in double-stitching and gold closings with a self-tie belt worn over scotch plaid pants that match the lining of the coat.

For evening, a long lean line of Antron nylon Schiffli-embroidered coat with gold and rhinestone buttons down the front.

Coty Award winner, John Anthony, in planning a new line of rainwear decided not to think of the garment in terms of woman-against-the-elements. Rather, his concept is easy, personal, light weight and with chic. It means to the contemporary woman what a Burberry or mackintosh has always meant to a man-protective covering in wet weather or dry.

His Fall and Winter collection includes suits, skirts, trousers, gauchos, knickerbockers, matching fabric hats, caps and boots, and a big woodhandled umbrella in John's new satin-initialed lining silk.

Never straying from the willowy silhouette he loves, Anthony puts a great deal of airy fullness at the top of his coats and uses his typical wide-flaring hemlines.

A designer once mused that true elegance was wearing a trenchcoat lined in sable. Falling just a bit short of that mark, John Anthony's fur linings are non-bulky furs such as lynx handled in flat strips or beaver, and lynx and fox collars and cuffs to make up some of the prettiest cold weather coats. The cloth fabric is most often colored poplin - deep fir green which he claims is the nicest color in the rain.

The recently introduced cire fabric in rainwear does not have universal appeal because of its slick surface. A saleswoman in an all-weather coat department remarked that young people enjoy the feel of the fabric while the older woman who is the one most likely to afford the more expensive garment shied away from it.

Designer John Anthony has a liberal sprinkling of black cire throughout his collection, both for day and evening. One of the most dramatic evening outfits in his mid-calf cire coat with a wide notched collar of luxurious black fox.

Other than the rainwear big name designers, particularly important to the rainwear business has been the skyrocketing sales of stormcoats done in the most popular fabric, poplin. Given the added interest of fur collars, cuffs and linings, these coats have, in many cases, taken the place of the customary winter coat. Polyester garbadine and the polyurethane or leather look are also in great demand.

Stylewise, it's still the trenchcoat that comes out the winner in the rainwear game.

Since you can't do anything about the rain, the sleet, the snow why not enjoy it or at least be prepared for it with stylish foul weather clothes!

From T. T. Mallo, a double breasted almond colored poplin storm coat with a possum collar and pile lining.

QUESTION: My friends have been making granola cereal for some time and I've enjoyed their cereal except for the coconut which, they tell me, is essential. I would like a recipe with dried fruit in it and no coconut, if you have it.

Answer: Coconut can be eliminated from any Granola recipe–however here's a recipe (no coconut) that calls for tasty bits of dried apricots and plump raisins.

APRICOT RAISIN GRANOLA

5 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
one-third cup firmly packed brown sugar ½ cup wheat germ
one-third cup vegetable oil
¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped dried apricots

Heat oats in an ungreased 13 x 9 inch baking pan in a preheated 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. Combine oats, brown sugar and wheat germ. Add oil, honey and almond extract; mix until dry ingredients are well coated. Bake in ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes, stirring often to brown evenly. Cool; stir until crumbly; stir in raisins and apricots. Store in a tightly covered container in refrigerator. Makes 8½ cups. Serve with milk or cream–also very good sprinkled over ice cream.

Our thanks to Mrs. M.D., Newton for sending in her recipe for Bavarian Apple Torte.

BAVARIAN APPLE TORTE

½ cup margarine
one-third cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup all purpose flour
8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
one-third cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
4 cups sliced, peeled apples
¼ cup sliced almonds

Cream margarine, sugar and vanilla. Blend in flour. Spread dough onto bottom and 1½ inches high around sides of 9-inch springform pan. Combine softened cream cheese and sugar; mix well. Add egg and vanilla; mix. Pour into pastry-lined pan. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Toss apples in sugar mixture. Spoon apples over cream cheese layer; sprinkle with nuts. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 400 degrees and continue baking for 25 minutes. Loosen torte from rim of pan; cool before removing rim. Makes 8-10 servings.

Question: We vacationed in Vermont and one morning we breakfasted on the most delicious French toast–there was the flavor of molasses in the toast and I cannot find a molasses French toast in any of my cook books. Do you think you could find such a recipe? Many thanks.

—Mrs. B.W., Roslindale

Answer: Not only French toast with the mellow flavor of molasses, but an unusual orange molasses sauce to serve over the toast. If you're preparing this recipe for a crowd, heat the oven and pop in the toast pieces as they emerge from the skillet so you can serve them hot all at the same time.

MOLASSES FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons molasses
¼ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 to 8 slices day old bread, cut in half diagonally

Beat together eggs, salt, molasses, milk and vanilla in shallow dish. Heat 2 teaspoons butter (or margarine) in large skillet over moderately low heat. Quickly dip 4 to 6 half slices of bread, one at a time, into egg-molasses mixture to coat onbothsides. Place in skillet and cook slowly until browned on both sides, turning once. Remove to shallow baking pan and keep warm in 250 degree oven. Dip remaining bread slices into egg-molasses mixture and brown in skillet, adding additional butter (or margarine) to skillet as needed. Serve hot with Orange Molasses Sauce. Serves 6

ORANGE MOLASSES SAUCE

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup molasses
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Combine all ingredients in small saucepan; simmer for 5 minutes. Serve warm over Molasses French Toast.

Question: My husband has been asking me to make oxtail soup and I've promised to write in for a recipe. Do you have one that I could experiment with to surprise my husband? Many thanks.

Mrs. C.P., W. Roxbury

Answer: A hearty soup for a cool autumn evening:

OXTAIL SOUP

3½ pound oxtails, chopped
2½ quarts cold water
¼ cup barley
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup diced carrot
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup diced potatoes (peeled)
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
1 tablespoon Kitchen Bouquet food coloring

Wash and wipe oxtails. Place in soup kettle; add water and barley, cover, and when water boils, reduce heat and simmer gently for 2 hours. Skim off excess fat; add onion, carrot, salt, peper and continue cooking for 20 minutes. Add potatoes and cook until vegetables are tender. Remove oxtails, separate meat from bones and return meat to soup. Add parsley and Kitchen Bouquet and heat until very hot. Serves 5-6.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY JOHNNY APPLESEED! September 26th is the birthday of this legendary character, born John Chapman in Leominster, Massachusetts in 1774.

Neither a myth nor a legend, Johnny left home early in life and as a wanderer he settled for a short time in Western Pennsylvania where he learned of the covered wagons lumbering westward carrying courageous pioneers to romantic unchartered territories. He thrilled to the tales of danger and was inspired with a great desire to help them in every way possible.

Alone and clad in rags, with no money, no wagon, he set out with sacks of appleseeds gathered from cider press refuse, determined to plant orchards to enrich the lives of settlers. Some say it was because he loved the world and all living things that wild animals never attacked him and the Indians respected him. Settlers grew to love him and warmly welcomed him into their family groups. His Bible was his companion.

The first apples of the new season are tumbling off the trees. You'll be using them to make pies and applesauce, cakes and salads. Best of all, you'll enjoy the juicy crunch of eating apples out of hand. Which apples to purchase for your particular use? McIntosh: Excellent for eating fresh and making salads and applesauce; good for freezing. Jonathan: Excellent for eating fresh, baking and pies; good for applesauce, freezing and canning. Red and Golden Delicious: Excellent for eating fresh and in salads. Good for applesauce. Cortland: Superb eating, salad, applesauce and pies, newly picked apples that are ripe enough for eating, will keep in your refrigerator for one to three weeks. Store them in the crisper or in a perforated plastic film bag. Apples give off ethylene gas; do NOT store near lettuce, carrots, celery or broccoli. (This is not harmful to one's health but it affects the other vegetables; for example, turns lettuce brown).

Oven fried apple pies

HOW TO FREEZE APPLES

Select firm, tart apples. Core, pare and slice into a brine made with 2 tbs. salt to 1 qt. water. Prepare sugar syrup, using 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water. Add ½ teap. powdered ascorbic acid to each quart of syrup, to prevent discoloration. Drop drained apple slices into simmering syrup (180 degrees); simmer 3 minutes. Cool quickly. Pack apple slices with syrup in which they were cooked leaving ½ inch head space for pint containers, ¾ inch for quarter containers. Seal. Freeze at once.

APPLESAUCE

8 tart apples
¾ cup water (about)
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel (optional)

Pare and core apples; slice thin. Add just enough water to prevent scorching. Bring to boil; lower heat to simmer; cover. Cook about 20 minutes, or until apples are soft. Put through food mill or sieve. Add sugar and spices and if apples are sweet, stir in lemon peel and a little lemon juice. (Warm applesauce over vanilla ice cream is a great dessert at any time.) To vary, use apple cider instead of water and decrease sugar.

OVEN FRIED APPLE PIES

2 pkgs. pie crust mix
6 medium apples, pared, cored and chopped
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ stick butter or margarine

Roll pastry thin; cut out 12 rounds about 6 inches in diameter. Combine apples, sugar, flour and spices; mix well. Place a mound of apple mixture on each of 6 pastry rounds. Cover with remaining pastry rounds. Seal edges with floured tines of fork; cut small slits in tops. Melt butter in jelly roll pan, or cookie sheet with built up sides. Place pies in melted butter and bake at 400 degrees for about 30 minutes or until apples are tender. When cool, if desired, frost with confectioners' sugar. Makes 6

APPLE CREAM PIE

1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs (about 30 wafers)
5 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup fine granulated sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 egg
2 medium apples
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup chopped pecans or walnuts, chopped
Whipped cream, if desired

Crush about 30 vanilla wafers to make one cup very fine crumbs. Mix crumbs thoroughly with three tablespoons melted butter, press out firmly to line sides and bottom of 9-inch pie plate. Beat together sour cream, one-fourth cup sugar, one tablespoon flour and egg. Pare and core apples. Cut to make about 12 wedges, then slice these wedges crosswise to make very thin slices; fold into sour cream mixture and spread in lined pie pan. Thoroughly mix one tablespoon flour with one-fourth cup sugar; mix in remaining 2 tbs. melted butter, nuts and cinnamon to make topping. Sprinkle evenly over top of pie. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 40 min. or until apples are tender. Let cool slightly before serving with slightly sweetened whipped cream.

BAKED CHICKEN WITH APPLE STUFFING

1 cup margarine (2 sticks)
1 large onion, finely chopped
¼ cup chopped celery
4 apples, cored and diced
½ cup coarsely chopped almonds
½ cup raisins
Boiling water
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
3 whole chicken breasts, split
Flour, salt and pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt half the margarine in a skillet and saute onion until tender. Add celery, apple and almonds to onion. In a separate bowl, cover raisins with boiling water and let stand 1 minute. Drain and add to onion mixture. Stir bread crumbs, salt, pepper, lemon rind and nutmeg into onion mixture and place in bottom of 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Melt remaining margarine in same skillet. Coat chicken breast pieces with seasoned flour and brown on both sides. Place chicken on top of apple stuffing and cover with foil; bake 10 min. remove foil and bake 15 min. until chicken is done. Serves 6.

Bridge clinic to be held Monday

A free bridge clinic will be hel at the Newtonville Branch Library, Monday evening, Sept. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

R. J. Franks of Franks Contract Bridge Studio in Boston will provide instruction and suggestions for bridge enthusiasts of all abilities. Franks is a certified Goren bridge teacher, a member and past officer of the American Bridge Teachers Association, and a Masters bridge teacher.

The bridge clinic will initiate the Newtonville Branch Library bridge club's 1974-1975 season. The club began meeting four years ago with various qualified people providing instruction, and now meets Monday evenings. The group meets informally in the NV Junior Library room from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Coffee will be served and Branch Librarian Velda Model cordially invites all interested persons to attend.

Fashion

Deborah McDewell, a member of the Morgan Memorial fashion show's volunteer cast, dresses in a typical, proper "Miss Bostonian" fashion in an 1890 copper silk gown.

Goodwill Auxiliary presenting fashions

The Goodwill Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial will begin its sixth season of performances of its fashion show, "Styles Through the Year's" with a presentation to the Catholic Daughters of America, Court of Our Lady 115 at the school auditorium of Our Lady's Help of Christian Parish, Washington St., Newton, Thursday, Oct. 10.

This special event, the highlight of the group's meeting, begins at 8:15 p.m. followed by refreshments. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Edwin F. Hertach, court regent, is general chairman for the event. The co-chairman is Margaret O'Brien, recording secretary. Other officers are Katherine Crowley, financial secretary and Mary O'Brien, treasurer.

The Goodwill Fashion Parade was created six years ago by Mildred Chruchill of Watertown. She is also the commentator of the show.

Most of the styles in the Fashion Parade are antiques. Some date as far back as 1800. Most periods are represented up to the present day. The show has everything from highlaced shoes and ostrich-plumed hats to hot pants and midi-coats. A highlight is the display of undergarments from the year 1800.

Students pass dancing exam

Faith Glickman and Valerie Chase, ballet students of Katherine Ostrowsky of the All Newton Music School, have successfully passed their first level Royal Academy of Dancing exams.

The exams are held annually all over the world and a special examiner is sent from London, England, to present the certificates to those who pass.

First Unitarian Society appoints new minister

The First Unitarian Society in West Newton announced the appointment of the Rev. Dr. Peter A. Baldwin of Gilmanton, N.H., as interim minister this week.

Baldwin, who is also serving Colby College as visiting professor of psychology, is not a newcomer to Newton. He and his wife, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitmore of West Newton, lived in Newton for a number of years while he completed his doctoral studies in psychology at Boston University. He also served at that time as a chaplain at M.I.T., as executive director of Liberal Religious Youth (the nationwide high school youth movement of the Unitarian Universalist Association), and as assistant professor at Crane Theological School of Tufts University.

Other professional activity over the course of the past 20 years has included engagement as associate minister at Boston's historical Second Church, minister of the Unitarian Church in Dighton, supervisor in clinical pastoral programs at Massachusetts Mental Health Center, University Hospital, and Boston City Hospital.

For six years Dr. Baldwin served on the faculty of Meadville Theological School in Chicago and as Minister of All Souls First Universalist Society in Chicago's south side.

Denominational activity has included presidency of the Channing Conference of Unitarian Churches, lectureships and folk concerts in a number of churches and institutes across the U.S. and Canada, and directorship of high-school-age and total--family summer institutes at Rowe Camp in the Berkshires.

The First Unitarian Society is engaged this fall in an approach that involves children, adult laity and the minister in shared inquiry and planning from which Sunday morning services are fashioned as a collective expression.

In his opening remarks to the parish, Baldwin observed, "There is a rich resource in this church building, its people and the community in which they reside. The First Unitarian Society in Newton is defined by the substantive characteristics, and reflects the dynamic process, of pre–modern, modern, post-modern, and transitional civilization."

He proposed, and the membership consented, to devote the entire fall to a clarification of these forces at play in the current identification and worship life of the church.

Further information and programs of the Society may be obtained by calling the church office at 527-3203.

Marshall's opens stores in Hingham and Avon

WOBURN, MASS.—Marshall's, one of the nation's fastest growing retail organizations, continued its upward spiral with August openings in Hingham, Mass., and Avon, Conn.

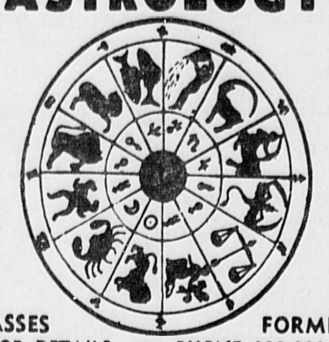

The new twenty-six thousand square foot stores will employ approximately 110 people.

Marshall's features the same brand name clothing, footwear and home fashions carried by leading department and specialty stores at prices up to 60 per cent less.

From a one store beginning in Beverly, Mass., in 1956, Marshall's has grown to a 26–store chain with stores in Mass., Conn., N. H. and Me.

With today's rising costs, consumers have benefited from Marshall's unique retailing concept of offering brand names for less on an everyday, 52 weeks a year.

In addition to the new Hingham and Avon stores, Marshall's other locations are: In Massachusetts . . . Bedford, Beverly, Canton, Chelmsford, Franklin, Leominster, Marlboro, Marshfield, Natick, Peabody, Reading, Rockland, Springfield, Tewksbury and West Roxbury; in Conn. . . Bloomfield, Cheshire, Danbury, Hamden, Manchester and Newington; and in N.H. . . Salem and Nashua; and, Portland, Maine.

Car raffle to aid new unit at St. Margaret's

St. Margaret's Hospital in Dorchester is celebrating its centennial anniversary this year - 100 years of service dedicated to the care of women and children in Massachusetts.

In addition to the Obstetric and Gynecologic units based at the hospital, St. Margaret's also serves the following comu+community health centers: Columbia Point, Dorchester, Neponset, Little House, Chinese Community, and North End Health Centers, and provides inpatient care, St. Margaret's has developed a Research and Pathology Department that has frequently achieved international acclaim.

St. Margaret's holds the distinction of being one of seven nurseriee designated by the State of Massachusetts to care for those 200-300 out of 1,000 babies that require special assistance at the time of birth. A large area of the hospital's new wing, due to open in early fall, is devoted to the new Intensive Care Nursery.

Among the modern devid+devices now available to aid the sick newborn are: servo control incubators, phto+photo therapy lights, cardiac, respiratory and blood pressure monitors, oxygen analz+ analyzers and regulators, and I.V. fluid infusion pumps. In cooperation with Carney Hospital, helicopter services are available for transfer of high risk obstetric patients and infants to St. Margaret's.

To help finance this expensive new unit, Dave Dinger of Dave Dinger D+Ford in Braintree has donated a new 1975 Mustang which will be raffled off by St. Margaret's Auxiliary in early January.

Senior vice president Norfolk County Trust

CHARLES MacALISTER

Charles A. MacAlister has been elected a senior vice president of Norfolk County Trust Company, according to an announcement by John S. Marsh, chairman of the board.

McAlister is a graduate of Foxboro High School and received his B.A. in 1955 from Brown University. He is also a graduate of the School of Bank Marketing, University of Colorado, the National Association of Bank Auditors and Controllers School, University of Wisconsin and the Commercial Bank Management School at Columbia University. He is attending Stonier Graduate School of Banking, Rutgers University.

McAlister joined the staff of Norfolk County Trust Company in December of 1957 at which time he was assigned to the bank's Walpole office. After serving in the bank's Commercial and Installment Loan Departments, he was promoted to assistant manager in February, 1961, and subsequently was transferred to the Accounting and Date Processing Department.

McAlister was promoted to manager in January, 1964, assistant treasurer in September, 1965, assistant vice president in December, 1966, serving as senior officer in charge of the bank's Electronic Date Processing Division.

In April, 1969, McAlister was transferred to the head office in Brookline and assumed the duties of marketing and advertising officer. He was elected vice president in December, 1970.

Mr. and Mrs. McAlister and their three children reside in Foxboro.

Best way to prepare your lawn for winter's worst!

Spread GRAND PRIZE® Lawn & Garden Gypsum this Fall to fight soil pack-down from heavy snow, and neutralize salt damage.

GRAND PRIZE Gypsum works like millions of tiny hoes to let air and water penetrate. This loosens up hard-packed soil, improves drainage, keeps winter-dormant lawns healthy from the roots up. Non-toxic, non-burning GRAND PRIZE Gypsum also safeguards lawns from stray pet damage by leaching out harmful sodium. Yet, it won't harm either children or pets. Get it now at your garden center or hardware store and spread the good word: GRAND PRIZE Lawn & Garden Gypsum.

1206-Room Marriott Hotel is set for Chicago's magnificent mile

CHICAGO—The Midwest's tallest hotel, the 44-story, 1206–room Marriott Hotel, is scheduled to open in 1977 at 540 North Michigan avenue, on the city's Near North side.

The new hotel, largest to be built in Chicago in 47 years, will occupy the site of the former Time-life Building, an entire city block bounded by North Michigan avenue, Ohio street, Rush street, and Grand avenue.

J. W. Marriott, Jr., president, Marriott Corporation, Washington, D.C. and R. J. Adelman, chairman of the board, Arthur Rubloff & Company and the managing partner of Michigan Square Venture, owner and developer of the property, made the announcement jointly. The hotel will be designed by architects Harry Weese & Associates, A.I.A.

The hotel and 57,000 sq. ft. retail store complex will cost in excess of $60 million.

The new Marriott, to be built on 1.13 acres fronting on North Michigan avenue— the Magnificent Mile— will be the company's third hotel operation in the Chicago area. The 706-room Chicago Marriott Hotel on Higgins road near O'Hare International Airport opened in 1967, and the Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort, a 168-acre resort--convention complex with 400 hotel rooms is scheduled to open in early spring of 1975.

The new Marriott Hotel will have the North Side's most complete convention and meeting facilities, including two major ballrooms—one with 20,000 square feet of banquet, meeting and exhibit space, and the other with 12,600 square feet. Both rooms will be divisible into eight smaller meeting rooms. The hotel will also have 24 other meeting rooms with a total of 15,000 square feet of space, plus 60 Marriott parlors suitable for meetings of up to 12. There will be attendant parking for 430 cars.

The hotel will have five restaurants and lounges. Included among these will be a 125-seat specialty restaurant, a 225-seat show lounge, and an 80-seat lobby cocktail lounge.

The hotel will also offer its guests a variety of recreational facilities including an indoor pool, a whirlpool, a game room, separate health clubs for men and women, as well as a barber shop, beauty shop and gift shop.

Marriott reported that plans are to break ground prior to the end of 1974 on the new property which will be Marriott's largest hotel worldwide. He said that his company forsees continued growth in the city's popularity as a convention and meeting center, and views the city's North Side, with its fine shops and restaurants, as the prime beneficiary.

Presently there are 36 Marriott hotels including 23 company operated hotels and 13 franchised Marriott Inns in 27 cities of the United States, Mexico and the Caribbean.

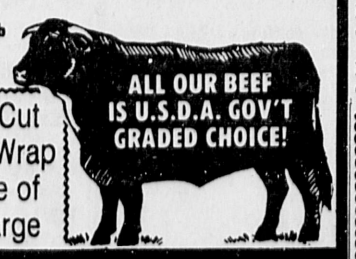

Other Marriott hotels and resorts are being built or have been announced for Amsterdam, The Netherlands '75; Athens, Greece '78; bethesda, Md. '80; Cairo, Egypt '77; Cancun, Mexico '77; Denver '74; Kansas City '74; Lincolnshire, Ill. '75; Newport Beach, Calif. '75; North Atlanta, Ga. '76; Santa Clara, Calif. '76; and Toronto, Canada '77.

Housewife launches sugar boycott

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (UPI) — Charging that housewives were being made fools of by skyrocketing sugar prices, Beverly Ribaudo has launched a sugar boycott which is beginning to catch on.

Mrs. Ribaudo, a housewife and mother of two, went about the business of running her home in this Detroit suburb of neatly-ordered ranch homes quietly—until last Friday.

Then she exploded with indignation at how she and thousands of other homemakers were being made "fools of" by gladly paying more than $2 for a five-pound sack of sugar.

So she started a boycott, now in its 10th day, to protest sugar prices which have trebled in price from the 69 cents last year for a sive-pound bag.

Now a sign above the Ribaudo home proclaims: "We can't afford to be sweet anymore."

The Ribaudos' daughter, Lisa, will celebrate her 12th birthday Wednesday with a watermelon, not a birthday cake, to emphasize the cause.

But the boycott is taking hold.

"The response has been so fantastic that it is almost unbelievable," she said Monday night.

"The American housewife has come albive and she has got to show she is one of the most important people in the cosntry," said Mrs. Ribaudo, 42, who heads a consumers' group called "VIP" (Very Important Persons).

"I guarantee at the end of the 10 days the American housewife will not be running to the supermarket to buy sugar," she said.

She said she started the boycott when she got tired of complaining to other housewives over the back fence or to her husband when he came home at night for supper. So, she called her family, neighbors, friends, told them of the boycott and made them all promise to call five others and tell them about it.

R.I. candidate wants credit law changed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Louise Kazanjian, Republican candidate for Rhode Island lieutenant governor, and the only woman seeking statewide office this November, has proposed that the state enact a stronger measure designed to halt sex discrimination in credit transactions.

"First, the law should be explicity extended to transactions involving the witholding or renewing of credit, as well as granting or extension of credit," she said Monday.

She also said the law should be extended to prohibit discrimination against women of the basis of child-bearing capacity.

"The law should specifically prohibit refusal to consider sources of an applicant's income or subjecting an applicant's income to automatic or unwarranted discounting in whole or in part because of sex, marital status, or child-bearing potential," she said.

"If the leaders of this state are serious in their commitment to the elimination of sex discrimination, these are proposals thet cannot be ignored. We must continue to pass legislation that will take that commitment and make it into the law of the state," she said.

Mrs. Kazanjian said she supports the efforts of Sen. Lila Sapinsley, R-Providence, one of the few women in the state legislature, to bring a stop to sex discrimination in the state.

"But we must not rest until discrimination by sex in the granting of credit is stopped once and for all," she said.

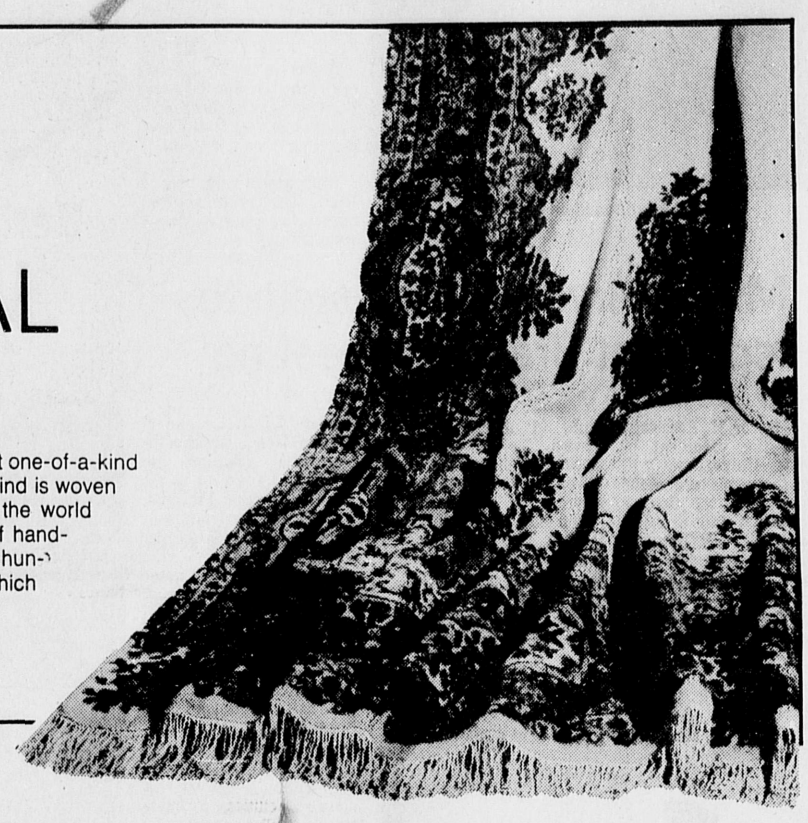

First Lady visits Chicago

Mrs. Gerald Ford was in Chicago today to address a luncheon on behalf of 14 Republican women candidates seeking offices in Illinois. Here she is escorted to her suite by the manager of the Conrad Hilton Hotel. (UPI)

A reception at the Sheraton-Tara Hotel in Framingham followed the Sept. 14 wedding of Claudia Patricia Marini, daughter of Mrs. Antonio Marini, Newton, and the late Mr. Marini, and John Urban Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Doherty, Tiverton, R.I.

Mr. andMrs. John U. Doherty

Rev. Leroy Owens officiated at the double ring ceremony which was held at Our Ladys Help of Christian Church. Mr. Anthony Marini gave his sister in marriage.

The bride was attired in a white brocaded gown with matching headpiece and full length veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath. Mrs. Paul F. Joyal, Watertown, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. She wore a lavender gown with matching jacket and carried pink roses and purple mums. Brian Chappelle of Wyckoff, N.J. was the groom's best man.

The new Mrs. Doherty is a graduate of Newton College of the Sacred Heart and she received her MA degree from Georgetown University Graduate School. She is presently employed at the National Institute of Health. Her husband graduated from Georgetown University and is presently a student at the Georgetown University School of Medicine.

The couple will honeymoon in Shenandoah, Va. and then take up residence in Bethesda, Md.

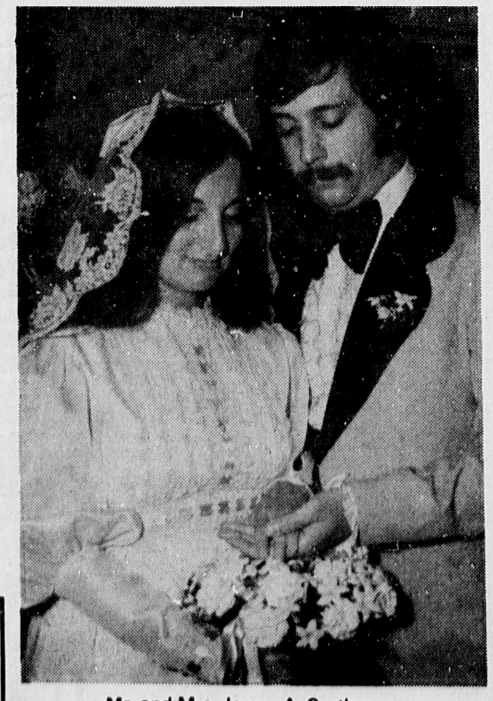

Kalish-Castleman marriage solemnized

Recently united in marriage at the Bell House, Sharon, were Claire Frances Kalish, daughter of Dr. L. Leo Kalish, Newton, and the late Mrs. Lee Kalish, and James Alan Castleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Castleman, Quincy.

Cantor Gabriel Hochberg officiated at the double ring ceremony where Dr. Kalish gave his daughter in marriage. Gail Barbara Borakove, Rockville Ctr., N.Y. was the maid of honor and Leon Scott Harris, Brookiyn, N.Y. served as best man.

The bride wore an ivory peau de soie empire gown trimmed with Alencon lace. Her veil was a shoulder length ivory mantilla, and she carried a bouquet of blue and white daisies and stephanotis. She received her BA in psychology from the University of Hartford. Her husband received his AB from Brandeis University and is currently a third year student at the Hofstra University School of Law.

Hempstead, N.Y. will be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Castleman when they return from their wedding trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Castleman

Come let us reason together

'FALLING IN LOVE"

"I'm trying to fall in love with you" . . . Tom told Sonia. "Why are you trying so hard to hold back? . . . Sonia asked. He made some non-committing reply . . . perhaps didn't fully know himself why he was holding back. But Tom had recently been divorced from his wife with whom he had been very much in love. They had met on a cruise and had "fallen in love" at first sight. Five months later they married.

When Tom and Sonia began to live together they found that they were totally unsuited to each other. Sonia was blond and beautiful. But she was a spoiled little girl. She couldn't carry her end of the relationship.

Tom loved her but she couldn't meet his needs as an adult woman. Unconsciously, he pressed her to make the relationship work . . . which only made the relationship worse . . . because spoiled little girls . . . or spoiled little boys . . . don't want to be pressed for anything they don't want to do. She angered him . . . frustrated him . . . psychologically castrated him. When he could take no more . . . in spite of the fact that he still lover her . . . he got a divorce. Now Tom is wary.

Perhaps caution and reason blended with feelings is the combination which makes for a successful loving relationship. For one thing . . . I think it is important for people to GET TO KNOW EACH OTHER . . . before "falling in love" . . . to avoid a descent from the level of reason . . . to a level of abandonment of one's rights as a person. It can mean "I become your blind slave . . . do anything your whims dictate to me and I'll still love you and take it." Only the masachist can enjoy the slave level of being in love. Get to know each other . . . keep your reason in charge . . . before you "fall in love". Ask questions . . . "How do you feel about . . ." "Tell me about your childhood . . ." "Do you enjoy . . ." "Where have you lived . . ." Let all these come out in conversation. Listen for attitudes expressed toward life . . . toward men . . . toward men . . . toward women . . . toward children . . . animals . . . politics . . . sports. Reason could not support an avid golfer falling in love with a girl who hates sports . . . or a musician with one who doesn't like music . . . or a stay-at-home-body with a night person. Know the person you "fall in love with."

Secondly . . . GET TO LIKE EACH OTHER before you "fall in love". Get to feeling comfortable with the partner. If there's a hassle about where you go . . . what you do for entertainment . . . if the needs for affection are at a very different levels . . . if you feel resistence in the relationship, these are the danger signs. Shed them. You haven't time for those hassles. Get to feeling comfortable with the person . . . like hime-her before you "fall in love."

Thirdly . . . LOOK FOR ANY OUTSIDE INFLUENCES which can prevent or destroy your love from fulfillment. For example . . . the man who has lived with a domineering . . . possessive mother brings into every relationship that mother. She camps there between you. Likewise a girl hung up on her father can be constantly comparing her new "lover" (unfavorably) by the "model" . . . her father. Watch out for the fellow who always has to go places where he can "have a drink" . . . or be with people who are drinkers. Alcohol is like a destructive person between you. Don't "fall in love" with an alcoholic.

I'm all for "falling in love" . . . when you know the person . . . like the person . . . have no influences you can't tolerate. Be cautious . . . let your reason guide your feelings.

IRS checking on Social Security numbers

An estimated four hundred thousand Federal taxpayers residing in New England and upper New York state who filed joint returns are being asked by the Internal Revenue Service for verification of spouse's social security number John E. Foristall, District Director of IRS in Massachusetts, said today.

The spouse, husband or wife, whose social security number does not agree with IRS records is being asked to fill out a special form and return it to the Andover Service Center, Andover, Mass. A special envelope is being provided.

High school football teams both win

South defeats Brighton

By HOWIE APPELSTEIN

Sparked by the clutch running of halfback Peter Nathanson, Newton South's football team opened its season with a 21-7 comeback victory over Brighton High.

Although the game was played in Brighton, at Msgr. Daly Field, the crowd was mostly from Newton South.

Down 7-6 at halftime, the Lions came back with two scores, both touchdown runs by Nathanson, of 12 and eight yards, respectively.

The Lions dominated the first quarter, but were unable to score. The first time South had the ball, it drove to the Brighton eight-yard line, but was stopped by the Brighton defense.

South started its drive on its own 45, and moved to the Brighton eight on seven running plays. Quarterback Phil Small handed off to halfback Peter Maples four times to open the drive. Maples brought the ball to the Brighton 31.

Fullback Joe Donlan carried next, and he powered his way to the 20-yard line. On the next three plays, it was Rich Gosmon who got the ball. His third run gave South a first down at the Brighton eight-yard line.

On first down, Small and Gosmon missed connections on a handoff, and a fumble was recovered by Small at the 12-yard line. On second down, the Lions lost two more yards, as Maples was hit and tackled behind the line of scrimmage.

On third down, Small threw an incomplete pass toward Maples, and on fourth down, Small was sacked at the 19-yard line.

South's defense stopped three Brighton running plays after the ball changed hands. Brighton reached its own 23 and punted on fourth down.

Gosmon returned the punt deep into Brighton territory, but the play was called back because of a clipping call.

The Lions started again from their own 45 and were stopped again at the Brighton eight.

After two runs by Gosmon and Maples got seven yards to the Brighton 48, Nathanson was put in the game to get a first down. Three Brighton defenders hit Nathanson at the line of scrimmage, but he broke away and fought his way to the Brighton 44 for a first down.

Nathanson was given the ball again on first down, and bulled his way to the 38. On the next play, Nathanson picked up another first down when he darted to the 26.

After five more yards by Nathanson, Maples carried twice to get a first down at the Brighton 14. Two running plays then gained no yardage, and Small completed a six-yard pass play to wide receiver George Brockman on third down. On fourth down at the Brighton eight, Small tried to hit Gosmon in the end zone, but te pass was broken up.

In the second quarter, both teams scored on long, exciting touchdown plays.

Brighton struck first, midway through the quarter. On second down and 10 yards to go from his own 20, Brighton quarterback Bill Dickey handed off to fullback Robin Anderson. The 230-pound fullback broke a couple of tackles at the line of scrimmage and galloped 80 yards for a touchdown. Al Smith kicked the extra point to give Brighton a 7-0 lead.

The Lions came back on their next set of plays to close the gap to 7-6.

In a third and seven situation at his own 30, Small faked a run and faded back to pass. He fired a perfect pass to Gosmon, who caught the ball on the 50-yard line, and raced the rest of the way for a touchdown.

South was stopped by Brighton on a two-point conversion attempt. Small was tackled by Brighton defenders as he was attempting a pass play.

Donlan started the Lions moving in the second half with a fine kickoff return to the South 40-yard line. Three runs by Maples moved the ball to the Brighton 45.

Gosmon then broke through Brighton's line for 10 yards, but the drive ended two plays later when Small fumbled a snap from center Mike Berzon.

South got the ball right back when Paul Tormey recovered a first down Mike Townsend fumble at the Brighton 34.

Small was dumped for a seven-yard loss on first down, as Brighton put on a good pass rush. After two incomplete passes, Scott Groper punted on fourth down.

Groper got off a short punt, but it rolled out of bounds at the Brighton 13-yard line.

The Lion defense again stopped Brighton's offense and forced it to punt. Gosmon returned the punt five yards to the Brighton 40.

On first down, Maples burst up the middle for nine yards to the 31. Maples got a first down on the next play as he moved the ball to the 24.

Gosmon picked up nine more yards on first down, setting up a second and one situation. Nathanson was stopped for no gain.

Maples gained a first down on the next play as he rambled to Brighton's 11-yard line. Nathanson then ran for a touchdown to give the Lions a 12-7 lead. Nathanson upped the lead to 14-7 with a successful run on a two-point conversion attempt.

South scored its final touchdown in the fourth quarter. Nathanson finished a 45-yard drive with an eight-yard touchdown run. The drive was aided by a 15-yard penalty against Brighton.

Groper kicked the extra point to make the score 21-7.

A happy Coach George Winkler said after the game, "I can't say enough for the kids. It's a mark of a good team that it can come back the way we did.

"Our offensive and defensive lines were great; players like Aaron Moynihan, Greg Moan, Paul Tormey, Mike Stockman, Rick Taranto, Mike Berzon, Matt Sabetti, and Keith Washington played fabulous games.

"I was also pleased with the job quarterback Phil Small did," Winkler commented. "He showed people out there he can throw the ball, although I think he needs a little more poise.

"And it was great to see Peter Nathanson do such a great job on offense. Nathanson is what we really need, a real disciplined runner."

The Lions are at home this week against Weston.

North blanks Framingham

Newton North's offense gained more than 250 yards through the air enroute to an opening day 21 to 0 victory over Framingham North on Saturday.

North stellar combination was quarterback Bob Kinsella and halfback Dana Foley. Kinsella completed touchdown passes to Foley of 71 and 44 yards. Foley caught six passes in the game and added another touchdown with a 10-yard run.

Foley scored all of Newton's points, with three touchdowns, a two-point conversion reception, and a conversion kick.

North's first score came on a 71-yard pass play. After Foley returned a Framingham punt to his own 29, Kinsella apparently called two plays in the huddle. A first down running play netted no yardage, but the team lined up without a huddle for second down, and Kinsella completed a pass to Foley on the right sideline. Foley caught the ball near the Framingham 30 and proceeded to score.

Newton added single touchdowns in the second and third periods.

The Tigers went 69 yards in the second quarter to gain a 13-0 lead. After taking over on his own 31, Kinsella completed a 30-yard pass to Foley. Kinsella was then tackled for a five-yard loss, but on second down, he completed a 44-yard scoring play to Foley

A 46-yard pass play from Kinsella to Jack Ryan set up Newton's final touchdown. This came in the third quarter and moved the ball to the Framingham 10-yard line. Foley scored from there on a running play.

In addition to gaining almost three times as many yards through the air as Framingham North, Newton also outrushed its opponents.

Fullback Peter Toyias was the leading Newton ground gainer with 61 yards in 11 carries.

Newton gained 14 first downs while Framingham North had only seven.

Framingham's deepest penetration was to the Newton 26. Ned Flynn stopped this drive with an interception.

Newton North travels to Medford on Saturday. It will return to Dickinson Stadium on Oct. 5 to meet Brockton.

The Tigers will play a 10-game regular season schedule. The final two games of the season, on Nov. 16 and Nov. 28, will be against Waltham and Brookline.

Train service to N.E. Patriots' games available

An agreement has been signed between the New England Patriots Football Club and the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority to provide special train service to all Patriot's home games from South Station and Back Bay Station in Boston to Schaefer Stadium it was announced today.

The round trip fare is $3 and tickets may be purchased in advance at either the South Station or Back Bay Station Penn Central ticket offices.

The Stadium Special will leave South Station at 11:05 a.m. and Back Bay Station at 11:10 a.m. on game days. The return trip will return to Back Bay and South Stations upon conclusion of the game.

World football league struggling

NEW YORK (UPI) — The financially troubled World Football League, desperately struggling to survive until next year when it will have some three dozen stars from the rival National League dotting its rosters, was thrown for a huge loss Tuesday night.

The New York Stars, behind Don Highsmith's two touchdowns, whipped the Detroit Wheels 37-7 but revelations after the game made the contest seem of minor importance when compared to the survival of the league itself.

No sooner had the game ended than it was learned the Stars, despite boasting the league's fifth best record, planned to announce today the sale of the team and its shift to Charlotte, N.C., while the Wheels, possessing the worst record, had filed for bankruptcy.

Adding to the WFL's woes was word out of Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday night that the league was forced to take over the Sharks' franchise in order to meet player salaries.

Without realizing it at the time, a crowd of 4,220 witnessed the Stars' final home game at dilapidated Downing Stadium and it was crowds of similar numbers that forced the sale by Robert Schmertz

Longest grid streak in nation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Louisiana Tech, last year's Division II national champion and now possessor of the longest winning streak in college football, edged by Western Kentucky into the top spot in the United Press International Board of Coaches' small college ratings.

The Bulldogs blasted Texas-Arlington 2-15, while the Hilltoppers were idle Saturday to wrest away the No. 1 ranking.

Additionally, Penn State was upset by Navy and Miami, Ohio, played a 7-7 tie with Purdue, snapping each team's 13-game winning streak.

Louisiana Tech currently rides the crest of a 14-game streak and has lost only once in its last 29 games.

The Bulldogs collected only nine first-place votes to Western Kentucky's 11, but Louisiana Tech surpassed the Hilltoppers in total points, 244-223.

Boise State again was third and Delaware advanced a notch to fourth. Tennessee State rebounded from its opening game defeat with a victory and climbed one spot in the rankings to fifth.

Abilene Christian was sixth and Troy State, which received a single first-place vote, was seventh.

South soccer team wins opening game

By MARK SHUSTER

Newton South's varsity soccer team started its regular season last Friday with a 3 to 1 victory over Acton-Boxboro. The Lion offense kept constant pressure on the Acton goalie.

The Lions scored first when Bruce Jennings took a beautiful pass from Jim Young and headed it into the net. Jennings was shaken up on the play, but was able to return to the game.

The Colonials tied the game after a disputed call which resulted in a penalty kick. The first half ended in a 1-1 deadlock.

Mike Lafferty scored what proved to be the game winner in the second half. His shot slipped through the hands of the Acton goalie.

Young finished the South scoring on a shot which the Acton goalie appeared to misjudge.

The score does not indicate the domination by South in the game. The Lions offense was superb.

South's fefense looked shaky at times, but came through when tested. Jon Bamel did a good job in the goal.

Several players performed extremely well in the game. Jennings and Lenny Kraicer were very impressive on the wings. Mike Kan and Humberto Fagundes played well as insides. Young and Lafferty gave outstanding efforts at halfback.

Ray McKinney, playing fullback, held the defense together with outstanding hustle and determination. The rest of the team pitched in to make the victory a team effort.

As the Dual County League season began its second week. Lincoln-Sudbury (2-0) and Concord-Carlisle (1-0-1) appeared too be the teams to beat.

College athletes

George Gardner of Newton is a co-captain of the Curry College football team. Gardner is a linebacker.

Mike DelGrosso of Newton, a tackle, is also on the Curry varsity. Curry plays Mass. Maritime Academy at home on Saturday.

Junior Tom Gerlach of Newton is a co-captain of the Haverford College soccer team.

Tom Vawter of Waban is a member of the Cornell College soccer team. Vawter graduated from Beaver Country Day School in 1974.

Sox left out to dry and die

The Red Sox never knew what hit them. Last month they were happy and high atop the American League's Eastern Division. Then the opposition began handling them with all the gracious courtesies due to a victim of Charles Bronson. In short, they were punched, shot, knifed, kicked, and generally left out to dry and die. Their shocked fans, like mourners everywhere were left to murmur "how young, how tragic," as they respectfully viewed what undertakers affectionately call "the remains".

At Fenway Park, what remains of the remains continue to swing their bats like depressed wood choppers while their fans echo the immortal Wrong Way Corrigan and ask, "Wha happen?"

Yes, the Red Sox did miss Carlton Fisk and yes the Red Sox did choke, at least a little.

No team could stop hitting so completely for so long without a little panic. But this was probably more an effect than a cause. Once they got in trouble, they froze so badly they had no chance at all. But the real reason the Red Sox could look so good early in the year and so bad later on is simply the different type of baseball that must be played during the pennant stretch drive.

In other sports with long seasons and innumerable games like basketball and hockey it is acknowledged that there are two different standards of play. What happens in the regular season and what happens in the playoffs. Because the season is long, no game is crucial. Playing night after night in city after city players aren't "up" for each game. In the neat little phase of sports scientists, the athletes pace themselves over the long haul. This means they might be hustling sweet young things in dating bars. Or they might be fighting with their wives. Or worrying about their children. Or hustling personal appearances, free lunches, investments, and jobs with a future. With all this activity, who has time to worry about each game. But when playoff time comes, each contest is important, and they generally take care of business. Inquires are taped and forgotten, outside activity is cut and a different game is played. Any similarity between playoff basketball and regular season basketball is usually coincidental.

It's he same in baseball where after four months of spring and early summer games the stretch run begins. Then curves drop more sharply, good hitters hit more line drives, and Paul Blair makes great catches.

It's talent versus talent and the law of averages doesn't seem to apply. Good teams like the Orioles, Cardinals, Reds, and Pirates put together long winning streaks and start climbing in the standings the way cream rises to the top.

Hustling Red Sox players like Rick Miller and Tim Blackwell did well when the opposition wasn't paying attention, but down the stretch when money talks, the rules and game were changed. Hustle wasn't enough.

Because Dwight Evans has some talent he hit some line drives. Because Bill Lee has a good deal of talent he did very well. Because Luis Tiant has a lot of talent he was great. The rest of the Red Sox were along for the ride. All the way down.

Everyone is complaining about how the cost of sugar has gone up. Sugar has had the greatest price increase of ALL popular consumer items. First, the bad news. . . the wholesale price has just gone up AGAIN! Now for the good news . . . we don't need all the sugar we eat each day. Did you know Americans consume, per person, 100 pounds of sugar in a year?!! That comes out to about 3½ ounces of sugar per day; which is just the sugar used in your coffee, cereal and cooking each day. Sugar has NO NUTRITIONAL VALUE. Its main purpose is for making food taste better. Sugar can also be a health problem if not used in moderation, but the sugar found in fruits and vegetables should cause no concern. Also were you aware of the fact that your own body produces sugar from the carbohydrates you consume in your daily eating? Frankly, I can see where Americans will be cutting down on the sugar they eat with the prices the way they are!!

Will the lady that called about Maine blueberries and institutional size soup cans, please call me back? By the way, everyone, I'm here to answer questions; help with complaints and/or suggestions. Let me hear from you!

N.A.A. Lions top Sudbury

The Newton Athletic Association Lions defeated the Sudbury Warriors Sunday by a score of 26-0, setting up this week's pivotal clash with the Waltham Devil Dogs at Waltham High's Leary Field. Both teams enter the contest with identical 2-0 league records.

The Lions started the Sudbury game sluggishly, fumbling the ball away during their first three possessions yielding excellent field position to the host Warriors.

At one point, the Warriors penetrated to the Leion 8. On a second and goal from that point, defensive tackle Jason Michaels rushed in and sacked the quarterback for a big defensive play as the first period ended.

The Lions took over on downs at the 20 at the start of the second period. Paul Butters, behind some nifty line blocking, turned in a neat 40-yard scamper to set up the first score.

The Leions drove to the 35 where they were confronted with a 4th down and four. Quarterback Charlie Slack faked a hand off to halfback Rick Filler and outran two defenders to turn the corner, and broke several tackles on his way to a touchdown.

The Lions also scored on their next possession, after recovering a fumble at the Sudbury 45. With halfbacks Paul DeLuca, Butters and Filler toting the pig skin, the Lions advanced the ball to the Warrior six where they faced a fourth and two. Filler got the call, and behind fullback Jack Forti and guard John Williams, bulled his way over for a 12-0 halftime lead.

The Leions roared into the third period by going on a time-consuming 80-yard drive after the second half kickoff. Butters went through a hole opened by tackle Jim Schmidlein and guard Jason Michaels for a touchdown. DeLuca rushed the conversion for a 20-0 lead.

With time running out in the third period and trailing by three touchdowns, Sudbury decided to throw. Fillers made a one-handed juggling interception and raced 35 yards for the Lions' final touchdown.

The offensive line, which eventually came to life, included center John Kane, guards John Williams and Jason Michaels, tackles Jim Schmidlein and Tony Amicangioli, and ends Noel Foley, Scott Seidman and Doug Jackson.

Filler, for the second week, gained over 100 yards. He used only nine carries to do it.

DeLuca and Forti played well at defensive ends as did Butters and Noel Foley at linebacker. Michaels turned in his best game to date at offensive guard and especially at defensive tackle.

Some subs that played well include: tackles Mark Sullivan, Bill McGary, Frank Oglesby, Charlie Rogers, Rick Shone, and Dan Martin.

Many feel that this week's contest with Waltham will decide the Suburban League title.

North soccer team remains undefeated

By BARRY SILVERSTEIN

Newton North's varsity soccer team tied Brockton, 1-1, and beat Weymouth North, 8-0, in recent action.

The Tigers' record 4-0-1, and they were in first place in the Suburban League. The team now looks to a key game with once-beaten North Quincy on Saturday.

The Brockton game was close all the way. Brockton scored first early in the period, as the Newton defense allowed an easy goal.

Newton tied the game in the second quarter on a super effort by John Williams. The junior halfback capped off a solo rush by putting the ball past a surprised Brockton goalie.

The second half settled down to a close, tough duel between two fine teams. Newton had several chances to win the game in the last quarter, but could not capitalize.

Coach Mike Buzzi did not feel the Tigers played well. He cited John Williams, Joe Moussalli, and Alan Freedman as outstanding players in the game. Rick Olin continued his excellent play in the goal, allowing his first goal in four games.

Newton scored three times in the first quarter of the Weymouth North game.

Kim Hatton scored his second hat trick of the season, and single goals were scored by Jeff Silton, Moussalli, Barry Silverstein, Sami Fam, and Ken Halloran.

All of Newton's players had a chance to play in the Weymouth game.

After playing at North Quincy Saturday, the Tigers travel to Newton South for a game with the Lions.

South runners have six lettermen back

By JON BAMEL

"This year's cross country team," says Newton South Coach Richard Geist, "has the power to achieve a .500 record," a goal that has not been reached since the team entered into the Dual County League in 1970.

"It's going to take all things falling into place," says Geist.

There was a 40 per cent higher turnout this year than last year. The time trials indicate that there are twice as many quality runners than in years past.

Geist sees his problem as lack of experience and strength. There are six returning lettermen out of 16. They are Captain Jeff Karol, Stuart Rothman, Bob Bauke, Chris Caples, Gary Abramson, and Joel Zecher.

The team expects some tough competition this season from Action-Boxborough and Weston, but the coach looks optimistically at teams like Wayland, Bedford, and Lincoln-Sudbury. Coming off a 3-11 record last year, the team should better this; It has been showing a good attitude and pride.

The remaining schedule for 1974 is as follows:

Oct. 1 at Wayland; Oct. 5 at Weston; Oct. 8 Lincoln-Sudbury and Concord; Oct. 11 Wayland; Oct. 15 at Acton; Oct. 19 Catholic Memorial - invitational; Oct. 22 Weston; Oct. 26 E. Mass. Division Championships; Oct. 29 All League Meet at Acton; Nov. 9 State Meet.

North cross-country team loses opener

The Newton North Cross Country team lost to Waltham by three points, 29 to 26, in its first regular season meet last week.

Waltham took first and second with strong performances from Otho Kurr and John Faulstick. Newton got third, fourth and fifth. Sixth, seventh, and tenth then went to Waltham, leaving Newton with the eighth and ninth places.

The top three Newton runners, Owen Kupferschmidt, Tom Hightower, and Duncan Scott were all within striking distance of the two first place finishers. A little more conditioning would have helped Newton.

Newton must now remain undefeated through the rest of the year and avenge its loss to Waltham at the Suburban League Championship Meet in order to get the league title. This will not be easy.

The team is improving fast, as more of its runners get in shape.

B.C. football team to meet Temple Saturday night

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

It seems like they knew all along they'd need two weeks to recover from the pummeling Texas gave them.

Maybe that's the reason Boston College had last weekend off following its venture into the big-time against the Longhorns.

In any case, since no-one was physically dismantled by the Texans, who proved to be less ferocious, but just as explosive as expected, the Eagles are ready for Temple, Saturday night.

Temple doesn't have the reputation Texas does and certainly has a less fearsome nickname — the Owls — but BC players should not be taking the Philadelphians lightly. Temple's rated third in the East by at least one national magazine, and it also won on opening day.

Temple, with the advantage of a homefield, will be out for a little revenge, since BC has won 80 per cent of the time the schools have playedd, including last year's 45-0 romp.

Quarterback Steve Joachim, highly rated by nearly everybody, and his backup, Marty Ginestra, both return, so it won't do BC any good to knoc out Temple's starting quarterback either.

Henry Hynoski, 881 yards, seven touchdowns, 5.6 yard average, complements the throwing game nicely and the Owl defense is solid, experience and deep.

Boston College, of course, even though it is 0-1, may be a better club than last year's 7-4 edition if it breaks the newcomers in just right.

The offense moved the ball well against Texas and the defense was terrific for the first quarter. But after that the Texans ran all night, finding big holes.

It should still be a BC victory party Saturday, but the score probably won't resemble 1973's result.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal, whose major concession to going hip is wire-rim glasses, was a very gracious winner and indicated he would like to play more Eastern opponents in the future. He was also "delighted" his team could win "by that score."

Royal also praised BC back Mike Esposito, who is being pushed for All-American honors in many quarters this year.

Esposito gained 91 yards against Texas.

"Esposito was everything he thought he'd be," said Royal. "He's a dangerous runner."

+ + +

Esposito, a Wilmington native and former state scoring champ, wasn't the only Eagle player to pile up interesting stats against Texas.

His running mate, Keith Barnette, pounded out 89 yards on the ground and new quarterback Mike Kruczek, filling the shoes of Gary Marangi, now with the Buffalo Bills, hit 12 of 17 passes for 159 yards. Kruczek did throw two ill-timed interceptions, though.

Southpaw Esposito, exercising the halfback option, looked almost as good through the air. He completed three of four attempts.

Hauling all that leather in was senior flanker Howie Richardson from Auburn, New York, who has lived in the shadows of the now graduated Mel Briggs for most of his college career.

Richardson caught eight passes against Texas, equal too the amount he caught in 1973.

Dave Zumbach, the old reliable split end, caught three passes.

+ + +

After Temple, Boston College plays Navy, also on the road, and returns for its second home game, Oct. 12, versus William and Mary, the only other night game of the season for BC.

Myrtle Baptist begins centennial celebration

Myrtle Baptist Church, Newton's only black congregation, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the church at its 4th Annual Awards Banquet Sunday, Oct. 20, at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Newton.

This historic church has been a landmark in the city and has produced many leaders who have taken their place in the scheme of Newton's life and even further abroad.

Myrtle has been fortunate to have been served by so many capable ministers over the past 100 years. Its proximity to the theology schools has helped in this respect.

The church was built by ex-slaves and freedmen who came to Newton many years ago and had a dream which they fulfilled in the building and rebuilding of Myrtle Baptist Church (after a disastrous fire).

Myrtle is now engaged in an extensive renovation program which will see the physical structure improved and facilities made to accommodate the large number of young people to which the church finds itself most fortunate to be able to minister.

Still active in the church is the pastor emeritus, Rev. Louis E. Ford (in his 80's), who served the church for over 30 years as pastor. Rev. Ford is much respected in the Church community as well as the broader community. He is still actively engaged in his "avocation," broom making, in his factory in Natick.

The church has grown under the leadership of its current pastor, Rev. Harold A. Pulley. Many new innovations have come about under his capable leadership — Missions Committee, Pastor-Parish Relations Committee (Lay Committee for the Internship Program in connection with Boston University School of Theology — Rev. Pulley is a supervisory pastor in the program); and Communications Committee to name some.

A new organ has been purchased, and the pastor's study and the church office have been refurbished and new furniture purchased. A van was obtained which greatly facilitates the picking up of children in the outlying districts of Newton and allows them to come to Sunday Church School.

Rev. Pulley is the recipient of many awards and holds the position of consultant-director of the Black Ecumenical Commission; is chairman of finance and promotion of the United Baptist Convention of Massachusetts and Rhode Island; president of the Newton Clergy Association among his many associations. A gifted and inspiring preacher, he is a candidate for his Ph. D. degree in the Testament at Boston University School of Theology. Under his leadership, the church has continued to be a place of community fellowship and meetings. BCON (Black Citizens of Newton) meets there.

Over the years, the church and members of the church community have taken part in many event of the city — and have been influential in changing the mores which excluded the blacks from many jobs, education, housing and other involvement. They have continued to fight for and support those who are trying to make these areas of opportunity a reality (i.e., support of NCDF as charter members and since that time with gifts and workers).

The beginning of the church's centennial year will be marked by the Annual Awards Banquet. There will be many other events throughout the year to continue celebrating the 100th birthday. The year will be culminated with a gala event of celebration in October, 1975.

At the banquet of Oct. 20, the church will stop to briefly honor those who down through the years have been the pillars of the Church. Mrs. Helen Evans, a direct descendant of one of the founders, will do the narrating.

An award will also be given to the outstanding layman and laywoman who has demonstrated dedication-stewardship and fidelity to the church. Balloting will take place to determine who these persons will be and the award will be given at the banquet.

The banquet speaker will be Lovell Dyett, executive producer and host of "Sixteen '74" as well as Host of WBZ Radio's Lovell Dyett Show. He has recently been appointed operations manager of WBZ-TV (Channel 4) and "is responsible for the creation and supervision of the station's public affairs programming with an eye to expanding the service to its fullest extent in (the) Greater Boston community."

Dyett was previously full-time director of M.I.T.'s Communications Research Center. He has served as an executive assistant to the president of Howard University in Washington, D.C.; urban affairs director of WTOP-TV, the Post-Newsweek station in Washington, D.C. Dyett is a board member of the Roxbury YMCA and Roxbury's University Without Walls; finance chairman of the Boston Chapter of the Urban League; a founder and board member of Roxbury's Unity Bank and a member of the Boston Community Media Committee.

He is a native of Daytona, FLA., and is married to the former Thomasina Caraway, and they have a daughter, Lydia.

The Awards Banquet Committee and the pastor have invited the community to the banquet. Tickets for the banquet ($10 adults, and $5 children) may be purchaded by calling the church office, 332;5870. Those who cannot attend the banquet but would like to become a part of the celebration may do so by sending contributions and having their names inscribed in the Souvenir Program Booklet (by September 27). For further information call the church.

The Awards Banquet Committee: Joan Rozario, publicity; Geraldine Rollins, banquet speaker; Joan Carter and Karen Haywood, tickets; Adell Banks and Pearl Meridith, patron-sponsors: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haywood, souvenir program book; Myrtle Hillery, communications; Isabel V. Hatton, chairperson; and Ald. and Mrs. Matthew Jefferson, centennial chairpersons; Rev. Harold A. Pulley, ex-officio.

The church is especially inviting old friends and new friends to share in the celebration.

Those who were formerly affiliated with the church in any way are also encouraged to contact the church for further information.

GUIDELINES ON ALCOHOL PROBLEMS
A FAMILY PROBLEM ...BY THE MILLIONS

There are now nine (9) million alcoholics in America and millions more who, being "alcohol dependent," are borderline cases. Each of these has a detrimental effect on the lives of 3 or 4 other people . . . usually members of the family.

Imagine that total if you can! Strangely, the mis-use of alcohol is America's least-understood, major health (and family) problem. Since we are a family-oriented bank, we are sponsoring a series of guide-lines of the prevention, detection and solution of alcohol problems. Happily, there are some solutions . . . and millions need them . . .

THE AUTO BUYER'S SHOPPING GUIDE

If you're so rich, why aren't you smart?

So you're making a good salary. But you're not saving any of it. Instead, you want to go after the "big deal" that's going to make you a cool million. Maybe.

What happens if your big scheme goes sour? You've still got to get through the future. And, let's face it. Nobody can afford to take tomorrow for granted.

So maybe you'd better join the Payroll Savings Plan now. Just sign up at work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

That way, you can still afford to take a few financial risks, if that's your bag. But you'll always have a solid cash reserve to fall back on. And that's being smart.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years 4 1/2% the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption

47 models in 8 lines mark Chevrolet design for 1975 cars

Chevrolet Motor Division marks one of the most significant years of product development in its history for 1975 with important breakthroughs in vehicle design and an expanded lineup of 46 models in eight different car lines.

Pacesetters in the 1975 Chevrolet fleet are an all-new sporty sub-compact, the Monza 2+2 and the completely redesigned Nova.

The new models are the culmination of one of Chevrolet's most innovative years in technical and mechanical advances that result in more efficiently operating automobiles.

Compared with a year ago, three new models appear in the lineup . . . the Monza 2+2 hatchback and the top-of-the-line Luxury Nova (LN) which is available in both two and four-door models.

The exciting addition to the Chevrolet family, the Monza 2+2, is a sporty sub-compact with a European styling flair and has two seats in front and room for two passengers in the rear. It unveils a new body and power train and features twin rectangular headlights.

The new Nova, representing one of its most extensive model year changes since being introducted as the Chevy II in 1962, spotlights new luxury models, new styling and important mechanical and structural revisions.

The Chevrolet passenger care lineup for 1975 will be unveiled in dealers showrooms from coast-to-coast on September 27, except Sportvan, Corvette and Vega models which will be publicly introduced at a later date.

Key developments throughout various lines are:

—Two new sedan roof lines, improved driveability and new front styling for the regular Chevrolet to enhance further its position as America's favorite car.

—New front and rear styling and ride and handling gains for the intermediate Chevelle.

—A sportier appearance, important equipment revisions and brake and other mechanical improvements for the Camaro.

—A broad range of "under-the-skin" refinements and design changes for the Vega, which retains its distinctive styling but has a total of 268 new parts and accessories covering product improvement and added convenience.

—New front styling, wrap-around rear taillights, greater interior luxury and improved operation to strengthen Mone Carlo's standing as a popular personal car.

—Chassis improvements, new toughness and improved operating efficiency that help the Corvette add to its luster as America's top all-around sports car.

—Development of a new small block 262-cubic inch V8, featuring performance combined with fuel economy for use in the Monza 2-2. The engine is also teamed with the Nova as base V8. (This engine will not be available in California at the start of production.)

—An improved 250-cubic inch six-cylinder power plant that features an integral cast inlet manifold and cylinder head design is base engine for Chevelle and standard Camaro models and most Nova applications.

Heart of the extensive new vehicle systems design program for 1975 is a combination of mechanical advances designated as the "Chevrolet efficiency system." The system includes use of an underfloor catalytic converter and no-lead fuel for control of exhaust emissions in compliance with more stringent federal emission regulations.

The catalytic converter has been thoroughly tested by General Motors in more than 1,000 cars, including taxis and government fleets, for more than 20 million miles.

Also included are the high energy ignition (HEI) system for greater voltage and better starting; a new method of inducting cooler and denser outside air into the carburetor for most engines; an early fuel evaporation system for faster engine warm-ups in cold starts that is used in all except the four-cylinder and some Nova Sixes; standard steel-belted radial ply tires for improved gasoline mileage on all be Vega models where they are optional.

Other important benefits in the 1975 program are extended service intervals resulting from cleaner-burning unleaded fuel, the new ignition system and other factors. Recommended spark plug replacement interval, for example, is increased from the former 6,000 to 22,500 miles, while oil and chassis lube intervals are extended considerably.

For greater than ever station wagoning in 1975, Chevrolet offers 12 different models of the two and three-seat variety in the regular Chevrolet and the Chevelle, and two different Vega choices. The 400-cubic inch V8 is the standard power plant for the full-sized Chevrolet wagon while the 350-cubic inch V8 is base equipment for Chevelle wagons. Among new features for full-sized wagons is a spare tire sling that reduces effort markedly in removing the spare from the tire well.

ROUTE 1, NORWOOD — CHEVROLET — TELEPHONE 762-8300

Some features of the 1975 Chevrolet cars

REGULAR CHEVROLET — Two different appearances in the grille distinguishing Caprice models from Impalas and Bel Airs. Two new sedan roof lines with larger side-viewing areas. A total of 15 models in three series . . . Caprice Classic and Estate, Impala and Bel Air.

CHEVELLE—New front styling to provide different looks for Malibu Classic and Malibu models. Ride and handling gains from improved down-the-road tracking and other suspension refinements. Eleven models including top-of-the-line Malibu Classic and Malibu series. A Laguna S-3 model is slated for introduction later in the model year.

CAMARO—New look featuring wrap-around rear window. More luxurious interiors for the LT model, new sport decor package. Line includes the regular sport coupe and the Type LT.

VEGA—Popular styling retained but a list of 268 new parts and accessories ranges from engine and suspension equipment to new power brake and tilt steering wheel options. Lineup features standard notchback and hatchback coupes, wagon LX notchback and Estate wagon plus such options as the GT Estate wagon, GT sport hatchback and wagon.

MONTE CARLO—New appearance features re-styled grille, wrap-around taillights and luxury interiors with a choice of standard bench or optional 50-50 reclining passenger seat or swivel bucket seats. Line includes V8-powered coupe or Landau coupe.

CORVETTE—New soft-face front bumper with restorable honeycomb cell core. Rear bumper uses hydraulic enersorbers, aluminum impact bar and urethane body color cover. Offered as two-door coupe and convertible.

MONZA 2+2—New hatchback sportster introducing torque arm rear suspension and numerous other new structural and styling features. Other highlights are integral frame and body design with high tunnel, full coil suspension, rectangular twin headlights and wrap-around rear lights. At 179.3 inches, it is nearly four inches longer than the Vega.

NOVA—Features tough new frame, greater glass area and a wider-than-ever assortment of optional equipment to provide even greater choice in its fast-growing market segment.

BIG EATER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Department of Fish and Game reports that a sea otter eats as much as one fourth of its body weight in food every day.

The otter favors abalone, crabs and other shellfish.

DIETZEL RESIGNS

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Paul Dietzel planned to announce his resignation as the South Carolina football coach later in the season but press criticism of the Gamecock performances forced his hand.

"I did this in order to get the pressure off this team," Dietzel said in making the announcement following a 20-14 loss Saturday night to Duke. "I can take it but it's the team."

Dietzel said the Gamecock squad had been "subjected to ridicule" which he hoped would end with his announcement. He said he hoped to remain athletic director at the school, where he has compiled a 38-48-1 record.

Here are some of the things the American Red Cross can do: help you find (and pay for) temporary lodgings. Provide you with clothes. Counsel. And other necessities. All free. Surprised?

Remember: Red Cross is more than blood drives. It's more than helping thousands of victims of disasters. In fact, American Red Cross tackles over 100 different kinds of "Helping People" jobs—in the city, the suburbs, wherever you are.

We need money, it's true, so we can go on offering all our free services. But we also need hearts. And hands. And conviction.

New concept in living

By KAY BROWN

ATLANTA (UPI) — From the balcony of her 4th floor apartment, Mrs. Ruth Duckworth rocks and watches people scurrying across the well landscaped plaza of "the world's first micropolis."

The memories of the 78 year old woman are of the past, but her view is of what developer James E. Cushman believes may become the salvation of the cities —a model inner city community where life is enjoyable and personal.

"I am of the conviction that the more a person is known, the less likely he is to commit crimes and the more likely he is to make a contribution to his community," says Cushman, developer of the multi-million dollar Colony Square and the driving force in its eight-year development.

Mrs. Duckworth was one of the first residents to move into Colony Square, a sleek development of offices, apartments and shops that will be worth more than $100 million when completed. She said she found her large, three-bedroom home too much to take care of after her husband died and decided to move to Colony Square at the urging of her daughter.

"I just won't let myself sit here and be lonesome," she says. "I'm going to make the best of what's left of my life."

Colony Square, situated on a 12-acre site just north of downtown Atlanta, includes two office towers with 750,000 square feet of office space, an underground parking garage for 2,000 cars, a large indoor ice skating rink and a 200,000 square-foot shopping mall that will open this fall.

It also includes 97 high rise apartments with monthly rents starting at $340, and 167 high rise condominiums with prices ranging from $37,750 to $212,000. A 31-story Fairmont Colony Square Hotel, the first Fairmont Hotel to be built on the East Coast, will open this month.

This is one answer for the future of cities," Cushman says. "It is approaching an answer. The real answer is the smaller community within the city, and Colony Squar could very well one day be studied as a model. It can be the salvation of cities."

Miss Sheppard Patterson, director of residential properties, says people who live in the complex want more out of life than just a place to live.

"They want to look out the window and think, 'I'm in an exciting place.'

"Atlanta doesn't have a tradition of high-rise living, and many people think the high-rise doesn't offer much privacy. But they find that's just not true. This is a very civilized, and sophisticated, way of living," she says.

Colony Square's residents include the Japanese and Canadian consuls general, Coca Cola executives, a concert pianist, a beauty shop owner, a retired school teacher, insurance executives, several widows, 14 children and a justice of the Georgia Supreme Court. Miss Patterson says 65 per cent of the residents are under 35.

Colony Square offers numerous social activities for its residents, including covered dish dinners, seminars, speakers, dessert parties on the mall and football brunches with a bus ride to the stadium.

The service is outstanding. For a fee, Miss Patterson says, Colony Square's staff of maids will serve breakfast, water plants, feed cats, do the laundry and help plan and serve parties.

Cushman, 43, president of the Cushman Corp. which owns Colony Square, has been firm, some say stubborn, in his determination to keep the living environment high.

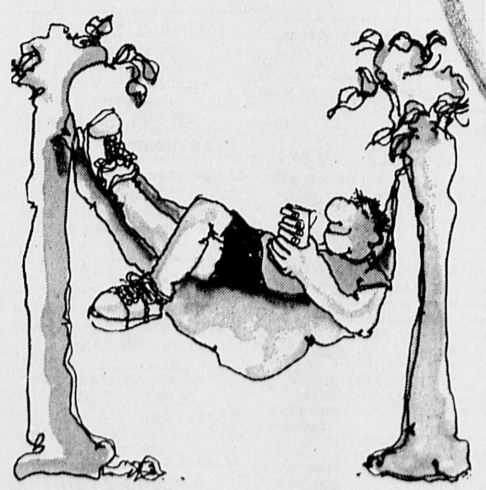

He has refused to let corporations rent or buy property in the residential section, believing "every apartment is a home and people just don't want strangers parading in and out."

The architects for Colony Square, Jove-Daniels-Busby of Atlanta, see the mini-city complex as a place where human needs can be dealt with efficiently.

"We wanted a place with 24 hour vitality, an almost self sufficient community," says Stanley Daniels, an architect who helped with the original planning in 1966.

Cushman says he is now studying the possibility of another similar development, a "sister-city" for Colony

No Sweat Savings.

Sometimes the hardest work of all is trying to save a few extra dollars. Those everyday necessities just seem to eat up your paycheck until there's nothing left to tuck away for the future.

But there is an easy way to build a nest egg. The Payroll Savings Plan. Just sign up where you work, and any amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's so simple, you almost forget your money's there working for you.

And, pretty soon, you'll be surprised at how your savings have grown.

The Payroll Savings Plan. Takes some of the perspiration out of planning ahead.

Take stock in America.

Bonds mature in less than six years. Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

New concept in living

By KAY BROWN

ATLANTA (UPI) — From the balcony of her 4th floor apartment, Mrs. Ruth Duckworth rocks and watches people scurrying across the well landscaped plaza of "the world's first micropolis."

The memories of the 78 year old woman are of the past, but her view is of what developer James E. Cushman believes may become the salvation of the cities —a model inner city community where life is enjoyable and personal.

"I am of the conviction that the more a person is known, the less likely he is to commit crimes and the more likely he is to make a contribution to his community," says Cushman, developer of the multi-million dollar Colony Square and the driving force in its eight-year development.

Mrs. Duckworth was one of the first residents to move into Colony Square, a sleek development of offices, apartments and shops that will be worth more than $100 million when completed. She said she found her large, three-bedroom home too much to take care of after her husband died and decided to move to Colony Square at the urging of her daughter.

"I just won't let myself sit here and be lonesome," she says. "I'm going to make the best of what's left of my life."

Colony Square, situated on a 12-acre site just north of downtown Atlanta, includes two office towers with 750,000 square feet of office space, an underground parking garage for 2,000 cars, a large indoor ice skating rink and a 200,000 square-foot shopping mall that will open this fall.

It also includes 97 high rise apartments with monthly rents starting at $340, and 167 high rise condominiums with prices ranging from $37,750 to $212,000. A 31-story Fairmont Colony Square Hotel, the first Fairmont Hotel to be built on the East Coast, will open this month.

This is one answer for the future of cities," Cushman says. "It is approaching an answer. The real answer is the smaller community within the city, and Colony Squar could very well one day be studied as a model. It can be the salvation of cities."

Miss Sheppard Patterson, director of residential properties, says people who live in the complex want more out of life than just a place to live.

"They want to look out the window and think, 'I'm in an exciting place.'

"Atlanta doesn't have a tradition of high-rise living, and many people think the high-rise doesn't offer much privacy. But they find that's just not true. This is a very civilized, and sophisticated, way of living," she says.

Colony Square's residents include the Japanese and Canadian consuls general, Coca Cola executives, a concert pianist, a beauty shop owner, a retired school teacher, insurance executives, several widows, 14 children and a justice of the Georgia Supreme Court. Miss Patterson says 65 per cent of the residents are under 35.

Colony Square offers numerous social activities for its residents, including covered dish dinners, seminars, speakers, dessert parties on the mall and football brunches with a bus ride to the stadium.

The service is outstanding. For a fee, Miss Patterson says, Colony Square's staff of maids will serve breakfast, water plants, feed cats, do the laundry and help plan and serve parties.

Cushman, 43, president of the Cushman Corp. which owns Colony Square, has been firm, some say stubborn, in his determination to keep the living environment high.

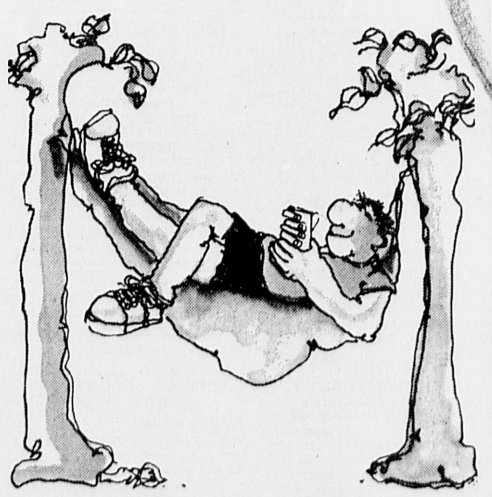

He has refused to let corporations rent or buy property in the residential section, believing "every apartment is a home and people just don't want strangers parading in and out."

The architects for Colony Square, Jove-Daniels-Busby of Atlanta, see the mini-city complex as a place where human needs can be dealt with efficiently.

"We wanted a place with 24 hour vitality, an almost self sufficient community," says Stanley Daniels, an architect who helped with the original planning in 1966.

Cushman says he is now studying the possibility of another similar development, a "sister-city" for Colony

No Sweat Savings.

Sometimes the hardest work of all is trying to save a few extra dollars. Those everyday necessities just seem to eat up your paycheck until there's nothing left to tuck away for the future.

But there is an easy way to build a nest egg. The Payroll Savings Plan. Just sign up where you work, and any amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's so simple, you almost forget your money's there working for you.

And, pretty soon, you'll be surprised at how your savings have grown.

The Payroll Savings Plan. Takes some of the perspiration out of planning ahead.

Take stock in America.

Bonds mature in less than six years. Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4½ the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Volunteers sponsor inmate rehabilitation

The One to One Program, sponsored by Volunteers in Correction, Inc., matches a volunteer with a MCI-Concord inmate who is close to release.

The purpose is two-fold: to develop a meaningful interpersonal relationship between the two people; and to assist the inmate's reintegration into his community. One to One is the extension of a pilot program that proved the effectiveness of over 100 volunteers in helping offenders make the difficult transition from prison to society.

In One to One, a volunteer from the community and a Concord inmate agree to meet with each other for a period of one year, starting several months before the inmate's release date. These meetings take place one evening a week. The volunteer is not concerned with the past acts of the offender, but rather concentrates on helping him towards a responsible future.

One to One is presently recruiting volunteers. For more information, call 369-1200, or write to: One to One Program, Box 00, Concord, Ma. 01742.

Photographs and lithographs by husband and wife at library

Photographs by Mary Zaremba and lithograph drawings by Bruce Childs, a talented husband-wife team from Newton, are now on view at the Main Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

Mary Zaremba is a free lance photographer with considerable experience with multi-media equipment. She has imposed hand-colored images of people under a beach umbrella, lying on beach blankets, and perched on chairs, onto photographs of a strangely silent Washington Street, a thoroughfare usually roaring with traffic.

The photographs are presented as a series of postcards, that, in fantasy, could be used by a developer attempting to document Newton Corner as a recreational area. They could possibly be used to invite prospective tourists to spend their two week vacation at Newton Corner, rather than Cape Cod.

Mrs. Zaremba explains tht "the developer has chosen postcards to spread the word of what unexpected pleasures one might receive and enjoy here in this urban vacation-land where nothing short of cross country skiing or the '74 Olympics might occur."

Mrs. Zaremba uses a 35 mm SLR Minalta 101 and prints on a flat-matte surface paper. She used a 28 mm wide-angle lens to give depth to the street.

Child's work is a counterpoint to the photographs. His drawings and lithographs are intricate and painstakingly done in pencil, pen and charcoal.

Childs' more realistic views of Washington Street, the Gateway Center and the Mass Turnpike convey the action and activities of the area. One drawing catches the complexities of the traffic arrangements by pointing a car in the wrong direction, but making it appear as the only way the car can move.

Childs' four color lithographs and some of the drawings reflect the contrast of the old and crisp new. He successfully portrays the hard edge of the angles, the architectural design of the Gateway Center, with the curve of a figure, or the arched lights, and the softness of the clouds and trees.

A view from an upper window shows a Victorian wrought iron balcony, with the curve of the parking garage beyond, through simple rectangular windows.

Childs and Zaremba wish to explore the visual experiences of a place, which like many expanding American cities, is full of surprises. The artists have been living in the Newton Corner area, and are aware of the constant changes, the hustle and bustle of a 5 p.m. traffic rush, as well as the surprising quiet and peacefulness of a very early summer Sunday morning.

The exhibit remains on view through Oct. 6. Main Library hours are Monday - Friday 9 a.m. - 9 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. and Sunday 1 - 4 p.m.

Friends

Members of the Council of Friends of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Irving Levy (left) and Mrs. Samuel A. Levine (right) are busy preparing for the coming season and have been mailing out invitations to the two series of "Stage Door Lectures" to be held prior to Friday concerts and the "Pre-Sympnony Suppers" planned for the Tuesday and Thursday series.

Glee Club to hold auditions

The Highland Glee Club of Newton will hold auditions for membership at its rehearsal on Monday, Sept. 30, for male singers of all voice parts. The rehearsals, which will begin at 8 p.m., will be held at the Newton Center Methodist Church.

Auditions may be arranged by contacting Ermond Lewis, a member of the music committee, at 877-0916.

The Club's Christmas Concert will be held on Dec. 10, and will include excerpts from the chorus from "Damnation of Faust" - Berlioz ("Finale to Part 2").

The guest artist at this time will be Joanne Robertson, soprano, a graduate of the Eastman School of Music.

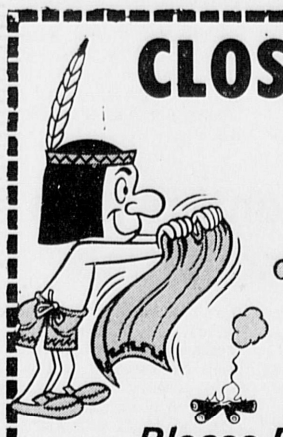

Art Association to meet Oct. 3

The first meeting of the Newton Art Association will be held at the Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus Street, Newton Highlands, Oct. 3, at 7:30 p.m. Members will have an opportunity to display their accomplishments during the summer months, renew acquaintances, greet new members, and enjoy slides taken by the Fauchers during many of their recent trips.

Any Newton resident interested in art is invited to come to this meeting and join the association. A very special invitation is extended to persons teaching art in the Newton Schools. Refreshments will be served by the committee under the direction of Mrs. Leona Monto.

Newton Art Association dues are $12 for a regular member and $10 for an associate member.

Gilbert joins N.Y. college

Steven Gilbert of Waban has joined the psychology department at the State University College, Oneonta, N.Y. this fall.

Gilbert has finished his work towards a Ph.D. from Clark University, Worcester, Mass. During the past three years, he has been an instructor of psychology at the Greater Hartford Community College, Hartford, Conn. His work at SUCO will include working on a state developmental grant to innovate new teaching techniques of psychology.

Museum elects new trustees

The Boston Museum of Fine Arts elected three new trustees at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, held Sept. 19.

The new trustees are: Katherine Stone White, Margot Coffin Lindsay, and Dr. Henry L. Foster of Newton Centre. Professor John M. Rosenfield, a scholar in the arts of Japan and India, was appointed to the Board of Trustees by Harvard College.

Also announced at today's meeting were the resignations of Mitzi Christian, Jeptha Wade, Daniel J. Robbins, and John Jay Iselin.

After graduation from Middlesex Veterinary College in 1946 with a degree in veterinary medicine, Foster was appointed senior veterinarian to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and in this capacity served in the United States and Poland with the Merchant Marine.

He is founder and president of the Charles River Breeding Laboratories, an international breeder of laboratory animals for medical and scientific research, with subsidiaries in Canada, the United Kingdom, France and Italy.

Foster has served as a member of the Governing Board and Executive Committee of the Institute of Laboratory Animal Resources, National Research Council — National Academy of Sciences. He has also been a member of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee of the American Association for Laboratory Animal Science, president of the Laboratory Animal Breeders Association, and is currently a diplomate in the Amiercan College of Laboratory Animal Medicine.

Foster has participated in many symposia related to his field of specialization, written for professional publications, and has been a guest lecturer at several universities.

An active participant in civic affairs, Foster has served as president of the Wilmington Rotary Club; and is currently vice president and chairman of the Executive Committee, Century Bank and Trust Company in Somerville, Mass.; a trustee of Brandeis University and Beaver Country Day School; and a member of the Visiting Committee of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts Contemporary Art Department.

Dr. and Mrs. Foster share an avid interest in 20th century art. They generously gave the museum a gift which will enable the completion of a permanent gallery space — the Hanry and Lois Foster Contemporary Gallery — for the museum's growing collection of contemporary art.

The Fosters live in Newton Centre, and have three sons: James, John and Neal.

Perkins School concert Oct. 3

Perkins School for the Blind, 175 N. Beacon St., Watertown, is sponsoring a free concert Thursday, Oct. 3, at 8:15 p.m. in Dwight Hall.

Pianist Maria-Pia Antonelli of 106 Waverley Ave., Newton, a teacher at the school, will perform with Lorraine Ippolito DiGregorio, soprano and Leslie Chamberlin Hansen, clarinetist.

Art exhibit held in Boston

Four members of the Newton Art Association have had works on display in an annual fall exhibit given at the Copley Society of Boston, 158 Newbury St., Boston.

The artists are Mrs. Sally Fox, winner of numerous painting prizes, represented by her oil, "Asters in Rockport"; Mrs. Florence Kostarelos, sculptress, represented by "Dancing Boy"; Mrs. Marie J. ViVardo, displaying her latest technique, a multi-media knife sculpture, entitled "Death of a Queen"; and Mrs. Ruth Wynn, New England watercolorist, represented by her painting, "Maine's Enchantment."

Flea market on Oct. 6

The Newton Simmons Club has announced a flea market at Simmons College Alumnae Hall, 321 Brookline Aveneu, Boston, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 6, rain or shine, to benefit the Scholarship Fund.

All this, and Chestnut Hill, too.

As you drive down along the broad sweep of the Hammond Pond Parkway in Newton you will undoubtedly take note of a magnificent group of buildings nestled among the trees just on the right approaching Brookline.

Today these four distinguished apartment houses are known as Hammond Park, with 144 spacious and elegant residences-in-condominium. Included are ownership-in-common of luxuriously landscaped grounds, swimming pools and other amenities comprising a personal real estate investment of significant consequence.

If you have been considering a new residence, there is perhaps no suburban environment in metropolitan Boston of greater charm and character so uniquely situated in such close proximity to convenience. Lakes, parks, country clubs, tennis clubs, ice rinks—our environs abound with opportunities for total living. The Chestnut Hill Mall is at your elbow, and downtown Boston beckons, a short commute by car, bus or even the train from Chestnut Hill Station.

Hammond Park itself clearly evidences an intrinsic value or a rare quality in its design integrity and construction that is hard to find these days. You have only to visit a model apartment to realize at once that ownership here merits your serious consideration.

The range of choice today varies from studios at $29,400 to three bedrooms at $87,900 with a wide selection between.

Your inspection is invited ten til' seven daily or by appointment.
